

MODERN SCOTTISH POETS

SIXTEENTH SERIES

3421 B¹c

To

A. J. Symington, Esq.,

With the warm regards & best wishes of his old admirer & friend

W H Edwards

Feb 1997

[Edwards, David Herschell]

~~DEE~~ ~~2637~~

Sixteenth Series.

MODERN SCOTTISH POETS.

WITH BIOGRAPHICAL AND CRITICAL NOTICES.

506111

4. 4. 50

BRECHIN:
D. H. EDWARDS.
1897.

PR

8657

E4

ser. 16

CONTENTS.

	PAGE
INTRODUCTORY,	i
DECEASED WRITERS NOT INCLUDED IN INDEX, ...	lix
BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH, ...	5
INTRODUCTORY ESSAY,	13
INDEX.
Names of Poets (with date of birth and death where known), ...	133
Birthplaces of Poets, ...	161
Occupations of Poets, ...	187
Poems and Songs Quoted, ...	209
SCOTCH SONGS ARRANGED AS A TALE,	311

MODERN SCOTTISH POETS.

TO OUR READERS.

“Deal gently with us, ye who read,
Our largest hope is unfulfilled ;
The promise still outruns the deed,
The tower, but not the spire, we build.”

THE introduction to our last issued volume was the thirteenth we have written for this work. We were superstitious enough to feel that it taught us a lesson in humility—reminding us of the story about an old Highland minister who on one occasion preached to Dr Blair’s fashionable congregation in the High Kirk, Edinburgh. The sermon was on “The Duty of Humiliation.” “And now, my freens,” said the preacher, “in the Thairteenth place, I shall proceed to set before you a Thairteenth reason for Humeeliation. And it sall be a reason taken from the seeance o’ anawtomy. We are informed by them as is skeeled in the seeance o’ anawtomy that we have got a’ the puddins o’ a soo, but e’en now I ask you a’, if we have got a’ the puddins o’ a soo, if this is no a Thairteenth reason for Humeeliation, and a reason taken from the seeance o’ anawtomy.”

Thus were we led to realise that, when we entered on our task, we must have had little idea of the anatomy of poetry—of the vast nature of our undertaking. Each successive volume and preface showed this more conclusively, and we might have sunk under the burden of our weakness had we not been strengthened by Coleridge's words:—"Poetry has been to me its own exceeding great reward. It has soothed my afflictions, it has multiplied and refined my enjoyments, it has endeared solitude, and it has given me the habit of wishing to discover the good and the beautiful in all that meets and surrounds me." Such, we doubt not, is the experience of every true poet. They are encouraging words to all who write neither for fame nor fortune, and we do not know that we could have chosen a better text.

To all forms of literary art Voltaire's maxim applies—that the most effective way to weary the listener (and the same applies to the reader) is to say all that can be said upon a subject. We have said a good deal, but we feel that we are still far from having exhausted the theme of modern Scottish poetry. Every writer is not equally impressed with the greatness of his self-imposed task, for we have just heard that a very ambitious work has been undertaken by Professor Angelo de Gubernatis, of Milan—nothing less than a "Universal History of Literature." One volume is devoted to a critical account of the lyric poetry of all peoples and countries; but its title to anything like completeness may be estimated from the fact that the only examples cited from the authors of Britain are from Tennyson and Miss Rossetti. He does not appear to know anything of, or to have explored the rich lyric field of Scotland.

Having promised to give a parting "foreword," we purpose, necessarily in a somewhat rambling way, to refer to the rich and luxuriant nature of the lyrical genius Scotland has produced, to poets and poetry in general, to some of our experiences during the past sixteen years, and to the important part the study of poetry plays in mental and moral culture.

When our Fourth Series was published, the Glasgow Evening Times, in the course of a lengthy article, said that the work would be one that would "be valuable to the historian of the future, who will seek in it authentic literary hints of the times which he wishes to expound and present to the students of his day. Just as a country is not alone known by its peaks, so neither is the literary state of any age known by its greatest authors. There is a literature that has the grandeur of oaks; there is also a literature that has the sweetness and the humility of grass; and, after all, the simple literature that is grass, has, in its place, as fair a value as the literature that is oak. The work is full of those peculiarities of thought and fancy which spring out of, and make perpetual appeal to, the interests and affections, the wit and humour of the common life of the common people living in the common day. Even the humblest 'makker,' not less than the greatest, is born, not made; and it has come at length to be admitted, even by pride, in spite of itself, that the God who made King David and Dante, also made, at a later date, all the humble makkers, many of them nameless and unknown, who sang for us that delightfully simple and varied literature which enriches the Ballad Bible of our Scottish Israel. It is put beyond a doubt that the poetic voices of modern times are much luckier than those of an earlier date. No poet now sings without being heard. If it be true that no single prophet has ever yet prophesied for all men, equally true is it that even the greatest poet has failed to steal into all ears. This is no hardship to the great; it is some comfort, however, to the lesser voices, whose happy privilege it is to sing to the innumerable groups of folk who are pleased and content with humbler songs.

“The race of song and ballad-makers are more fortunate than their brethren of earlier times in the increased opportunities opened to them by the art of printing for having their productions sown broadcast over the country. How vastly different it is now in such matters is attested by the publication of numberless collections of miscellaneous verse which in other times would have died in the utterance. Mr Edwards has taken immense trouble to raise scores of poets from local obscurity into the light and glory which can only be secured in palpable volume form. The humblest song and name is carefully preserved with the best and the highest. . . . The work is starred by names already well known in shining poetic fields, and it contains songs and ballads which will give their little-known authors a fair place among the heaven-born ‘makkers’ of their country. We could pick out many names for high praise in the volume — names that have already sung themselves into popular affection, and others that are beginning to catch the ear, like larks in the early dawn. There is still in Scotland a fine, fresh, and vigorous undergrowth of poetry.”

We have always felt an interest in what an author had to say about his book, although there is reason to believe, and we have heard it asserted, that “the everyday reader does not read prefaces—in fact regards them rather as a nuisance than otherwise.” We think a preface is almost as necessary to a book as a title. There are, in truth, few volumes which can safely be sent into the world without a word of exposition. It may be urged that poems scarcely need prefaces, inasmuch as they may be said to explain themselves. But that cannot be said of every poem. Certain it is, that had not such prologues been the rule instead of the exception, as they might possibly have been, the world had wanted many a delightful bit of verse.

Among the most lasting passages in literature are some of the prefaces that have been written. And this is all the more remarkable, because probably there is no species of composition so difficult to write. It must not be too short, or it will seem flippant; nor must it be too long, or it will bore. It must not be too assertive, or it will excite sarcasm; nor must it be too humble, or it will suggest depreciation. And yet a bad preface is, all things considered, much better than none.

Doubtless some will sneer at our formidable array of modern poets. The cynicism is unjust. The future will decide more kindly; besides, every great man is obscure at first, and if some of our poets cannot claim the highest honours for their singing, they, at least, deserve respectful regard and grateful encouragement from their fellow countrymen. Sometimes the mavis can please when the nightingale fails, and the same may be said of all the other humble varieties of Nature. Indeed, the grand and the sublime in Nature and Art must be partaken of sparingly and at wide intervals, to be enjoyable and beneficial, whereas simple beauty, it has been said, is a wholesome, all-round perpetual meal, like porridge. How few have, for example, honestly read through "Paradise Lost," and honestly enjoyed it. Almost everybody knows and heartily enjoys our simple national songs.

In our labours we have again and again felt encouraged by the fact being acknowledged that we were engaged in a work that, in this department of literature, is useful in the high-pressure life of the present day, when the mass of the people have no time to read through and study all the works issued. "Never were the works of Shakespeare, Scott, Milton, and others," says the Spectator, "less read than now, and yet never were trite quotations from these authors more numerous or commonly known."

The demand will always regulate the supply, and, judging by the enormous and the increasing number of books, quotations, concentrated lives, short histories, gems from the poets, and such-like volumes, turned out almost daily, the demand must be steadily on the increase.

The lyrical genius which Scotland has produced has excited the surprise and admiration of the civilised world. That a climate so ungenial, and a soil so sterile—destitute of all the luxuries and many of the necessities of life—and, above all, a people divided and subdivided into hostile clans and adverse races—the Gael and the Saxon, the Anglo-Norman and the descendants of the Scandinavian freebooter, the moss-troopers of the Border, and the caterans prowling about the mountain defiles in lawless security—that individuals should arise from such a community, from age to age civilizing and humanising their ferocious contemporaries with the sentiment of undying song, and the pathos of divine music, is, indeed, matter of astonishment, and has done more for the cohesion of Scotland as a nation, in the most trying times, and under most difficult circumstances, than any other event which the historian can trace.

And see the Scottish exile, tanned
By many a far and foreign-clime,
Bend o'er his home-born verse, and weep
In memory of his native land,
With love that scorns the lapse of time,
And ties that stretch beyond the deep.

With commingled blood and tears, the Scottish muse, in 1286, mourned the demise of our good king Alexander III. She waved the silver cross of Scotland in triumph over the victory of Bannockburn, and poured forth an ode, which, says Fabian, was after many days sung “in daunces in the carols of the maidens and minstrels of Scotland, to the re-proofes and disdayne of their foes.”

Younge women quhen thai play,
Sing it among them ilk day.

James the First "possessed great talent in poesy and music," and we are told that, after the calamitous field of Flodden, "songs of lamentation, set to dirge-like melodies, were wailed through the length and breadth of Scotland, literally steeping a nation in tears."

But we must not trench on the ground so ably covered by Mr Macbeath in his "Introductory Essay" in this volume. In this exhaustive and carefully prepared treatise he proves that poetry and love of song are indigenous to Scotchmen, and that poetry and music have been national characteristics for centuries. He shows that the poetic element has been a living power in Caledonia since it was both "stern and wild"—from the days of Thomas the Rhymer to, say, John Stuart Blackie; and, what is more to our purpose, that it "gains increased strength and vigour with age."

"The Church may demur to my proposition," says David Vedder—a name revered by all lovers of Scottish song—"nevertheless I do aver, that song performed the part of a powerful auxiliary in her life-and-death struggle with Rome. All the poets of that stirring period seem to have pointed their ordnance against St Peter's. The burning satire ran from mouth to mouth like electric fluid, and the fabric of a thousand years, which had been cemented by so much blood and treasure, toppled and fell! When the battle was won, however, the Reformers tried hard to kick down the ladder by which they had been assisted to their elevated position—to proscribe song, to stifle the bards—to lower them in the eyes of the public, as a class of idle sorners given to the 'unprofitable trade of poem-making.'"

In the words of Chambers—"poetry and music, till the early part of last century, lived a very vagrant and disreputable life in Scotland, but they flourished in the hearts and the souls of the people, for they were susceptible of the strongest impressions from poetry and music." But the tide once turned, Scottish song became fashionable. The court, the theatre, the opera—all rung with Scottish music. In course of time a galaxy of illustrious names, as Mr Macbeath in his essay has shown, illuminated the lyrical firmament of Scotland, until there arose, in brightness unutterable, to deluge our land in a flood of light, that great star of Song, Burns, whose magnificent lyre resounded over the globe in warm accord with all hearts, and for all time—the cadence of which can only cease with

“The wreck of matter, and the crash of worlds.”

Since the demise of the hierarch of Scottish lyrists, bards of illustrious name have sprung up from time to time. Hogg threw a halo of lyrical glory over our country; Cunningham, a kindred spirit, increased its breadth and augmented its radiance; Tannahill gave us songs sweet as the western summer breeze, whispering over a bed of rustling reeds; while Motherwell melted us to tears as by a mother's tenderness. Many other names that have enriched our poetical literature might be added; and of the living tuneful fraternity, who have sung with pathos, simplicity, and humour, with rough vigour and polished sweetness, we do not need to remark here—their name is legion, and to select names from the many would appear partial and invidious.

No sentiment, we believe, was more frequently expressed a number of years ago than that the age of poetry was past. So generally was this believed that the lovers of poetry, it is said, had ceased to look for a coming man, and had accordingly turned with new and lingering fondness to the eloquent musings of men of former generations. As advancing civilization compelled the deft and light-hearted fairies to quit Scottish ground, so, it was feared, had the tuneful Muses been forced to withdraw before the ungrateful roar of steam. And as the green-coated chiefs were so shocked by the sacrilegious violation of their haunts that they agreed to depart in a body from so thankless a nation, so it was believed that all the Muses had acted in concert, and had determined never to permit the modest warblings of song to be "coughed down" by a locomotive, or to be developed to the accompaniment of a railway whistle. Sometimes, it is true, hopes were excited by seeing a wooer of the Muses astride his Pegasus, whipping and spurring heroically, but on closer inspection it was found that this was not the real Pegasus he had mounted at all, but an animal of mean descent, which answered the spur—not by a bound into the heaven of invention—but by a patient whisk of the tail, or by the utterance of a sound by no means distinguished for melody. In recent days, however, these apprehensions that the inspirations of the olden time had gone by have been dispelled. Many, amid the whirr of wheels, have taken up the ancient harp and struck bold notes, and the coy inspirers of song are proving that not even the din and bustle of this mechanical matter-of-fact age can prevail to resist their impulses when and wheresoever they choose to impart them.

We do not believe that nature scatters her blessings with more profusion in one age than another; or that, like an unfeeling mother, she robs one child of its portion to enrich the other. We think the difference lies in the cultivation. The most fertile fields will, if neglected, be overrun with weeds; and the bramble will choke the luxuriance of the floweret.

Many a tract, seemingly oppressed with the curse of sterility, has, by the assistance of art, teemed with the fruits of cultivation. The human mind is that luxuriant field, rich in the gifts of nature, but requiring the fostering care of education to raise the imperfect seed to the maturity of the full-grown crop.

It is no rare matter now-a-days to meet with literary working men. We, nevertheless, always feel that a special interest attaches to their efforts. We realise not only the peculiar difficulties and disabilities with which they have frequently to contend through limited education and unrefined surroundings, but also the advantage they have in writing of the poor and working orders from actual acquaintance and personal comprehension of their aims and needs. Both reasons tend to procure a cordial welcome when one of these toilers finds a voice to prove that labour is not necessarily a bar to culture and poetic feeling, and that environment is, indeed, not all-powerful in fashioning heart and mind.

In this volume is an alphabetical list of the counties which are the birthplaces of poets treated in the preceding volumes. By way of a summary we might here note that Aberdeenshire claims 106 (Aberdeen 35); Argyleshire 15; Ayrshire 72 (Ayr 8, Kilmarnock 11); Banffshire 15; Berwickshire 21; Bute 2 (both in Rothesay); Caithness 4; Clackmannan 9; Dumbartonshire 13; Dumfriesshire 29; Elgin or Moray 6; Fife-shire 68 (Kirkcaldy 7, Dunfermline 13, Cupar 8); Forfarshire 130 (Montrose 8, Forfar 11, Dundee 53, Brechin 12, Arbroath 14); Haddingtonshire 6; Invernesshire 19; Kincardineshire 18; Kinross-shire 4; Kirkcubrightshire 19; Lanarkshire 144 (Glasgow 99); Linlithgowshire 13; Midlothian 141 (Edinburgh 106, Leith 14); Nairnshire 1; Orkney and Shetland 14; Peebleshire 12; Perthshire 64 (Perth 17); Renfrewshire 45 (Paisley 15, Greenock 13); Ross and Cromarty 7; Roxburghshire 29; Selkirkshire 12; Stirlingshire 22; Sutherlandshire 2; Wigtonshire 5.

