

PREFACE TO FIRST EDITION.

AFTER prolonged deliberation, it is satisfactory to be able to place a short summary of the Records of the Incorporation of Bonnetmakers and Dyers of Glasgow in the hands of the members.

We are chiefly indebted to a past Deacon for the pecuniary aid afforded for this purpose ; and I have to express my personal thanks to Mr. RENWICK, Depute Town-Clerk, for his collation of the Charters ; to my predecessor in office for a portion of the " Historical Memoranda " supplied ; and to the Committee who were associated with me, for their contribution to the success of our joint labours.

The volume is an unpretentious thin octavo, and looks as if it had necessitated little care, research, or labour ; but when it is considered that the work included the deciphering of several volumes of not too legible MSS., and the selection of only such portions of them as either tended to illustrate the progress of the burgh, the usages of the trade, or the precautions which safeguarded the exclusive privileges of the members, it will be seen that both leisure and special qualifications were required for the successful accomplishment of the task. The members will also notice, that a large amount of special information has been crowded into the limited space at our disposal.

It would have been much easier to have published a more enlarged epitome of our Records, as that could have been accomplished with less skilled assistance, and without any nice regard for selection. As it is, we lay the result before the members, in the hope that it will meet with their approval, and prove useful for the welfare and good government of the Craft in time to come.

PREFACE TO SECOND EDITION.

OWING to increased entry-money a Second Edition has been rendered necessary. The history of the Incorporation has been brought down to date, and the book is now issued for the use of the members.

R. MURRAY DUNLOP, Clerk.

GLASGOW, 1st July, 1896.

PREFACE TO THIRD EDITION.

THE Incorporation, at its Quarterly Meeting in March, 1903, in view of the gratifying increase in the membership, together with certain necessary alterations to its Bye-Laws and Regulations, as also a further increase in the rate of entry-money with a consequent increase in its capital funds, resolved that a new Edition of the History of the Incorporation be prepared, to which there would be added a complete list of the members with their addresses.

The work has now been completed, and the volume is issued to the Craftsmen in the earnest hope that it will be found useful and instructive.

R. MURRAY DUNLOP, Clerk.

GLASGOW, 31st August, 1905.

OWING to the present issue of the History being exhausted, the Third Edition has been reprinted, with a few alterations, bringing the information with reference to the Incorporation down to date in the Books now issued.

THE SEAL ON TAG

Is the common Seal of the Burgh, and is described in Macgeorge's "Armorial Insignia," pp. 101 et seq., as consisting of the mitred head of St. Kentigern, the bell, the salmon with the ring in its mouth, and the bird perched on what appears to be a branch, but there is some difficulty in affirming whether the branch is a flower, or fruit such as the hazelnut or acorn, the impression being considerably effaced.

CHARTER A.D. 1760.*

At Glasgow, the 29th day of September, one thousand seven hundred and sixty years,—The said day the Magistrates and Town Council of Glasgow assembled in council having considered a Petition presented to the Council the 25th day of January, one thousand seven hundred and sixty years, by Alexander Ralph, then Deacon of the Bonnetmakers and Dyers in Glasgow, for himself and in name of, and having commission from the Bonnetmakers and Dyers of Glasgow with the Extract of the Act of the Trades' House therein-mentioned, in which Petition the said Alexander Ralph sets forth that he, the petitioner, had lately represented to the Trades' House of Glasgow great alterations and abuses which of new had crept into this city and liberties thereof, in the colouring, dyeing, and dressing of yarn, cloths, and others, by false dyes which had a visible tending to destroy the value and credite of several kinds of coloured goods both at domestic and foreign markets; and that there was reason to expect these malpractices would not be remedied until the Bonnetmakers and Dyers were constituted a legal corporation by the Magistrates and Council, with the powers, rights, and liberties, which were subjected to the consideration of the Trades' House. That the Trades' House having read, heard, and considered the said representation and petition, they were unanimously of opinion that it would greatly contribute to the value and credit of the manufactures of this city and trade thereof, that all woollen and linen yarns, cloth, and others dyed in this city and liberties thereof, were dyed of good and sufficient colours, and that this could not effectually be obtained, unless the Bonnetmakers and Dyers were erected and constituted a legal society and corporation, with the powers, rights, and liberties mentioned in the representation and petition given into the House. And the Trades' House also declared it was their earnest desire and wish that the Honourable Magistrates and Town Council would condescend and be pleased to grant, in favours of the said Bonnetmakers and Dyers, a Charter or Seall of Cause, erecting and constituting them a legal society and corporation, in the terms mentioned In an Act of the Trades' House, dated the nineteenth day of September, one thousand seven hundred and fiftie-nine years, or in such terms as should be most agreeable; and the Trades' House authorised and empowered the Bonnetmakers and Dyers, or the Petitioner in their name, to petition and apply to the Magistrates and Council to the effect before and after mentioned, as an Extract of the foresaid Act of the said Trades' House therewith produced did testify and craving the Council would be pleased to consider the premises with the foresaid Act of the Trades' House, and to condescend and be pleased to grant, in favours of the Bonnetmakers and Dyers in Glasgow, a Charter or Seall of Cause erecting and constituting them a legal Society and Corporation, with the powers, rights, and liberties narrated in the said Act, or in such terms as the Council should think fitt, together with the report by the Magistrates, Dean of Guild, Deacon-Convener, and annuall Committee to whom the consideration of the said petition was then remitted by the Council. And whereas in the application by the Bonnetmakers and Dyers to the Trades' House, narrated in said Act, they mention that several years ago that the Trades' House were pleased to authorise the Bonnetmakers to assume such Dyers as should think fitt to enter with them in and to the rights and privileges of the Incorporation of Bonnetmakers. But then the Dyers had been considered in no other light than Bonnetmakers, and as such had no power to make inquiry into, animadvert, and discourage the malpractices in the colouring, dyeing, and dressing of yarns, cloths, and others complained of. And as the Council are of opinion that the detecting and punishing of such as commit abuses in colouring, dyeing, and dressing of yarns, cloths, and others, and using false dyes therein, will be of benefit to the publick and an advantage to the manufacturers ; and the Councill being willing to support the whole ancient rights and privileges granted by them and their predecessors to the Incorporation of Bonnetmakers of this Burgh, in their full extent, and to gratify the desires and wishes of the Trades' House, in allowing the Dyers to be conjoined with, and enjoy the rights and privileges of the Incorporation of Bonnetmakers in Glasgow, and the said Incorporation of Dyers and Bonnetmakers conjoined to have right to inquire into, animadvert and discourage the aforesaid malpractices in colouring, dyeing, and dressing of yearns, cloths, and others, so far as is consistent with the public laws of the kingdom, and the good and well of this Burgh, have therefore ratified, approved, and confirmed, the whole rights, privileges and immunities granted by them the saids Magistrates and Councill, and their predecessors in office, to the Incorporation of Bonnetmakers in Glasgow, in their full extent, and to have full force in time coming ; and further, ratify, approve, and confirm the liberty granted by the Trades' House to the said Incorporation of Bonnetmakers, to assume all such Dyers as should think fitt to enter with them in and to the rights and privileges of the said Incorporation of Bonnetmakers, and will and ordain that the aforesaid Incorporation of Bonnetmakers be in time coming named and called the Incorporation of Bonnetmakers and Dyers of Glasgow, and that the Dyers already admitted with the Bonnetmakers, as well as those who shall be entered in time coming, shall be entitled to the full rights, privileges, and immunities of the said Incorporation of Bonnetmakers, as they the saids Bonnetmakers themselves were formerly entitled to. And further, the saids Magistrates and Councill give and grant, but with and under the provisions, declarations, and reservations hereinafter mentioned, to the said Incorporation of Bonnetmakers and Dyers of Glasgow, the rights, liberties, powers, and authorities underwritten, viz. :—

