

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

In accordance with the arrangement entered into with subscribers, the series of Glasgow Protocols, commenced six years ago, concludes with the issue of the present volume.

Embracing between the first and last dates (1530-1600) a period of seventy years, Glasgow Protocols are not exempt from the defect common to the other early records of the city, viz., want of continuity. During fifteen of these years (1537-47 and 1576-81) there are no protocol books of any description, while for the period between 1589 and 1598 those of the town clerk are not extant. The latter break is, however, to some extent, filled by appropriating the protocols of George Huchesone, which commence in 1587. Abstracts from his book were begun in the last volume, and these are continued in the following pages down to 1600. To that date abstracts of the protocols in Henry Gibsone's third book are likewise given.

As auxiliary to the volumes of charters and records edited by Sir James Marwick, it is hoped that the series now completed will be regarded as a substantial addition to the stock of information derivable from original sources, and be specially helpful towards the attainment of a more accurate knowledge of Glasgow in the olden time. Though the range of subjects is not confined within local limits, it is principally the history and topography of Glasgow—with its genealogies and civic and ecclesiastical arrangements—that the protocols serve to illustrate. On these topics much information, which could not be obtained elsewhere, has now been made available, but it is in topographic discoveries that the greatest success has been attained. From the descriptions of properties, now accessible in print, it might be possible to define the situation of most of the individual properties in Glasgow in the sixteenth century. As an experiment in this line, that section of the city which embraces the cathedral and some adjoining streets, including those in which nearly all the prebendal manses were situated, has been delineated on the accompanying map, which, like that given in the first volume, has been prepared by Mr. A. B. M'Donald, city engineer.

Reference has already been made to the services rendered by Mr. George Neilson in connection with the first volume. Throughout the whole progress of the work Mr. Neilson's good offices in the solving of doubtful points and the smoothing of editorial difficulties have been continued, and for these the Editor has again to express his grateful acknowledgments.

GEO. HUCHESONE.
Fol. 20.

William Bogle in Keppoich, attorney and in name of John Wylie, clerk of the King's chancery, and Agnes Sinclear, his spouse, produced a charter of feu-farm whereby Walter, commendator of Blantyre, lord feu-farmer of the barony, lordship and regality of Glasgow, granted to John Wylie and spouse, and l.l., the half of the town and lands of Keppoich, extending to a 43 s. 4 d. land, old extent, with the pertinents; the half of the town and lands of Garroich, extending to a 43 s. 4 d. land, same extent, with the pertinents; also the 20 s. land of Kirklie, with the pertinents; together with the coals and coal heughs, worked and to be worked (lucratis et lucrandis), within the said halves of the said lands, and within the said lands of Kirklie, and all their pertinents; lying in the barony and regality of Glasgow and shire of Lanerk. Charter subscribed and sealed at Edinburgh on 3 January, 1591-2, in presence of George Huchesone, notary public, Walter Stewart, brother-german of Mathew Stewart of Barscube, Quintigern Baxter, Alexander Stewart, and Alexander Craufurd, servitors of the commendator.¹ Sasine given on the ground of the lands by John Huchesone the ratifying charter, dated 26 August, 1591 (Reg. Mag. Sig. v. No. 1932; Glasg. Chart. pt. ii. p. 227). Information regarding most of the rentallers in possession of the barony lands between 1509 and 1570 will be found in the "Diocesan Registers," printed by the Gramplan Club.

f. 21. 3315. WILLIAM YOUNGAR. 17 January, 1591-2, 3 p.m.

William Youngar in Partik produced a charter of feu-farm whereby Walter, commendator of Blantyre,¹ granted to him the 26 s. 8 d. land, old extent, in Partik, lying on the east side of the town thereof; also the 6 s. 8 d. land, old extent, called Brewland of Partik; also the lands called Orchart and Bischopis Mans, lying on the west side of the town of Partik; together with the fourth part of the lands called Mylne land, extending to three acres of land or thereby, lying between the lands of Newtoun and Kelvinghauch; with the exclusive privilege to William Youngar and his successors, and to no others, to brew and sell ale (servicium) and to fish in the water of Kelving, within the bounds of old used and accustomed; with all other privileges, easements, pendicles and pertinents, conform to the tenor of the rentals granted to his predecessors, and of old belonging to them; lying in the barony and regality of Glasgow and shire of Lanerk. Charter subscribed and sealed at Edinbnrgh on 10 January, 1591-2, in presence of James Dunlop, younger of that Ilk, John Stewart, younger of Barscuib, Walter Stewart, his uncle, Alexander Stewart, Alexander Craufurd, servitors of the granter, and George Huchesone, notary public. Sasine given on the ground of the lands by John Scott, baker, citizen of Glasgow, as bailie in hac parte. Thereafter, William Youngar resigned in favour of Jonet Bellenden, his spouse, the liferent of the lands called Orchart and Bischopis

f. 22. Mans, with the pertinents, conform to the tenor of a contract of marriage between the said William and Jonet, and the laird of Kellie, her father. Witnesses: John Scott, James Auldcorne, Alexander Scott, John Young, bakers, citizens of Glasgow, and John Allexander in Partik.

3316. BAKERS OF GLASGOW. 17 January, 1591-2, between 2 and 3 p.m.

John Scott, baker, citizen of Glasgow, produced a charter of feu-farm whereby Walter, commendator of Blantyre, granted to the said John Scott, Mr. James Landes, William Hereot, George Young, Robert Young, David baronie, domini et regalitatis de Glasgow); but it has been considered unnecessary to repeat these words in the printed abstracts.

Landes, James Auldcorne, John Auldcorne, Alexander Scott, William Glen, Thomas Glen, George Robesone, Thomas Cliddisdail, George Cliddisdail, Jonet Huchesone, Mathew Young, John Young, and James Huchesone, bakers, inhabitants of the city of Glasgow, viz., to each of them for his proportional quantity and share respectively belonging to them, and hitherto heritably possessed by them (unicuique eorundem pro sua rata quantitate et parte ipsis respective, pertinentibus et per eosdem exnunc possessis hereditarie) of the Wheat Mill (molendini triticei), commonly called the Quheit Mylne, built, and then occupied and possessed by them, lying on the water of Kelving, with miller's house and yard thereto belonging, and with the dam, lade (fossa, aqueductu), miltures, passage, paths, roads, and their sundry privileges, profits (proficuis), and pertinents, accustomed of old (ex antiquo usitatis), lying within the barony and regality of Glasgow and shire of Lanark.¹ Charter subscribed and sealed at Edinburgh on 10 January, 1591-2, in presence of James Dunlop, younger of that ilk, John Stewart, younger of Barscuib, Walter Stewart, his uncle, Alexander Stewart, Alexander Craufurd, servitors of the commendator, and George Huchesone, notary public. William Youngar in Partik, as bailie in hac parte, gave sasine to John Scott, George Young, Robert Young, David Landes, James Auldcorne, Alexander Scott, William Glen, Thomas Glen, Thomas Cliddisdail, Mathew Young, John Young, George Robesone, and James Huchesone, personally present and accepting; to John Hereott, as attorney and in name of William Hereott; to John Scott, as attorney and in name of Mr. James Landes and Jonet Huchesone; to Thomas Cliddisdail, as attorney and in name of George Cliddisdail; and to John Auldcorne, junior, as attorney and in name of John Auldcorne, his father. Done in the miller's house. Witnesses: Alexander Wilsone, miller, John Hereott, Thomas Fawsyd, William Andersone, bakers, Archibald Buchquhannan, John Landes, and Archibald Glen, inhabitants of the city.

3317. ROBERT GLEN. 17 January, 1591-2, 3 p.m.

William Glen, baker, citizen, by his own hands, gave sasine to Robert Glen, his son, of his twenty-sixth part, called mylne day, of the wheat mill, commonly called the Baxlaris Quheit Mylne, lying on the water of Kelving,

¹ In his History of "The Incorporation of Bakers of Glasgow" (p. 3) Mr. Ness describes a similar charter granted to the bakers on 8 August, 1588, and states that the feu duty payable to the commendator was £23 Scots. The charter narrated in the text is in similar terms to that of 1588, though the names of some of the bakers are different. The first charter was granted by the commendator shortly after he got his own charter of 1587, and the second followed the ratification of 1591 cited in the footnote to No. 3314.

3318. MR. JOHN SKENE AND SPOUSE. 29 January, 1591-2, 3 p.m.

Gedion Russall, son of q. Quintigern Russall, citizen of Edinburgh, proprietor of the mill lands and others aftermentioned, by his own hands, gave sasine to Mr. John Skene, advocate before the lords of council,¹ present and accepting, and to Mr. Robert Irwin, attorney and in name of Helen Somervell, spouse of Mr. John, and l.l., in liferent, and to Mr. Patrick Murray, advocate, as attorney and in name of Alexander Skene, third son of Mr. John Skene and spouse, whom failing, of John Skene, brother-german of Alexander, whom failing, to the heirs and assignees of Mr. John Skene whomsoever, of an annualrent of 100 merks Scots, payable furth of the paper mill (molendinum papiratum), commonly called paper mylne,² and two grain mills, on the lands commonly called Cwynyngisknow, and the building or house and principal manor, commonly called Dalry Mylnes, lying within the shire of Edinburgh, barony of (blank), and parish of St. Cuthbert, with yards, tofts, crofts, and other pendicles and pertinents; and that by delivery of clap and hopper of the mills, and earth and stone of the ground; and all conform to a contract between Mr. John Skene, for himself and spouse on the one part, and q. Quintigern Russall and Gedion Russall, on the other

² On 4 February, 1589-90, the privy council, considering the benefits likely to be secured "be the exercise of the arte of making of paper of all sortis within this realme," granted "licence and privilege to Petir Graet Heare, Almane, and his partinaris quhatsumevir, allanerlie, and nane uthiris, to use and exerce the said arte of making of paper of all sortis within quhatsumevir parte of this realme in tyme cuming, at his plesure, during the space of nyne yeiris nixt to cum." Petir and his partners were required to commence work before 1 August, and to carry it on continuously, otherwise the privilege was to cease (Privy Council Reg. iv. pp. 452-3). If the monopoly was entered on and persevered in, it is probable that the paper mill referred to in the text was connected with the enterprise. Dr. Robert Chambers notes the licence given by the privy council, but remarks that there is reason to believe that the design was abortive. He adds that there was no further attempt at a native manufacture of paper till 1676, when a work was established at Dalry Mills, on the Water of Leith (Domestic Annals, i. p. 194; ii. p. 398).

3319. JOHN STEWART, JUNIOR, AND SPOUSE. 5 Feb., 1591-2, bet. 4 and 5 p.m. i. 24.

Walter Stewart, procurator and in name of Mathew Stewart of Barscuib, his brother, came to the presence of a noble and potent lord, Ludovic duke of Lennox, earl Dernelie, etc., lord superior of the lands aftermentioned, and resigned in his hands in favour of John Stewart, son and apparent heir male of Mathew Stewart and Sibill Edmestoun, spouses, the lands of Northbar, Craigtoun, Mylnetoun, and Bar alias Barangrie, together with the ferry boat (cymba carina) of Inchynnane, and also all and sundry lands, sheaves, duties, fees, liberties, commodities, and the privileges belonging and by old custom pertaining to the said boat; lying on the east side of the church of St. Convald of Inchynnane,² upon the waters of Gryfe and Cairt, between the lands of Inchynnane, belonging to the duke of Lennox, held by old consuetude, and the customs and other profits falling and of old pertaining to the said boat whatsoever, lying in the parish of Inchynnane and shire of Renfrew; and Walter, as procurator and in name of Mathew, also resigned in the hands of the superior, the duke of Lennox, in favour of John Stewart and Sibill Edmestone, and l.l., and their heirs-male, the 40s. land of Nuttishill, with the pertinents, lying in the lordship of Dernelie and the said shire; and an annualrent of 22 bolls oat meal, upliftable yearly between the feast of the Nativity of our Lord and the purification of the blessed Virgin Mary, furth of the foresaid ferry boat (cymba carina) of Inchynnane, lands, profits, and commodities whatsoever. Reserving to Mathew Stewart the liferent of the said lands of Bar, Mylnetone, Craigtoun, and Barangrie, with the ferry boat; and also reserving to Jonet Logane, spouse of Mathew Stewart, the liferent of two-thirds parts of the lands of Craigtone and Mylntoun, with 10 bolls oatmeal, upliftable yearly, furth of

² "The Breviary of Aberdeen commemorates St. Convall as the patron of Inchenennern, and relates that a stone on which he miraculously voyaged from the Irish shore to the Clyde was to be seen on the bank of that stream, where it was known as the 'currus Sancti Convalli,' and wrought miraculous cures on men and beasts" (Origines Parochiales, i. p. 507). The ancient church, supposed to have been built in 1100, was situated near the confluence of the Gryfe and Cart, and was taken down only in 1828 (Ib. p. 78). Ferrycroft, the name of lands at Inchinnan, perpetuates the memory of the ancient ferry, which has long ago been superseded by bridges.

the Maynes of Bar or Barangrie, with a reasonable third of all the foirsaid lands and boat, with the pertinents. Sasine given by the Duke, by delivery of staff and baton, in his chamber, within the town of Edinburgh (oppidum Edinburgi), in Nyddreis Wynd, in the buildings (edibus) of Nicolas Uduart,¹ on the west side of the said vennel. Witnesses: Mr. Henry Keir of Greinland, John Elphinstone, William Orme, servitors of the Duke, and Gavin Grhame, citizen of Glasgow.