The professions, trades, &c., include, amongst others, the following:—Artist, 12; blacksmith, 7; bookseller, 15; butcher, 1; clerk, 6; commercial traveller, 8; compositor, 5, and newspaper manager, 1; dancing master, 1; detective, 2; draper, 14; editor, 20; education, 5; engineer, 11; factory-worker, 14, overseer, 3, and millworker, 4; farming, 22; gardener, 12; grocer, 9; journalist, 22; law, 22; librarian, 5; literature, 16; medical, 23, chemist, 4; mining, 6; ministry, 121, missionary, 3, and prison chaplain, 1; musician, 8, and music-seller, 5; painter and decorator, 15; police force, 7; post office service, 17; printer, 12; professor, 7; publisher, 8; railway service, 18; molecatcher, 1; shoemaker, 16; soldier, 11; tailor, 19; teaching, 68; and weaving, 15.

Not to speak of towns, there are few villages which cannot boast, if not of a heaven-born poet, at least of a pleasing rhymers whose feet touch the border-land, and who only just miss the crown. We would be the poorer every way for the loss of our humble rhymers; for do they not hallow domestic life by their sweet homely lilt, and they make us all the better by singing of hedgerows and lanes, spring flowers and autumn tints—and, above all, of the joys and sorrows of the ingleside. They are the poets, in a humble way, of the home and the affections, and by their thoughts life seems to grow more refined and softer, and our love of art, of flowers, and of music increases.

The facilities afforded by the modern press has done much to foster and develop the poetic gift, and the opportunities thus afforded has been embraced by all classes. The “rhyming fraternity” are brethren—“a’ John Tamson’s bairns,” and claim kinship with each other, whatever social difference may exist, as did the Highlander who, when asked if he was a relative of The M'Tavish, said he was not, but he had a cousin who knew the M'Tavish's piper.

The highest gifts a man has he enjoys only by sharing them, and while not attempting any clear definition of the poetic instinct and of poetry—while allowing that a poet may be one who sees more than his fellows, and sees it better than most—we think it is well expressed by Dr George Macdonald, who says that “any one who can feel pleasure in poetry is a poet though he had never written a line, and whenever what you say means something more, you have poetry.”

Labour and literature are not incompatible, but are rather often helpmates one to the other. A man may be both a good mechanic and a good poet, although we have had a few proofs of the fact that the man has been debased that the poet might be cultivated, forgetting that it is a duty they owe to God to be men first and poets afterwards.

Our readers will thus be ready to feel the truth of the saying we have already referred to, that of poets and poetry “there is no end.” The old mythologists were not without sense when they made the fountain of song perennial and eternal. Magazines and weekly and daily journals are the principal mediums through which the genius of song finds expression and a place before the public eye. In no age has there been such a volume of fugitive verse as in this. Much of it may be trashy and worthless, but there is much that is in good taste, and masterly in execution. There are poets gifted by nature for their work; we call them born-poets. They know how to seize upon phenomena and events, and utilize them for the benefit of mankind. The best of them are apt to be treated lightly, and the fact of their vocation made a basis for distrust in their relations to lives of practical worth and usefulness. In most instances we have, however, found the reverse to be the case.

A poet used to be considered a creature who, emphatically, was not expected to be like other people; he dwelt apart in the society of the muses as was frequently said. There was, says Jean Ingelow, "no such thing as being a poet in moderation." These habits, it appears, were not thought insufferable in them, any more than it was thought so in Thomson to eat peaches off the wall without first gathering them. Besides, they all knew that they were poets, and so did everybody about them. In the piles of "addresses" we have been compelled to reject, the bent of the writers' minds is much in common with the somewhat coldly expressed opinion of Mr Andrew Lang, who says that "the young writer has usually read a great deal of verse, most of it bad. His favourite authors are the bright lyrists who sing of broken hearts, wasted lives, early deaths, disappointment, gloom. Without having even had an unlucky flirtation, or without knowing what it is to lose a favourite cat, the early author pours forth laments, just like the laments he has been reading. He has, too, a favourite manner, the old consumptive manner, about the hectic flush, the fatal rose on the pallid cheek, about the ruined roof tree, the empty chair, the rest in the village churchyard."

The above leads us to the subject of our own experiences. These have been of a somewhat varied nature—sometimes delicate and disagreeable—often very pleasant and encouraging. Needless to say we have had submitted for approval thousands of verses. At the outset of many of the pieces we found them frequently assuming the form of lamentation after this fashion :—

"Come all you tender Christians
 I pray you now draw near ;
 A doleful lamentation
 I mean to let you hear."

But it did not then follow that one heard a doleful lamentation, for they mostly ended rather pleasantly. "A Scribbler" sent a large selection of very weak material, and modestly concluded his letter thus :—

If you will just hint, and the same state in print—
 In your work of very great fame—
 What you think of my rhymes, I'll write you at times,
 For "Scribbler" you see is my name.

We have incurred the ire of several rhymsters for presuming to abridge some of their pieces, and one, who accused us of punctuating wrong, waxed indignant over a comma appearing at the end of a line instead of a semicolon—a mere matter of opinion. "You have altered the sense of my verse," he wrote, "not as if with a hand, but a hoof, and that brutally stupid."

Here is a writer who defies criticism. His own opinion of his productions is that "Their adamantine merits will never be perturbed by the undervaluing or vilifying breath of inadequate critics—if they be tame, dull, and frivolous, let them cease, unlamented from the public eye, and go uncoffined to an early grave."

"If I am not mistaken," wrote another, "these pieces would really have graced your volume. But, though you are the judge, I think you are mistaken—and prejudiced." Another disappointed one is cruel enough to say—although we endeavoured to reason with him kindly, and humbly tried to point out his shortcomings—"You ought to be ashamed of yourself, for you have acted disgustingly, and I must be plain with you. You would not like to be thought a shuffler, but you seem to have no objection to be very like one. I am a man not easily sat upon, and I venture to say that selfishness, which will not pay in the long run, is the cause of your refusal. I had no great wish to shine in your work at all, but I consider you have no writing in any of your volumes like mine."—This latter assertion is quite true, and it is evident that there is nothing like having a "guid conceit o' yersel."

The contributions, whether in prose or verse, are often wanting neither in logic nor fancy, and are sometimes sarcastic. Here is the note to "The Table," a blank verse poem, in twelve cantos: "It must prove an acquisition to the literature of the age. It has long been a desideratum, and many have already hailed it with enthusiasm. It has strength of feeling, as well as power of thought and a facility of expression. We venture to say—and we put our foot boldly on the assertion—that there is little, if anything, to compete with the solidity of reasoning in the following passage, which occurs in the fifth canto.

Five times 5 are 25 ; five times 6 are 30 ;
Five times 7 are 35 ; five times 8 are 40."

Here is evidently the contemplation of suicide :—

I know it is wrong, but I'm bent on the notion,
I'll throw myself into the deep briny ocean,
Where mud-eels and cat-fish select me for diet,
There soundly I'll slumber beneath the rough billow,
While crabs without number will crawl o'er my pillow.

We have received numerous "Laments," one in particular under the nom-de-plume of "A Squatterer on Parnassus"—a lamentable production, beginning with the words—

"It enraptures me much for to hear the birds sing."

“David,” has not yet attained to the excellence of his great namesake, though in the course of fifteen months he has written on 291 subjects, consisting of upwards of two thousand verses, of which the following is a sample :—

Oh ye black clouds keep up the air,
An’ let the lovely sun shine clear ;
We wish for much of his bright rays,
To hasten on the harvest days—
There is great need of a good crop
To give poor wretched creatures hope.

We have, however, repeatedly met with different and more cheerful experiences, especially in the matter of love ditties. Here is a sample from a happy up-to-date—telephonic—courtship :—

First turn the little handle,
Next ring the little bell,
Then listen for the music
Of the voice you know so well.

Merely coo in the receiver,
And in accents sweet and low
Breathe the tender name of Jenny,
I will answer back “Hello !”

Other disagreeable experiences could have been added, though these are comparatively few when the hundreds, if not thousands, of correspondents we have had are taken into account. We have during these sixteen years formed many valued, valuable, and lasting friendships, and these include many young writers, who in the course of years have felt that they owe a debt of gratitude to one who, much to their chagrin at the time, may have been the means of restraining them from needlessly making themselves ridiculous. Such repulses, in the case of a person of real talent, will only prove a stimulus to greater and more successful exertions.

A London journal recently asserted that the writing and printing of minor verse is "a deplorable waste of energy." But some editors are inclined to be harsh. For example, Mr Peeweep is told that he cannot write poetry, and never will. "The only respectable thing in his work is the name of the publisher." Or, again, "this is one of the many works which daily issue from the press at the author's expense, and from the sale of which he may expect to realise a handsome profit and a glorious reputation. It is dedicated to Professor Gumption—by his permission we shall take the liberty to bury it, in the words of our author:—

'I charge thee with my dying breath,
To take me where my children (M.SS.) sleep,
And lay me where the willows weep,
Where songs of birds e'er greet the ear,
And streams run murmuring sweet and clear,
Where mountain flowers shall ever bloom
Upon my low unheeded tomb.'

Although it is currently stated by certain people that most poets are not of "the most milky dispositions," it is only right to keep in mind that some criticisms are perfect examples of that superfluous operation of breaking a butterfly on the wheel, and should prove a salutary warning to poetical sinners with an itch for type for all time coming. Some take the critic's advice—they go in peace, and sin (in print) no more.

Regarding true criticism in general, it was well put by Professor Saintsbury recently in Blackwood—"It will always remain true that the way in which an author has done his work is the main, if not the sole province of the reviewer or critic. Has he found an allowable, an agreeable, a fairly orderly conception of his subject? Has he shown diligence and accuracy in carrying this conception out?"

About the end of the last century critics were held in extreme disrepute. These were the days of Southey's "seven pounds and a pair of breeches" for six months' reviewing.

Here are some "Observations by a Scathing Reviewer"—"When I look at the severed heads I have a misgiving, not that I have cut off some budding Shakespeares, but that the implacable assertion of a critical judgment is, after all, inhuman. Why should not these little books have their day, and cease to be, like the summer flies? There is no obligation to read them; and, if you have a severe taste in literature, you can gratify it by leaving them uncut. Why should they not give as much pleasure and as many pence to their authors as are consistent with the semi-literate good-nature of the public? And if their merits are trumpeted beyond all reason—well, there will be no echoes a hundred years hence." One wishes that reviewers would take this advice to heart and abstain, as we have said, from breaking butterflies on wheels.

In this connection a Glasgow editor, in the way of mildly sarcastic consolation, says that "there are men who would most willingly give a hundred guineas for a page of 'Hamlet' in Shakespeare's handwriting, and we can hardly guess how much would be given for the grand old ballad, 'Sir Patrick Spens,' in the original manuscript. Of course, it does not require such evidence to prove that the poets, though dead, yet speak, and even more effectively after death; because their personality is then freed from those local and social limitations which rendered them unacceptable to the booted and spurred and silken respectabilities of their time. But there is a new method by which poets and other worthy people may speak after death. As a matter of fact, their veritable voices may still be heard. They have only got to speak into a machine which will repeat their words fifty years after they are reduced to ashes. That machine is, of course, the phonograph."

Speaking of the apparent harshness of editors and critics we read recently a letter of advice from a writer of long experience to a young Oxford man who had chosen "Letters" as his profession. After referring to the "balance, measure, arrangement, lucidity of thought, clearness of style," and such-like expressions, the following, generally sound, advice is given:—"I wish you to understand that you will find hundreds of men—ay, and of women too—at the system of whose education, if you knew it, you would doubtless turn up your classical nose, finding a market for their wares for which you may search in vain. . .

. . . Do not, then, imagine that you will succeed by the particular elegance of your writing alone. There will be rivals all round you to out-Herod you at this game; or your choicest epithets and most nicely balanced periods may be tossed into the wastepaper basket to make room for

Some stupendous
And tremendous (Heaven defend us !)
Monstr'—inform'—ingens—horrend—ous
Demoniaco—Seraphic, Penman's latest piece of graphic.

Literature, you must almost remember, is in the eyes of nearly all editors, and must be, before all things, a commercial speculation. They are not the patrons, but the clients of the public taste, and the dictates of that taste, though they may sigh as critics, they must as editors obey."

Other editors, again, while keenly critical, are anxious to impart useful information to well-meaning writers who possess natural gifts, requiring only experience. Sometimes their productions exhibit poetic fervour, while they ruin a piece by lapses into unmistakeable commonplace. They may not have learned that a sonnet, or, indeed, any other verse, is worthless unless it is, at least apparently, spontaneous. The "well-filed line" is a work of art, and unless labour is bestowed upon it the poet's mind must have undergone such training as to make his craft a second nature; and if the subject chosen be in its treatment incompatible with this condition it had better be let alone.

Editors are often asked by aspirants "how poetry is written"—whether it comes by "inspiration" or slow labour of the brain; whether it is necessary to study the mechanical construction of verse, or whether the idea springs, Minerva-like, full-formed from the Jovian brain; whether poets seek for rhymes in dictionaries, or find them waiting on the point of a pen. A well-known author has declared his opinion that by the careful study of the mechanism of verse and the rules governing it, any person of ordinary intellectual capacity could become a poet. To some extent we differ from this opinion, although we consider that verse may be written in this way if one has the patience to grind it out, but not poetry. We might as well say that any person can become a musical composer who learns the rules governing its construction. Poetry—the poetry which touches the hearts of the readers—must first surge through the heart of the poet independent of any rule, until it reaches his brain, where it shapes itself into form, just as an ocean billow sweeps with unrestrained force and in unpremeditated fashion until it breaks on the shore in glittering spray or mountains of beautiful foam. Correct rhyme, and proper accent and an ear for rhyming sounds, must be born with the poet, or else he is no poet, just as true time and a correct ear must be born with the true musician.

We have met with rhymsters who "hear no true witnesses," who listen with effect to no omens, delicate or palpable, who receive no message from any sphere beyond that of sense. Possessing, often enough, the accomplishment of verse, but wanting the true poet's dowry of imagination, the gift and faculty divine, the gift of seeing a deeper meaning than lies on the surface of common things and common events, they spin their webs of rhymed platitudes, and elaborate acres of verse that will help no one to pursue a better or more valorous career, or to lead a healthier or happier life. We have had many samples submitted exhibiting little to differentiate them from ordinary prose, except a certain number of rhymes, and a determined poverty of expression. They failed to remember that rhythm, in a sense, is the first conceivable thing in nature—that it is that which, indeed, seems to regulate the universe, and to which it is evident almost every animal is susceptible. We are sure our poets know—most of them—that a baby a few months old will sway its body in exact time with the rhythm of the melody which it hears from its mother. Some of the writers, again, failed to conform to the most elementary rules of verse-making. In the case of others, we found the poetical merit not very high, although a simple and sincere spirit pervaded their thought; while all that could be said of some is, that they “wrote at the request of many friends.”