That the Deacon and Masters of the said Incorporation shall have power and liberty, on an information made of, any abuses and malpractices by any persons within this burgh in colouring, dyeing, and dressing of yearns, cloths, and others, or using false dyes therein, to search and inquire into such abuses, to inspect and examine all manner of goods complained of as not sufficiently dyed, and to call the Dyers before them by their own officer to cognosce and determine therein, and to fine and amerciate such as shall be convict of the saids abuses in the sum of five shillings sterling money, for the use of the poor of their said trade ; but providing and declaring that the said Deacon and Masters shall have no power to confiscate any goods or others found by them to be not sufficiently dyed, reserving always liberty to the partie who shall suffer damage by such insufficient dyeing, to pursue for their damages as accords, and with liberty to the said Deacon and Masters, as the case deserves, either to fine and amerciate in the said sum of five shillings, or bring the complaint before any of the Bailies of this Burgh in order for a further or greater fine or punishment, and with liberty to any person or persons who shall be so fined by the Deacon and his Masters, of appealing to the Magistrates of Glasgow, and on such appeal the cause to be tried by them, or any of them, who, if the case deserves, shall adhere to the Deacon and Masters' fine or impose a higher, and with costs of suit, as they shall think proper. And further, providing and declaring that notwithstanding of this grant conjoining the Bonnetmakers and Dyers in same Corporation, and powers and authorities hereby given them, respecting the abuses committed by dysters, yet that the art and trade of dyeing shall be left open to be practised by any person or persons within this Burgh who are burgesses and guildbrothers thereof, and who shall noways be obliged To enter freemen with the said Incorporation of Bonnetmakers and Dyers, or to make payment to them of any composition or entry ; declaring always, that no dyer who shall not be entered a freeman with the said Incorporation of Bonnetmakers and Dyers, shall have right to any benefite in the poor's stock of said trade, and at sametime is to be subject and liable of having his or her goods and work inspected and tried for insufficiency, and on conviction, to be fined, amerciate, and punished as above. As also, give and grant full power to the present Deacon and Masters, Collector and Boxmasters of said Incorporation, and their successors in office, to receive mortifications, donations, legacies, sums of money, lands, goods, and gear, and to employ the same for the sustenance and maintenance of the poor of their trade, and to contribute to the sustenance of the Town's Hospitale and Trades' Alms House, what they can spare them their funds, as the Deacon, Masters, Collector, Boxmasters, and members of the said trade shall judge proper. ### CHARTER A.D. 1801.*

At Glasgow, the fifth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and one years,—The which day the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Council of the said city of Glasgow, now convened in Council, considering that by an Act of Council and Grant bearing date the twenty-ninth day of September, seventeen hundred and sixty, the Incorporations of Bonnetmakers and Dyers of this burgh were conjoined into one Corporation and body politic, with certain powers and privileges specified in the said Act of Council or Grant, to be called and named the Incorporation of Bonnetmakers and Dyers in Glasgow, and that the said united Incorporation should be entitled to the full rights, privileges, and immunities which the ancient Incorporation of Bonnetmakers were formerly entitled to and enjoyed; as the said Grant or Seal of Cause, containing sundry other clauses, does more fully bear, That by the said Grant or Seal of Cause it is enacted and declared, that every person claiming to be admitted a freeman of the said Incorporation should be a burgess of the burgh, and give sufficient proof of his knowledge and skill of the art and trade of dyeing, and should make payment to the poor of the said Incorporation the sum of four pounds sterling; and that every master freeman of the said Incorporation should pay for each boy or person taken as an apprentice five shillings of booking money at his entry, and two shillings and sixpence to the clerk and officer of the trade; and that each apprentice should be bound for five years in terms of the guildry, and two years for meat and fee. And whereas the said Grant and Seal of Cause contains the following clause and declaration, to wit, "That notwithstanding of the said Grant conjoining the Bonnetmakers and Dyers into the same corporation, and with the powers and authorities thereby given them, yet that the art and trade of Dyeing should be left open and practised by any person or persons within this burgh who were burgesses and guildbrothers thereof, and who should no ways be obliged to enter freemen with the said Incorporation of Bonnetmakers and Dyers, or to make payment to them of any composition or entry." The Magistrates and Council having further considered that ever since the date of the said Grant and Seal of Cause, the said Incorporation has been considered as one of the fourteen incorporated trades of the city, and had acted and been represented as such in the Trades' House of Glasgow, and had also, by virtue of the foresaid freedom fine, been enabled to accumulate a capital of about two hundred pounds sterling for the maintenance and support of their own poor, and for paying their proportion of the general assessment for supporting and maintaining the poor in the Town's Hospital, the benefit and good effects of which have been felt by the parties interested. That the said good effects have, however, been considerably diminished, or at least are likely to be so, by the clause before quoted allowing persons to exercise the art and trade of dyeing within the city and liberties thereof without being obliged to enter with the said Incorporation, or to pay the said freedom fine, which is not the case with the other incorporated trades of the city. And the Magistrates and Council having now resumed consideration of the Petition of the said Incorporation to have the said clause or condition rescinded and annuled, and having considered the report of the committee appointed to consider the said Petition, find the prayer thereof reasonable and expedient, and do therefore ratify and confirm and renew the foresaid Grant of Seal of Cause in favour of the said Incorporation of Bonnetmakers and Dyers, dated the twenty-ninth of September, seventeen hundred and sixty, with the whole heads, clauses, privileges, and immunities thereby granted in full and ample form, and here held as repeated; and do hereby further rescind, revoke and annul the clause and reservation before quoted, and enact and ordain, that in time coming no person shall have right or liberty to exercise the said trade or art of Dyeing or Bonnetmaking within the said city and liberties, without having first entered with the said Incorporation, and having paid the freedom fines established by the said Seal of Cause, and that under the like penalties by which the privileges and immunities of the other Incorporations of the city are guarded and protected. And full power is hereby granted to the said Incorporation and to the office-bearers and members thereof, to levy and pursue for the said freedom fines, and to prevent persons from exercising the said art and trade within the city and liberties till they first enter with the said Incorporation, as is competent to the other incorporated trades of the city and the Deacons and office-bearers thereof; declaring however, as it is hereby expressly provided and declared, that this renewal and ratification of the said Seal of Cause shall not infer, nor be construed to infer, any exclusive privilege to the said Incorporation of Bonnetmakers and Dyers over the new Royalty of the City of Glasgow, as the same was extended by an Act passed last Session of Parliament, intituled "An Act for extending the Royalty of the City of Glasgow over certain adjacent lands, for paving, lighting, and cleansing the streets, for regulating the police and appointing officers and watchmen for dividing the city into wards, and for appointing commissioners, and for raising funds, and giving certain powers to the Magistrates and Council and Town and Dean of Guild Courts, for the above and other purposes," the inhabitants of which extended royalty shall have full power and liberty to exercise the said trades of dyeing and bonnetmaking, without entering with the said Incorporation, anything hereinbefore provided notwithstanding.