3320. JAMES CORBAT IN TOWCORS. 15 February, 1591-2, 8 a.m.

f. 25. Gabriell Corbat of Hardgrave, feu-farmer of the lands aftermentioned, resigned in the hands of the superior, Walter, commendator of Blantyre, in favour of his kinsman, Mr. James Corbatt, the 26 s. 8 d. land, old extent, of Towcours, with a proportional part of the mill of Clydismyln falling to and belonging to the said lands; and with all other parts and pendicles thereof whatsoever; lying in the barony and regality of Glasgow and shire of Lanark.² Lands given to James Corbat by the commendator, by delivery of staff and baton, conform to a charter granted by him. Done in the dwelling house of the commendator, within the town of Edinburgh, on the south side of the street thereof, near the salt trone, called Dobbie's land. Witnesses: James Dunlop, younger of that Ilk, Patrick Somervell, son of the laird of Cambusnathen, Alexander Craufurd and Alexander Stewart, servitors of the commendator.

3321. MR. ROBERT WILKIE, MINISTER. 2 March, 1591-2, 3 p.m.

Mr. Robert Wilkie, minister of the Word of God at the church of Kilmarnok, produced a charter of feu-farm whereby Walter, commendator of Blantyre, granted to him the 20 s. land, old extent, in Borrofeild, with the pertinents, lying in the barony and regality of Glasgw and shire of Lanerk. Charter subscribed and sealed at Edinburgh, on 20 February, 1591-2, in presence of James Dunlop, younger of that Ilk, John Stewart,

¹ These buildings are thus referred to in Chambers's "Traditions of Edinburgh" (1899 edition, pp. 229-30): "Niddry's Wynd abounded in curious antique houses, many of which had been the residences of remarkable persons. The most interesting bit was a paved court, about half-way down on the west side, called 'Lockhart's Court,' from its having latterly been the residence of the family of Lockhart of Carnwath. This was in reality a quadrangular palace, the whole being of elegant old architecture, in one design, and accessible by a deep arched gateway. It was built by Nicol Edward or Udward, a wealthy citizen, who was provost of Edinburgh in 1591. . . . We learn from Moyes' Memoirs that in January, 1591, this house was the temporary residence of James VI. and his Queen, then recently arrived from Denmark; and that on the 7th of February, the Earl of Huntly passed hence, out of the immediate royal presence, when he went to murder the Bonny Earl of Moray at Donibristle." The names of the King and the Duke appear in the sederunt of a Privy Council held at Edinburgh on 4 and 5 February, and apparently they were each accommodated in the wealthy provost's "palace" about the same time.

younger of Barscuib, Mr. John Skene, advocate, Walter Stewart and Alexander Stewart, servitors of the commendator, and George Huchesone, notary public. Sasine given on the ground of the lands by George Young, baker, citizen of Glasgow, bailie in hac parte. Witnesses: James Wilsone, merchant, Thomas Kirkwod, flesher, Andrew Galloway, maltman, citizens, Patrick Lawrie, servant of q. Lord Boyd, and Mr. John Hereott, notary public.

3322. ADAM CRUIX alias FOWLAR. 20 March, 1591-2, 3 p.m.

John Fowler, citizen of Glasgow, attorney and in name of Adam Cruix alias Fowler, brother and heir of q. William Fowler alias Cruix, produced a precept direct from the King's chancery setting forth that by inquest it had been found that q. William Cruix alias Fowler, citizen of Glasgow, died last vest and seised as of fee, at the peace and faith of the King, in an orchard or yard (pomerio seu horto), with free passage, ingress and egress, and the pertinents, lying within the said city, in the street called Trongait, between the lands of q. Richard Ros on the east, the new cemetery sometime of the church of St. Mary on the north, the yard of q. James Wallace on the south, and the common alay on the west; and that John Cruix alias Fowler, brother-german of q. William, was his nearest and lawful heir; that he was of lawful age; and that the property was formerly held in capite of the provost of the new church of the blessed Mary of the said city, and was then held of the King by virtue of the act of annexation of church lands to the crown.¹ The King therefore charged the provost

t. 26.

¹ The patronage of the provost of the collegiate church was vested in the abbot and convent of Kilwyning monastery. The first provost was Christopher Boyd, vicar of Dalry, and the last (and perhaps the only other) Archibald Crawford, rector of Eglesham (Liber Collegii Nostre Domine, pp. xv. xxxi.) The property mentioned in the protocol was purchased by the city of Glasgow in 1627, and the title deeds are preserved among the city's writs (Inv. I. bundle 18). The first writ consists of a charter granted by King James VI., under his great seal (the seal is in perfect preservation), on 31 March, 1591. By this charter the King, with consent of his chancellor, treasurer, clerk of justiciary, and collector general and treasurer of new augmentations, granted in feu-farm to William Cruikis, alias Fowler, formerly farmer (antiquo armorario) of the property, a yard (hortum lie yaird) lying at the back of the collegiate church of St. Mary, between the yard of the church on the north, the yard of q. James Wallace on the south, and the common passage called the alay on the west. It is stated that the yard formerly belonged to the collegiate church as part of the church land and patrimony thereof, and then belonged to the King, by virtue of the act of parliament annexing church lands to the crown, of which lands the King was constituted superior. The property was to be held of the King and his successors, for the payment to him and them of 26s. 8d. as old farm, and 4d. as augmentation of rental, making together 27s. yearly; and heirs were to pay a duplicand the first year of their entry. The writ next in date is a precept of clare constat granted, not by the King, but by "Mr Archibald Crawford, rector of Egleschem, provost of the collegiate church of St. Mary," and styling himself "lord superior of the yard underwritten." By this precept it is narrated that "William Cruix, alias Fowler, citizen of Glasgow, died last vest and seised as of fee in feu-farm . . . in a yard called Provestis Yarde, belonging to my said provestry . . . lying in the street and bailies of Glasgow to give sasine to the said Adam or his attorney; saving the right of any one, and taking security of 54 s. as the duplication of feu-farm owing to the King. Precept dated at Edinburgh, 18 January, 1591-2, A.R. 25. On the back these words were written: "I have receavit this double. M. G. Young." Sasine given by Hector Stewart, one of the bailies of Glasgow. Witnesses: Mr. John Hammiltone of Bornecleuch, Quintigern Wilsone, merchant, Robert Steinsone, tailor, citizens, Archibald Lettrik, and Robert Herbertsone, writer.

3323. MR. JAMES CORBATT IN TOWCORS. 3 April, 1592, 3 p.m.

Mr. James Corbatt in Towcours produced a charter of feu-farm whereby Walter, commendator of Blantyre, granted to him the two merk land, old extent, of Towcours, with a proportional part of the mill of Clydismyln falling and belonging to the said lands, for the dry multure always belonging thereto (pro arida multura semper proprium fuit);¹ with the pertinents; lying in the barony and regality of Glasgow and shire of Lanerk. Charter subscribed and sealed at Edinburgh, on 20 February, 1591-2, in presence of James Dunlop, younger of that ilk, John Stewart, younger of Barscuib, Mr. John Skeyne, advocate, Walter Stewart, Alexander Stewart, servitors of the commendator, and George Huchesone, notary public.² Sasine given by called Tronegait, between the cemetery of the said new church on the north, the yard of q. James Wallace on the south, the yard of q. Richard Ros on the east, and the common alley (deambulatorium) on the west; and that Adam Cruix alias Foular, brother-german of q. William, is his nearest and lawful heir . . . and that the said yard is held in feu-farm of me and my successors, provosts of the said collegiate church, for payment of 27 s. usual money yearly." The bailie named in the precept, which was granted at Glasgow, on 28 December, 1591, was therefore directed to give sasine to Adam. Instead of taking sasine on this precept, the heir seems to have obtained the precept narrated in the protocol, and taken sasine on it. Perhaps Archibald Crawford drew the yearly revenues of his benefice, but the King's collector secured the heir's entry money. By a charter dated 13 May, 1592, Adam Crux, alias Foular, sold the yard to Mr. Henry Gibsone, commissary clerk, who obtained a crown charter of confirmation on 31 May, 1592. From Henry Gibson the yard passed, in 1599, to his son Hugh, from whom it was acquired by the city in 1627. By disposition dated 19 December of that year "maister Hew Gibsoun of Haghill," with consent of Barbara Rowatt, his spouse, in consideration of the price of £300 Scots (£25 sterling), being the amount of "unlawis" collected by the bailies in 1625 and 1626, disposed to the provost, bailies, and community of Glasgow, "our yaird, callit the Provost Yaird of the New Kirk of the samyn, upoun the southe syd of the Tronegait of the said brught, boundit betuixt the landis of umquhill Richard Ros, now pertaining to the alris of umquhill William Soumer, William Stewart, and Andrew Faullis on the eist, the yaird of umquhill James Wallace, now pertenyng to George Malsoun on the sowthe, the common passage callit the Allay on the west, and the said New Kirk and yaird thair of on the northe pairtis." The last mentioned yard was included in the property transferred to James Fleming, in 1570, and re-acquired by the city about 1592 (see protocols 1702, 1749, 2516).

² The two merk lands of Tolcross or Towcourse were occupied by Gabriel Corbat of Hardgray and his subtenants in 1580, and on 6 May of that year Archbishop John Cuik, officer in Cuikiswaird, as bailie in hac parte. Witnesses: John Myllar in Kenmure, John Lowgy in Bradeisholme, John Armour in Towcors, and John M'Kay, servitor of John Lowgy.

3324. GEORGE AND HELEN LYONES. 6 April, 1592, 9 a.m.

George Lyone and Helen Lyone, spouses, produced a charter of feu-farm whereby Walter, commendator of Blantyre, granted to them and l.l., the third part of lands called Lwynyngishauch, extending to four acres of land or thereby, with the pertinents, then occupied by the spouses, lying in the barony and lordship of Glasgow and shire of Lanerk.¹ Charter subscribed and sealed as in the charter mentioned in No. 3323. Sasine given by Robert Otterburn, King's messenger, as bailie in hac parte. Witnesses: James Mayne, merchant, John Moresone in Stokwoll, and John Masone, there, citizens of Glasgow.

3325. WILLIAM ANDERSONE OF STOB Cors. 25 April, 1592, 7 a.m.

William Youngar in Brewland of Partik sold to William Andersone of Stobcors the fourth part of the lands called Mylneland, with the pertinents, lying on the east side of Stobcors, extending to an acre of land or thereby; bounded between the lands of Stobcors on the north, west, and south, and the lands of Cranstounhill, called the Persone land of Renfrew,² on the east;

Boyd gave him a feu charter of the lands. Accordingly the commendator's charter may be regarded as a confirmation of the feu. The property, described as a 26s. 8d. (= 2 merks) land, was resigned in favour of James Corbett, a kinsman, as narrated in protocol 3320. It was not till the year 1792 that the Corbett family parted with the Tolcross property. James Dunlop of Garnkirk was the purchaser, and from his descendants a large portion of it was acquired by the Corporation of Glasgow in 1897, and laid out as a public park (Glasg. Chart. i. p. dxxvi.) Hardgray or Hardgraif was situated in Dumfriesshire. It is stated in Anderson's "Scottish Nation" (to which reference may be made for further particulars) that a charter was granted by Thomas Corbet of Hardgray to John Corbet, his son, in 1405. By a crown charter dated 1 September, 1540, King James V. confirmed to James Johnstoune the lands of Hardgraif and Traquettis, in the parish of Mekle Dawtoun, stewartry of Annandale and shire of Dumfries, which lands Robert Corbet of Hardgraif had resigned (Reg. Mag. Sig. iii. No. 2198). This was probably a wadset, and not an absolute alienation, as the territorial designation was retained. The Corbets of Hardgray are frequently mentioned in the protocols, and they were owners of the manse of the parson of Ashkirk, on the north-east side of the Drygate (see Reg. Mag. Sig. vi. No. 1770), and also of the subdean's manse (postea, 30 April, 1600). By the marriage of an heiress, the latter manse came into the possession of the Stirlings of Glorat (see protocol No. 1734).