There is a good idea of truth in connecting what is called genius with forceful habit and tireless activity. We allow that there are one-song and one-poem poets. Yet one may write a single poem and give it the touch of immortality; a line may linger as long in the ear of the world as an epic or a lyric. But, as a rule, the man who writes one perfect verse adds to it many of a kindred beauty, and he who paints one great picture covers the walls of the gallery. Genius is energy quite as much as insight, and whether it dwell in Shakespeare or in Michael Angelo it is always the mother of mighty works as well as of great thoughts. In men of genius the same tireless activity, the same forceful habit, are often found; nothing daunts them; nothing subdues them; they make all things tributary to self-expression. There is an element of inspiration in all great work which is never wholly at command; with the greatest as with humbler men, it ebbs and flows. "I am always at work," said a great artist, "and when an inspiration comes I am ready to make the most of it." Inspiration rarely leaves such a man long unvisited.

We know that all minor writers are not good writers, and doubtless many of them will outlive every line they have written; but it is a fact that many of the songs and ballads which have enshrined themselves in the hearts of the people, and that are likely to live with the language in which they are written, have emanated from our minor singers.

Even in these days there is some risk that minor writers may be under-rated. Because their excellence is not that of the more imposing contemporaries, their merits are in danger of being overlooked. Lamb did for literature an important service when he discovered the beauties hidden away in the neglected pages of Shakespeare's contemporaries, and, says a writer on the subject of minor poetry, "we are indebted to various hard-working societies, and to scholarly and laborious editors for a substantial increase of intellectual store. The great works of genius are the prominent peaks of the range, along which there are varieties of the type that individually provoke and amply repay special and close examination."

The impression made on one after a perusal of the simple productions of our poets is, in effect, as was once said of Coleridge, that the words seem common words enough, but in the order of them, in the choice, variety, and position of the vowel sounds they become magical. "The most decrepit vocable in the language throws away its crutches to dance and sing at their piping." Of course we have found rhyming sparrows who mistook their weak chirpings for song.

Many men and women in our time do write verses that are admirable alike for feeling and expression, for sentiment, if not for creative power. And if we call these writers "minor poets," we are perhaps doing no injustice to them, nor to the art they practise. And this lessens the difficulty of the critic, who is often in sore straits to decide whether there is genuine poetry before him, or whether it is the production of a mere versifier. Take courage, therefore, ye humble ones, for hear what was lately said for your encouragement — "It is the curse of greatness in poetry to be forgotten, or, at all events, not to be much remembered, while the songs of the veriest pedlar, weaver, cobbler, or barber are sung in the streets, in rooms-and-kitchens, in workshops, in palaces, and in the remotest isles and huts of the Empire. They will, in fact, persist in being immortal, in spite of the critical gravediggers. This is the heavenly consolation and reward of poetic humility. Out of the mouths of tramps, beggars, spinners, weavers, and ploughmen is poetic wisdom perfected. It is Nature's doing."

Indeed, the majority of our writers have supplied us with productions which show that they feel that the great tendency of poetry is to form an alliance with our best affections, and that its purpose is to carry the mind above and beyond the beaten, dusty, weary walks of ordinary life; to lift it into a purer element, and to breathe into it more profound and generous emotion. As Dr Channing puts it — "Poetry reveals to us the loveliness of nature, brings back the freshness of early feeling, revives the relish of simple pleasures, keeps unquenched the enthusiasm which warmed the spring-time of our being, refines youthful love, strengthens our interest in human nature by vivid delineations of its tenderest and loftiest feelings, spreads our sympathies over all classes of society, knits us by new ties with universal being, and through the brightness of its prophetic visions helps faith to lay hold on the future life."

Like James Hogg, the Ettrick Shepherd, who ascribes a separate vitality to his compositions, the productions of some appear to carry them on. He was wont to wonder, even more than others did, at his own work. "Aye, ye're a learned man," he sometimes said to Christopher, "there's nae doot aboot that, wi' yer Virgils, and Homers, and Dantes, and Petrarchs. But aiblins ye mind yon fragment upon the sclate that ye despised the ither mornin'; eh, man, sinsyne, it's ettling to turn oot the very best thing I ever composed, an' that's no saying little, ye ken."

It has been truly said that our sweetest song birds never soar high. The mavis, the blackbird, the lintie, and other songsters who trill out their sweet notes in our woods and groves all keep near the ground, and their song is short and unsustained. The skylark is not a sweet singer—he is a brilliant artist that dazzles you with his power and abandon rather than feeds your heart with the soft, dreamy music which soothes and fills it with joy.

We often hear the poet described by the metaphysician as a man of genius, as possessing a lofty, a powerful, or lively imagination, and by numerous other fanciful epithets; yet, after all, the class of persons who acquire the truest insight into the capabilities and the spiritual workings of the poet are his ordinary readers, who, themselves endowed with healthy intellectual and moral constitutions, are in reality deeply touched by his glowing thought. Their views are not enchained in the meshes of any subtle impracticable theories. They see in him one whose intellectual glance stretches farther and penetrates deeper than their own. Indeed, it is a singular fact in the history of literature that it is the popular mind of a country which forms the truest and most lasting criticism on its poetical productions. Long before the critics of the last and the beginning of the present century had stamped their approval on the works of Burns, his songs were sung with enthusiasm in every cottage and lordly home in Scotland. They had fanned the flame of love and friendship in thousands of hearts, and cheered the drooping spirits of many a wayfaring Scotsman in distant lands long before the conventional critic had described their true merits.

The poet does not arise among his countrymen to represent any new form of sentiment, but, on the contrary, to impress them more deeply with the true nature of that which has existed and exists around him.

It is often asserted that the tastes of the Scottish people are not at all artistic, and that their commercial interests have received a more careful training than the finer parts of their nature. In the opinion of some this may be the case, and the root of the matter seemed to have been touched recently by Lord Balfour of Burleigh when he pointed out that the long centuries of almost continual anarchy, the striving of the greater and lesser barons among themselves and against the throne, and the terrible poverty and semi-slavery of the great mass of the people were enough to account for the neglect of art. "There was," he adds, "a more potent cause—one which it would have been hazardous to put forward not so many years ago, but one which, in these more enlightened days, can be at least whispered. That the pre-

Reformation Church of Scotland was artistic in the mediæval sense is testified by numerous ecclesiastical edifices—most of them, unfortunately, in ruins—throughout our country. Even in the rudest times these were held in respect, and without a doubt their fine proportions and beautiful details would have a civilizing effect in the minds of a rude peasantry and of the turbulent barons. But the Reformation came. It swept away abuses, and in the course of time a better state of things was instituted; but in its immediate train disaster followed. ‘Pull down the nests, and the rooks will fly away’ was the watchword. In too many cases the ‘nests,’ the only artistic monuments of which Scotland could boast, were ruthlessly pulled down, and the ‘rooks’ were banished. Surely the obnoxious birds could have been banished without so much destruction. The revulsion of feeling against the previous state of things was so great that to be an artist—a painter of pictures—was to be a vagabond; to be an actor, an emissary of the Evil One; to be a poet, an idler from whom a terrible account would be required at the latter day. The finer work of which mankind is capable was tabooed; bran and muscle were in every instance placed above brain.” No doubt the indignant and virulent invectives of the muse had a powerful influence in bringing the abettors of tyranny and the mummeries of superstition into contempt, and paved the way for the happy change which followed the ever-memorable Reformation. Before then the lyre sounded “the noise of the warrior, and garments rolled in blood.” Silence and solitude reposed sweetly together, undisturbed save by the howl of the faithful dog, who had escaped the carnage, or the expiring groans of the trusty menial, who had received his death wound in the defence of his master, and was just expiring in his blood. The Reformers, however, diffused among the peasantry a nobler spirit, until every hill became vocal, and every stream murmured in verse. To pursue the paths of peaceful industry, to live and to love became the subjects of her panegyrics.

Soon after the curtain of the nineteenth century arose, thoughtful men began to fear that, in the outburst of industrial fertility, the coming generation would consist of men whose various capacities might, in various degrees, range between the multiplication table and the ledger. But it was found that literature and art were not to languish and decline, and the sun of poetry and those stars which are the affections and aspirations of the human soul were not to pale before the gas-lamp and the crucible. It is by the affections of the human heart and by the faculty to love and to revere that nations and families live, and the true poet thrills us with these life pulses.

Thus times change. Intellect, under whatever form it is developed, is now regarded with respect; while bodily strength and commercial enterprise have suffered nothing by the change.

An immense change has taken place in the condition of the literary world within the current century, and more particularly during the last thirty years. Above all, perhaps, has its influence been observable in relation to poetry. Periodical literature is a production of this century, in all its existing phases, from quarterly reviews to penny magazines, and newspapers may even justly be accounted the growth of the same recent era—those previously published having been scarcely more than mere gazettes, recording opinions rather than bare public and business facts. Of late this field has been the outlet for the ebullitions of youthful poetic genius.

The influences of full-grown periodicalism extend now to all who can read and write. It entices within its vortex those who exhibit an unusually fair share of early literary promise, involves them in its multitudinous and multifarious occupations, and divides and subdivides the operations of talent, until former prominent identity or great literary individuality is destroyed, both in work and workers.

Is it not the case that a literature of this description forms the very best possible evidence of the advancing civilization of recent days, and much valuable matter is through it put forth, to the lasting benefit of society?

Before we can thoroughly understand a piece of poetry we must have gained some knowledge of the ideas which are conveyed by words; we must endeavour to learn to feel the minute distinctions of feelings conveyed by different words, and arrangements of words. Substitute gradations of light for words, and the same will apply to painting, in gazing at which we must endeavour to set aside the mere story, and give ourselves entirely up to the wonderful effect of colour and form, for only thus can the picture produce on us the effect intended by the painter. Sometimes we are apt to forget, however, that beauty consists quite as much in the absence of disturbing elements as in the presence of attractive ones. The art of leaving out is important, if not everything. You have but to chip away the unnecessary pieces of a marble block and a statue remains.

Without doubt, the sense of beauty is in these days increasing in the human mind, and we are becoming more capable of seeing the beautiful and enjoying it. Indeed, with many it has become a science and a culture, with a language of its own and formulated principles. But still the beautiful for each one depends on an inner vision, or an indefinable taste of the soul; and the deepest sense of beauty—that which makes it a possession of the spirit—grows out of that sympathy with the unseen life of the universe in which we live and move and have our being, which we call faith. The hidden Creator sustains all, shapes all, and is the reality of all. The fascination of the beauty of nature is its Divine mystery. The atmosphere through which vision sees its most subtle forms and colours is the consciousness of a Divine presence. The fulness of the earth's beauty, as much as the fulness of its produce, is the gift of God.

Much is said by critics on the subjects of diction and movement, of truth and sensuousness. From these qualifications, no doubt, one has to be guided in seeking to find the substance and matter of the highest type of poetry. Aristotle observes that the superiority of poetry over history consists in its possessing "a higher truth and a higher sensuousness." "There can be no more useful help for discovering what poetry belongs to the class of the truly excellent, and can, therefore, do us most good," said Matthew Arnold in "Essays in Criticism" (2nd series), "than to have always in one's mind lines and expressions of the great masters, and apply them as a touchstone to the other poetry. Of course, we are not to require this other poetry to resemble them; it may be very dissimilar. But if we have any tact we shall find them, when we have lodged them well in our minds, an infallible touchstone for detecting the presence or absence of high poetic quality, and also the degree of this quality, in all other poetry which we may place beside them. If we are thoroughly penetrated by their power, we shall find we have acquired a sense enabling us, whatever poetry may be laid before us, to feel the degree in which a high poetical quality is present or wanting there. Critics give themselves great labour to draw out what, in the abstract, constitutes the characters of a high quality of poetry. It is much better simply to have recourse to concrete examples—to take specimens of poetry of high quality, and to say :—The characters of a high quality of poetry are what is expressed there. They are far better recognised by being felt in the verse of the master than by being perused in the prose of the critic.” On the other hand, it has been pertinently remarked that by the study of popular poetry, or what is written with the true air of genius in dialect form, we are brought nearer to the life of a people than, in these hurried days, we can be by travel.

A true poet must, in addition to harmony, imagination, rhyme, and rhythm, be endowed with “sincerity and depth of vision,” the common sense and experience of the man of the world, the keen and profound insight of the philosopher, and an intuition bordering on the prophetic. In a word, his must be the breadth of vision of one to whom it has been granted, albeit “it may not always be required of him to dwell upon the heights,” at least to breathe there long enough to judge men and things from the highest standpoint of all. As was recently said by a writer in the Quarterly Review, “the poet is no photographer or shorthand writer, to give us mere scenes and speeches as they actually occurred. He sees into the life of things—and then so handles those things as to make them represent the life better than they—the materials supplied by Nature—can.” In every poet there are, as it were, two beings, the man who sees and thinks and feels, and the artist who provides a beautiful form for the outcome of the man. But though every poet must be both man and artist, there are many who only give just enough form to their thoughts to ensure their immortality, while there are others whose feeling for beauty and harmony is cultivated at the expense of their humanity. Thus the poet unveils, discovers for us, ordinary mortals, truths which we could not discover for ourselves, and puts these in forms which we can apprehend when so shown to us, and which are so beautiful that we are attracted by their beauty before we appreciate their truth and goodness. For though no poetry deserves the name if it be not true and good, its primary purpose is and ought to be to give pleasure; and in giving pleasure, to awaken in us the germs of truth and goodness.

Hazlitt says—"Poetry is the language of the imagination and the passions—that fine particle within us that expands, rarifies, refines, raises our whole being; without it man's life is poor as beasts." We consider such definitions, by great minds, are worthy of much consideration. Victor Hugo declares that "an idea steeped in verse becomes suddenly more incisive and more brilliant—the iron becomes steel." "The mere study of poetry," says P. W. Darinton in his "Poetry as a Means of Mental and Moral Culture," "is an important element in the true education of every man," and this ought to be kept in view, not only in the training of the young, but throughout life. There is no time when the study of poetry is unsuitable or useless, just as education and instruction are actually proceeding side by side from childhood to age. Not a few there are who consider poetry as a mere means of light amusement—its only end being to give a passing gleam of pleasure. We do not deny its use as a recreation, but we hold that it has far higher and more important ends to serve. Bacon says, in his pithy, pregnant way:—"Poetry may justly be esteemed of a Divine nature, as it raises the mind by accommodating the images of things to our desires, and not, like history and reason, subjecting the mind to things. And by these, its charms and congruity to the mind, with the assistance also of music, which conveys it the sweeter, it makes its own way."

"Poetry is the impassioned expression on the face of science," says Wordsworth. George Macdonald says—"After reading in a botanical book about a certain plant, you go to some green nook in a wood and see a yellow flower. You exclaim: 'A primrose!' and a something comes over you which you cannot express; that is the meaning of the definition of Wordsworth. Science is the scaffolding; poetry is the house. It would be a dull world if it were all science. Yet geometry, the dullest of the sciences, has endless suggestions of poetry. Emotion excited by flowers came very near to love. But how can we love a thing that has no consciousness? Everything that lived and took to itself nourishment from the earth had some kind of consciousness, and he believed science was coming to that opinion. Science always followed close on the heels of poetry."