Rules

OF

AND DYERS OF GLASGOW.

BYE-LAWS AND REGULATIONS.

PREAMBLE.

THIS Incorporation—as the Incorporation of “ Bonnetmakers ”—had an existence prior to the passing of the Letter of Guildry, the first Charter bearing date A.D. 1597. In 1760 an application was made to the Provost, Magistrates, and Council, with the consent of the Trades’ House, to have the privilege of assuming the “ Dyers ” as a part of their Craft. After consideration, the privilege was conceded, and the Provost, Magistrates, and Council also “ ratified, approved, and confirmed the former rights and privileges of the Incorporation,” and ordained that the aforesaid Incorporation of Bonnetmakers be in time coming “ named and called the Incorporation of Bonnetmakers and Dyers of Glasgow.” A further Charter of Seal of Cause was granted in 1801, by the Lord Provost, Magistrates, and Council, entitling the united Incorporation to the full rights, privileges, and immunities which the ancient Incorporation of Bonnetmakers formerly enjoyed. Under these Charters the United Incorporation is constituted, and now transacts its business regulated by the following additional Rules :—

through whom he proposes to join. This schedule shall then be forwarded to the Clerk along with the applicant's burgess ticket, or other satisfactory evidence of his being a burgess and guildbrother of the city of Glasgow; and the applicant shall thereafter produce such evidence of the other statements in the schedule as may appear to the Master Court necessary. In the case of an apprentice, he shall also produce his indenture duly discharged. A son-in-law's privilege to enter as a member at the near hand shall terminate on the death of his wife.

Such application, in the case of anyone applying at near hand, shall be laid before the first meeting of the Master Court held after it has been lodged, and if the statements therein contained, and the evidence of the accuracy of such, appear to the Master Court to be satisfactory, the application shall be sustained.

Applicants at the near hand over 45 years of age shall only be admitted at the discretion of the Master Court.

In the case of anyone applying at the far hand, the Master Court, when satisfied as to the accuracy of the statements made in the application, shall decide by vote whether the applicant be admitted or not.

On the applicant paying rates, and making declaration after-mentioned, he shall be admitted by the Master Court a member of the Incorporation.

Every entrant shall, on enrolment, subscribe a declaration as follows:—"I do solemnly and sincerely declare that I shall be a true and faithful member of the Incorporation of Bonnet-makers and Dyers of Glasgow, to which I am now admitted; and that I shall observe and obey the rules of the Incorporation."

The rates payable by each entrant at far hand and near hand shall be as specified in Schedule A of Appendix, and shall include redemption of Quarter Accounts, and Clerk and Officer's fees, out of which rates shall be paid a fee of 7/6 to the Clerk, and a fee of 2/6 to the Officer for each entry.

Such indenture may be transferred to, or continued by, any freeman of the trade in business as a bonnetmaker or dyer, with consent of the parties and of the cautioner therein, for completion of the unexpired period thereof; and the transfer must be recorded in the books of the Incorporation at the next Lammas Court meeting.

The fees exigible for recording indentures or transfers thereof shall be paid by the master, and go to the funds of the Incorporation, which fees are fixed as under:—

All pensions and allowances shall be conferred and given by the Master Court, and shall be payable during pleasure, and no person shall have or acquire a legal right to demand a pension or pecuniary aid, or a share of the funds of the Incorporation as a pensioner, and the pension given shall be an alimentary provision for the pensioners, not liable to be affected by their deeds, or attached for their debts. No sum exceeding £10 shall be advanced or given by the Master Court in any year by way of precept, aid, or otherwise, to any member, widow, or children of deceased members. Persons desirous of obtaining the benefit of pensions, or other such aid, must lodge an application with the Clerk, on a schedule to be furnished by him, which application shall be submitted to, and be disposed of, as the Master Court may think proper. The Master Court shall have full power to make all inquiries as to the circumstances of each case, and call upon the applicant to afford such information as they may require before deciding on the application. No pension shall be awarded until the expiry of five years after the admission of the person in respect of whose membership the aid is asked. All pensions, allowances, and other payments, shall be subject to the control of the Master Court, who shall have power to pay to, or apply the same for behoof of, the party for whom it was granted, or to withhold, reduce, or entirely recall the same, as the circumstances of the case may, in the opinion of the Master Court, require.

X.—ALTERATIONS OF BYE-LAWS & REGULATIONS.

These Bye-laws and Regulations shall not be altered or repealed until the proposed alteration or repeal has been tabled and read at one meeting of the Incorporation, and considered at another meeting to be held at least one month subsequent to that at which it was tabled and read, and then agreed to by a majority of the members present at such later meeting.

Historical and Trades' House Memoranda

IN CONNECTION WITH

THE INCORPORATION OF BONNETMAKERS
AND DYERS OF GLASGOW,

From 1597 till present time.

HISTORICAL MEMORANDA.

THE CHARTERS—ABOLITION OF EXCLUSIVE PRIVILEGES.

THE Bonnetmakers and Dyers were, in 1760, united into one Incorporation, and were received by the Trades' House as such on 29th September of that year. Prior thereto the Bonnetmakers existed as a separate Corporation, and was an independent craft as early as 1592. There are no Charters extant prior to 1597, but in that year a Charter was granted by the Provost, Bailies, and Council of the Burgh and City of Glasgow in their favour. That Charter is dated 29th October, 1597, and proceeds on a narrative to the effect, that although the Bonnetmakers had a Deacon of their craft for many years bygone like the rest of the crafts conjoined with them, for the well-being of the town in all things concerning it, yet they had no perfect order set down owing to troublous times; and thinking themselves not sufficiently authorised, they desired to have their place and power defined. The grant of incorporation followed, as detailed in the terms of the Charter.

By a subsequent Charter, dated 29th September, 1760, the privileges already granted to the Bonnetmakers were confirmed. The application for this Charter sets forth that great abuses had crept into the city by the use of false dyes, which had destroyed the value of the goods on which they were used both for domestic and foreign markets, and that there was reason to believe that these malpractices would continue until the Bonnetmakers and Dyers were constituted a legal Corporation by the Magistrates and Council; and further, that it was the earnest desire and wish of the Trades' House that the Magistrates and Council would be pleased to grant a Charter constituting the Bonnetmakers and Dyers a legal society and corporation. The Charter was granted accordingly. Under it permission was given to assume all such Dyers as should think fit to enter in and to the rights and privileges of the Incorporation, which it was declared should be called "The Incorporation of Bonnetmakers and Dyers of Glasgow." Under this Charter it was optional for Dyers to enter or not, but in 1801 it was enacted and ordained that in all time coming no person should have right to practise the trade or art of dyeing within the city without having first entered with the Incorporation and paid the freedom fines established by the Grant or Seal of Cause. The preamble on which the Charter of that year proceeded was that the good effects of the work of the Incorporation, since the date of the previous grant, had considerably diminished, or at least were injuriously affected by persons being allowed to exercise the art and trade of dyeing within the city, without being obliged to enter with the Incorporation, or to pay the freedom fines—a liberty which was not granted to any of the other incorporated trades of Glasgow. The rules and regulations of the Bonnetmakers and Dyers were thereupon made as effective as the other crafts, and the previous grant was otherwise ratified and confirmed.