² As to Parsonshaugh, which formerly belonged to the parsonage of Glasgow, see protocols Nos. 1037-8, 3193, and relative footnotes. From No. 3325 it would appear that the parson of Renfrew had also lands in the vicinity.

lying in the barony and regality of Glasgw and shire of Lanerk. Sasine given by William Youngar, by his own hands, to William Andersone, on the ground of Mylneland. Witnesses: Ninian Andersone in Wodside, and John Woddrop, merchant, citizen of Glasgow.

3326. WILLIAM SOMER. 6 June, 1592, 8 a.m.

George Lyone, citizen of Glasgow, for himself and in name of Helen Lyone, his spouse, sold and gave sasine to William Somer, merchant, citizen, of the west equal half of the lands called Persone land, next the Brumelandis, with the pertinents, lying t.c. Lands to be redeemable in terms of a contract. Witnesses: James Bell, James Tempill, John Bogill, merchants, citizens, and Mr. John Allasone, co-notary.

3327. JOHN CUIK, OFFICER, AND HIS SON. 30 September, 1592, 3 p.m.

John Cuik in Scheddilstone, citizen of Glasgow, produced a feu-charter whereby William, commendator of Blantyre, granted to him the 20s. land, old extent, in Middle Quarter of Schedilstone, with part of the mill of Clydismyln, falling and belonging to the lands of old for dry multure (ex antiquo pro arida multura), then occupied by and belonging to him in rental,¹ lying in the barony and regality of Glasgow and shire of Lanerk. Charter subscribed and sealed at Glasgow on 20 May, 1591, in presence of Archibald Stewart of Castelmilk, John Wallace, younger of Dundonald, George Huchesone of Lambhill, Alexander Craufurd, servitor of the commendator, and Mr. Henry Gibsone, notary. Sasine given by John Tennent in Schedilston as bailie in hac parte. Thereafter, John Cuik resigned the property in favour of John Cuik, his son and apparent heir; but reserving his own liferent. Witnesses: David Huchesone, skinner in Schedilstone, John Tennent and Simon Tennent there.

3328. JOHN GOWANE AND SPOUSE. 8 November, 1592, 3 p.m.

James Bogle, eldest lawful son of John Bogle, senior in Nedder Carmyle, for implement of part of a contract, gave sasine to John Gowane in Fullertoun

¹ John Cuik was probably a descendant of Stevin Cuik, who was "rentallit in xx s. land of Chedilstone" on 20 December, 1515 (Diocesan Reg. i. p. 74). Scheddilstone was situated in Culkwisward, one of the four divisions into which the barony was divided (see footnote to protocol No. 2015), and at the date of the above protocol John Cuik was the name of the officer of that ward. It is not improbable that the rentaller and officer were identical, and that the officership had been held by members of the family in succession, giving their name to the ward. All the other wards, Battermonoche, Partick, and Govan, got their names from lands, but there is no place name in the vicinity resembling "Cuik."

and Elizabeth Cors, his spouse, of the 13 s. 4 d. land in Nedder Carmyle, called Bogleshoill, then occupied by John Bogle, his father, and Margaret Harbesone, spouses, with tofts, crofts, parts, pendicles, fishings, and a proportional part of the mill of Clydismyln, and all other pertinents; which lands were the just and equal half of the two-merk land there, heretably belonging to the said James. Witnesses: John Cors in Over Carmyll, John Witherspune in Nedder Carmyll, and Simon Stewart there.

3329. JAMES BOGILL. 9 November, 1592, 3 p.m.

Andrew Nemok in Nedder Carmyll and Isobella Scott, spouses, acknowledged that they had received from James Bogill in Nedder Carmyll 200 merks Scots for redemption of the merk land in Nedder Carmyll, within the barony and regality of Glasgw, wadset by John Bogill, father of James, to Andrew Nemok and spouse; and they resigned the property in favour of James Bogill. Done in the dwellinghouse of the notary, in Gallogait, within the city. Witnesses: John Gowane in Fullartoune, Thomas Bogle in Neddier Carmyll, William Bogill, his son, John Bogill, junior, there, Charles Nemok, and David Aitkyn, wright, citizen.

3330. MARK MILLER AND HIS SON. 2 December, 1592, A.R. 26, 2 p.m.

John Gibsone in Balgray, fiar of the lands aftermentioned, by his own hands, gave sasine to Mark Millar in Garscuib of the 12 s. 6 d. land, old extent, of the lands of Balgray, with the pertinents, lying in the parish of Govane, barony of Glasgw and shire of Dumbertane. Thereafter, Mark Millar resigned the property in favour of David Millar, his son; but reserving his own liferent and right to redeem the property on payment of the sum mentioned in a contract. Witnesses: John Cwmyng in Partik, Michael Huchesone in Scheill and James Schankis in Gairbraid.

3331. WILLIAM MURE. 6 February, 1592-3, 11 a.m.

John Burne in Corshill, fiar of the lands aftermentioned, came to the personal presence of Cuthbert Conynghame, provost of the collegiate church of Dumbertane, lord superior of the lands, and resigned in his hands the 13 s. 4 d. land, old extent, of Corshill, with houses, yards, tofts, crofts, parts, pendicles and pertinents whatsoever, lying in the parish of Govane and shire of Lanerk; and that in favour of William Mure, flesher, citizen of Glasgw; to whom the superior gave the lands by delivery of staff and baton.¹

3332. AGNES MILLARE. 22 March, 1592-3, 10 a.m.

f. 31. Mathew Montgomerie in Balschagrie, for the love he bore towards Agnes Millar, his spouse, and for implement of part of a marriage contract between Mark Millar for himself and taking burden on him for the said Agnes, his daughter, on the one part, and the said Mathew and Margaret Douglas, his mother, on the other part, dated 19 December preceding, gave to his said spouse sasine of the liferent of the 15 s. 8 d. land, old extent, in Balschagrie, with houses, yards, parts, pendicles, and pertinents, belonging to him in feu-farm. Witnesses: Thomas Fraser, servitor of Mr. Thomas Archibald, rector of Cardros, Walter Rowand in Balschagrie, John Boyill, there, and Bartholomew Millar in Garscuib.

3333. ARCHIBALD CORS. 17 April, 1593, 10 a.m.

Archibald Cors, miller in Partick, produced a charter of feu-farm whereby Walter, commendator of Blantyre, granted to him the 6 s. 8 d. land, with the pertinents, lying on the east side of the town of Partik, sometime belonging to q. Robert Cors, there, lying in the barony and regality of Glasgow and shire of Lanerk. Charter subscribed and sealed at Cardonald, on 14 April, 1593, in presence of Alexander Craufurd, Alexander Stewart, servitors of the commendator, James Muirheid, merchant, citizen, and George Huchesone, notary public. Sasine given by Ninian Andersone in Wodsyde, as bailie in hac parte. Witnesses: John Huchesone in Gairbraid, Michael Huchesone in West Scheill, David Montgomerie in Scottistoun Eister, John Cwmyng in Partik and Robert Matho in Balschagrie.

3334. ARCHIBALD HEREOTT. 17 September, 1593, A.R. 27, 10 a.m.

William Hereott, baker, citizen, resigned in favour of his kinsman, Archibald Hereott, baker, lawful son of q. David Hereott, citizen, his part of the wheat mill on the water of Kelving, within the barony and regality of Glasgow, said part being called ane mylne day of the Baxtaris quheit mylne, extending to a twenty-sixth part of the said mill, sometime belonging to q. Walter Landes, baker, and then to William Hereott, heretably, with all multures, sequels, privileges, profits, parts, pendicles, and pertinents, falling and belonging thereto pro rata. Sasine given to Archibald Hereott by William Hereott delivering to him earth and stone of the lands and clap and hopper of the mill. Done in the miller's house. Witnesses: George Schaw of Barnehill, Arthur Colquhoun in Borrofeild and John Mure in Lambhill.

3335. ARCHIBALD EGLYNETONE, NOTARY. 25 September, 1594, A.R. 28, 5 p.m.

Archibald Eglyngtoun, notary, dwelling in the city of Glasgow, produced a precept of sasine granted by King James VI., under his great seal, narrating that after the annexation made in parliament of all church lands within his realm to the crown, and after the dissolution of the said act for the setting in feu-farm of the said church lands, for policy and planting within his kingdom, the King, with advice and consent of his faithful and beloved councillors, John lord Thirlestane, chancellor, etc., Thomas, master of Glames, treasurer, Sir John Cockburne of Ormestoun, knight, clerk of justiciary, Sir Robert Mailvile of Murdocairny, knight, treasurer depute, and Mr. Robert Douglas, provost of Lynclowden, collector general, granted in feu-farm to Archibald Eglyngtoun, notary public in Glasgow, a tenement, fore and back, under and above, with the pertinents, lying t.c., on the south side of the street called the Tronegait, between the lands of John Ros on the east, the cemetery of the new church on the west, and the common street on the north; which tenement, with the pertinents, formerly belonged to the provost and prebendaries of the New Church as part and pertinent of the patrimony and property thereof, and then, by virtue of the said act of annexation, belonged to the King; as in a charter made thereon was more fully contained. Precept given under the testimony of the great seal, at Edinburgh, on 23 March, 1593-4.¹ Sasine given by Robert Chirneside

¹ There are some writs preserved in the town clerk's office which afford further particulars regarding this property. The first is a charter dated 7 April, 1566, whereby "Archibald Craufurd, canon of the metropolitan church of Glasgow, and provost of the collegiate church of the blessed Virgin Mary of the city of Glasgow, and the prebendaries thereof, with consent of the provost, bailies, and councillors of the city, patrons thereof," having in view the advantage of the church, granted and set in feu-farm to John Stewart of Bowhous "a waste tenement, partly begun to be built in the front, lying in the street of St. Tenu, between the tenement of the late Peter Adam on the east, the cemetery of the said church on the west, the north wall of the choir of the said church on the south, and the public street on the north." The feu-duty payable to the provost and prebendaries of the church was 10s. Scots (6d. sterling). On behalf of the church the charter was subscribed by Archibald Craufurd, provost of the church, Sir John Hammiltoun, archpriest, Sir Robert Watson, Sir Alexander Bel, and Sir William Harbartson, prebendaries. This alienation took place a few months before Queen Mary conveyed church property to the city, and accordingly, so far as the waste tenement was concerned, the feu-duty only would be carried by the charter. In 1569-70, John Stewart and his spouse sold the property to John Wilsone, merchant, and Jonet Auld, spouses, as is shown by an instrument of sasine under the hand of Henry of Over Possill, one of the bailies of the city. Witnesses: David Hall, merchant, Michael Dalgleische, tailor, citizens, James Lockie, servitor of the bailie, and John Smyth, servitor in the city.¹

3336. MICHAEL BAIRD AND HIS SPOUSE AND SON. 2 October, 1594, 11 a.m.

Michaell Baird in Rouchill, Jonet Alexander, his spouse, and Robert Baird, their eldest son and apparent heir, produced a charter of feu-farm whereby Walter, commendator of Blantyre, granted to the said Michael Baird, in liferent, and to Robert Baird, his son, heritably, the 13s. 4d.

Gibson, notary, dated 11 January of that year. A subsequent instrument, dated 10 November, 1585, of which an abstract is printed in protocol No. 2783, narrates the transfer of the tenement to Helen Wilson. Whether Archibald Eglinton acquired Helen Wilson's rights, or whether these were held to be confiscated by the annexation act of 1587, has not been ascertained. It will be observed that the charter itself ignores any intermediate possessor. In the year 1635, Hugh Eglinton, minister of Dunlop, who succeeded his father as owner of the property, sold it to John Wilson, cordiner, but the buildings were destroyed by the great fire of 1652. About five years afterwards the town council required part of the site for building an aisle to the Tron church, and they accordingly purchased

"the old brunt house at the Laigh Kirk in Trongait" from the relict and creditors of John Wilson, at the price of £1000 Scots = £83 6s. 8d. Sterling. (Original writs, including those specified in Inv. I., b. 19; Glasg. Rec. ii. pp. 341, 359-60, 367-8, 371-4).

As noted in protocol No. 2462 and footnote, a Sang School connected with the collegiate church was situated to the west of the church and cemetery. Part, if not the whole of the site of this school, and part of the cemetery, were feued by the magistrates and council in 1592 and 1593. Coming into possession of the Faculty of Surgeons in 1698, these portions remained in the possession of that body till 1869, when their property was acquired by the Glasgow Improvements Trustees (Purchase No. 417).

¹ The original instrument of easine expedie on No. 3335 is preserved among the city's writs, and the opportunity has been taken of obtaining from it a facsimile of the notary's sign with his motto, "Deum time"—Fear God. This was the sign appended to instruments under the hand of George Huchesone. A facsimile of his attestation in the protocol book was given in No. 3298.