Milton defines poetry as "simple, sensuous, and passionate." Coleridge defines it as consisting of "the best words in the best places." "Enlarge this," says Professor Palgrave, into "the best words in the best places, for sense and sound and metre, and the definition will be complete. With such words poetry does the work in turn of architecture, sculpture, painting, music. The mind only—head and heart, but heart through head—is addressed by poetry." Again, we have Edgar Allan Poe saying in one of his letters—"Music, when combined with a pleasureable idea is poetry; music, without the idea, is simply music; the idea, without the music, is prose."

The foregoing gives us a glimpse of what poetry may be to all if it be carefully and diligently studied; and surely if these are the effects of the study of poetry, it plays no unimportant part in mental and moral culture.

We should not allow our early love of poetry to die away. The world is prosaic enough to most men who have travelled as far as the hill summit of life, and we lose much delight, much refreshment, much mental and spiritual stimulus by neglecting to cherish the fair visions and high imaginings which poetry supplies. The tendency of the constant study of mere physical objects, of rigid and exact laws, is to materialize the mind, to confine the thoughts to the narrow bounds of the senses, and to deny the existence of anything except that with which the senses can deal. Dr John Brown says, in a comment upon some words of Ruskin: "I believe there has been no true discoverer from Galileo and Kepler to Davy and Owen without wings; these Nimrods of possible truth have ever had as their stoutest, staunchest hound, a powerful imagination to find and point the game." The study of poetry quickens the idealising power of the mind by clothing common objects with the light and grace of beautiful associations. This was Wordsworth's deliberate purpose. He says, "The principal object which I proposed to myself was to choose incidents and situations from common life, and to relate or describe them, as far as possible, in a selection of language really used by men, and at the same time to throw over them a certain colouring of imagination whereby ordinary things should be presented to the mind in an unusual way."

The greatest poets of the world are said to be popular by a kind of sublime commonplace. They transform the common motives and passions of man's life into a higher meaning without losing their natural simplicity and obviousness. But this gift belongs only to the few. It is constantly present in Shakespeare, and in Wordsworth at times. Nor is it always equally present even in those who have it. Others, again, are popular by artistic commonplace, if we may so call the expression of ideas of average quality, taking the standard from the audience to whom they are addressed, in a pleasing and appropriate form. Longfellow furnishes an almost perfect type of this kind of popularity. Skill and equability of execution are needed to redeem it from sinking into vulgarity, and failures, quite compatible, however, with temporary success, are many. There are others who have their own ideas and their own forms of imagination, but cannot express themselves in a universal form; and these though true, and it may be great, poets never become popular. The absence of the popular quality has many diverse roots and forms. It may be a stately elaboration of scholarship, as with Milton, or it may be, as with Shelley, a lyrical exquisiteness that lives in an air of its own, which the reader must learn to breathe. What is required for understanding the poet is not merely scholarship, or attuning oneself to a certain mood, but a subtle, intellectual sympathy, which nature may happen to provide, but otherwise must be compassed with more or less effort.

We have not a few proofs of the influence the writings of one poet has had over other poets. A notable example is that which is known to have been exerted by Coleridge's "Christabel"—an influence that may be traced on the genius of Scott, Shelley, and Byron. It was an influence that Scott acknowledged with all his characteristic frankness, and Byron, too, though with more reserve, for it was not his habit to acknowledge or perhaps to recognise such influences. "Christabel" was circulated in manuscript many years before it was published; and, recited among the poets, it made, especially on their minds, an impression that proved an agency of poetic inspiration to them. Mr Lockhart tells us that the casual recitation of "Christabel" in Scott's presence so "fixed the music of that noble fragment in his memory," that it prompted the production of the "Lay of the Last Minstrel." It was a great lesson to the poets, in that it disclosed an unknown, or at least forgotten, freedom and power in versification—a music the echoes of which are to be heard in the poems both of Scott and Byron. The grandeur of its imagery, too, moved the poets to whom it was made known, as in that sublime and familiar passage on a broken friendship :

They stood aloof, the scars remaining,
Like cliffs which had been rent asunder ;
A dreary scene now flows between ;
But neither heat, nor frost, nor thunder,
Shall wholly do away, I ween,
The marks of that which once hath been.

The poetic faculty is thus the idealising power of the human mind—that power which creates out of the materials already possessed new types or images; that power which we call intuition, and by which we are made capable of apprehending realities that are out of the range of the senses. How often have men of science, amid their close and plodding researches, been met with dim presentiments of great truths—grand generalisations, which have been the work of the imagination, leaping forward, and anticipating the slow processes of reason and experiment.

We thus realise the importance of the study of poetry, especially in the earlier years, as a means of cultivating the imagination. As Mr Dauntton, from whom we have already quoted, puts it—"Even the most 'poetical' man may be convinced, by a little thought on the subject, that a faculty which has so important a part to play even in scientific research, which is essential to the orator, the historian, the politician, is one which is worth cultivating."

The question "What will a child learn sooner than a song?" (or a rhyme of any kind) must ever be negatively answered; and so long as such continue to be the first things committed to memory, so long will they continue to form and to influence modes of thinking. The natural consequence is therefore that, a national character once formed, song is the most happy expedient for rendering it permanent. What has first awakened the admiration of youth can never fail to be the delight of old age, and hence the sire may be the means of inspiring the son with the same sentiments and feelings through a long line of succeeding generations.

The late George Gilfillan, in one of his eloquent speeches, once said—"When a man achieves a world-wide fame, where does the ray shine most brightly, and communicate its warmest glow? It is in the roof-tree of his birth, if that be still standing, and to the heart of his mother, if that mother be still alive. And on this principle those names of Scotsmen which have become household words in every clime the sun's broad circle warms, while admired with intense enthusiasm in other lands, are in Scotland, in their own mother's humble dwelling, cherished with a love with which no stranger can intermeddle. And what although Scotland should dwindle in the scale of nations, and be swallowed up in the great centralising gulf-stream which threatens to erase her nationality? There are 'livers out of Britain'; there are Caledonians 'o'er the hills and far awa''; there are mighty Scotch-sprung races in the American prairies, the Canadian forests, and the golden lands of Australia, in India and New Zealand, who shall continue to remember with pride and joy their connection not only with Scotland's hills and streams, but with Scotland's mountain-like men and river-like literature—with her Wallace, her Bruce, her Buchanan, her Knox, her Chalmers, her Burns, and her Scott—who shall teach their children after them to reverence their memories and to read their writings."

And yet to succeed in writing verse adapted to the unsophisticated mind of childhood is a difficulty generally admitted. To be simple without being silly—to embody wise thoughts in simple but chaste and elegant words—and to influence the youthful mind through the affections, by engaging pictures of love and home, of truth and gentleness, is an achievement of no mean order. He must possess the deep-toned joy of the Poet who feels all the beauty of the earth and the sky pulsing through his nerves and raising his heart to quick intuitions and melodious numbers; the joy of the student when the luminous outlines of truth begin to shape themselves before his mind in connected form and startling beauty; the mystical joy of a love which has just won an answering love, the deep-toned joy of the mother in the dawning life of her child.

Taking this general principle along with us, the feelings and sentiments—said or sung—thus transmitted are, however, not always worthy of such sacred preservation. We incidentally referred to our young friends of the "wailing" or "greetin'" school, mainly with the hope that our remarks might encourage them and lead them to realise that they will see things ten years hence in a very different light from what they do at present. They will probably do more and write less when they obtain an extended knowledge of the world and their own position in it. Maudlin lamentation will be given over for elevating themes, and then farewell to doleful lamentations written with the stump of a pen on a damp hillock, and wrestling with the sobbing muse that the world may be told how bad it is—reminding us of the rough-spun stanza of Burns :—

Alas ! my roopit muse is hearse,
Your honours' hearts wi' grief 'twould pierce
To see her sitting ;

Skreichin' oot prosaic verse,
An' like to burst.

Formerly lovers had a wonderful propensity towards dying, and had a pretty miscellaneous assortment of what either is, or may readily be converted into, the agents of death. Not only knives and poison and ropes, but also high rocks, peaceful rivers, and grand old trees were pressed into service, and mustered up in horrible array to soften the heart of the obdurate fair one. Even when all these were not sufficient, the terror of his ghost haunting her steps and hovering over her bed for a thousand years to come, was esteemed an expedient that could not fail to move her. But now he is generally fortified by the strength of his mind and a vein of general good sense. In a case of insurmountable aversion he relinquishes the pursuit, and consoling himself with the truthful adage—"There's as guid fish in the sea as ever cam' oot o't," he turns to a quarter where his attentions may be more acceptable, and afford at the same time a fairer prospect of future felicity.

We are told that the savage who deliberately roasts his helpless victim before a slow fire, or tears the living flesh from his bones, has his song of triumph. With perhaps pertinacious obstinacy, men hold up the more ancient and legendary verses of their own country as superior to that of every other. It is the vehicle of their more ardent emotions, and, as it were, is interwoven with their very existence. "The Irish strum," it has been said, "with its bulls and blunders ; the English doggerel in praise of bacon and buttered parsnips ; our own lilt of love adventures, murders, and ghosts, are all charming to the ear which has been early accustomed to them on account of the many associations which they have always the power to awaken." A mother or a grandmother may have been accustomed to chant a particular stanza ; or it was a dear departed friend, or perhaps the verse was heard under such peculiar state of feeling that the person never hears it again without being ready to exclaim—

" I feel a power thou canst not feel,
I see a hand thou canst not see."

That a very considerable degree of the veneration with which we regard even our best and most popular songs arises from this cause, it would be foolish to dispute. And after every reasonable deduction on this head has been made, a Scotsman may still be proud of his national song, and we may safely compare it with any other, nor fear to suffer by the comparison.

The Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education, Toronto, at a great meeting held recently to do honour to one of our bards—Alexander MacLachlan, Amaranth, Ontario—in the course of an eloquent speech referred to the fact that MacLachlan (and the same may be said of many of the poets we have had under review) may have neither the keen insight into the human heart, nor the accuracy of diction, nor the wide sweep of imagination, nor the purity of thought, nor the freshness and vigour which characterise the great poets of the present century. Yet "every star is not a sun, every mountain is not an Alp, every flower is not a rose." Most of our singers have simply been those who

Have tried to learn from Nature
What our little life can mean,
And to catch some wav'ring echoes
Wandering from the world unseen.

Estimated by the three great tests of the true poet—love of nature, love of the ideal, and love of country—their claims to an honoured position can be conclusively established. Love of country is a characteristic by which the bard, in all ages, has won his brightest laurels. In fact the chief vocation of the ancient bard was to sing the praises of the heroes of his country, and to inspire to deeds of valour and of daring in order that his honour and renown might be enhanced. Ossian's heroes would have no meaning but for this purpose. Sir Walter Scott's words never possessed more fire than when he described the man without love of country as a man who died

Unwept, unhonoured, and unsung.

And how beautifully Burns' great heart welled out when he wrote

Oh, Scotia, my dear my native soil.

It is clear that the glory of popular poetry, while retaining what may be termed its local fascination, rises into the universal. Planted like a tree by the river of a nation's life, it rises above the mist and smoke of the valley atmosphere, and flings its boughs into the sunlit sky that vaults the world. The main facts of human life, the grand aspects of physical nature, are recognisable all the world over; and the poet of a neighbourhood, if only he is sufficiently imbued with poetical genius, and sings of what he sees and loves, will become a poet of the race. The poetry of Scotland, so widely connected with the noble instincts, the kindly affections, the heroic impulses, and the exalted aspirations of mankind, will be accepted as a treasure wherever human heart answers to human heart.

Professor Blackie, in one of his works, treats of the value and significance of local and popular poetry, as illustrated by that of Scotland, in contradistinction to universal poetry. He says—"The songs that please the great mass of the people are the songs that flowed most directly and most potently from the heart of the people ; and whosoever wishes to know the people, must know and love their songs. If, as Richter, with his usual wisdom, said, the way to a mother's heart is through her children, and the way to a people's heart is through their mother-tongue ; the utterance of this mother-tongue which goes most directly to the popular heart is the popular song ; and whosoever has to do with the people will find that a single well-timed verse from a popular ballad will prove more effective to point his address, and strengthen his influence, than the most weighty sentence from an infallible Aristotle or a universal Shakespeare. Nor is this without reason—the people do not feed on soap-bubbles ; the songs which they sing are not pretty fancies or dainty conceits, but they have a root in fact, a growth in experience, a blossom in the dramatic incidents, and a fruit in the ripe wisdom of life. The Scottish songs are not the songs of Ramsay, or Burns, as men with a special personality to reveal, but the songs of the Scottish people, of whom Ramsay, and Burns, and a host of others were merely the spokesmen for the nonce. Individual genius has its sphere of exalted influence among the sympathetic few, but unless its productions be, like Shakespeare's, as popular as they are peculiar, they never can compete in interest with the poetry which is the glowing expression and the typical embodiment of the higher life, and the notable fates of a whole people. This poetry, though it cannot boast the rarity, the novelty, or the originality of a few extraordinary and brilliantly abnormal men, is, like the heather on the hills and the birch in the glen, the more agreeable, the more catholic it is in its diffusion, and the more characteristic in its graces."

On the subject of the influence and power of Scottish song, we feel that we cannot do better than quote a communication from our countryman, Mr Andrew Carnegie of New York, in the course of which he says:—"Scottish song holds sway over us because it is true—the embodiment of our surroundings, our hopes and fears, trials and triumphs. It is home-made—a product of our hearths and hearts, without foreign mixture or affectations. It comes from nature, and has less of art in its development than any other body of song. From within, outward, and from nature, upward, has been its course. The folk-song of a romantic, poor, struggling people, harrassed by internal and external war, harried, overborne, and yet always asserting itself as a thing of the spirit; therefore in its life immortal! A sad, sad song in the minor key, but ever with the lilt of hope and a strain of heroic and indomitable purpose running through it, like a golden thread drawn from the rainbow of a future, when all should be made glad and the chosen people come to their heritage. Of all the precious legacies that can come to a nation, such folk-song as Scotland possesses ranks among the best. It refines, softens and intensifies the national character, and makes of every Scotsman two men: one practical, shrewd, level-headed; the other, touched with the rays of poetry and romance (beyond those of any other nation). It was a Scotsman who said—'Let me make the ballads of a nation and I care not who makes the laws.' None but a Scotsman could have rated so highly the influence of song, for in no other nation does song so permeate and form the national life. Take from that stern land of the north its legacy of song, and Scotland would cease to be Scotland, and the world would no longer be able to distinguish Scottish traits in its people. The Scotsman would not know himself; for the folk-song of his country has so entered into his being that, robbed of it, he would no longer be Scotch. The burn without its wimple, the heather without its glow, the breeze without its whisper, and the lark without its trill—such would be the Scotsman bereft of poetry and song !”