Under these Charters the members for a long series of years enjoyed the exclusive right of practising the art of dyeing, until the passing of the Recissory Act on 14th May, 1846, when these exclusive privileges were all swept away.

THE MINUTE BOOKS.

The extant records of the Incorporation are contained in ten volumes. The first and earliest is a small thin octavo, bound in vellum, beginning with a minute dated 17th August, 1592, and ending with another dated 10th December, 1617.

The second volume is a small quarto, bound in sheepskin, and ends with a minute of meeting held on 19th September, 1718.

A volume of minutes appears to be amissing, as the next volume is an ordinary-sized foolscap folio, commencing with a minute dated 8th November, 1742, and ending with another dated 6th September, 1791.

The fourth volume is a royal folio, bound in leather, commencing with a minute dated 14th September, 1791, and ending with one dated 30th October, 1827.

The fifth volume is the same size as the preceding one, and begins with a minute dated 13th November, 1827, and ends with a minute dated 30th June, 1881. The sixth is folio size, beginning 21st July, 1881, and ending 20th September, 1890. The remaining volumes are quarto size.

In the second volume of the minutes there is a transcript of the Letter of Guildry of 1605, neatly and distinctly written, apparently by Mr. Robert Brok, notary, no doubt clerk of the Incorporation, and sundry curious resolutions are recorded from time to time, which are not uninteresting, as depicting the state of the craft and the local usages of the day. For example, at a meeting held on 13th December, 1611, it was ordained that "white" bonnets were not to be "walkit" with bonnets of other colours; and that no freemen of the craft were to absent themselves from any burial or from any convention of the craft, under a penalty. In the following year two craftsmen, after being found in the wrong for speaking ill of the Deacon, were fined, other two receiving similar treatment for a wrong which had been committed on the craft by their servant.

TRADE ENACTMENTS.

Every endeavour was made to preserve a monopoly of the trade. Servants were prohibited from making hose, except by their master's instructions, and also from working "outwith" craftsmen's houses.

It was forbidden to purchase wools from the wives or servants of craftsmen, or to sell certain kinds of hose under a specified price.

Restrictions as to bonnets were not wanting either. All such brought to the market were ordered to be inspected: and no freeman was allowed to send his servant with bonnets through the town, under penalty of forfeiture of the offending head gear.

The Deacon of the Incorporation, for many years, required to be a practising bonnetmaker during his term of office, and he had a right to name one half of the masters, one of whom was always the immediately preceding Deacon, and two of whom required to be practising bonnetmakers, provided there were as many living at the time; and no one was allowed, either by himself or others under him, to carry on the trade of bonnetmakers until he had given proof of his skill and knowledge to the satisfaction of the Incorporation.

Each craftsman had a trade mark allotted to him, to distinguish his bonnets from those of other craftsmen; and no one was allowed to lift his bonnet when anyone came to inspect his neighbour's stand, each being bound to keep to his own stand, and wait till the intending buyer came to him.

Good neighbourhood was enjoined by special statutes among the craft, and although one woman was ordained to serve two masters equally between them, week about, for the space of two years, special injunctions were given that craftsmen should only serve one master.

The necessity that the Deacon should have his domicile within the burgh was exemplified in the case of a Mr. Melvin, who was deposed from office under the order of the Trades' House, in respect that at the term of his election he had no such domicile—a requirement which has now been modified so far as this and other two incorporations are concerned.

The Spartan severity with which all practising Dyers were required to enter with the Incorporation seems to have received special exercise down to comparatively recent times. The minute of 16th February, 1816, bears that the Clerk reported that he had written letters to two gentlemen who had begun the dyeing business, desiring them to enter. One of the parties having appeared at the meeting, craved till the first day of March to pay their entry-money and become members; the meeting agreed to give them till that time, with certification, if they do not then enter they will be prosecuted—an alternative which was avoided by their duly complying with the requirement on the 16th August following.

ENTRY-MONEY AND FINES.

The payment on admission to the craft seems to have been originally fixed at £40 Scots, unless the applicant married a freeman's daughter, in which case he entered without payment.

The statutes of the craft enacting fines for special offences were frequent and rigorous; and sometimes the statute was enacted for, and after the offence it was intended to correct, and the offender dealt with as if the statute had had a prior existence!

In addition to fines for non-attendance at meetings and burials, fines were imposed for advising craftsmen to desert their work in Glasgow, and go where they could get better treatment and better wages. Fines were also imposed for troubling the Deacon, or injuring fellow-craftsmen by word or deed, &c.

The entry-money now at far hand is £35 at 30 or under, with 5 per cent. interest thereafter, and the near hand entry-money is £8 for sons and £10 for sons-in-law at 30 or under, with interest as aforesaid. The rates of entry-money at far and near hand are given at page 34 hereof.

STOCK OF INCORPORATION.

At a meeting held in December, 1800, the state of the Stock of the Incorporation was taken into consideration, and the minute bears that, finding they were only receiving 4 per cent. for their money, and that their expenditure greatly exceeded the income, whereby their Stock is diminished, and that there was a necessity for finding ways and means for laying out their money to greater advantage, the Deacon proposed to the meeting that if they could find a convenient piece of ground, in or near Glasgow, fit for grinding indigo and chipping wood, and a waulk mill for making cloth and blankets, it would be of greater advantage to the Corporation than the present way their money is lying, of which the meeting approved. No investment of that nature, however, seems ever to have been made. Subsequently a property was purchased in Greenvale, which was afterwards sold, and the Funds of the Incorporation are now invested in ground annuals, Government stock and property mortgages, and amount in the aggregate to the sum of £31,950 6s. 4d. at Deacon's choosing in September, 1919.

The Funds seem to have undergone several changes, and on 28th July, 1842, owing to their depression, the Incorporation received from the Trades' House a gift of £50, in consideration of its pecuniary circumstances, and from the fact that several pensions from the House to the craft had remained undrawn. A list of the various increases to the funds for the past 33 years is as follows :—

OFFICIAL INSIGNIA, &c.

The Incorporation possess a large mahogany Charter Chest, a Deacon's Bell, a massive Gold Medal and Chain for the Deacon, a Deacon's Album, a chastely decorated Snuff Mull for the Collector, and copy of the Roll of Honour. The Charter Chest and Bell are kept in the custody of the Deacon. An interesting event took place on the evening of 6th April, 1905, when there were present at dinner in the Deacon's house the members of the Master Court, together with the Platform of the Trades' House, and a few special friends.

The occasion was made for the revival of an old custom which had fallen into desuetude for many years—to wit, the opening of the chest in the presence of the Court, and the examination and certification of its contents. The Charter, Minute Books, and other papers were re-deposited in the box, to which was added a copy of the proceedings which marked the celebration of the Ter-centenary of the Trades' House on 6th February, 1905. This interesting ceremony has ever since been observed.