3351. HENRY WATT AND JOHN WYLIE. 12 September, 1595, 1 p.m.

Adam Lawtie, writer, Edinburgh, attorney and in name of Henry Wat, son and heir of q. David Watt, who was son of James Watt, citizen, produced a precept granted by Bartholomew Sympsone, preceptor of the hospital of St. Nicholas, within the city of Glasgow, superior of the tenement after mentioned, in which precept it was narrated that, from authentic writings and documents shown and read to the superior, it clearly appeared (lucide constat)¹ that David Watt died at the faith and peace of the King, vested in the property aftermentioned; that his son, Henry Watt, was his nearest heir, and therefore the superior, charged Peter Patersone, maltman, burgess of Glasgow, to give to the said Henry Wat, sasine of the greater part of a great fore ruinous and decayed (ruinosi et defectuosi) tenement, containing three nether booths and a hall, and two upper chambers, together with a loft built above the same, in which there was one chamber; which booths were sometime occupied and inhabited by Andrew Craufurd, Jonet Boyill and Christina Maissone; the hall and one of the chambers were occupied by the said Christina, the loft and chamber therein and a third chamber were sometime occupied by George Conynghame, tinker (fabrum lie tinclear); lying t.c., on the east side of the street leading from the church to the market cross, between another part of the said fore tenement, obtained in feu-farm by Thomas Forrett, and sometime inhabited by John Bowie, Elizabeth Aitkin, and Helen Leiche, on the south, the prebendal manse (mansum prebendale) of Erskyn on the east, and the public street (publicam plateam) on the north. Precept (written by Peter Hewatt, writer to the King's signet, in Edinburgh) subscribed and sealed at Glasgow, on 12 September, 1595, in presence of David Bryssoune, macer (clavigero), Adam Lawtie, writer, John Oliphant, writer, George Huchesone, notary, John Huchesone in Gairbraid. Sasine given, in terms of the precept, to Adam Lawtie, attorney and in name of Henry Wat. Thereafter, Peter Patersone, as procurator and in name of Henry Wat, resigned the properties in favour of John Wylie, clerk of chancery (scribe cancellarie), and Bartholomew Sympsone, as superior, gave him sasine. The property was to be held of the preceptor of the hospital for payment to

The property described in No. 3351, forming the north-west corner of a group of buildings situated between Kirk Street and Drygate Lane on the west and east, latterly known as Isle Toothie, was feued by the preceptor of St. Nicholas Hospital to David Wat in 1559 (see protocol No. 538), and the feu-duty continued to be paid to the Hospital till 1882, when it was redeemed by the Glasgow Improvements Trustees. At the north-east corner of the group was the manse of the rector of Erskine, and in the middle of the surrounding buildings was the tennis court, called in protocols "the calchpule." All the buildings in "Isle Toothie" were acquired and removed by the Improvements Trustees, and the area now forms part of Cathedral Square.

John Cwmyng in Byris of Partik, bailie in hac parte of Ludovic duke of Lennox, lord superior of the lands aftermentioned, by virtue of act of parliament granted in his favour,¹ gave to Agnes Huchesone, only daughter and heir of q. Robert Huchesone in Balgray, sasine of the 4 s. 6 d. land, old extent, in Gartnavill, and the 12 s. 6 d. land, old extent, in Balgray; with houses, yards, tofts, crofts, parts, pendicles, and pertinents; lying in the parish of Govane, barony and regality of Glasgow. Witnesses: John Huchesone in Gairbraid, Archibald Wilsone, swordplayer (gladiatore), citizen of Glasgow, William Andersone in Gartnavill, John Cuthbert, there, John Reid, there, John Alexander in Partik, John Schankis, there, and James M'Nair in Kirklie.

¹ By act of parliament, dated 16 December, 1597, the King and estates granted to the Duke of Lennox, during his lifetime, the superiority of the temporal lands belonging to the archbishopric, with all the casualties belonging thereto, and with power to enter vassals and tenants. This grant, according to the preamble, was made partly for the benefit of the feuars and tenants, most of whom were unable to bear the expense of resignation of their lands in the King's hands and of obtaining crown charters (Acts of Parl., 1595, c. 49, vol. iv. pp. 146-7; Glasg. Chart. i., abstract No. 418).

3397. ALEXANDER WINZET. 27 October, 1598, 3 p.m.

f. 64. Alexander Winzet, son and heir of q. George Winzet in Dalbeth, produced a precept from the King's chancery, dated at Edinburgh, 29 September, charging the bailie of the regality of Glasgow and his deputies to give him, as heir of q. George Winzet in Dalbeth, his father, sasine of the 15 s. land of Dalbeth, and 5 s. 4 d. land of Wester Schedilstoun, with a proportional part of the mill of Clydismylne corresponding to said lands, and salmon fishing in the water of Clyde, belonging to the lands of Dalbeth; lying in the barony and regality of Glasgow and shire of Lanerk; but reserving the liferent of Margaret Mayne, relict of q. George. Sasine given by John Cuik, officer in Cuikiswaird, depute bailie of Sir Mathew Stewart of Mynto, knight, principal bailie of the regality. Witnesses: John Young, baker, citizen, John Bogle, senior in Bogleshoill, John Bogle, junior in Huchestoun, John Bogle, his son, and John Craig, notary.

3398. JAMES MUREHEID, JUNIOR. 9 November, 1598, 8 a.m.

John Mureheid, portioner of Robrestoun, and Margaret Lennox, his spouse, for implement of a contract, and for certain sums of money paid to them, gave sasine to James Mureheid, junior, of Lauchop, of the 28 s. 10 d. land, being the equal half of the 57 s. 8 d. land of Robrestoun, old extent, with tofts, crofts, parts, pendicles, and pertinents; with part of the lands of Coschenochill and a proportional part of the mill of Badlay Mylne; lying in the barony and regality of Glasgow and shire of Lanerk. Done upon the ground of the lands, in the dwellinghouse of John Mureheid. Witnesses: John Donaldsone in Robrestoun, Thomas M'Culloch, there, John Mureheid, brother of the said John, George Braid and David Scot, there.

3399. JOHN STARK OF AUCHINWOLL. 17 November, 1598, 2 p.m.

f. 65. John Stark of Auchinwoll produced a charter whereby John Blair, senior, of that ilk, feu-farmer of the lands aftermentioned, and John Blair, junior, his son and apparent heir, granted to him the 33 s. 4 d. land, old extent, of Rammishorne and Medowflat, with the pertinents, lying in the barony and regality of Glasgu and shire of Lanerk.¹ Charter (written by George Huchesone, notary in Glasgw) subscribed and sealed at Glasgw on in footnote to No. 1096; but in that footnote the allusions to "ancient royalty" and "burgage tenure" require correction. Ramshorn and Meadowflat do not appear to have belonged to the community of Glasgow

15 November, 1598, in presence of Robert Blair, commissary of Campsie, Hugh Blair, notary public, John Stark, citizen, and George Huchesone, notary. 3400. WALTER, COMMENDATOR OF BLANTYRE. 27 November, 1598, 6 p.m.

John Wilsone in Auchinraith, for implement of a contract, and for certain sums of money paid to him, resigned in the hands of Walter, commendator of Blantyre, King's treasurer, baron of the barony of Blantyre, lord superior of the lands aftermentioned, the two merk land, new extent, in Auchinraith, with houses, yards, tofts, crofts, parts, pendicles, and pertinents whatsoever, lying in the barony of Blantyre and shire of Lanerk, so that the property of the lands might remain with the superior and be consolidated with the superiority. Done in the upper chamber of the great house or ludging of the laird of Mynto, in the city of Glasgow. Witnesses: James Schaw of Grenok, John Millar, junior in Mylneheuch, Patrick Jaksone, at the church of Blantyre, and Patrick Millar, there.

3401. MARION BELL, SPOUSE OF WILLIAM ANDERSONE. 2 Nov., 1598, 2 p.m.

William Andersone, lawful son of Ninian Andersone in Woodsyde, for implement of a contract of marriage between him and the said Ninian Andersone and Jonet Elphinstoune, his parents, on the one part, and Marion Bell, relict of q. James Tailleour, merchant, on the other part, gave sasine to the said Marion Bell of the liferent of the 13s. 4d. land, old extent, in Ruchill, with houses, yards, tofts, crofts, parts, pendicles, and pertinents, lying in the parish, barony, and regality of Glasgow; but reserving the nor to have been held by burgage tenure previous to the constitution of the feu holding in 1588. The lands were situated in Partick ward and were, from early times, possessed by rentallers in the usual way. John Blair, senior and junior, granters of the charter narrated in No. 3399, acquired Ramshorn and Meadowflat, along with the 4 merk land of Gardarroch, from James Foulis and spouse in excambion for the lands of Oyganga, in the shire of Edinburgh; which excambion was confirmed by crown charter, dated 18 February, 1597-8 (Reg. Mag. Sig. vi. No. 661).

In the deed of excambion there were excepted two acres of Ramshorn which had been conveyed by James Foulis and spouse to George Pook, Burgess of Glasgow. Another piece of Ramshorn had been transferred by Archbishop Betoun to the Friars Minors for an extension of the monastery and its houses and yards in the year 1511. As described in writs printed in the Diocesan Registers the ground thus bestowed consisted of a "piece of land of Rammishorn, belonging to the lord archbishop and his successors, lying contiguous to the property of the said Friars, on the west, extending to 22 feet in breadth beyond the walls, and lying between the lands of the rector of Glasgow, on the south, and the yard sometime of Ranald [i.e., Rannald's Yard] on the north." About the same time the rector of Glasgow gave to the Friars a strip of ground, 20 feet in breadth, being apparently the portion which bounded the Ramshorn strip on the south (Protocols in Diocesan Reg. Nos. 500, 504-5). See farther as to the site of the monastery in Glasgow Protocols, Nos. 1217, 2242, 2291, and footnotes.