And it is not out of place to show further, from a well-known authority, what strangers think who visit our country and our people. Dr Talmage says :—“ Next to my own beloved country give me Scotland for residence and grave. The people are in such downright earnest. There is such a roar in their mirth, like a tempest in the Trossachs. When on the platform a speaker must have his feet well planted, or he will be overmastered by the sympathy of the audience. They are not ashamed to cry, with their broad palms wiping away the tears, and they make no attempt at suppression of glee. They do not simper, or snicker, or chuckle. Throw a joke at a Scotsman’s ear and it rolls down to the centre of his diaphragm and then spreads out both ways, towards the foot and brow, until the emotion becomes volcanic, and from the longest hair on the crown of his head to the tip end of the nail on the big toe there is paroxysm of cachinnation. No half and half about the Scots character. A Scotsman seldom changes. By the time he has fairly landed on his feet in this world he has made up his mind, and he keeps it made up. If he dislikes a fiddle in church you cannot smuggle it under the name of a bass viol. And I like this persistence.”

“ One does not require to travel very far south of the Tweed,” says another discerning visitor, “ to find a considerable sprinkling of people who entertain two somewhat extraordinary ideas regarding the Scotch. The first is a pettish sort of opinion that it were well if the Scotch people confined themselves to Scotland. The other idea charges the Scotch people with a want of hospitality. What has given rise to this impression I cannot at all imagine, unless it be the fact that the average Scotchman, especially abroad, is very pushing and saving, and there are undoubtedly some who are just a little bit grasping—qualities, however, which are not peculiar to Scotchmen. Nor do I think these qualities are incompatible with a genuine spirit of hospitality. Speaking from personal experience, I must say that the kindly and warm-hearted attention with which I was treated, in many cases by people to whom I was an utter stranger, was, to my eye, a splendid and sweeping reply to the insinuation to which I have referred. If Mr John Bull or anybody else goes amongst the Scotch in a surly overbearing manner he will certainly meet with disappointment if he expect the Scotch people to embrace him; but if he will try to imagine for the moment that he is not everybody, and that the Scotch people are somebodies, he will stand a very fair chance of being treated in Scotland in as hospitable a manner as in any country under the sun."

At the risk of being accused of having been carried beyond our original purpose, and thus owing our readers an apology for digressing, we feel that we cannot close without a reference to the use of "Oor Mither tongue." Regarding what is called "The Scottish Dialect," and in these days, "The Kailyard tongue," so cultured and learned an authority as Lord Moncrieff once said that, "although rough in its syntax, abnormal in a great degree in its structure, exceptional also in its pronunciation, its materials have been so welded together by the blows of giants, that it now presents a mass so compact, so available, so forcible as to be equal to any language that was ever spoken or written. Like the granite of the north, it requires for its proper use both labour and skill, but when these are applied by the hand of genius it is susceptible of as high a polish as the more classic marble of the south, and perhaps may be destined to a future still more enduring. Less sonorous than the Latin, less copious than the German, less noble than the French, is it not a noble vehicle of thought, capable of expressing all that the intellect can conceive and the heart can feel in a manner alike terse, dignified, and rhythmical." This is a long quotation, but we cannot help farther referring to the fact that his Lordship goes on to say, in effect, that in the Scottish dialect are preserved, both as regards vocabulary and pronunciation, some at least of the characteristics of the English language in the earlier stages of its literature. "There are traces," he says, "to be found even in the dramatists of the period of Elizabeth that many of those distinctive words are gems reft from the coronet of English literature and preserved amidst the mists and mountains of the north." It is pleasing to think that, if we have borrowed much from our relations in the south, the English education in broad Scotch is considerably advanced now, and our friends can enter with full enjoyment into our humour. There was a certain amount of truth in the saying of the witty divine that it requires a surgical operation to get a joke into the head of a Scotsman. Yet it was no doubt English jokes that were meant, and these required the point of a scalpel to introduce them. English wit moves more rapidly than the deliberate Scot can always follow. His humour is dry and slow. The real humour and pathos of Scotsmen is to be found in the delineations of Burns and Scott. The writings of the one have made the writings of the other more appreciated, better known, and better understood—in fact household words. We have seen that the cradle of Scotch poetry—the writings of Dunbar—was in motion one hundred years before Shakespeare. Dunbar wrote "The Rose and the Thistle"—an emblem of the future union of the crowns and kingdoms, but a hundred years before it. From 1620, however, until Ramsay struck the Scottish lyre, the harp of Scotland was almost mute. This doubtless was owing to the union of the Crowns, for our language and idiom then ceased to be a national language and became a dialect. One can well judge of the difficulty of a Scotch poet making his way in royal circles after the union by the wonder with which the court of Elizabeth must have received the new monarch—speaking broad Scotch. But the time of awakening came, and Burns taught his countrymen what strains could be evoked from Scotland's musical but deserted lyre. He painted that true Scottish character which he loved so well with exquisite skill and discriminating fidelity, full of lights and shadows, of contradictions and anomalies, homely prudence and practical sagacity, combined with high courage and tenderness of heart, ardent love of the very soil of Scotland, and yet stronger love of adventure and ambition to rise which led so many Scots abroad in pursuit of fame and fortune. We are disposed to accept as a compliment the assertion of a popular English writer, that where a woman or a child is concerned a Scotsman is a sentimental idiot! But we utterly repudiate the satire of Sydney Smith referred to above—for few will dispute that one of the most marked characteristics of our countrymen is a keen and living sense of humour, tempered and moderated only by a genuine spirit of religious reverence.

But we are afraid we tire our readers. The theme is evidently a larger one than at first we felt it to be. We, however, do not think that any apology will be asked,

or is needed for these lengthy and well-worded "testimonies."

Now-a-days, when the excessive division of labour is only counterbalanced by the intercommunication of ideas, shrewd Scotsmen are alive to the fact that to draw a cordon round one little corner of the earth would be what has been called an act of suicidal quarantine. They recognise that the world was made wide, and they travel by an instinct of intellectual preservation.

When once planted down, even in a barren land, a peculiarity of the thistle as a typically northern production is its power of getting on in the world, and of flourishing and multiplying in circumstances where other and ordinary plants would starve. George Eliot somewhere remarks that nettle-seed needs no digging. It would be equally correct to say that thistle-seed needs no sowing. Like its dandelion neighbours, the thistle sends off its seeds as wind-borne specks. The seeds are distributed far and near, and the race soon spreads in a kind of geometrical ratio. It is therefore no light thing to bring even one thistle-head into a new country, for the plant is an enterprising colonist. As has been remarked, "wherever the battles of the Empire are to be fought, wherever the greatness of the Empire is to be advanced, or the work of the Empire to be done, Scotsmen are there in the van to do it."

Lord Roberts, speaking in his "Forty-One Years in India" of the first breach made in the walls of Lucknow during the mutiny, tells us that a Highlander reached the goal first, and was immediately shot dead—"A drummer boy of the 93rd must have been one of the first to pass that grim boundary between life and death, for when I got in I found him just inside the breach, lying on his back, quite dead—a pretty, innocent-looking, fair-haired lad, not more than fourteen years of age." With regard to his return south after the successful completion of the Afghan campaign, the gallant General, in another portion of the volume referred to, says:—"Riding through the Bolan Pass, I overtook most of the regiments marching towards Sibi, thence to disperse to their respective destinations. As I parted with each corps in turn, its band played 'Auld Lang Syne,' and I have never since heard that memory-stirring air without its bringing before my mind's eye the last view I had of the Kabul-Kandahar Field Force. I fancy I hear the martial beat of drums and plaintive music of the pipes. . . . I shall never forget the feeling of sadness with which I said good-bye to the men who had done so much for me."

In spite of their different origin and different languages Highlanders and Lowland Scotch have long been at unity in regard to national feeling. Both are intensely patriotic. As Buckle said, "the chief glory of the Scotch was that, next to their God, they loved their country. At the same time the Scotch were the most ubiquitous and cosmopolitan of people." It has indeed been said that a Scotchman was never more at home than when he was abroad. A well-known story is told of an English interpreter with a Turkish army who was expressing his dislike of the Scotch when one of the Turkish soldiers broke out—"Gin ye dare abuse my countrymen I'll gae ye a clout on the lug that ye'll no forget till Hallowe'en, for I'm Willie Forbes o' the Gorbals." Soon after this a Russian prisoner was brought in, and to the surprise of the interpreter, he and William Forbes turned out to be countrymen, and soon joined hands in singing "Auld Lang Syne."

The Scotsman is thus an ubiquitous creature. Go where you will you cannot entirely free yourself from his presence, or escape from the circle of his influence.

"The prophetic insinuation has been advanced," said an American at a "Caledonian" meeting recently, "that if ever success should crown the hardy explorer's search for the North Pole, an Irishman will be found complacently enjoying a smoke on the top of it. We are prepared to stake our bottom dollar that if Pat hasn't the company of a Scotsman in his smoke, it's only because the Scot will have gone to investigate the nature of his surroundings."

In the field, in the council, in science and art,
With valour, with wisdom, and genius, thy part
Thou actest ; and earth has no kingdom or clime,
Where thy sons do not further the promised good time.

"Go where you will," said Lord Tweedmouth recently at a St Andrew's banquet, "you will find a Scot, and generally you will find him somewhere on the surface. He is a settler in the backwoods of Canada, a squatter in the Australian bush, a tea planter in Ceylon, and the burr of his Doric is predominant in the South Sea Islands. He is a mining engineer on the golden Rand, and runs a coffee plantation in the wilds of Central Africa. How many Scotch engineers of the Macandrews type, immortalised by Kipling, are scattered over the globe, no one knows. The average Scot will go anywhere, and do anything, even to the length of commanding an army." To every corner of the habitable globe the Scotsman has thus penetrated, and wherever he has gone he has upheld the traditions of the race to which he belongs, and, by indomitable pluck and perseverance—the birthright of his country—fought his way to the front.

My loved Caledonia ! still in the van,
For the faith of the Christian, the rights of the man,
Thy sons have been found, they have blazoned thy name,
And placed it on high in the temple of fame.

The word "Scotland" is synonymous with a stern hardihood of nature, a tenacious independence of spirit, a straightforward bluntness of manner, a marvellous adaptability of character, all dominated by a substratum of thrifty enterprise—a trait which, perhaps more than any other in his character, is accountable for his success as a colonist.

It has been pointed out that Scotsmen think better than they can speak, and can speak better than they can write. If this is the case it ought to carry with it no discouragement, for, with some reservation, it means that we excel in what nature gives, and are deficient in that which an enlarged experience and a careful training should supply.

The mind of the Anglo-Saxon is large and wide, and its sympathies partake of the same character; the Scottish mind is deep and narrow, working in a more limited circumference, but it sees more deeply, and feels more intensely than the English. Hence Scotland is distinguished above all other countries for its strength and power in the personal and domestic affections. Hence, also, it is that our poets of the past as well as of the present have produced little poetry that does not bear or impinge on this relation, and that is not necessarily of the personal or lyrical description.

It is said of Sir Walter Scott that he loved no music but the music of his own land, and it moved his great spirit. Young says that once when listening to his favourite daughter, Mrs Lockhart, singing "Charlie is my Darling," his light blue eyes kindled, the blood mantled in his cheek, his nostril quivered, his big chest heaved, until, unable any longer to suppress the emotions evoked by his native melodies in favour of a ruined cause, he sprang from his chair, limped across the room, and, to the peril of those within his reach, brandishing his crutch as if it had been a brand of steel, shouted out with more of vigour than melody—

An' as the folk cam' rinnin' oot
To greet the Chevalier—
Oh Charlie is my darling !

At a recent social gathering of Scotsmen in Jamaica, the chairman, in proposing the toast of "Scotia and Scotsmen," said the Scottish people differed in one important respect from other races, and that was "in the intensity of the personal affection they entertained towards their native country as a country. Other nations were very proud of their country, but, as a rule, this feeling of affection on the part of most other races was mixed up with some other sort of feeling. For example—The emigrant sings of Ireland, but as he does so he calls up in his mind memories of some blue-eyed Bridget or Kathleen Mavourneen. The Englishman was very proud of England, and he sang of England, but in his mind that dear name was associated with wooden walls, or, perhaps, with roast beef. But it was only in the Scottish song that they found people pouring out their hearts in adoration of Scotland, simply because it was Scotland."

Thou art dearest to me ever,
From my bosom banish never ;
Naught but death will e'er us sever,
Bonnie, bonnie Scotland.

Scotland, it has been said, under her many names—her wild and majestic mountains, her bonnie banks and braes, her wimplin burns and flowing rivers, all that we mean when we say Scotland—has called forth from the heart of her sons and daughters an ardent love expressed in simple poetry which has been equalled in no other country. What a number could be mentioned who have added to our literature perhaps only one or two songs or short poems, but these of the richest and best kind. All that many of them have done, of the very highest beauty, might be printed and framed like a picture, but the frame should be of pure gold.

If you once win your way to a Scotsman's heart nothing is too good for you, and the generosity of Scottish hospitality is probably unequalled anywhere. The ties of relationship are sacredly observed, although sometimes this clannishness finds a quaint expression. A story is told of a beggar-woman who had wandered into a Scottish hamlet asking alms, but asking in vain. At last, in despair, she exclaimed, "Is there no a Christian in this village?" "Na, na," was the reply, "we're a' Johnstones and Jardines here."

On almost every conceivable and inconceivable subject the Scottish writers have allowed full play to their imagination, and the result has been made apparent in the beautifully-woven words of song, full of that something which grasps and holds by the subtlety of its tender spell that part of man's being where lie the mainsprings of life. Everyone knows that every glen, mountain, and moor in Scotland is celebrated in touching, heart-felt, and heroic song. These artless effusions have, of old, been handed down from generation to generation, and in the long winter evenings their recital were an ever ready source of instruction and amusement. No doubt, since printing became so general, the custom has now in a great measure died out. The mother of James Hogg, the Ettrick Shepherd, in a conversation with Sir Walter Scott in regard to this, thus speaks:—"There was never ane o' my sangs printit till ye printit them yoursel', an' ye hae spoilt them awthegither. They were made for singing and no for reading, but ye hae broken the charm now, and they'll never be sung mair. And the worst thing o' a', they're neither right spelled nor right setten down."

With respect to Scotland and the sister country, it is a strange fact that Scotland has produced more genuine lyrical poets than any other nation, ancient or modern, and that England has produced fewer. No one can deny that England has her ballads, and otherwise she has produced some of the highest poetry, but she has only to a very limited extent succeeded in cultivating that terse, condensed form of poem which merely reflects the feelings, sentiments, interests, or opinions of the individual. In the strict lyric, intellectually, the field of view is narrow, but there is always depth under the surface.

The Scottish dialect, so simple, touching, and pawky, lends itself so naturally to song that the feelings of the illiterate as well as of the educated seem to flow more copiously into lyrical expression than is the case in other countries. We give many bright examples of the fact that the "Doric phrase" is still known— is still spoken and written in all its expressive purity and touching tenderness. As its "hamely worth and couthie speech" are endeared by many kindly associations of the past, and by many beauties and poetical graces of its own, and as our songs are said to be the richest gems in Scotia's literary diadem, let every true son of Scotland cherish and defend the brave words of the late Janet Hamilton—

Na, na, I winna pairt wi' that,
 I downa gi'e it up ;
 O' Scotlan's hamely mither tongue
 I canna quat the grup.
 It's 'bedded in my very heart,
 Ye needna rive an' rug ;
 It's in my e'en an' on my tongue,
 An' singin' in my lug.