The medal, album, and snuff horn were provided as under :—

The Medal.—In October, 1877, it was resolved that the members of the Incorporation should, by voluntary subscription, procure a Medal and Chain to be worn by the Deacon, and before the end of the year the sum necessary for the purpose was subscribed, and the Medal and Chain was presented to the Incorporation on 24th June, 1878, followed by a "little bancat." The Medal is of neat design, with the arms of the Incorporation on the one side and the arms of the City on the other. The arms of the Incorporation may be described in heraldic terms thus :—Azure above, a pair of wool shears with a bonnet on the right and a wool pack on the left, the shield spanned with a rainbow, and closing with two hands conjoined. An encircling scroll carries the motto—"Give glory to God"; and on a ribbon at bottom of the shield is the legend—"Concordia coroborat."

The Album.—The late Deacon Dugald Butler, in March, 1882, presented the Incorporation with a handsome Deacon's Album, to preserve the Photographs of the Deacons and other Office-Bearers who might choose to contribute to it; and the donor's intention is being strictly carried out.

The Snuff Horn.—Ex-Deacon R. B. Galbraith, while Collector, at the close of the meeting held in December, 1885, presented the Incorporation with an elegant Snuff Mull, enriched with silver mountings, for the use of the Collector, by whom it is to be retained during his official year. On the horn the various Collectors place a shield bearing their name and the year of Collectorship, which will thus become a record of its own.

The Roll Book.—Ex-Deacon Turnbull, in June, 1887, in remembrance of Her Majesty Queen Victoria's Jubilee, presented the Incorporation with a Roll Book, for the signatures of the Members of the Incorporation. Many of the Members have signed their names therein, and all Members admitted since sign their names therein on admission.

The Scrap Book.—Ex-Deacon Ferguson, of the Barbers, a Member of the Incorporation, on 17th March, 1887, presented the Incorporation with a Scrap Book to record the notices of important matters from Newspapers, &c.

Oak Charter Box.—Deacon Malcolm A. Hendry in 1918 presented the Incorporation with an Oak Charter Box to hold the Incorporation Charters. The box is richly carved. On the lid the Coat of Arms of the Incorporation, along with the dates of the three Charters—1597, 1760, and 1801, on the right hand side the Trades House Coat of Arms, and on the left hand side the Glasgow Coat of Arms. It now contains the three Charters of the Incorporation as purposed by the donor.

THE ANNUAL DINNER.

It is customary for the incorporated trades to have an annual dinner on the evening of the Deacon's choosing. Owing to the decadence of the Incorporation, for a number of years there was no dinner. After a few years' active co-operation on the part of the members the annual dinner was resuscitated—the members having meantime increased from a few isolated units to a compact body of 478 members. In September, 1881, William F. Shaw, Esq., was unanimously chosen Deacon. On that occasion it was resolved to continue the old social amenities which had been formerly observed, and on 4th November, 1881, the Incorporation dined together in the Trades' Hall, under the presidency of the Deacon. There was an unusually large company. In proposing the toast of the evening—"Prosperity to the Incorporation of Bonnetmakers and Dyers of Glasgow"—the Deacon said—"The Incorporation of Bonnetmakers and Dyers has had a corporate existence for nearly 300 years, having been constituted by the Magistrates under Seal of Cause in October, 1597, and was consequently a subsisting but independent body, when the Letter of Guildry was granted. From the date of that Letter in 1605 down to 1791 this Incorporation seems to have held a somewhat unique but still independent position among the other crafts, for, although affiliated to the Trades' House like the others, its decayed members—if it had any—were excluded from participating in its revenues. Although of a retiring nature, the leaders of our Incorporation seem to have been shrewd enough to notice that the funds of the House were gradually accumulating, and they therefore petitioned to be admitted to participate in its benefits, offering a given sum for admission, and a yearly contribution corresponding to that paid by the other incorporations. This offer was unanimously accepted by the Trades' House on 2nd September, 1791, and from that date until now the Bonnetmakers and Dyers have had an acknowledged interest in the funds of the House. From the time of our erection we seem to have had a somewhat limited membership, as the burgess roll of 1605 gives only five names qua "Dyer"—even later, only three—and the stock amounted to next to nothing. Looking up old records I find the order of the registration of the fourteen incorporated trades was as follows:—

1. Masons, ..	1057	8. Barbers, ..	1559
2. Cordiners, ..	1460	9. Coopers, ..	1569
3. Skinners, ..	1516	10. Fleshers, ..	1580
4. Weavers, ..	1526	11. Dyers, ..	1597
5. Hammermen, ..	1536	12. Wrights, ..	1600
6. Tailors, ..	1546	13. Maltmen, ..	1683
7. Bakers, ..	1556	14. Gardeners, ..	1690

"The Gardeners seem to have been in existence previous to 1649, but in that year their Charter was lost, and a new one was granted in 1690. From this list—and especially as no cause has been assigned for it—I do not understand why our Incorporation should be placed at the foot of the list, instead of in its historic place—eleventh. And now that we have an ex-Deacon sitting in the Deacon-Convener's chair, it is to be hoped he may help to have this rectified, and gain for us a fairer share in the representation in the Trades' House. Presently we have but two representatives, whilst other Incorporations have from three to six. Coming along the centuries, there is no evidence that I have been able to lay my hands upon to show that we were at any time a numerous body; in fact we seem to have had a somewhat chequered career, and but for the strenuous efforts of a few members within the last ten years the Bonnetmakers and Dyers of Glasgow would have virtually been an Incorporation of the past. Now, considering the public spirit and position of its present members, I would venture to affirm that, with ordinary prudence on the part of the management, it has before it a career of great usefulness. In 1870 the membership increased to 20, and the stock to about £400; to-day the stock is £2000, and the membership 170! In closing, it is pleasant for me to note that, obscure though some portions of our past history may be, we have had, and still have, one Member of Parliament on our roll; we have furnished several Lord Provosts to the civic chair of Glasgow; and since 1807 have supplied the Trades' House with three Conveners—viz., Conveners Brand, M'Lean, and Reid. The latter, although just entering on the duties of his office, will, I am convinced, add to his own reputation, and reflect honour on his somewhat ancient craft."

TER-CENTENARY FESTIVAL.

The most notable event for many years past was the celebration of the Ter-centenary of the Incorporation, which took the form of a dinner and dance, and was held in the Windsor Hotel on the evening of Friday, 29th October, 1897, being the exact 300th year from the granting of the first Charter. The Deacon of the year, Moses Forsyth, presided, and was supported by Lord Provost Sir David Richmond and Deacon-Convenor John F. Miller of the Trades' House. The Collector for the year, William Rodger, was Croupier, supported by Collector James Macfarlane of the Trades' House, the Deacons of the sister Incorporations, the members of the Master Court, the Clerk, and others. The Deacon and Mrs. Forsyth received the guests. After several dance items on the programme had been gone through, and dinner served, the toast of the evening was submitted by the Chairman in the following terms:—In the Ter-centenary of the Incorporation of Bonnetmakers and Dyers of Glasgow the Craft had run itself into the proverb that a three-fold cord could not be easily broken.