i. 81. Walter, lord of Blantyre, produced letters by King James, under his great seal, whereby the King, after his perfect age, and all his revocations, for himself and as father and lawful administrator to his dearly beloved son, Henry, duke of Rothesay, earl of Carrik, lord of the Isles, baron of the barony of Renfrew, prince and steward of the kingdom of Scotland, with consent of the lords of secret council and exchequer, gave, granted, and heritably disposed to his beloved and trusty cousin and counsellor, Walter lord of Blantyre, the King's treasurer, his heirs-male and assignees whomsoever, the lands and barony of Blantyre, with mills, fishings, tower, fortalice, oulsellis, parts, pendicles, tenants, tenandries, services of free tenants, and all their pertinents, lying in the shire of Lanerk; also the 5 merk land, old extent, of Birdisfeild and Bellisfeild, and the two merk land, old extent, of Syde, with the pertinents, lying in the said barony of Blantyre and shire of Lanerk, and formerly proper parts and pertinents of the said barony, extending in whole to a £40 land, old extent. Also the 20 s. land of Wrichtland, with towers, fortalices, mansion and yards built thereon; the £5 land of Cardonnald, and the £8 land of Eister Henderstoun, old extent, with the pertinents, lying in the parish of Paisley, barony and shire of Renfrew; also the lands of Wester Henderstoun, extending to a £5 land, old extent, with houses, yards, fishings, mills, multures, parts, pendicles and pertinents, lying in the parish of Paisley, barony and shire of Renfrew. Which whole lands of Blantyre, Wrichtland, Cardonnald, and Eister and Wester Henderstoun, with the pertinents, formerly belonged to the said Walter, lord of Blantyre, and were resigned by him in the hands of the King for himself and as administrator to his son, superiors thereof; and the said lands of Birdisfeild, Bellisfeild, and Syde, with the pertinents, formerly belonged to David Dunbar of Dalderk, and were by his procurators resigned as in the hands of the superior, at Halyruidhous, in favour of lord Blantyre. The King also granted to Walter, lord of Blantyre, the advocation, donation, and right of patronage of the cell or priory of Blantyre, afterwards erected into one separate parsonage and vicarage (unam divisam rectoriam et vicariam), as aftermentioned; all which formerly belonged to the said Walter, and were by him, personally, and also by the procurators of Alexander lord Home, as commendator of the whole benefice and abbacy of Jedburgh, to which the said cell or priory of Blantyre was of old united and annexed, resigned in the hands of the King as undoubted patron of the said benefice. Moreover, the King calling to memory, the good and faithful, sincere, honorable, and grateful service performed and rendered by the said Walter, lord of Blantyre, as well to the King in his own person during his infancy and childhood as in the government and administration of the commonweal of the realm, without any fault or defect, did of new give, grant, dispose, and for himself and the said Prince, for ever confirm to the said Walter, lord of Blantyre, and his heirs-male, the several lands and the barony above and aftermentioned, viz.:—the lands and barony of Blantyre, comprehending the following towns, lands, and others:—the Mains (terras dominicales lie Maynes) of Blantyre, with manor place, houses and yards thereof, the lands of Girnall Croft, Preistisfeild, and Preistisfeild Croft, the grain mill of Blantyre, called the Mylneheuch, with lands, mills, astricted multures, houses, yards and pertinents; the lands of Barnehill, Auchinraith, Syid, Baithous, Blanterferme, Bardisdykis, Birdisfeild, Bellisfeild, Park and Auchintiber, Latlegeoch, Holmebarnis, and Moichlinege, with all their houses, buildings, yards, orchards, woods, fishings, as well salmon as other fishes in the water of Clyde, tofts, crofts, moors, marshes, meadows, grazings, pasturages, outsetts, tenants, tenandries, and services of free tenants; with coals, coalheughs, and common usages and customs; with the patronage, donation, and right of patronage of churches, benefices, and chaplainries thereof, and all their parts, pendicles and pertinents whatsoever, lying within the said shire of Lanerk; together with all other lands, houses, buildings, yards, orchards, tofts, crofts, mills, woods, fishings, outsetts, annexes, connexes, dependencies, parts, pendicles, and pertinents whatsoever, as well property as tenandry, lying within the kingdom, belonging to the said lands and barony of Blantyre, as well not named as named. Also the 5 merk land of Birdisfeild and Bellisfeild, the two merk land of Syde, with mill, mill lands, multures, houses, buildings, and others, the 20 s. land of Wrichtland, with towers, fortalices, mansion and yards built thereon, the £5 land of Cardonnald, the £8 land of Eister Henderstoun, the £5 land of Wester Henderstoun, and all the pertinents and rights belonging thereto. Further, the King calling to memory that the temporal lands of abbacies, bishoprics, and monasteries within the kingdom had been annexed to the crown, so that nothing remained of the said benefices except the churches and teinds, called the spirituality thereof; which churches and teinds were dissolved from the said monasteries, and the same were erected into parsonages (rectories) and vicarages, in which ministers preaching the Word of God and ministering the sacraments were appointed and employed, who were sustained upon the fruits and teinds of the said churches: therefore he, with advice and consent of the said Walter lord of Blantyre, then possessor of the cell and priory of Blantyre, and with advice and consent of the said Alexander lord Home, as commendator of the said monastery of Jedburgh, dissolved the said cell or priory of Blantyre from the said monastery of Jedburgh, to which it was of old united and annexed, and erected the said cell or priory into a distinct parsonage and vicarage (unam distinctam rectoriam et vicariam), and so to continue in all time coming. And for the experience and faithful testimony which the King had of the great zeal of the lord of Blantyre in the Word of God and religion, as then professed within the kingdom, he was appointed patron of the said benefice, which was therefore annexed to the lands and barony of Blantyre. The King also for himself, and as father and administrator for his son, prince and steward of the kingdom of Scotland, united, erected, and incorporated the several lands and others before mentioned, into a free barony, to be called the barony of Blantyre, ordaining the tower and fortalice of Blantyre to be the principal messuage, and one sasine taken there to be sufficient for the whole. Moreover, the King, desiring reparation and building in the town (villa) of Blantyre to be done for the ease and entertainment of the lieges resorting there; and for the greater increase of policy to be made on every side within the kingdom, and also for sundry other good causes and considerations, did, by his royal power and authority, make, create, and erect the town of Blantyre into a free burgh in barony, to be called the Burgh of Blantyre; giving and granting to the inhabitants full power and licence therein to sell and buy wine, wax, linen and woollen cloth, broad and narrow, and other things of that sort or colour, and all other merchandise; also to have bakers, brewers, fleshers, fishers, and all other craftsmen belonging or needful to belong to a free burgh in barony ; also power to create free burgesses, and to erect a market cross, and to have a weekly market on Thursday, and a fair day yearly on the 14th of October, for buying and selling of flesh, fish, oxen, sheep, meal, pease, corn, barley, linen and woollen cloth, skins, and all other goods, victual and merchandise ; with power also to the lord of Blantyre and his successors to depute and ordain the necessary keepers (custodies necessarios) of the said fairs and market days, and yearly to elect bailies and other officers needful for the government of the said burgh, and to build and erect a tolbooth in the burgh for ministering justice and holding baron courts therein : with all other privileges, liberties, commodities, customs, casualties and duties which to any other burgh in barony within the kingdom belonged, or justly might belong. Given under the great seal, at Halyrudhous, on 18 January, 1598-9. Sasine given by Sir John Hammiltoun of Lettrik, knight, sheriff depute of Lanerk, to Walter lord of Blantyre, at the tower and fortalice of Blantyre. Witnesses : Sir John Lyndsay of Dunrod, knight, James Hammiltoun of Torrens, John Hammiltoun of Udstoun, Andrew Hammiltoun of Lethame, William Cleland of that Ilk, David Forsythe of Dyikis, and Mr. Patrick Walkinchaw, subdean of Glasgow.

3428. JOHN NEWLANDIS AND OTHERS. 25 March, 1600, 3 p.m.

John Newlandis in Glenduffhill produced a precept from the King's chancery, directed to the bailie of the barony of Glasgow and his deputies, and also to William Mathie, junior in Sandihillis, as bailie in hac parte, in which precept it was narrated that the King, after the annexation of church lands within the kingdom to his crown, and after his lawful and perfect age, and general and last revocation (with advice of his counsellors, Sir Thomas Lyoune of Auldbar, knight, Mr. Robert Dowglas, provost of Lynclowden, collector general, and Sir John Cockburne of Ormestoun, knight, justice clerk), understanding that the lands and barony of Glasgow, which formerly belonged to the archbishopric of Glasgow as part of the temporality, patrimony, and property thereof, had fallen into his hands by virtue of the act of annexation to the crown of the temporality of all church lands within the kingdom; that the said lands and barony were by the King disposed and set in feu-farm to Walter, commendator of Blantyre, who was specially authorised and desired to set in feu-farm particular parts and portions of the lands of the barony in general charters, and that to the particular persons therein mentioned, each person for his respective part; by virtue of which infeftments of feu-farm the persons were bound not only for the full yearly duties, payable from the lands by old use and wont, but also certain annual augmentations for each particular part of the said lands, over and above the sum of £3722 10 s. money of this kingdom, payable by all the inhabitants of the said barony, for their grassums, entry and infeftments of the said lands set to them in feu-farm by the said Walter, although the said persons and each of them were of old native tenants, rentallers, and possessors of the said barony, the rentals of which barony were always of old, past the memory of man, esteemed and reputed as sufficient to the said rentallers as if the lands had been disposed and set in feu to the said persons; and that the King with consent foresaid, and for the great respect which he bore towards the poor tenants of the said barony, was unwilling to change or remove them from their farms and possessions, after the resignation of the lands particularly mentioned in their infeftments, made in his hands by Ludovic duke of Lennox, earl of Dernelie, lord of Torboltoun, Obenzie, and Methuen, etc., with advice and consent of Sir Alexander Steward of Garleis, knight, Mr. John Lindsay, rector of Menmure, Mr. James Elphinstoun, rector of Eglischeme, Mr. David Carnegie of Colluthie, James Weymes of Bogie, Sir William Stewart of Tracquhair, knight, by whom the duke was interdicted, and after resignation of the said lands and others after specified, likewise made by the said Walter, commendator of Blantyre, in the hands of the King ad perpetuam remanentiam for all right and title which he had or might in any way pretend thereto: Therefore, by the said precept from chancery, the King ratified and confirmed the infeftment of feu-farm and set therein contained, with the precept of sasine granted by Walter, commendator of Blantyre, to John Newlandis, eldest son of David Newlandis in Glenduffhill, and the instrument of sasine thereon, of the 33 s. 4 d. land, old extent, of Glenduffhill, with the pertinents, lying in the barony and regality of Glasgow and shire of Lanerk, with a proportional part of the mill of Clydismylne corresponding and of old falling to the said lands, for dry multure. Farther, the King of new granted the lands to John Newlands, and charged the bailie to give him sasine. Precept given under the great seal, at Edinburgh, on 2 January, 1595-6. Sasine given by William Mathie, junior in Sandiehillis, as bailie in hac parte. Thereafter, John Newlandis, for implement of a contract, gave sasine to John Cors in Carmyll of a 16 s. 8 d. land, being the half of the said lands, and a proportional part of the mill; and also gave sasine to Margaret Cors, his spouse, of the liferent of another 16 s. 8 d. land, being the other half of the lands, and a proportional part of the mill. Witnesses: John Bogle, junior in Carmyll, Charles Nemoock in Sandyhillis, Walter Corsbie, there, David Cors, junior in Clydismylne, and John Cousland in Glenduffhill.

¹ Several yards adjoining the new collegiate church, and apparently possessed by the prebendaries, were conveyed to the magistrates and council by Queen Mary's charter of 16 March, 1568-7. In 1568 and subsequent years most, if not all, of these yards were disposed of by the magistrates and council for payment of feu-duties or annualrents (see protocols, Nos. 1609, 1699, 1702, 1704, 1726, 1739, 1749, 1758, 1760-1. In No. 1760 the lands of Thomas Craig, presumably those mentioned in the text, are referred to as a boundary). When the site of the collegiate church was re-acquired, and the building fitted up as the Tron Church (see No. 1702), the price was partly paid out of the duties received for those yards (Glasg. Rec. i. pp. 161, 165).

In the city's accounts for the year 1607-8 the sum of £250 Scots was credited as "the hail annuells of the New Kirk," and the amount applied towards payment of a minister's stipend (Ib. p. 473). It is supposed that the "annuells" mentioned in the accounts would include the money received for the kirk yards, and also the other revenues of the New Kirk which, by act of parliament, 1594, c. 39, the magistrates and council were authorised to employ for "sustentatioun of the ministrie" (Glasg. Chart. ii. pp. 242-3). The yard mentioned in protocol No. 3322 pertained to the provostry, of which the abbot and convent of Kilwinning, and not the Glasgow town council, were patrons.

Sasine of the

¹ Eddlestone Manse, the property here referred to, was conveyed by the rector to Andrew Hay, his brother, as narrated in protocol No. 1477, and after various transmissions came into the possession of the incorporation of weavers. In 1792, when the weavers laid out their ground in building lots, the old edifice was removed, and part of the site was absorbed by Weaver Street. Robert Reid ("Senex"), in "Glasgow—Past and Present," vol. ii. p. 128, mentions that when he attended the Grammar School in 1782, "there stood upon the north side of the Rotten Row an old-fashioned house, two stories in height, about six houses distant from the High Street. Upon the front of this house," he continues, "there was cut upon the lintel-stone the following words—Domus Aedilium," from which circumstance it was conjectured that the place might possibly have been a dean of guild court house or a residence for the dean of guild. The true meaning of the inscription remained unsolved till recently, when Mr. T. W. Lugton, who has been investigating antiquarian relics in the locality, came upon what appears to be the identical stone which puzzled "Senex." It is now built into the backwall of the old Cross-Keys Inn, the property of the weavers' incorporation, situated at the north-west corner of Rottenrow and Weaver Street. "Domus Aedilium," however, was a misreading. The words, between which a scallop shell is carved, are

"DOMUS EDILSTON," thus identifying the lintel-stone as part of the old manse. Another stone in the same wall is inscribed with (1) the words "IVSTITIA - IVRA - FIDES"; (2) three escutcheons, being the arms of the Hay family; (3) "A. R.," being the initials of Andrew Hay; and (4) the date "ANNO 1573."

The Peeblesshire territory, from the church of which Rottenrow tenement derived its name, was one of the earliest possessions of the See of Glasgow. Originally called Penjacob, afterwards Gillmorestun, and, finally, Edulstun, its history can be traced from the beginning of the twelfth century. The church was confirmed to the bishops in 1170 and subsequent years, and was erected into a prebend of Glasgow cathedral before 1401 (Origines Parochiales, i. pp. 210-1). In the year 1447 a question arose between master John Methuen, canon of Glasgow, and Sir John Mousfauld, chaplain, regarding the ownership of "a tenement, lying in the burgh of Glasgu, in the Ratounraw, on the north side of the street, between the land of the subdean of Glasgow on the west, and the land in which Jonet of Gerland dwelt on the east." Arbiters decided that master John should have right to the property as "annexed and pertaining to the prebend of Edilston" (Reg. Episc. Glasg. No. 351); and it may therefore be assumed that it was the manse or its site which formed the subject of controversy.

property given by Robert Rowat, bailie, to Joanna Nicholl, who resigned the same in favour of herself and spouse; reserving the right of redemption by the heirs of John Nicol on payment of 360 merks. Thereafter, William Fergusson and spouse resigned the property in favour of William Fergusson, their son; but reserving their own liferent and right to the father, during his lifetime, to redeem the same on payment of a gold coin of the sun (aureum de sole). Witnesses: William Spreull, John Robertone, Peter Paterson, James Quhitlaw, citizens, John Nicol, Robert Herbertsone, notary, and Andrew Andersone, officer.