For, oh, the meltin' Doric lay,
 In cot or clachan sung,
 The words that drap like hinny dew

Frae mither Scotia's tongue,
Ha'e power to thrill the youthfu' heart
An' fire the patriot's min' ;
To saften grief in ilka form,
It comes to human kin'.

We need not here enter on the vexed question of the official and too general obliteration of the proper title "Britain," and the substitution of "England." This is a subject of ever-recurring interest, and it has been threshed and discussed to such an extent that everyone knows it by heart. We can only see that one advantage accrues from the impropriety—"England" is held responsible throughout the world for everything done that has wounded or displeased other nations ; and so, as a patriotic speaker lately said, "it is a most convenient thing always to have a wicked partner in the firm."

In this busy world it is sometimes good to look backward, and beneficial to have the shield of our nationality occasionally burnished. It stirs our nobler feeling, and inspires us for fresh effort. It is this that has made Scotsmen what they are. As Lord Rosebery recently said in one of his speeches on Burns—We rejoice to find that Scotland, which has always been the foe of the oppressor, the friend and shelter of the oppressed, is unchanged and unchangeable. "The Psalms of David and the songs of Burns—but the Psalmist first," were the last words of Professor Blackie, and they contain the secret of many a Scottish character. Strangers wonder at our worship, but they do not understand the enthusiasm exerted by a sympathy that survives time and the grave, or the pride that cherishes a national and immortal heirloom.

In conclusion, we would express the hope that it will be found that our original design has been in some degree accomplished. We are sensible of many defects and shortcomings. These may, to a considerable extent, have been caused by the fact that we have only had snatches of time at our disposal to devote to the very heavy correspondence frequently required before one of the many hundreds of introductions to individual selections could be drawn up. Not to speak of the selection of representative pieces, the task of preparing authentic biographies out of so vast and so heterogeneous materials has been no light one. Keen perceptive effort as well as conscientiousness was constantly needed ; but we would desire to have our readers recognise conscientious effort on our part rather than mere humble plodding industry.

In most instances special research has been required, and a vast amount of labour and an extensive correspondence have thus been necessary. The biographical notes, we have repeatedly had reason to believe, have enhanced the interest and usefulness of the work. Although we have made the selections according to the best of our judgment, without partiality regarding subject or writer, and with true integrity of motive, we found it impossible to give a place to every composition approved of. After much anxious thought, we were often reluctantly compelled to lay aside many a poem and song of distinct merit, so as to secure variety of theme in each representation. Nearly all the pieces are given by special permission, and the great majority of them have never before been published. Our warmest thanks are due to the writers for the courtesy with which they placed their productions at our disposal, and also to publishers and editors of works, as well as to many literary friends, whose frank and ever ready assistance in the matter of facts and material has during these years been invaluable and gratefully prized. Alas ! not a few of those writers who have thus ably given their assistance and advice are now separated from us by "the dividing river," and their letters, with words of cheer and encouragement and wisdom, are treasured by us—

Letters, whose authors, a shining band
Have passed to the unseen Spiritland.

They have left the little Now for the great Hereafter. Some of them may have lived and written in advance of their time, and, like others, have yet to gain the regard they deserved—

Others, I doubt not, if not we,
The issue of our toils shall see ;
Young children gather as their own
The harvest that the Dead have sown—
The Dead, forgotten and unknown.

We also desire to thank the Press for very generous approval, and we can never repay our indebtedness to the Public—at home and abroad—for their long-suffering patience. Without their countenance and faithful support we should have failed in our efforts to supply, in a cheap and commodious form, an exhaustive anthology of our modern national poetry. We began where the Rev. Charles Rodgers, LL.D., in his "Minstrel," and General Grant Wilson, in his "Poets and Poetry," left off; and to show that the same field of literature is interesting present-day workers, we might remark that, since the greater number of our volumes have been issued, at least five different County anthologies have been published.

Who that loves our native bards or their writings has not seen or heard of the "Poets' Corner" in the Mitchell Library, Glasgow? In no other country could such a collection of native poets be made. The late Bailie Wilson, who took such a warm and intelligent interest in our efforts, and to whom the credit of the inspiration of the "corner" was mainly due once said—"The poetical literature of Scotland has long been recognised to be of quite unexceptional extent and richness ; and probably no country is more rich—possibly so rich—in local or rural, or, as it is sometimes called, peasant poetry." The writings of these local poets over all the country, in addition to their literary value, preserve, in many cases, local dialects, and local customs and local memories which are fast passing away. Their poetry is no unmeet reflection of national feeling, and cannot be accounted unworthy the notice of any one who would study the habits and manners of the Scottish people. It stirs the feelings of national pride, and can melt the heart by strains of tenderness—kindling emotions, alike generous, gentle, and noble. The songs and poems of English writers do not possess the homely pathos and heart-touches of our Scottish lyrical poets. The imagination of English poets is less lively. It is surely worth while, therefore, that in one public library in Scotland there should be set apart a storehouse for these treasures, where they will be carefully kept and preserved for future generations of readers.

To whatever mysterious cause may be assigned the origin and growth of the poetic sentiment, we see that there have been real poets in almost every position and situation of life. Experience proves that extraordinary talent is the exclusive possession of no single class of men, just as no position in life or profession in business prevents real ability coming to the front. And although it must be allowed, apart from the advantages of education and favourable influences of position, that there are positions and professions more or less congenial to the formation and cultivation of the poetic mind, still we have the "witchery of song" from almost every station in life.

A warm humanity melts all hearts, and so long as this is the essence of our national poetry—so long as Scotland retains one shred of its individuality, its memory of the past, its generous one-sidedness of attachment to its own history, to its own scenery, to its sons and daughters—so long will it love and cherish its poets and poetry. A galaxy of poetic stars has shone upon these realms, and though many of them have been eclipsed by death, they have gloriously bequeathed to the world an imperishable radiance.

The Pall Mall Gazette, in a kindly notice of one of our early volumes, said—"A gathering of the best poems by lesser-known poets is a real boon to a busy public which has little time or inclination for sifting the chaff from the wheat." In the volume referred to we said that, although we meet at times with verses which seem to have been "manufactured as mechanically and systematically as some conscientious people keep their diaries," we have many poets who have sung themselves into popular affection; and all amply vindicate for Scotland the proud title of "The Land of Song." The line that lightens a heart, dries a tear, and makes a burden easier to bear, has a right to live.

D. H. EDWARDS.

Advertiser Office,
Brechin, January, 1897.

DECEASED WRITERS.

SINCE the Index of Names was printed, we have received information of the deaths of the following writers, the date following the name being the year of their demise :—

Anderson, John (vol. 7, p. 329), 1897 ; Anderson, John (vol. 7, p. 308), 1890 ; Barker, A. C., 1892 ; Bennoch, Francis, 1890 ; Blackburn, C. F. O., 1896 ; Calder, R. M., 1896 ; Carnegie, David, 1891 ; Chapman, Jas., 1888 ; Cock, James, 1822 ; Currie, James, 1890 ; Dalrymple, C. E., born 1817, died 1891 ; Fraser, Gordon, 1891 ; Grant, Robert, 1895 ; Hardy, Robina F., 1891 ; Hyslop, John, 1892 ; Innes, Robert, 1895 ; Kennedy, J. C., 1894 ; Knox, Wm., born 1789, died 1825 ; Moffat, James C., 1890 ; Murdoch, A. G., 1891 ; Norval, James, 1891 ; Robertson, Wm. (vol. 7), 1891 ; Rogers, Chas., 1890 ; Shelley, Wm., 1885 ; Still, Peter, jun., 1869 ; Walker, Wm. (vol. 8), 1891 ; Young, John (vol. 1), 1891.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

OF

DAVID HERSCHELL EDWARDS,

BY ANDREW JAMES SYMINGTON, F.R.S.N.A.,

Author of "Harebell Chimes;" "The Beautiful in Nature, Art, and Life;" "Pen and Ink Sketches of Farøe and Iceland;" Editor of "Men of Light and Leading;" "Some Personal Reminiscences of Carlyle;" "Poems," &c.

DEEMING that this national work on "Modern Scottish Poets" would be incomplete without some notice of its gifted author and compiler, Mr D. H. Edwards, various friends have repeatedly urged him to allow a few personal details to be inserted in the last volume of the series. Diffidently yielding to their request, the present writer, with the aid of these friends, has prepared the following brief and inadequate sketch of a laborious and exemplary life; for, surely, "a life of such steady purpose is not without its lessons for young men who would be useful, and do good work in the world."

David Herschell Edwards, who, with good reason, has been called "the friend of Scottish Poets," was born in Brechin in 1846. His father was, for a long series of years, managing engineer to a well-known firm of paper-makers in that ancient city. David was taught reading, writing, and arithmetic, in the Parish School. These old-fashioned parochial schools furnished tools, of which so many earnest scholars have made very efficient use in educating themselves and making their way in the world.

Mr William Harvey tells us that, after leaving school, David was apprenticed to the printing trade in the office of the Brechin Advertiser. In those days, the apprentice engaged in the office of a weekly country newspaper found, that he had to learn to work the press as well as to set the types, and, in addition, that the work was constant through a long stretch of hours. As a "P.D." all this fell to the lot of Mr Edwards, but perhaps it was good training.

After serving his seven years—the time required by the trade—he removed to Edinburgh for the further prosecution of his calling. Here he was employed for some time in the printing office of Messrs Oliver & Boyd, after which he returned to his native city, where he was re-engaged in connection with the Brechin Advertiser.

Mr Edwards early betook himself to literature, and, while yet an apprentice, was a frequent contributor, both in prose and verse, to the columns of the Advertiser, and the district press, as well as to several weekly and monthly magazines. He also attached himself to a literary society, in the town, which met at stated intervals for mutual improvement; a society from which many have gone forth who now occupy distinguished positions in different parts of the world. To this association, he read a series of essays on the folklore of Forfarshire, and on kindred topics—essays which won for him more than a local reputation, and gained for him many requests to deliver them as popular lectures—only a few of which, however, his natural diffidence allowed him to accept.

"When men, like Mr Edwards," says Mr Arthur

Guthrie, "determine on rising, they do not work only ten hours a-day, nor do they allow circumstances to master them; they work long hours, utilising the chinks of time, and they bend circumstances to their necessities." Twenty-five years ago he struck out for independence, by setting up for himself as a printer and bookseller in the town of Brechin, where he had worked as apprentice and journeyman. It was a humble beginning, but better was to follow. In addition to his occupation, he acted as local correspondent for various newspapers; and aimed at higher things by setting about the production of his first volume. It was entitled "The Poetry of Scottish Rural Life," and was a dissertation on the poetical writings of a Brechin bard—Alexander Laing, the author of "Way-side Flowers." Mr Edwards resolved upon being his own printer and publisher, but this could only be done in the face of many obstacles. He found that he could only print four pages at a time, as his fount of type, suitable for the purpose, was a small one. He went to work, however, and this is how it was accomplished:—"It had to be set up in the 'sma' hours' when others were carefully tucked 'neath the blankets, and the inking of the type with the hand-roller was even occasionally done by his wife, after the bairns were in bed." The little volume met with considerable success, a second edition being demanded, which is now out of print. After this work, Mr Edwards turned his attention to the history of his native city, and, in due time, "The Poetry of Scottish Rural Life" was succeeded by "The Pocket History of Brechin, and Tourist's Guide," which, in turn, was followed by "A Historical Guide to the Edzell and Glenesk Districts."

In 1879, Mr Edwards became proprietor of the Brechin Advertiser, and it need hardly be said that his own literary tastes were reflected in the paper.

He improved it, and thus made it more worthy of the locality, and of the patronage of the reading public. Then again, the facilities he now possessed suggested development ; and so, shortly after taking over the proprietorship of the newspaper, he began the work with which his name will always be associated. At first it was tentative. He set himself to collect specimen verses by a hundred recent or living Scottish poets deemed worthy of remembrance. This he did, launching the volume into the sea of literature with the title, "One Hundred Modern Scottish Poets." Trembling, with fear for its success, he watched its progress, and was rewarded when he saw it receive favourable criticism and public appreciation. The edition was immediately exhausted ; letters of congratulation showered in upon the editor, together with encouraging suggestions still further to prosecute the work. The public know what followed. Every few months since that time we have been awakened with the announcement of another series of "Modern Scottish Poets" being ready, until, as the result of his eleven years' gleaning in the field of poesy, he has given to the public no fewer than fifteen volumes. "When it is considered," says the editor of the People's Friend, "that each of these volumes contains about 450 pages of closely-printed matter, and deals with close on 100 poets each, giving an average of three poems to each poet, with a biographical sketch and a critical estimate, it will be seen that the labour involved in the preparation of the volumes must have been immense."

Neither for quality nor extent, does any National anthology approach that of Scotland. Mr Edwards' work notices and gives specimens of between fourteen and fifteen hundred poets, many of world-wide fame, and all of them exhibiting, more or less, genuine love of nature, kindly feeling, domestic affection, faithful love, a laudable spirit of independence, patriotism, keen observation of character, or quaint humour.

Besides the production of his poetic miscellany, Mr Edwards has found time for other works, and among these is a learned and interesting introduction written for Miss Jeanie M. Laing's "Notes on Superstition and Folk Lore."

It was Mr Edwards' intention to complete this work by furnishing jottings of interesting reminiscences, incidents, interviews, and correspondence, encountered in his laborious quest of material, during the progress of the work, extending over the last dozen years; to give obituary notices of poets included in his volumes, but who have died during that period; and, besides an exhaustive index, to write an essay on Scottish poetry. But the long-continued strain of literary labour, overtaking his strength, unfortunately, has told so severely on his health, that he has had, at least for the present, to modify, and partly abandon, his design, and been obliged to get the aid of other pens for the introductory essay on Scottish Song, and for the exhaustive indices. The work is, as has often been said, Mr Edwards' Magnum Opus. In it, he has done for Scotland, what Motherwell did for Renfrewshire, what Ford has done for Perthshire, and what Crockett has done for Berwickshire.

Though Mr Edwards—after having, with persevering and steady purpose, ably and nobly done more than his darg—now lays down his pen, the stream of Scottish song, like Tennyson's brook, "goes on for ever," and others will take up and continue the good work.

As Cotton Mather quaintly remarks, in the dedication to his Decennium Luctuosum, (an historical work relating to the Spanish invasion in 1588), Mr Edwards may also say of his truly national achievement:—"He has done as well and as much as he could, that whatever was worthy of a mention might have it ; and if this collection of matters be not complete, yet he supposes it may be more complete than any one else hath made ; and now he hath done, he hath not pulled up the ladder after him ; others may go on as they please with a completer composure."

No other nation, ancient or modern, could produce a work such as this. The wealth of material, to choose from, is verily an embarras de richesses. It is no mere list of names, with an ipse dixit laudation. We have succinct biographical and critical details regarding each writer, backed with specimens which enable readers to judge for themselves.