As an Incorporation they were sustained by a three-fold Charter, and that night wore a crown of 300 years. Their Records, meagre though they might be, contained indications of the old Brotherhood, as well as the social and commercial life of the city in earlier years and showed its progress. In these early days it was noticeable that women were admitted to the privilege of burgess-ship, though not to that of Guild Brothers, and were permitted to carry on business as fully and freely as if they belonged to the sterner sex. Burgesses too, about that time, were entrusted to carry and use side arms, but he did not find the sisters were so trusted. That privilege did not seem to have been greatly coveted, for they found the peaceful Bonnetmakers hastening to beat their spears into pruning hooks, and betaking themselves to the more congenial study of how to secure the best kind of indigo so that Her Majesty's lieges, who were adorned with the blue bonnets of the period, might not be defrauded by inferior dyes when the head-gear was produced at the Mercat Cross. Obscure as were the Records of the period, they found from the Minutes they were troublous times, and the citizens were compelled, sometimes in self-defence as well as on behalf of their liberties, to take upon themselves the defence of the city. In the rebellion under Prince Charlie, Glasgow suffered severely, and when the rebels were driven out of England they retreated to Glasgow under the command of the Pretender's son, when the inhabitants were severely fined. Amongst other things the ragged army demanded 6000 blue bonnets and 6000 pairs of hose, which had to be supplied; but the Records of the time did not bear that the craft was taxed with this exaction. In these circumstances, peaceable as he was, he should not have hesitated to send these blue bonnets again over the border. After the '45 things became more settled, and business was allowed to develop. The industry of Bonnetmaking, however, began to decay in Glasgow, and dyeing, especially Turkey-red dyeing, rose into eminence. From that time the very name of bonnetmaking fell into desuetude, till about the middle of the present century the Incorporation became known as dyers only. He was informed that when the full title of the Incorporation was revived it was only after explanation, and the exhibition of the original Charter, that the Town Clerk was prevailed upon to accept of the full title as the true and proper designation of the Incorporation, and from that time qua "Dyers" ceased. In the year 1846 the exclusive privileges were abolished. In 1881 their late friend Deacon Shaw predicted that with ordinary prudence on the part of the management a career of great usefulness lay before them, and his prophecy has since been realised. They had twenty-six years of great prosperity, and what was to hinder them from still further increasing? Now they had a membership that included some of the best names in the city, and if they only chose well their Master Court their future prosperity was assured.

The Deacon was frequently applauded, and the toast was received with great enthusiasm. Dancing was then resumed, and before separating, on the motion of Deacon Jack, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Deacon and Mrs. Forsyth, and "Auld Lang Syne" was sung by the company.

The social functions of the Incorporation now consist of a dinner on the evening of the Deacon's choosing day; a conversation in close alliance with the date of the founding of the first Charter; and an excursion on the Firth of Clyde in the early summer. A cordial invitation is extended to the ladies and families to be present at the conversation and excursion, and on both occasions the proceedings are characterised by the most friendly and genial intercourse.

THE HALL BUILDINGS.

In the early part of the seventeenth, and during part of the eighteenth centuries, the meetings of the craft were necessitated to be held at such unusual places as St. Enoch's kirkyard, the Trades' Hospital, the Laigh Kirk door, the Hie Kirk door, the New Kirk, &c. These arrangements proved unsatisfactory, and on 30th November, 1754, the minute of that date narrates that "the Deacon presented copy of an act or resolution of the honoured the Trades' House of Glasgow anent the building of a hall and rooms suitable and convenient for the Trades' House and the several trades belonging thereto."

This resolution of "the honoured" the Trades' House took some thirty-seven years to mature, and in 1791 a hall was arranged to be built for the House and Incorporations. The subjects purchased for this object were situated in Glassford Street, extend to 952½ sq. yds., and cost 20s. per square yard. The present Halls were erected thereon in accordance with plans prepared by the late Mr. Adams, architect. It took eight years before the buildings were ready for occupation; and the total cost of the ground, buildings, and furnishings amounted to £7927 18s. 6d. This sum was provided by the Trades' House and the various Incorporations, this Incorporation contributing £25 19s. 1d.; now our interest in the buildings is valued at £49 12s. 4d. Since then an additional hall has been erected on an unoccupied piece of the ground to the west, with a school-room above it, besides a large kitchen and vaults, and fire-proof rooms for the use of the proprietors. Since completion, the Trades' House and Incorporations have held their meetings in the halls.

In 1882 the Trades' House, subject to the concurrence of the Incorporations, resolved to take down the present buildings and erect new ones in their stead, and recommended each Incorporation to take up their share of the cost of the new buildings in proportion to the share then held. On 23rd December, 1883, the Incorporation met, and acquiesced in this resolution. The Incorporations not having all concurred, the proposal to rebuild had to be departed from, and a resolution to sell the buildings was carried by the House. Several of the Incorporations objected to this procedure on the part of their representatives; and without waiting to consider the effect of these objections, an application was presented to the Court of Session by the Trades' House and the concurring Incorporations for authority to sell. After being several times before the Lord Ordinary (Lee), the case was by him reported to the First Division of the Court for their opinion. On 2nd June, 1885, Lord President Inglis delivered the opinion of the Court as follows:—

"The property which is sought to be divided in this action was acquired in 1792, the title being taken in name of James M'Lehose and John Gardner, the then Deacon-Convener and Collector of the Trades' House of Glasgow, and the title was taken to these persons in their official capacities, and to their successors in office, in trust for the use and behoof of the Trades' House of Glasgow. The disposition narrates the bargain that was made between the disponent and disponees, and then the property purchased is disposed 'to and in favour of the said James M'Lehose and John Gardner, Deacon-Convener and Collector of the said Trades' House, and to their successors in office, in trust for the use and behoof of the said Trades' House of Glasgow, and of the Incorporations composing the same.' Then follow the various Incorporations—masons, gardeners, barbers, bonnetmakers and dyers, &c., 'in proportion to the several sums which each of these corporations and communities have advanced, or shall in future advance to the said Trades' House towards payment of the above price, and the expense of the building of the Hall proposed to be erected upon the plot of ground disposed.'

"At present two individuals of the names of Kennedy and Tullis are the representatives in title of the two gentlemen who acquired the property in 1792, upon which a hall has been erected for the use and accommodation of these corporations, and they hold the property for precisely the same purpose as the original disponees. The cost of building the Hall was provided in very unequal proportions. The cumulo cost of erecting the Hall and paying the price of the subjects amounted to £13,884 4s. 11d., and that was provided by fourteen corporations. Therefore the trust upon which this property, which is feudally vested in the Pursuers, is held, is for the maintenance and administration of the Hall; and all the corporations and their members are interested in the maintenance and use of the Hall.

"In that state of the title, and having regard to the object with which the subjects were acquired, I think it is too clear for argument that the Pursuers have no title to insist in this action. An action of division and sale has special application to the case of property held pro indiviso, but the parties before us are not at all in that position. The feudal fee is vested in two individuals, but all these various corporations are beneficially interested in the trust, and are all more or less interested in its maintenance. There is no allegation here that the trust has failed, but just that there is a desire on the part of some of the corporations, or the individual members, to have the subjects sold and the proceeds divided. On the whole matter I quite agree with the Lord Ordinary. I do not think it necessary to say what might be done in an action brought in a different form, and with different contents. I agree with the Lord Ordinary that the action should be dismissed."