¹Alexander Rowat obtained the degree of master of arts at the university of Glasgow in 1587, and was appointed minister of Cambusnethan in 1588 (Scott's Fasti Ecclesiarum ii. p. 274). In or about 1591 he was translated to Dalziel (Ib. 282; protocol No. 3156), and in the following year he removed to Rutherglen (Fast. Eccl. ii. p. 78), where he remained till 1595, when he was admitted as one of the four ministers of Glasgow (Ib. p. 14; Wodrow's Collections (Maitland Club) II. pt. ii. p. 7). John Couper, the colleague of David Wemyss, who was the first minister subsequent to the Reformation, had come to Glasgow in 1588 (see protocol No. 3160). Notice of the desire to have a third minister appears in the session record in 1591, when "the session appoint some to meet together to fall upon a provision for Mr. John Bell, regent, to serve in the ministry," and in 1593 the proposal was renewed (Collections ut supra p. 6). On 7 February, 1593-4, it was reported that "Mr. John Bell hath obtained a gift from the town of the duties of the New Kirk" (Ib.), these being certain duties and annualrents payable to the collegiate church of St. Mary, which were thenceforth applied towards the support of the ministry (see protocol No. 3453). On 7 March, 1593-4 the kirk session appointed certain persons to arrange with the town council and presbytery "to have Mr. John Bell inaugurat one of the ministers of Glasgow"; and on 16 September following all three ministers are mentioned in the sederunt (Wodrow's Collections ut supra, p. 8). About that time (1592-4) the old collegiate church of St. Mary was fitted up and used as a presbyterian place of worship, since known as the Tron Church; and shortly thereafter a proposal was made for having the landward portion of Glasgow parish set apart as a distinct pastoral charge. It appears that at first the parishioners were not favourable to a change as, on 22 April, 1596, it was reported to the presbytery that "ane hard ansuer" had been received from them to a communication "craving that the said parochineris resort to ane kirk of thair awin, and that thai have ane pastour of thair awin" (Extracts from Presbytery Registers: Maitland Club Miscellany, vol. i. p. 70). Farther negotiations took place, and the presbytery minutes of 23 November, 1596, bear that "the parochineris of Glasgw" had been summoned to appear that day "to object (gif ony thing they had) aganis the lyfe, doctrine, and maneris of Mr. Alexander Rowat, appointit be the last synodall assemblee haldin at Lanerk, to be minister to the parochineris of Glasgw without burgh." Only one of the parishioners appeared, and he expressed himself satisfied, and "thairfor the said presbiterie puttis silence to the act of the said parochineris, and, according to the act of the said last synodall, admittis the said Mr. Alexander thair minister . . . And in respect that the speciallis of the said parochineris hes aggreit and condiscendit that the parochin of Glasgw be ane severall congregatioun of thair awin, thairfor the said presbiterie ordenis the parochineris of Glasgw to cum on the Sondaye, before nwne, to the Blakfreir kirk, quhill the hie kirk be repairit, and thair to heir the said Mr. Alexander teiche the word of God, according to the act of the said last synodall assemblee maid at Lanerk theranent, with certification to the said parochineris, that gif thay salbe fund disobedientis to this act and ordinance, that thay sall ressave na benefite of the kirk, quhillis ar the sacramentis of baptisme and the holy supper of the Lord Jesus, and the celebration of marriage, bot salbe simpliciter denudit of the samin" (Ib. pp. 84-5). On 1 February following protest was made in name of the presbytery and ministers of Glasgow "that the parochineris of Glasgw without the toune be ane particular and speciall congregatioun be thame selfis, separated and devydit fra the toune of Glasgw, according to the actis of the generall and synodall assemblies of the kirk maid thairanent; and that thay resort to heir Mr. Alexander Rowat, thair ordinar minister, preiche the word of God to thame, minister the sacramentis to thame, and celebrat mariage to thame, in the hie kirk of Glasgw, where with diligence ane pulpit salbe erected to the said Mr. Alexander, furmes set to the said parochineris, and the kirk fairsaid salbe maid windticht and waterticht quhair it misteris, sa sone as possibillie may be done" (Ib. p. 86). Such was the origin of the Barony parish, an ecclesiastical arrangement which has since subsisted without any more formal disjunction.

When Alexander Rowat was admitted a minister of the city in 1595 the town council agreed to allow him £20 yearly "to pay his hous maill" (Glasg. Rec. i. p. 169); but this allowance probably ceased when he got charge of the Barony parish. The tenement described in the text was formerly the manse of the rector of Moffat (see protocol No. 3551).

3516. LIDDALLIS. 5 January, 1598-9, 2 p.m.

Robert Rowat, bailie, gave to John Glen as heir of q. Patrick Glen, merchant, citizen, an acre of open land, with the pertinents, lying t.c., in the croft called Hartisfeld, near (prope) the croft of St. Roche,² between the

² Hartsfield and St. Rollox (the modern form of St. Roche) are names frequently conjoined in titles of properties situated on the west side of Castle Street, about the place where it crosses the Monkland Canal; and in this vicinity, though the precise spot may be difficult to identify, must have stood the chapel of St. Roche. In protocol No. 1836 an acre of land in the common muir is described as lying on the east side of the church of St. Roche, and as bounded on the west by the "loyne leading to the Bischoppis briggis." This "loyne," which probably divided the church and croft from the lands of Garngadhllil, was on the line of the present Castle Street. The approximate positions of Hartsfield and St. Rollox are shown on the map prefixed to part I. of Glasgow Charters.

St. Roche was a native of Montpellier, in France. It is said that in his lifetime (A.D. 1295-1327) he effected many miraculous cures on persons stricken by the plague, and popular belief in his power as an intercessor continued after his canonization (see Glasgow Charters, pt. I. p. xlviii.) An indication of awakened or revived regard for the saint in this country is afforded by an entry in the Lord High Treasurer's Accounts (ii. p. 346) bearing that on 30 October, 1502, there were given "to the Franch frere (friar) that brocht ane bane of Sanct Rowk to the King, be the Kingis command, xv Franch crownis; summa £10 10s." About four years after this relic was obtained there is notice of a movement in Glasgow for the foundation and endowment of a church dedicated to the saint. On 20 June, 1506, Sir Andrew Birrell, a chaplain, with consent of the archbishop and chapter, and of the provost and ballies of Glasgow, resigned a tenement and yard in Ratonraw in favour of "Sir Thomas Forbes, chaplain of the church of St. Roche, founded and about to be built in the territory of Glasgow" (protocol No. 181 in Diocesan Registers; see also No. 602). It is not said here by whom the church was founded, but an instrument, dated 10 October, 1508, shows that endowments for chaplainries were provided by Mr. Thomas Muirheid, rector of Stobo. Of one of these chaplainries the magistrates and community of Glasgow were constituted patrons, and certain property was transferred to them as such (Glasg. Chart., pt. ii. pp. 97-9; Glasg. Protocols, No. 1161). The magistrates and community were evidently interesting themselves lands of (blank) on the east, and of (blank) on west, and a loyne on the north. Thereafter, John Glen sold the land to John Liddell, citizen, and Katherine Flemyng, spouses, who resigned the same in favour of Quintin Liddell, their son, to remain with him till he should be paid 100 merks; but reserving the liferent of the father and mother. Witnesses: Alexander Bailze, John Dobby, John Porter, Thomas Snype, James Watterston, citizens, Robert Herbertsone, notary, Mathew Camron and Andrew Andersone, officers.

3517. ROWAT. 9 January, 1598-9, 10 a.m.

William Graye, notary and citizen, for himself, and Andrew Spang, procurator and in name of Sara Hegat, spouse of William Graye, and of Katherine Normont, mother of the said William, sold to Robert Rowat, bailie, a tenement of land, fore and back, with yard and pertinents, sometime belonging to William Sutherland, and then to William, Sara, and Katherine, lying t.c., on the east side of the street leading from the metropolitan church to the market cross, between the lands of Michael Litaljohne and of in the foundation; and the site of the church, its cemetery and croft, all of which appear to have been originally parts of the town's common lands, were probably gifted by them. On 11 June, 1511, the dean and chapter of Glasgow formally consented to the erection of the chaplainries founded by Thomas Muirheid who by that time was rector of Govan (protocol No. 532 in Diocesan Registers). He died shortly afterwards, and on 24 November, 1512, the two chaplains of the church (Mr. David Murhede and Sir Alexander Robertsons) were vested in the endowments, including the croft and lands adjoining the cemetery (Ib. Nos. 601-6). To Mr. David were assigned the east half of the croft lying on the north side of the church, the north half of lands lying on the south side of the church, and the half of lands adjacent to the cemetery; and to Sir Alexander the west half of the croft and the south half of the lands lying on the south side of the cemetery. Each portion was to be divided by the liners of the city, and part was to be used for manse of the chaplains.

As shown by the deed of erection of the collegiate church of St. Mary and St. Ann, the chaplainry of which the magistrates and community were patrons, was, with their consent and that of Nicholas Witherspowne, the chaplain, merged in the prebend of St. Roche in the collegiate church, though provision was made for continuance in the church of St. Roche of the religious observances prescribed by the founder (Liber Coll. Nostre Domine, pp. xviii. 32-3). The patronage of the other chaplainry in the church of St. Roche appears to have belonged to the dean and chapter of Glasgow cathedral (Ib. pp. 202-6). After the Reformation the magistrates and council collected the revenues of the former chaplainry. In 1573-4 these revenues amounted to £27 14 s., and at that time the money seems to have been paid over to Sir William Struthers, a reader in the high church (Glasg. Rec. i. pp. 447, 456; Glasgow Protocols, Nos. 1958, 2552). The revenues of the remaining chaplainry were transferred to the college by the charter of 1572-3 (Glasgow Charters, pt. ii. pp. 149-62).

On 7 December, 1566, the half of St. Roche's croft was feued, presumably by the magistrates and council, to William Spang and spouse (protocol, No. 902; transmitted by Nos. 1742 and 2947). In 1569 the magistrates and council feued the chapel and cemetery to Adam Wallis and spouse under reservation of a right to bury the dead in the cemetery, a privilege which was exercised during a visitation of the plague in 1645-6 (Ib. No. 1674). Two acres of the croft of St. Roche came into the possession of William Fleming and spouse in 1582 (Ib. No. 2462). Fleming seems also to have acquired the cemetery as, on 15 May, 1593, he appeared before the presbytery of Glasgow and was asked "gif it be of treuthe that he intendis to tell the kirkyardes of Sanct Roche and Sanct Tenes, or to convert the said kirkyardes in buyldit housis and landis, the said Williame ansuerit that he nathir intendit nathir yit myndit to tell the said kirkyardes or to convert the same in buyldit housis and landis"; and he assured the presbytery "that he suld use the said kirkyardes to na wther was nor the saming is usit presentlie" without first obtaining their consent (Presbytery Rec. in Maitland Club Miscellany i. p. 61).

Mr. John Hall on the east, and the lands of q. Archibald Gray on the west. Reserving the liferent of Marion Campbell, mother of David Andersone. Sasine given by Thomas Mure, bailie. Witnesses: Mr. David Scharp, Adam Flemyng, surgeon (chirurgo), Archibald Herbertsone, William Fergusson, Patrick Ury, Patrick Maxuell, John Gardiner, citizens, Robert Herbertsone, notary, and Mathew Camrone, officer.

3531. RANKENE—KNOX. 17 February, 1598-9, 2 p.m.

John Rankene, mason, citizen, and Elizabeth Knox, spouses, produced a precept from chancery whereby King James VI. confirmed a charter of feu-farm, granted by Mr. John Haye, rector of Renfrew, with consent of Andrew Haye, last rector and life titular of the said rectory, and also with consent of the dean and chapter of the metropolitan church of Glasgow, to the said John Rankene and spouse, and l.l., of a waste and ruinous tenement of land, called the manse of Renfrew, with a yard, close, and pertinents, occupied by the said spouses, and formerly set to them, lying t.c., near (prope) the castle, between the land and manor belonging to the Duke of Lennox, called the Stabilgrene, on the west and north, the manse belonging to the prebendaries of Govane on the south, and the public street on the east. The manse had fallen to the crown by virtue of the act of annexation of church benefices, and the King, with advice of the commissioners of exchequer, of new granted the property to John Rankene and spouse.¹ Precept given under the great seal, at Halirudhous, on 4

HENRY GIBSON.
Fol. 32.