"In the general eye of Europe," says Professor John Stuart Blackie, "Scotland holds a proud place, no less by her wealth of popular song than by her thoughtful seriousness, her practical good sense, and her power of persistent work. This is a national characteristic, the growth of centuries, of which we have great reason to be thankful and to be proud ; and when Scotsmen forget to cherish this thankfulness and this pride, History will not be slow to forget them."

Of the unique wealth of Scottish song, General James Grant Wilson, in the preface to his valuable work entitled "The Poets and Poetry of Scotland," ranging from Thomas the Rhymer (A.D. 1219) to the Marquis of Lorn (1876), says :—"Independently of names like those of Burns and Scott, that stand as landmarks in the world's literature, it may be truthfully asserted that no nation beneath the sun is more abundant than Scotland in local bards that sing of her streams and valleys and heathery hills, till almost every mountain and glen, every lake and brook of North Britain, has been celebrated in sweet and undying song. If it be true, as it has been said, that Scotland has given birth to two hundred thousand poets, the Editor asks for a generous and kindly consideration in his delicate and difficult duty of selecting some two hundred and twenty names from that large number, as well as for such other shortcomings as may doubtless be discovered in a work of this nature." The fourteen or fifteen hundred poets of which Mr Edwards treats are all modern.

Mr Edwards is himself a true poet, although he modestly assumes the anonymous. However, when his health admits of it, we hope to welcome a volume of verse from his pen. He also possesses a marvellous command of terse Doric prose, and has accumulated material for several volumes, which, when issued, the Scottish world will not willingly let die.

The writer of an article, which appeared in the Christian Leader under date July 10, 1884, entitled, "Breachin and its Historian," has sketched Mr Edwards' personality in these words:—"Mr Edwards—like every man in whom there is true nobleness—is greater than his works. His struggles, which would have embittered or vulgarised an inferior man, have only enlarged his heart, and success seems to have intensified rather than spoiled his humility. His personality, to those who know him, has a rare fascination. A man more like the gentle 'Elia' we have never met. His presence is like light and heat; it requires no words to introduce him." Continuing, the writer says, "In these days, when men seem to do everything for hire, and when even a great painter confesses that he cannot look at a sunset without thinking what it would be worth on canvas, it is a rare delight to meet, in Mr Edwards, one of the few souls who love literature for its own sake." Mr J. Fullerton, thoughtful and versatile, writing under the nom-de-plume of "Wild Rose," also says:—"To those who know Mr Edwards best, his personality has a rare fascination. His presence is like light and heat. He has the gentleness of the loving child about him."

The criticisms on "Modern Scottish Poets," and its gifted editor, have been highly favourable. "They are a series of books," says Mr D. Walker-Brown, "which proclaim, in no uncertain sound, that the minor poets of this 'The land of song' have fallen into the hands of a writer who, in his biographical sketches and critical remarks, as well as in his selections from the writings of the bards, gives distinct evidence of the possession of keen poetic sympathies and well-balanced critical acumen, all of which is ably supported by his facile pen."

"The biographical sketches," writes Mr Stewart, Editor of the People's Friend, "are models of brevity. They take hold of the salient points of each author's work, supply the essential details concerning his personal history, and give a sound critical estimate of his abilities as a poet, and the place he deserves in the ranks of the grand army of Scotia's minor bards, while the practical examples given display taste and discernment." "Few men living," writes another critic, "have a more extensive knowledge of the modern poetry of Scotland, or possess in a greater degree his combination of discrimination and sympathy, for utilising this knowledge."

Mr Edwards has received many hearty congratulations for the work he has done—congratulations from far and near—wishing him success in prosecuting his task. Among these was one from the Scottish-American poet, James Law, and, with a quotation from it, we close this imperfect notice of one who has been "instrumental in raising a monument, to the poetic genius of the Scottish nation, that will be more enduring than the granite of its native rocks :"—

"Ye've done the bards a lasting good,
And wiled frae them their choicest food ;
Ye've gi'en a swatch o' ilka mood
Aneath the sun ;
Even Scotland may be justly proud
O' what ye've done."

LANGSIDE, GLASGOW, Dec., 1893.

INTRODUCTORY ESSAY.

BY

JAMES M. MACBEATH, F.S.A. SCOT.

Author of "THE ORKNEYS IN EARLY CELTIC TIMES."

POETRY is a rich and many sided subject; and the definitions given of it have been as varied as its lunar-like phases. It may be described, in general terms, as the science and art by which objects and subjects, seen through the lens of the imagination, are shaped into measured lines of harmonious language, charged with the musical rise and fall of melodious words in rhythmic sequence and order.

It is that gift of inspiration by which men, possessing the original power of transfiguring the prosaic facts of life and history, are enabled to place before others the soul and spirit of them existing in their own imagination. The Language of Imagery is the original Language of man. The eye and ear are impresssd with objects and sentiments existing only in the "heat oppressed brain," and "fine frenzy" of the poetic soul, as if possessing a local habitation and name—such is the illusive spell of poesy—the noblest portion of our noble literature. This faculty by which original thoughts and new combinations of ideas are produced, is otherwise called the imagination: the high places on which the soul, intensely strung, sits and sings;—now vague in the sublime epic sweep of its conceptions, anon more humbly lyric, and lowly definite in the forms it uses. Viewed as an art of antiquity, poetry is believed to be anterior to prose. In the war cries, or it may be in the festive shouts of savage tribes, there were doubtless the dawns both of music and song, long ere either were reduced to writing ; the latter would be the first used for recording heroic deeds of tribal victories.

In early ages, the chief subject for poetry was the varied phases of natural life, and the rougher aspects of primitive passion. When ancient Alban was still pagan, there was a class of men termed Bards, subsequently named Skalds, held in great repute, the highest grade being attached to courts, who celebrated in heroic ballads the victories of chiefs—living warriors and their ancestors—whose brave exploits and renowned deeds of daring were, in this manner, commemorated, preserved, and recited when occasion demanded as incentives to future achievements and victories. Few of these Skaldic poems have survived in completeness, but numerous fragments exist. These Bards roamed at their own sweet will, in an untrammelled existence and with unrestrained steps mid the wilds of a world young and full of wonder.

The more rude and lawless a people, the more general and powerful the influences and the more violent the impulses derived from early poetry and music. In such a state of society there is naturally a close connection between these. They stood in the same relation to an early condition of social life as that held in more recent times by the pen and the press. In the absence of these, the minstrels' art was the natural medium whereby the memory became imbued with the deeds and sentiments of their forefathers.

Among a people still rude, there exists a close connection between verse and music. And this alliance is natural, for it would not only help the Reciter's memory, but greatly increase the effect on the audience—often kindling them into a wild enthusiasm. Our ancient writers record that the men of the borders were noted for their taste in music and ballad poetry.

In these early times, and while the better class of Bards and Ecclesiastics alone were instructed in historical lore, these were naturally the chief medium by which a military nobility could obtain access to literature of any sort. Subsequently, however, learning became more general and metrical romances gave place to similar compositions in prose, when the visits of minstrels to the courts of Kings and halls of nobles and barons were generally confined to the great festivals of the year.

The predatory life led by the nobility and their followers, and the consequent vicissitudes and dangers which they experienced, frequently roused their feelings to the highest pitch, and heightened their admiration for their own rude poetry and music, as embodying the highest form of expression they knew. The tales of tradition, the song with the pipe or harp, were the main resources against the languor arising from the absence of mental excitement and bodily activity during the intervals of repose from predatory warfare or military adventure.

The morality of these bardic effusions rests on the condition of society current at the time they were composed. The bard would naturally select those themes which had absorbed his own attention and filled his soul, in common with the sept to which he belonged, and he would celebrate those virtues which he had seen exemplified in daily life and had been taught to admire. He could not be expected to rise to a higher moral level. Thus many of our earlier poetical ballads are simply records of the valour and success of predatory expeditions, irrespective of the right or wrong involved, and celebrate the praises of chieftains for their ability as leaders.

It follows that we must not expect to find in these productions high moral precepts, refined sentiment, or elegance of expression, though ballad poetry has been found in modern times highly susceptible of all these graces. Still they contain passages in which the early minstrel melts into natural pathos, and rises into rude energy. The profession of the Bard was held in such high esteem that in pagan times it amounted to a sacred reverence for this highly privileged class. "Their skill was considered as something divine, their persons were deemed sacred, their attendance was solicited by Kings, and they were loaded with honours and rewards. In short, the ancient Bards and their art were held in that rude admiration which is ever shown by an unlettered people to such as excel them in intellectual accomplishments."*

When the inhabitants of Ancient Caledonia† were brought under the benign and softening influences of Christianity, and the knowledge of letters began to spread, this rude admiration abated gradually, and poetry was no longer a peculiar possession.

These ancient Bards, however, maintained their position for centuries as the literary leaders of the country, and exercised great influence in the moulding of men. During what are known as the Middle Ages, and while full scope was allowed them, the existing state of things so changed that they became gradually merged in, or it may be, gave place to a class called Minstrels, to whom were entrusted the task of composing the military odes or ballads, which they recited or sung as chants in the halls of Nobles, Barons, and Chiefs, to the accompaniment possibly of

* Mallet's Northern Antiquities.

† That portion of the island of Britain north of the Forth and Clyde was known to the Romans in the first century by this name.

the harp, on public occasions of greater or less social or state importance or emergency.

It may be that the ballad was the earliest form of poetry, and constituted the germ from which subsequent forms sprang: the lyric, relating domestic or personal matters in the minor key to the accompaniment of stringed instruments; the epic, dealing in the major key with grand Historical events and personages; the dramatic, for the propriæ personæ move and act as living conscious beings performing their several parts—these having been used for the expression of weighty thought and deep feeling both of a secular and sacred character.

The old ballad was originally constructed either on a warlike, pastoral, sentimental, or ideal basis. It was composed with rough majestic force, as recording the heroic deeds and triumphant achievements of the tribe. The more highly gifted of the Bards and Skalds who had proved themselves equal to the task of striking a bold original thought or idea in language and imagery, either of "love, war, or glamourie,"—powerful enough to excite and sustain attention, and so awaken and foster the chivalrous spirit, were patronised and courted alike by Prince, Earl, and Baron: honoured as their compeers at the festive board, and on many other occasions calling into play their chivalrous and impassioned utterances, were highly appreciated and enthusiastically applauded.

Some rehearsed their own compositions, others were mere Reciters: probably all could add a few stanzas as occasion demanded; a few scrupled not to alter the productions of others, adding or omitting whole stanzas according to personal taste or liking.

Ultimately a taste for and desire to excel in the cultivation of poetry, and probably in the use of the harp as an accompaniment, was cherished by men of letters. It may be that some of the most ancient of our Scottish poetry was composed amid the studied leisure and refined retirement of monastic institutions. The learning which then existed was almost entirely found in these religious houses ; and even in the sixteenth century, when knowledge became more widely diffused, it did not readily penetrate the recesses of these northern parts. Still, Minstrels as a privileged class, belonging to a distinct order, wearing an assumed well-known garb, and encircled with a definite character, continued to have their place freely accorded. The story of King Alfred resorting to the expedient of securing his reception at the Danish Camp in 878, by personating the garb and guise of a poor minstrel, is too well known to require rehearsal.

With the decline of the chivalrous era, and the gradual advance of civilization, arts, and letters, consequent on the invention of printing, the Minstrels' position rapidly declined, becoming, ere the close of the sixteenth century (except perhaps in Wales), a thing of the past.

The lives and work of the Bards, Skalds, and Minstrels, did not, however, pass wholly into oblivion: all left their mark. The primitive compositions of the first merged into that of the second, and reappeared, though in new phases, in the metrical romances of the third; while they in turn formed the germs of later productions, and so became the ultimate basis of many of our older heroic ballads, and eventually formed the ground work of "The Reliques of Ancient Poetry," collected and edited by Bishop Percy, and "The Minstrelsy of the Scottish Border," collected, compiled, and edited by Sir Walter Scott; the former published in 1765, the latter in 1802.

From the spirit of wild romance shown in many of them, it has been supposed that some of the ballads forming these two celebrated collections are but episodes which, during the inevitable changes of traditional recitation merely, became detached from the long lost romances of which they originally formed part. And it may be, says Motherwell, "That this spirit of romance was indebted to the ballads rather than the reverse." He further says :—"As society advanced in refinement, and the rudeness and simplicity of earlier ages partially disappeared, the historic ballad, like the butterfly bursting the crust of its chrysalis state, and expanding itself in winged pride under the gladdening and creative influence of warmer suns and more genial skies, became speedily transmuted into the Romance of Chivalry."

The truth, however, may lie midway; for the ballad would probably be only the first rude versified form of the Historical Romance, while the Metrical Romance might be formed on the basis of the more ancient tradition handed down from father to son, from generation to generation.

The selection and arrangement of words into poetical rhythm, or their construction into a technical rule or measure, is so intimately associated with the science of music that their connection must have been early perceived. It would be hazardous to say which was anterior, but it matters little whether the primitive poet in reciting his productions fell naturally into a chant or song, or did the early musician adapt rude lines to a rude tune? It may be that both were to some extent contemporaneous.

The early minstrel was both poet and musician, and the two ideal arts were rendered more complete when, subsequently, the harp, lute, or any other primitive instrument was the accompaniment of the living voice.

There seem to be two chief orders of poets—those who possess the creative faculty, as Homer, Dante, Shakespeare, Milton, Goethe, and Burns; the other, the reflective or the perceptive, as Horace, Chaucer, Allan Ramsay, Joanna Baillie, Wordsworth, Scott, and Tennyson.

Pastoral poetry is a branch of the latter, and embraces a numerous class. It is essentially descriptive of rural life and natural objects in their varied phases, animate and inanimate—full of truthfulness to nature. Of the former we have pictures of simple country life in almost endless variety, yet too often refined and artificial, thereby imparting an unnatural air of ease, elegance, and dignity to its objects. Of the latter we have descriptions of country villages, green fields, shaded alleys, valleys, mountains, and ravines, with the higher forms of landscape sublimity in ever varying and fanciful settings, and picturesque poetical limnings.

To one of keen, or even moderate sensibilities, there is formed a marked connection between the general tenor of the imagination, and the nature of the scenery daily presented to the senses. Keen sensibilities are blunted, and a lively imagination deadened, with little or no variety in the daily life, or a prolonged familiarity with dull and uninteresting scenery. On the other hand, frequent converse with a large and diversified landscape, interspersed with mountains, rocks, precipices, and cataracts, and other prominently marked objects of nature, stimulates the imagination.

By frequent contact with these, the powers of illustration and expression are enlarged, favouring those naturally meditative and susceptible, and who long for increased mental perfections and ideal possessions, so far as attainable by a picturesque cast of the imagination, thereby acquiring a greater mental vigour, and a consequent richer store of original conception in thought and expression.

Lovers of poetry must be interested by even a cursory glance over the field covered by our National Muse. They will be pleased to listen to her early efforts after those tuneful sounds which were ultimately to enlist the sympathies and secure the plaudits of posterity. It is only, however, with the first of these—poetry—that this essay has to do.