In 1888 it was resolved to reconstruct the Trades' Hall Buildings in Virginia Street. The large hall and the other rooms were improved, and a new building erected on the part of the ground unbuilt upon. About £4000 was expended by the Trades' House and the various Incorporations. The Trades' House is centrally situated, and is one of the sights of the city. The Halls are, when not required for the use of the Trades' House and the Incorporations, let for public and other meetings.

PUBLIC QUESTIONS.

Notice of many matters outside the business of the craft appears frequently in the minutes. For example, a meeting was held on 13th May, 1760, to protest against the "public post" being allowed to bring in the public packet to the city of Glasgow on the Sabbath day in the forenoon, and to take it away in the evening; and the Incorporation requested the Deacon and Masters to approach the Trades' House, along with the other Incorporations, to have the practice abolished.

Again, judging that their silence might be construed as consent to the plan of the Town Council, the Incorporation met and declared that, in the matter of choosing ministers to the city of Glasgow, they preferred the plan proposed by the General Sessions Committee, and renewed a protest which had apparently been recorded before against the Magistrates and Town Council occupying the position of patrons of any of the city churches—a position which the Incorporation thought the Magistrates and Council could not be trusted impartially to occupy.

The division of the boundaries of the city—the condition of the University, where abuses were said largely to prevail—the election of members to, and the better regulation of, the Town Council—the erection and endowment of an Infirmary—the regulation of the police of the city—and the agitation with regard to the corn trade, besides other matters affecting the welfare of the citizens, were all at different times under consideration.

On 3rd February, 1791, a petition against the corn bill, along with a resolution thereanent, were transmitted by the Incorporation to William M'Dowall, Esq., of Gartland, Member for the Burgh, and Sir James Stewart Denham of Coltness, Member for the County, for presentation to the House of Parliament. These resolutions were to the effect that the Incorporation should concur with the Magistrates and Town Council, the Merchants' and Trades' House, the Chamber of Commerce, and other societies, and the citizens of Glasgow generally, against the intended regulations with respect to the corn trade, so that these should not pass into a law, so far as they put Scotland on a worse footing than England, and so far as they do not extend the same privileges to the one country as the other for the importation of corn and meal.

A curious manifesto appears towards the close of 1792, although there is no context to explain exactly what it was that called it forth. It says:—"The Incorporation of Bonnet-makers and Dyers, at a general meeting duly called and convened, do most cheerfully, heartily, and unanimously agree with the universal tone of the nation in expressing their abhorrence of the attempts of certain restless and disaffected persons, by their seditious and treasonable writings and publications, to disturb the public peace and to subvert our happy rights and liberties, equally enjoyed by all descriptions of persons under the auspicious protection of a long experienced and universally-venerated constitution of government, composed of Kings, Lords, and Commons. They declare that they will be faithful, and bear true allegiance to our sovereign lord, George the Third; and they are firmly attached to the sacred constitution and government of this country as by law established, which contains full powers to supply every defect that may creep into it; and that they will support and defend the same with their lives and fortunes, and will, to the utmost of their power, exert themselves to strengthen the hands of the Magistrates and others in suppressing every attempt that may be made to disturb the peace, prosperity, and happiness, or endanger the lives and properties of any of His Majesty's lieges, and appoint this to be printed in the Glasgow Journal or Courier."

In 1803 a Committee of the Trades' House reported as to raising a battalion of craftsmen for the defence of the country during the war with France, and £500 was contributed for this purpose; but while no doubt willing to take advantage of the services of the corps so raised, this Incorporation was of opinion that as the Trades' stock had been gathered for the maintenance of the poor, it could not be validly applied to any other purpose, but a strong recommendation was made to individual members to contribute according to their ability. The contention of the Incorporation of the day, that the funds could only be "validly" spent in providing for the poor, was confirmed by the Commissioners on Municipal Corporations in Scotland, who sat in Glasgow in 1834. In their Report, p. 36, they say, with regard to the foregoing vote of £500, that "they observed that on former occasions the funds had been applied to subscriptions, some of them of a questionable nature, or at all events entirely unconnected with the proper objects of the Trades' House," &c.

EDUCATIONAL ENDOWMENTS.

In Glasgow and Edinburgh, and in the provinces, a great many endowments had been left for educational and other purposes, and in 1882 an Act was passed, the preamble of which is as follows:—Whereas it is desirable to extend the usefulness of Educational Endowments in Scotland, and to carry out more fully than is done at present the spirit of the founders' intentions, and so far as may be to make an adequate portion of such endowments available for affording to boys and girls of promise opportunities for obtaining higher education of the kind best suited to aid their advancement in life.

The Incorporation in March, 1883, lodged a memorandum with the Commissioners appointed under the Act, setting forth their views on the various bequests in Glasgow, and offering certain suggestions as to the Schemes to be prepared by the Commissioners under that Act, and craving to be heard orally in support thereof.

When the Commissioners came to Glasgow, a Committee appeared in support thereof; and in September, 1883, and March, 1884, objections to the Draft Schemes prepared by the Commissioners were lodged, and in May, 1884, the Right Hon. James Caldwell, Esq., P.C., M.P. (then a member of the Master Court), in the absence of his colleague, went to London alone as a deputation from the Incorporation, and laid their views before Lord Carlingford and Mr. Mundella, and was very courteously received by them. The Incorporation thus did much to retain the endowments for the use of the poor people to whom they were bequeathed by the founders, and had they been fully supported by the citizens they would have been able to show happier results. Thanks are due to Mr. Caldwell for the careful preparation of objections, and for the able part he took in endeavouring to conserve the educational endowments for the honest, deserving poor.

DONATIONS TO INCORPORATION.

Ex-Deacon Christie, Levenfield, Alexandria, of the firm of John Orr Ewing & Co., Dye and Print Works, Alexandria, on leaving the Deacon's chair, 19th September, 1890, handed to the Incorporation £200, the interest of which was to be devoted to the cultivation of the Art of Colouring and Dyeing. It was not intended that fixed bursaries should be given, but that the fees and class books should be paid for young men daily engaged at the trade of dyeing of cloths and yarns, employed in works situated within a radius of 20 miles in and around Glasgow. They were to attend the Technical College Evening Classes, study Chemistry, Mathematics, Mechanical Drawing, and Arithmetic, and take the full course of three years, and at the close of each year to pass and obtain a certificate at the Science and Art Examination, and failing it being taken up, the interest of the fund to be applied as the Master Court should think best. The gift was cordially accepted. Although duly advertised, no application falling under the class mentioned by the Donor has yet been made, and the interest of the fund has been applied in paying pensioners. It is to be hoped that the benefits of the gift will be taken up soon by young men engaged in the Dyeing Trade.

In 1912 the Incorporation received a Legacy of £80 from the deceased James Marshall, Hamilton, and in 1913 a Legacy of £100 from the deceased James H. Roger, Glasgow.

CORPORATION DUTY.

In 1885 the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 48 and 49 Vict., C. 51, was passed, taxing Incorporations and Charitable Institutions five per cent. in their incomes in lieu of Succession and Residue Duty which they escape. When Government intimated their claim for the duty it caused considerable anxiety. It was thought that we were entitled to be exempted on the ground that the incomes were applied solely for the benefit of decayed members. The Incorporations refused to pay, and a test case was raised against the Incorporation of Tailors in 1887, and it was decided by the Court of Session that the Incorporations were liable to pay the duty under the Act. After many meetings and deputations to London the duty was in 1892 remitted. This Corporation Duty had the effect of the Trades' House considering the Scholarships and Bursaries provided for competition each year and of their withdrawal, and notwithstanding the remission of the tax they have never since been resuscitated, but the funds previously applied for these Scholarships and Bursaries were added to the pension fund and the number of Pensioners increased.