¹ Renfrew manse was acquired and united to the prebend in the year 1507, as narrated in a series of four protocols (Nos. 235-8) printed in the Diocesan Registers, published by the Grampian Club. The property belonged to St. Nicholas Hospital, and was granted by Sir William Silver, sub-chanter and master of the hospital, with the approval of the archbishop and magistrates of Glasgow, in favour of Mr. John Gibson, prebendary of Renfrew, and his successors. It was described as "a tenement belonging to the said hospital, lying in the city of Glasgow, near the palace of the archbishop, on the west side thereof, between the manse of the prebendary of Govan on the south, and the lands of Patrick Colquhoun of Glen on the west and north" (see Sir William Fraser's "Chiefs of Colquhoun," ii. p. 260, as to Stablegreen property owned by the Colquhouns of Glen). On 17 June of the following year Gibson complained against Mr. Adam Colquhoun, then prebendary of Govan, for having appropriated part of the manse, and in presence of the dean and chapter he protested against the encroachment (protocol No. 323 in Diocesan Registers). Govan manse and the building now numbered 3-7 Castle Street, reputed to be the oldest dwellinghouse now existing in Glasgow, were situated between Renfrew manse and St. Nicholas Hospital, and there is reason to believe that when, in the fifteenth century, Bishop Muirhead founded the hospital, he endowed it with the whole area, embracing these properties. Each of the two manses is liable to the hospital in payment of a feuduty or ground rent, and the preceptors of the hospital have, in the capacity of superiors, granted charters to the proprietors of the old building (see article in Regality Club, i. pp. 45-53). Since that article was written, farther inspection has led to the belief that some parts of the building were erected in pre-Reformation times, while a stone built into a gable of later construction bears the date 1570). Under the description above quoted Renfrew manse was bounded on the north and west by the lands of Patrick Colquhoun of Glen. Two years afterwards, parts of these lands seem to have been at the disposal of Mr. Adam Colquhoun, "canon and prebendary," as he then sold to Mathew earl of Lennox a "tenement, lying in the city of Glasgow, in the Stablegreen, between the lands of George Colquhoun on the north, and the manses of the archdeacon of Teviotdale and the prebendary of Renfrew on the south." In this place the earls of Lennox had for many years their town residence, but the grounds were eventually broken up and disposed of in building lots (see Glasgow Protocols, Nos. 55, 290, 2456, 2606-7, 2673-4). The hospital buildings fell into disuse more than a hundred years ago. On 10 December, 1778, the preceptor represented to the town council that "all the old houses which originally belonged to the said hospital (except the chapel) have for many years past been totally ruinous and uninhabitable" (MS. Council Rec. xxxiii. p. 376), and the site, containing 1380 square yards, was acquired by the magistrates and council in anticipation of its being used for the formation of part of a new street from Ramshorn and Meadowflat feuing lands to Townhead. (Contract of sale and ground annual, 20 August, n.e.s. 3 Sept., 1780). The chapel connected with and situated to the north of the hospital, was not disposed of till the year 1807, when a purchaser acquired, for building purposes, the whole area which had been occupied by hospital, chapel, and grounds, extending to 1510 square yards, or nearly the third part of an acre (City Chartulary, xxii. p. 374). The Barony church and adjoining buildings now occupy part of the area, and part is included in M'Leod Street. After the hospital ceased to be occupied the revenues have been distributed in pensions to aged people. (See farther as to hospital in Sir Michael Connal's "Memorial," printed for private circulation in 1862).

Andrew Hay was rector of Renfrew previous to the Reformation, but having embraced the new doctrines, he became a prominent presbyterian, and was for many years rector of Glasgow University and an influential citizen. It is probable that the rector did not long occupy his own manse, as in the year 1563 he acquired from his brother, George Hay, rector of Eddlestone, the manse of that prebend situated in Rottenrow (see Nos. 1477, 1526, and 3485). John Hay, who succeeded his father as minister of Renfrew, in 1593, seems to have acquired right to the parsonage during his father's life.

3532. MACKELLARE—MILLARE. 24 February, 1598-9, 9 a.m.

Archibald Maxuell, citizen, and Isabella Rowand, spouses, sold to Donald M'Keller, citizen, and Marion Miller, spouses, two roods of waste land, lying t.c., on the west side of Greenhead (latere capitis de Greynheid), between the lands of John Mwdy on the north, and of John Glen on the south, the Green on the west, and the street on the [east?]. Sasine given by James Temple, bailie. Witnesses: George Robesoun, baker, Robert Herbertsone, notary, William Sutherland, Andrew Andersone and Mathew Camrone, officers.

3533. HEGATE. 2 March, 1598-9, 2 p.m.

John Andersone, sailor, procurator and in name of Stephen Glasgw, resigned in favour of Archibald Hegate, notary and citizen, a great tenement, fore and back, under and above, with close, yard, and pertinents, lying t.c., on the west side of the street leading from the metropolitan church to the market cross, between the lands of William Porterfeld of that ilk on the time, as the charter, confirmed by King James, and narrated in the text, was dated 20 May, 1590. This is ascertained from Registrum Magni Sigilli (vi. No. 795), where it is likewise stated that the annual rent payable by the rector to the poor of St. Nicholas Hospital was 7 merks yearly, and the feuar was bound, for relief of the rector, to pay the 7 merks, with 12 d. of augmentation. In consequence of this stipulation, the ground rent of Renfrew manse has always been collected from the owner of the property. In the case of Govan manse a different course has been followed, as the ground rent (£7 Scots yearly) has been charged to Glasgow College as owner of the parsonage (Munimenta Alme Universitatis, iii. p. 557; MS. Cash Books of St. Nicholas Hospital). This was apparently in consequence of the college feuing the manse site for payment of sub-feuduties, and remaining liable for the over-rents due to the hospital. The date of the sub-feu has not been ascertained, but it must have been previous to 1668, as on 26 August of that year the principal and professors granted a precept of clare constat to William Neilson, as heir of his father, Walter Neilson, a bailie of the city, in five yards or gardens, at the "Vicar Alleys," and one yard at Stable-green. The latter seems to embrace the site of Govan manse, and is described as a "yard lying in Stable-green, at (prope) the manse of the parson of Govan, betwixt the lands of q. Quintein Rankein on the north, the lands of John Brysoun and the hospital of St. Nicolas on the south, the lands of q. William Steward on west, and the street on the east." The feu-duty for all the lands contained in the precept was £46 Scots yearly (MS. Charters and Precepts granted by the Universitie, 1668-90, p. 1.) William Brysoun was the proprietor of the old house in 1612, and John Brysoun was the name of his successor. Quinten Rankine, a successor of John Rankene named in the text, is entered in an old rental of St. Nicholas Hospital as owner of Renfrew manse. The old manse building had probably disappeared about 1668, thus accounting for the site being described as a yard. Demolition was proceeding in 1608, as appears from an entry in the college accounts on 1 November of that year, when a payment was made "for leidung ten dracht of wall stones out of the mans of Govane to the college" (Munimenta iii. p. 558).

The fronts of Govan and Renfrew manses, taken together, are now occupied by the properties numbered 9-29 Castle Street. Mason Street seems to have been formed through the site of the Lennox mansion.

3550. NICHOLL—NEILSONE—NEILL. 23 May, 1599, 10 a.m.

Thomas Mure, bailie, gave sasine to William Nichol (1) as heir of q. Mathew Nicholl, his brother-german, of two acres of land, with the pertinents, lying t.c., on the north side of Garngadhill, between the lands of Mr. John Wilsoun on the east and of q. James Gilhagy on the west; and (2) as heir of q. John Nicoll, his father, of an acre of land, with the pertinents, lying in Allirbog, between Garngadhill on the south, the lands of William Wattirston on the east, of William Fleming on the north, and of Convall Strutheris on the west. Thereafter William Nicholl sold the lands to William Neilson, maltman, citizen, and Sara Nele, spouses. Witnesses: John Neilson, brother of William, William Neilson, his son, Mathew Camrone and William Sutherland, officers. Lands to be redeemable for 400 merks.

3551. ROWAT—MURE. 23 May, 1599, 11 a.m.

Mr. Alexander Rowat, one of the ministers of Glasgow, and Joanna Mure, spouses, produced a precept from chancery, whereby King James, on a recital of the act annexing the temporalities of church benefices to the crown, and acting with consent of Mr. John Prestone of Fentonebornis, treasurer of new augmentations, granted to them, and l.l., in feu-farm, the tenement of land, fore and back, under and above, with close, yard, and pertinents, called the manse of the rector of Moffat, lying t.c., in the street called the Ratonraw, on the north side thereof, between the lands, tenement, and yard sometime of Mr. David Rollok, thereafter of John Schaw of Grenok, and then belonging to William Craufurd of Knychtiswood on the east, the tenement and lands belonging to James Wilsone, mason (fabro murario), on the west, the street on the south, and the yard of the archdeacon of Tevidaill on the north; which tenement, with close, yard, and pertinents formerly belonged to the rectory of Moffat, the rector being one of the chapter of the metropolitan church of Glasgow, as part of the patrimony and temporal lands thereof, and was then at the King's disposal by virtue of the act of annexation.¹ Precept given under the great seal at Hellirudhous, 17 March, 1598-9. Sasine given by Thomas Mure, bailie. Witnesses: Mr. John Bell, one of the ministers of Glasgow, John Neilsone, William Nicoll, citizens, Mr. David Gibsone, and Mathew Calmerone, officer.

3552. NICHOLL. 26 May, 1599, 1 p.m.

William Fergusson, maltman, citizen, with consent of Joanna Nicol, his spouse, gave sasine, by his own hands, to William Nicholl of a kiln, with yard adjacent and pertinents, lying in the lands of Wester Craiggis, between the lands of Craiggis on the east, a ditch (fossam) on the south, the lands of Robert Speir on the north, and of William Broun on the west; and that in special clause of warrandice and relief of the said William Nicol concerning the right which William Fergusson, junior, son of William Ferguson and spouse, had or could pretend to have in a waste tenement with yard in the Rattounraw called Bavasty, redeemed by the said William Nicol from the said spouses, by payment of 400 merks; so that in case it should happen that William Nicoll should be dispossessed of the Rattounraw property, he should be entitled to enter upon and possess the kiln and yard. Witnesses: William Neilsone, father and son, Robert Gillespy and Walter and Edward Gillespy, his sons, and Robert Herbertsone, notary.

3553. FERGUSSONE. 26 May, 1599, 1 p.m.

William Fergusson, son of William Fergusson, maltman, citizen, produced a feu-charter, whereby Sir Mathew Steward of Mynto, knight, granted to him in feu-farm the kiln and yard mentioned in No. 3552, here described as a kiln, yard, and pertinents, lying in the lands of Westir Craiggis, between other parts of these lands on the east, the lands of Robert Speir on the north, a sold it to the minister of the Barony parish, as mentioned in protocol No. 3502, and the King's charter narrated in the text confirmed his title. In a disposition granted in 1752 by the three daughters of "Mr. George Craufurd, historiographer in Glasgow" (to whom the property belonged when M'Ure published his history in 1736), Moffat manse is described as "lately possessed by Mr. Laurence Hill, minister of the barony parish of Glasgow." Laurence Hill was translated to the barony parish in 1750, and it thus appears that for a short period he occupied the manse which his predecessor had purchased in 1598 (Improvement Trust title deeds; purchase No. 1106).

ditch or the lands of John Coningham and Sibill Liddell on the south, and the lands of William Broun on the west; but reserving the liferent of William Fergusone and Joanna Nicol, spouses. Charter subscribed and sealed at Glasgow on 26 May, 1599, in presence of Mr. James Corbet, John Nicoll, James Auld, and John Bogle. Sasine given by William Neilsone, citizen, as bailie in hac parte named in the charter. Same witnesses as in No. 3552.

HENRY GIMMORN.

3554. NICHOLL. 26 May, 1599, 2 p.m.

William Fergusone, maltman, citizen, and Joanna Nichol, spouses, acknowledged that they had received from William Nicholl, son of q. John Nicholl, citizen, 400 merks for redemption of a waste tenement, with yard adjacent, called Bawastie, lying t.c., on the north side of the street called Rattonraw, between the lands of John Robertone on the east, the manse of Edilstoun on the west, and the yard of John Robertone on the north. Sasine of the property given to William Nicholl by Robert Rowat, bailie. Witnesses: William Neilsone, Thomas Petigrew, John Mure, citizens, Robert Herbertsone, notary, Mathew Camrone and Andrew Andersone, officers.

3555. WALLACE—HALL. 26 May, 1599, 3 p.m.

Alexander Park of Balgraye, heir of q. Alexander Park of Balgraye, his great grandfather (proavi), and also of q. John Park of Balgraye, his father, acknowledged that he had received from William Wallace (son of q. Mr. Adam Walles, citizen), and Agnes Hall, spouses, 400 merks, for redemption of a tenement, fore and back, with yards and pertinents, lying t.c., on the east side of the street leading from the market cross to [the metropolitan church¹] between the lands of the college of Glasgow on the north and east, the cemetery of the Friars' Preachers on the south, and the street on the west. Sasine of the property given to William Walles and spouse by Robert Rowat, bailie. Witnesses: John Quhitfurde of that ilk, Robert Ros of Thornton, John Maxuell, younger of Newlandis, Colin Campbell, William Adam, James Craufurd, citizens, Robert Herbertsone, notary, Andrew Andersone and John Wilsone, officers.

3558. SPANG. 26 May, 1599, 7 p.m.

f. 41.

Archibald Flemyng, merchant, citizen, and Isabella Lyndsay, spouses, acknowledged that they had received from Andrew Spang, merchant, citizen, as assignee of Robert Maxwell and Marion Layng, spouses, the sum of 800 merks Scots for redemption of a great tenement, fore and back, with yard and pertinents, lying t.c., discontinuous, on the west side of the public street leading from the metropolitan church to the market cross, viz., the fore tenement lying between the lands of John Angus on the west and the common street on the east; and the back tenement and yards lying between the lands of the said q. John Angus on the east and the Long Croft on the west; and the whole tenement lay between the lands of q. John Flemyng on the north, the lands of John Scot on the south, and the public street on the east. Sasine given to Andrew Spang by James Tempill, bailie. Witnesses: Mathew Flemyng, Arthur Allane, James Flemyng, Symon Masoun, John Hall, Archibald Wilsoun, citizens, Mr. David Gibsoun, and Robert Stewart, officer.

3559. GRAYE—BRAIDUOD. 2 June, 1599, 3 p.m.

Adam Graye, citizen, and Barbara Nesbit, spouses, sold to Gilbert Graye and Agnes Braiduod, spouses, three half acres of land, with the pertinents, lying t.c., in the common muir of New Gallomure, discontinuous, one of which half acres lay in Glenis Croft, between the lands of Robert Brwme on the east and of Robert Young on the west; and the other two lay in Bellis Croft, discontinuous, one of which lay between the lands of John Cochrane on the east and of Stephen Hill on the west, and the other lay between the lands of William Graye on the east and of q. Robert Forthik on the west. Sasine given by Thomas Mure, bailie. Witnesses: Andrew Galloway, John Broune,

(pp. 16-18), the precise date of erection of the latter hospital is uncertain, but the dubiety seems to have arisen from misreading the inscription on the steeple which still stands in Guildry Court. That inscription bears that the hospital was founded in 1601 and rebuilt in 1650. As shown in protocol No. 3557, the building of the hospital was either in progress or about to be commenced in the middle of the year 1599.

tenement and yard thereof, lying t.c., in the common street leading from the market cross to the South Port thereof, on the west side of the said street, between the lands or tenements of Archibald Watsoun on the north and the lands of Thomas Law, then deceased, on the south. Thereafter Jonet Arthurelie resigned the property in favour of John Masoune, citizen, and the bailie gave him sasine. The instrument is under the hand of Mr. David Gibeoune, notary, who was at one time rector of Ayr. [David Gibson was the father of Henry Gibson, notary, and it is interesting to note from the instrument of 1541 that the peculiar form of the letter G in Henry Gibson's notarial sign (see vol. v., p. x.) was imitated from that of his father]. to William Hall, merchant and burgess of Glasgow, and Katherine Smytht, spouses, as shown by an instrument of sasine dated 23 August, 1541, in which it is described as a waste tenement with yard and pertinents. By a writing appended to this instrument, and dated 25 February, 1541-2, John Masoun acknowledged that he had received from William Hall £38 18s. of money "and fyve ellis of Franche cullour de reys claith . . . for the waist place with the yarde and pertinence abone wryttin."

In 1677 the buildings then on the site were destroyed by fire. A few years afterwards Archibald Robertson of Bedlay and others seem to have been in possession of the site in security of lent money, and the magistrates and council acquired it for the purpose already mentioned. In the disposition (dated 8 January, 1686) it is narrated that the town had bought the property in order that it "(being for the present all ruinous and burnt by the lait accidentall fyre in anno 1677 yeares) may be altogether demolished, taken doune and red, and ane hie streit or leane made therof for frie passage from the Saltmercat to the Trongait, tending to the benefeit of the rest of the housis thereabouts for moir easie and quick service in calce of any suddan or accidentall fyre heirafter (as God avert)."

3728. ABSTRACT OF CHARTER BY SIR CHRISTOPHER KNOX, CHAPLAIN, AND OTHERS, TO GEORGE HERBERTSON AND MARGARET MUIR, SPOUSES, OF A RUINOUS CHAPEL IN TRONGATE.¹ GLASGOW, 10 FEBRUARY, 1555-6.

Sir Christopher Knox, chaplain and prebendary of the prebend and chaplainry of the blessed Virgin Mary, situated within the new collegiate church of the city of Glasgow, founded by the late Mr. James Houstoun, subdean of the metropolitan church of Glasgow, with consent and assent of Mr. Archibald Craufurd, canon of the metropolitan church of Glasgow and provost of the said collegiate church, and also of the prebendaries of the said collegiate church, chapterly assembled in the chapter house thereof; and also with the express consent and assent of David Lyoun and Michael Lyndsaye, bailies, and of the councillors of the said city, patrons of the said collegiate church; and likewise with the express consent, assent, licence, and approval of James archbishop of Glasgow, granted and set in feu-farm to George Herbertsoun and Margaret Mwir, spouses, and l.l., a tenement lying on the north side of the street of St. Tenew, between the tolbooth on the east, the tenement sometime of David Pollok and then of David Lyndsay on the west, the tenement of James Inschaw and John Drippis on the north, and the public street on the south; which tenement, otherwise called the chapell, was then ruinous and would come to complete ruin unless immediate provision should be made for repair thereof. George Herbertson and spouse were to pay to Sir Christopher, chaplain foresaid, and his successors, prebendaries and chaplains of the said chaplainry and prebend of St. Mary, the sum of 11 merks Scots yearly, in name of annualrent. The common seal of the collegiate church, the common seal of the city of Glasgow, and the seal of the archbishop, with the subscriptions manual of Sir Christopher and of the provost and other prebendaries of the collegiate church, were appended, in presence of John Sellar, Archibald Herbertsoun, and Sir David McKeuin. All the seals are now missing. The charter is subscribed by Archibald Craufurd, provost of the collegiate church, Sir Christopher Knox, prebendary, Sir John Hammiltoun, archpriest, Sir William Herbertsoun, prebendary, Sir George Maxuall, Sir Robert Watsoun, Sir Patrick Salmond, prebendary, Mr. William Wyzet, prebendary, and Sir David M'Keune, notary public and clerk of the chapter. The bailies, councillors, and deacons have also subscribed.

3729. ROBERT POLLOK AND JAMES TAILZOUR. 28 August, 1592,¹ 8 a.m.

Robert Pollok, cooper, citizen, and James Bell, attorney and in name of James Tailzour, merchant, citizen, produced a charter whereby Sir Matthew Steward of Mynto, knight, provost, William Conyngham, Hector Steward, and Robert Rowat, bailies, and the councillors of the burgh and city, granted, in feu-farm, to the said Robert Pollok and James Tailzour, equally, pro indiviso, a fore house or tenement, with piece of waste land at the back thereof, and also a yard contiguous to the said waste, with the pertinents, lying in the said city, on the south side of the street called Troynegaile, between the lands of William Allassoune on the west, the yard occupied by James Montgomerie on the south, the cemetery, sometime of the new church (nove olim ecclesie) of Glasgow, with the west gable thereof, and the alley (deambulatorium lie aylay) on the east, and the street on the north; which fore house contained in length 30 feet of land, as the stobs were fixed; but reserving a passage 5 feet in breadth, for going from the fore house, on the east side thereof, to the common gate or close (portam seu clausuram), and ingress and egress to the said alley, and to all yards on the south side of the said church. The said Robert and James were to build and maintain a stone wall on the west side of the church and passage as far as the west gable of the church, so that the cemetery might be for ever closed and preserved (clausum et saluum) from the said passage. Charter subscribed and sealed, in the tolbooth, on 20 August, 1592, in presence of James Anderson, Stephen Sellar, Andrew Anderson, Andrew Fary, William Sutherland, and John Pawtone, officers, and Mr. Henry Gibsoun, notary, and Robert Herbertsoun, his servitor. Sasine given by William Conynghame, bailie, to Robert Pollok, personally present, and to James Bell, as attorney and in name of James Tailzour. Witnesses: Robert Rowatt, bailie, Archibald Faulis, David Donald, David Adame, James Montgomery, David Scherar, Michael Dalgleis, citizens, Robert Herbertsoun, writer, James Andersoun and William Sutherland, officers. Henry Gibsone, notary.

3730. JAMES TAILZOUR AND SPOUSE. 10 November, 1593, 3 p.m.

James Tailzoure, merchant and citizen, and Marion Bell, spouses, produced a charter whereby Matthew Stewarde of Mynto, knight, provost, William Conynghame, Robert Chernside, James Stewarde, Robert Rowat, bailies, and the councillors or senators of the city granted to them, in feu-farm, a piece of land on the fore front or north side of the cemetery of the new church of Glasgow, situated in the street called Troyngate, extending in length from the west gable of the steeple or bellhouse (piramidis seu campanilis)¹ of the said church to the lands of the said James Tailzour, and in breadth as far as the breadth of the said bellhouse extends itself, as the stobs were fixed; lying between the said bellhouse on the east, the lands of the said James on the west, the cemetery of the said church on the south, and the public street on the north; and that only for building houses lie tofullis thereupon, the height of the fore north wall of which extending to 9 feet, and the height of the back south wall, without any doors or windows, and sufficiently built at the top (in capite), extending to 18 feet. Reserving, nevertheless, on the west side of the said piece of ground a passage 6 feet in breadth, to be sufficiently constructed (sufficenter edificandum) by the said spouses, for ingress and egress to the said church, in all time coming. Charter subscribed and sealed in the tolbooth, on 3 November, 1593, in presence of Stephen Sellar, Andrew Andersone, William Stobo, William Sutherland, John Pawtone and John Wilsoune, officers, Robert Herbertsone, notary, and Mr. Henry Gibson, common clerk. Sasine given by Robert Rowat, bailie. Witnesses: William Conynghame, bailie, Arthur Allane, Walter Bowe, William Allasoun, citizens, Robert Herbertsone, notary, Stephen Sellare and John Wilsoune, officers. Henry Gibsoun, notary.

3731. ARCHIBALD EGLINTOUN. 13 November, 1593, 1 p.m.

Helen Wilsoune, daughter of q. David Wilsoune, merchant, citizen, with consent of John Young and Thomas Glen, merchants, her curators, for the sum of 100 merks, resigned in favour of Archibald Eglintoune, notary, a fore tenement, under and above, with the pertinents, lying t.c., on the south side of Troyngate, between the lands then of John Ros on the east, the cemetery of the new church on the west, and the street on the north. Sasine given by William Conynghame, bailie. Witnesses: Thomas Broune, David Glen, John Temple, Charles Pollok, merchants, citizens, Robert Herbertsoune, notary, Stephen Sellar and William Stobo, officers. Henry Gibsone, notary.¹

3732. ANDREW KILPATRIK. 3 June, 1595, 3 p.m.

Andrew Kilpatrick, weaver, citizen, produced a charter whereby the provost, bailies, and councillors of the city of Glasgow granted to him, in feu-farm, a yard, with the pertinents, lying in the said city between the remaining yards formerly of the prebendaries of the new church of Glasgow, on the west side of the Alley, between the yard occupied by James Montgomery on the north, the yard of James Lyone on the south, the lands of James Rowand on the west, and the common street of the Alley (communem viam deambulatorij) on the east; with free passage, ingress and egress thereby. Charter subscribed and sealed 15 May, 1595, in presence of James Andersoune, William Stobo, Stephen Sellar, William Sutherland, Andrew Andersone, and John Patoune, officers, and Robert Herbertsone, notary. Sasine given by Robert Rowatt, bailie. Witnesses: William Spang, Thomas Neisbite, John Jamesone, Robert Stewarde, George Mauldsone, citizens, Robert Herbertsone, notary, and John Pawtone officer. Henry Gibsone, notary.

² By act of privy council dated 15 February, 1561, it was ordained that the third part of all benefices should be collected and applied "for the commone weill of the realme and sustentatioun of the precheouris and readaris," the remaining two-thirds being retained by the "auld possessouris" during their respective lifetimes.

(Privy Council Reg. i., p. 202). On 5 June, 1568, King James VI. granted to the magistrates and council of Glasgow the thirds of benefices within the city to be applied for support of their minister, any surplus being "imployit to the sustentatioun of the reidaris, puris, and utheris gud usis" (Glasg. Charters ii. pp. 137-40). From the city's accounts for the year 1573-4 it appears that the thirds of Sir Robert Watsone's chaplainries were paid over to the university (Glasg. Rec. i. p. 452).

¹ This rental has not been preserved. The original endowments of the chaplainries are specified in Liber Coll. Nostre Domine (Maitland Club), pp. xix., xx., 35-45. The "communes" consisted of the revenues of two acres of land in Myhill, and sundry tenements within the burgh, which were set apart as a common fund for the general behoof of the prebendaries (Ib. p. xxi.)