Trades' House Memoranda.

The Ter-Centenary of the Trades' House was celebrated within the ancient buildings, Glassford Street, on the evening of 6th February, 1905. In this unique historical gathering there were invited all the present and past living members of the House, who attended in great numbers accompanied by their ladies. The Collectors, ex-Collectors, and Clerks of the various Incorporations were also included in the invitation.

The guests were strictly limited, amongst whom were Lord Provost Sir John Ure Primrose, Bart., LL.D., Lord Dean of Guild Robert King, Principal Herbert Story of the University, and the Rev. P. Macadam Muir, D.C., minister of the Cathedral.

The gathering was a brilliant one, taking the form of a reception, followed by addresses appropriate to the occasion, delivered by the Deacon Convener, James Goldie, the Lord Provost, and Dr. Macadam Muir.

The successful proceedings were brought to a close about 11.30 p.m.

One feeling animated the company, that while there existed no record to show how the Centenary and Bi-Centenary of the House had been recognised, the celebration of the Ter-Centenary had been a genuine fraternal gathering.

It is very gratifying that the Collector of the House on this auspicious occasion was Mr. Andrew Macdonald, who had served our craft as Deacon in the year 1900.

PENSIONERS IN TRADES' HOUSE.

At one time this Incorporation appears to have had no representatives in the Trades' House, and its decayed members no share in the funds. In 1791 a sum was offered to be paid to the House, and a yearly contribution added corresponding to that paid by the other Incorporations, on condition of obtaining a right of representation in the House, and a participation in the funds so as to have one of their poor members enrolled as a Pensioner. The offer was accepted by the Trades' House, and on 20th of September of that year a Pensioner of this craft was enrolled. Since then the Incorporation's interest in the funds has increased, and they have now the right to present four male Pensioners for enrolment on the funds. On 15th February, 1877, the number of Pensioners was further augmented, when it was agreed that Pensions should be at the following rates, according to the rank of the recipient :—

Deacon-Conveners,	..	..	..	..	£50
Collectors,	..	..	..	..	40
Deacons,	..	..	..	..	30
70 Craftsmen,	..	..	..	..	20
50 Widows (Deacon's Widows, £15),	..	..	..	..	10
100 Daughters from £5 to £8,	..	..	..	..	average, £6 10s.

These Pensions are purely alimentary, and shall not be affected in any way by the debts or deeds of the receivers.

BURSARIES AND TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

The Trades' House prior to 1888 provided nine Senior and thirty Junior Scholarships, for the promotion of higher education, of the average values of £30 and £15 respectively, and tenable for three years. These Scholarships are awarded by competition, and were open to children and grandchildren of freemen in connection with any of the Incorporations in any school. Three of the Senior and Ten of the Junior Scholarships were awarded each year. These Scholarships were withdrawn in 1888, owing to the Government taxing the incomes of the Incorporations, and notwithstanding the efforts of this Incorporation they have never been resuscitated. The Pensioners on the Trades' House funds, however, get the benefit thereof.

For furthering the education of young craftsmen a sum of £100 per annum is allowed to be spent in payment of fees for Technical instruction in morning or evening classes.

Hutchesons' Hospital, founded by Deed of Mortification by Geo. Hutcheson, dated in 1639, and by Thomas Hutcheson, by Deed dated in 1641. These two gentlemen bequeathed their entire fortunes for the exclusive benefit of Burgesses of the Trades and Merchant rank ; but the constitution has now been radically changed, and the management placed under the Educational Endowments Board, to which the Trades' House elect one Patron.

James Buchanan, by his settlement dated in 1852, bequeathed £10,000 to the Trades' House for educational purposes, for the benefit of sons of decayed members of the crafts in connection with the Trades' House, and for promoting the studies of such of them as give promise of mechanical genius, particularly in engineering. This bequest has now been paid into the Trades' House, and is now in operation.

John Howieson's Bursary, founded in 1613, by Deed of Mortification, granted the profits of 1000 merks to be laid out upon lands within the Burgh of Glasgow, for the benefit of a scholar of the craft rank attending the College. The Trades' House are the Patrons, and the sum paid the bursar is £9 per annum for four years.

John Gilchrist bequeathed 2500 merks to the Trades' House, which sum they received in 1700, for the maintenance at the University of Glasgow of a freeman tradesman's son within the town of Glasgow. Bursary, £5 per annum.

William Searcy, a Deacon of this Incorporation, bequeathed in 1880 to the Trades' House £500 to found a Scholarship or Bursary to be called "The Searcy Bursary," the interest of which is to be paid annually to sons of members of any of the fourteen Incorporations of Glasgow. The Bursaries are tenable for three years, and the holders are required to attend the Art Classes of the University of Glasgow.

MORTIFICATIONS, &c.

The following are some of the Mortifications and Institutions in which the members of this Incorporation have an interest, viz. :—

James Govan's Mortification was founded in 1709. The income of the share of the estate falling to the Trades' House amounts to about £28 per annum, and is applied for the maintenance of five poor burgesses of the City of Glasgow, not under forty years of age.

James Thomson's Mortification was founded in 1717. The sum was 12,000 merks, which was to be spent on the maintenance of six poor old men of the Trades' rank. Persons named Thomson or Peddie to have a preference. The Deacon-Convener and the Deacon of Crafts are the Patrons.

James Pettigrew, in 1731 and 1732, bequeathed £200 to the Trades' House, the interest of which was to be applied for the maintenance of one poor decayed burghess of the Trades' rank, 50 years of age or upwards, and of good repute. The donor's own kindred, and any of the name of Pettigrew, to have a preference. The sum paid is £10 per annum.

William Pettigrew, in 1769, mortified £200, the interest of which, amounting to £10 per annum, is applied by the Trades' House for the maintenance of a decayed burghess of the craft rank of 50 years of age or upwards.

Deacon Cruickshanks bequeathed £500 to the Trades' House, directing the interest thereof to be paid in small precepts or pensions not over £5, to journeymen tradesmen, merchants' assistants, shopmen, clerks, or widows of such, who have no claim on the funds of the House or any of the Incorporations. The applicants to be in poor and needful circumstances, and not under 60 years of age.

The Deacon-Convener is an ex officio member of the Town Council of Glasgow, a J.P. for Lanarkshire, &c.; and the Trades' House appoints representatives to the following public institutions, the figures indicating the number of members sent :—

Clerks

TO THE INCORPORATION OF BONNETMAKERS
AND DYERS OF GLASGOW.

From about 1611 till the present time.

THE Clerks of the Incorporation, though held in high repute for their education, met with small remuneration for their services, for on 13th September, 1743, the Collector was ordained to pay to John Marshall and George Napier, clerks to the Incorporation, 10s. stg. each, as their last year's fiall. This duality of clerkship does not seem to have given satisfaction long, for on 15th October of the following year it was enacted that only one clerk should bear office, who shall first be a freeman of the trade.