Poetry and a love of song are indigenous to Scotchmen. Poesy and music have been national characteristics for centuries. Scotland possesses many hundreds of songs of such exquisite beauty as to have secured a reputation co-extensive with the civilised world. These are not only abundant, but also varied; for the native mind has for centuries found instinctive utterance in lyrical strains of a simple and natural type, o'erflowing with great tenderness and ardent passion, which no age or country has ever surpassed. There can be no question that the Scottish muse has long been recognised as possessing a quaintness, originality, grace, and tenderness peculiarly its own.

No other country or nationality can justly lay claim to such a goodly array of poets from the days of Thomas of Ercildoune, commonly called The Rhymer—the father of Scottish poetry—to those of say—John Stuart Blackie and Walter C. Smith.

It has been affirmed that during the six centuries since the revival of literature in Scotland, the country has given birth to no less than two hundred thousand poets. Whether this be an overestimate we do not presume to say; probably it is. But it may be safely affirmed that the “land of brown heath and shaggy wood” can lay claim to a greater number of poets than any other country, ancient or modern, not excepting Greece,—and our rich collection of truly popular songs are believed to be approached by few, and surpassed by none of the peoples of the world. The poetic element, then, has been a living power in “Old Caledonia” since it was both “stern and wild,” gaining increased strength and vigour with age.

If we travel backward, as far as the ancient landmark erected by the life and work of Sir Thomas Lermouth, and his long past coadjutors, with their immemorial associations, we find that it is the earliest known era of our minstrel ballads. Whatever may have been antecedent has been either lost, or merged into what is now represented by the fragments that have come down to us as his, (or their) work. Doubtless he has secured a lasting place among the sons of his people.

Sir Thomas Lermouth, Thomas of Ercildoune, or Thomas the Rhymer, with other Scottish poets, whose works have unfortunately perished, were famed throughout Europe for metrical romances written in their native language, that of Chaucer,* fully a century ere "The day-starre" of English poetry was born. Sir Thomas is believed to have first seen the light in the opening quarter of the thirteenth century, and lived on to its close. He is the first conspicuous poetical figure in the early literature of his country, standing at its very gateway, presumably on its most distant horizon, like some great luminary shining 'mid the twilight of the period: or, to change the figure, like a towering and majestic mountain amid the scattering haze of Highland mist.

Doubtless he was preceded by others of his craft to whom he was probably indebted, who gleam forth dimly on the waste sea of distant and shadowy time—little more than phantoms, whose influence, however, told on their more favoured and illustrious representative. No name gathers round it a richer store of early memories, alike venerable and chivalrous. It is a landmark from which may be dated the commencement of our civilization, and our national love for literature, which has ever since grown slowly, but surely, into a stately and wide-spreading tree, bearing richly varied and abundant fruit.

* The English language, as it then existed, was common to both Scotland and England.

The place of the Rhymer's birth is now known as Earlston, a village near the Leader, two miles above its junction with the Tweed. Ruins, called "The Rhymer's Tower," are still to be seen, notwithstanding a lapse of six centuries. In the front wall of the Church at Earlston there is a stone with the inscription :

"Auld Rhymer's race Lies in this place,"

And it is believed that this stone, with its modern spelling, took the place of a very ancient one, destroyed in 1782, which was in an older church that stood only a few yards from the present building.

By his talents and literary industry he has erected an imperishable memorial of his life and work. This, in conjunction with his social position, placed him on an equality with the highest and noblest of his day. His ballads o'erflow with all the energy and fire he could command, resembling a trumpet blast on the ear and heart of a true son of chivalry. Round his name and life work, as the old prophet-poet of Ercildoune, there centres thus, as by the heritage of centuries, a weird glamour, rich and varied, in its quaintness of rhyme and imagery, from that remote and semi-mythical age, up to the present.

Sir Walter Scott styles him "the earliest Scottish poet," and believed that his poem of "Sir Tristrem" was composed in Scotland, and was the first classical English romance, written in that Anglo Saxon-Pictish known by the name of Inglis or English. Blind Harry represents Sir Thomas as a companion-in-arms of Sir William Wallace in 1296, while he is known to have died in 1299. The poem is written in what

Robert Mannyng, a Gilbertine canon, commonly called Robert de Brunne, styles—

“So quaint Inglis That many one wote not what it is,”

and in the “Prolog” to his “Annals,” written about 1338, recording his admiration of “Sir Tristrem,” he speaks thus :—

“Thou may hear in Sir Tristrem
Over Gestes* it has the steem†
Over all that is, or was.”

Yet in the three lines that follow he complains that, although the poem was the best he had ever read, it was written in such an ornate style, and in such difficult metre as to greatly impair its effect when recited by inferior minstrels : many of whom could scarcely repeat a single stanza without omitting some words, and often whole lines—thus marring both the sense and rhythm of the piece :—

“If men it sayd as made Thomas ;
But I hear it no man so say—
But of some copple some is away, &c.”

Thus a light was kindled, which has shone through the intervening centuries—burning throughout all the heroic period, continuing to our own day bright and strong as of yore. In our day the extravagances have been toned down, but there are lacking that poetic fire, energy, and vigour which characterized the olden time.

Here the poetic genius of Barbour and Wynton in the fourteenth century, Blind Harry and King James the First in the following, was kindled, for the like martial and national spirit pervade their writings. These four stand on the threshold of our early poetic literature as its venerable and venerated patriarchs, demanding more than a passing notice.

* Romances.

† Esteem.

John Barbour, Archdeacon of Aberdeen, was born towards the close of the second decade of the fourteenth century, and lived nearly to its close—thus coming a century after the “day-starre” of Scottish poetry. His great work consists of a metrical epic recounting the heroic deeds of King Robert de Brus, which, in point of age, stands next that of “Sir Tristrem,” and has long held a high place among the productions of these early times. Warton’s estimate of it is—“that it exhibits a strain of versification, expression, and poetical imagery far superior to the age.” Pinkerton thinks that “in elevation of sentiment it takes precedence of both Dante and Petrarch;” while in point of clearness, simplicity, beauty, and completeness, it is believed to rank before either Gower or Chaucer.

The subject being both popular and national, excited and sustained a deep and lasting interest in the breast of every patriot; recounting the heroic deeds and brave exploits of not a few of the most renowned of her sons—of a Bruce who wrested Scotland from the iron grasp of her more favoured and richer neighbour: of a Douglas, a Randolph and other of her brave sons, who nobly assisted in that glorious enterprise.

“The Bruc” exhibits an admirable genius for English poetry, and is allowed to be the first epic in the language, which, by means of a modernized version is still a great favourite with all classes. It is in octo-syllabic lines, and consists of about seven thousand rhyming couplets. It has been supposed, from passages in Wynton’s Chronicle, and more recently discovered MSS at Cambridge, that Barbour was the author of other large poems, which may yet see the light.

Andrew Wynton, a canon-regular of St Andrews, subsequently prior of St Serf’s Inch in Lochleven, followed Barbour in point of time, and forms the third of our early Scottish Poets whose works have come down to us. Little is known of the place of his birth, but he is believed to have been born about 1350, and to have died in 1420, or the following year. The original title of the work which has made his name famous is "The Orygnale Cronykil of Scotland." It is an historical poem treating of the early history of the world, though mainly relating to his native land, extending down to his own time, and is written in eight-syllabled metre. Through the absence or loss of much of our ancient records, this metrical history is acknowledged to contain, as might be expected, the only authentic account of many incidents, occurrences, and transactions in Scottish story, and is acknowledged to be a work of historical importance, often, however, mixed with fabulous legends and monastic romances. It is a store-house of interesting facts and anecdotes relating to these barbarous and troublous times, when "might was right," and men's passions ran to their utmost bounds—a repository of ancient manners and customs, and a specimen of the literary attainments of our forefathers who had been favoured with the inestimable blessings of education and civilization.

Wynton's genius did not equal that of his predecessor Barbour; but his versification is considered "to be easy, his language pure, and his style animated." His educational attainments were of so high an order that his work contains numerous quotations from some of the more celebrated of the classical writers of antiquity—Livy, Cicero, Josephus, Aristotle, and others. He also makes mention of Homer, Virgil, Augustine, Dionysius, Cato, &c. The work remained in manuscript for nearly four hundred years, and the credit of presenting it before the reading world is due to David Macpherson, who, in 1795, published the portion relating to Scotland. A new and complete edition of the entire work was issued in 1872, under the supervision of the late Dr David Laing as editor, in the well-known series of "The Historians of Scotland."

Nearly coeval with Wynton was the well-known Henry the Minstrel, or Blind Harry, whose life of Sir William Wallace has long enjoyed great popularity. Little or nothing is known authentically of the poet's life beyond that contained in the following excerpt from Major's "History of Scotland":—"The book of William Wallace was composed during my infancy, by Harry, a man blind from his birth. He wrote in popular rhymes—a species of composition in which he was no mean proficient—such stories as were then current among the common people. From these compilations I must not be blamed if I withhold an implicit belief, as the author was one who, by reciting them to the great, earned his food and raiment, of which indeed he was worthy."

Doubtless a large portion of the great popularity which the work has uninterruptedly enjoyed for upwards of three centuries is owing to the high place which the redoubtable hero of the poem has all along held in the affections of the Scottish people.

The original title of the work is "Ye Actis and Deidis of ye Illuster and Vailzeand Champioun Shyr William Wallace." The Minstrel himself tells us that his facts are mainly taken from a life (long since lost) of the champion of Scottish liberty, written in Latin by one Blair, chaplain to the hero. It seems, however, that the poet instinctively caught his materials more from the floating traditions, and moving tales among the people respecting their heroic liberator, current in his own day, fully a century and a half subsequent to that of Wallace.

Thus "The Bruc" of Barbour, and "The Wallace" of Henry somewhat resemble each other, though the longer period of time which had elapsed between the writing of the former and the latter, the unlettered character of the author, and the comparatively humble sphere in which he moved, made it inevitable that the work should be of less historical value than that of the more favoured and learned Archdeacon of Aberdeen.

The poem is written in the ten-syllable lines which superseded those of the previous century. It is not deficient in poetical effect or wanting in elevation of sentiment, but contains many passages of great poetical merit.

Despite the homeliness of the language, and even the frequent rudeness of the versification, the work abounds in beautiful and spirited passages, such as Wallace's encounter with the ghost of Fawdon. It may be that the poet incorporated many of the detached songs, ballads, and moving tales regarding his hero, which in his day were floating on the perishable breath of tradition, founded on real or fabulous incidents; and their total disappearance as separate and independent productions may be accounted for by the great and long-continued popularity of the work.

It was paraphrased into modern Scotch by William Hamilton of Gilbertfield, and in its new garb has long been a great favourite among the peasantry, in many of whom it seems to have kindled the poetic spark. It was the study of this edition of the poem that brightened into flame the genius of Robert Burns.

The poems of Blind Harry may be regarded as the last of our early romantic or minstrel class of compositions. He seems to have been one of those rhyming chroniclers—that class of early nameless errant minstrels who, combining the offices of bard and musician, wandered from peel to peel, from fortalice to fortalice, from tower to tower, for the entertainment of assembled barons and dames, carrying with him his harp, playing and singing those metrical romances and romantic ballads of love and war, which formed the popular poetry of that day.

There can be little doubt that the intrepidity and indomitable perseverance of the redoubtable patriot, — his life-long struggles, daring exploits, and manifold services as the asserter and restorer of Scottish independence, were lovingly commemorated in the songs of the minstrels and maidens of the country which his valour and sagacity had so signally and unexpectedly saved from ruin. Yet very little of it has been preserved, save what may have been incorporated in the works of Blind Harry.

Barbour, the father of Scottish poetry, and a contemporary of Geoffray Chaucer, says that he considers it superfluous to rehearse a well-known account of a victory gained over the English at Eskdale, because

Whasa liks, thai may her Young wemen, when thai will play,
Syng it amoug thiam ilk day.

The Bruce, Book XVI.

Had space permitted, we would have given short extracts from each of these four earlier poets of Scotland.

In giving a short description of a Minstrel of the ballad era it is necessary to digress a little. There seems to have been various grades of ancient bards. First, those attached to Royal Courts, probably scions of the nobility who had cultivated the art. These often received special marks of Royal favour, were sumptuously attired, were near the Royal person, and had special liveries and liberties bestowed on them.

A fac-simile of a very ancient illuminated miniature, taken from a manuscript in the British Museum, is given as a frontispiece to Bohn's Edition (1848) of Ellis's "Specimens of Early English Metrical Romance," representing the Court of King Arthur assembled, and about to take their seats at table, where the grand carver, grand cup-bearer, and grand minstrel are distinguished by their several insignia—the last wearing a purple tunic, with mantle of blue hanging from the left shoulder, and an appropriate head dress. Doubtless the Minstrel's garb varied both in form and colour, but the higher classes of the brotherhood wore a kind of badge, denoting their rank, suspended round the neck by a silver chain.

The early bards recorded on special occasions the genealogies of their Princes and their victories in ballads carefully composed, committed to memory, and transmitted to their successors. So long as poetry continued a special profession, and the bard a regular officer at Court, it is generally allowed that they performed the functions of the historian. Subsequently, ancient ballads were much embellished by narratives of wild adventure, fictitious extravagances, and fabulous exploits calculated to captivate the more ignorant and superstitious.

All this, however, existed long before the feudal period, though largely developed and strengthened during that era, and culminated in the times of the Crusades—a period so replete with romantic adventure.

The great yearly gatherings and festive seasons were the special occasions on which the bard shone in all his splendour. Then the praises of their chiefs, and the achievements of their heroes were chanted, sung, or recited. We take one of these seasons—Christmas, its festivities and hospitalities—by way of illustration.

This was indeed a joyous time. The feudal lord, laying aside for the occasion his rank, gathered vassals and retainers into the great hall, and with his family mixed freely in the gaieties of the season. There, amid peace and plenty, the dependents assembled round a glowing fire of stens or roots of trees, the wassail-bowl passing freely from hand to hand. This high scene of festivity was considered incomplete without the set off of the minstrels' talents. They sang to the harp verses suited for the occasion, frequently accompanied with mimicry and action, and practised various other means of diversion calculated to supply the want of more refined entertainment. Such was one of the chosen times for bardism. The profession was a passport to all such assemblies, and the minstrel was considered sacred when—

Placed high in hall, a welcome guest,
 Courted by all, beloved, caressed,
 The minstrel sang from day to day
 His well premeditated lay.

Clad in his flowing robes on this and other important occasions, his desire was to rise to the dignity of his office, and show himself possessed by the spirit of his fathers, thus—

His song flowed from a poet's heart,
 Transfused with music to the core,
 And moved in quaint and antique art,
 Adorned much with Scaldic lore.
 By love was fed his glowing fire—
 Poetic power its kindling blast;
 And wildly sweet he tuned his lyre
 To all the grand heroic past.

His personal appearance gave dignity to the poetic recital, which was accompanied by emotional expressions, and emphasised by graceful attitudes and gestures freely and effectively used in rendering these animated recitations all the more bright. His expressive utterances—now persuasive, anon descriptive, often inspired—were emphasised by the graceful movements of uplifted hands, and animated countenance.

His silvery voice, and noble form,
 Oft touched the heart with tender grace—
 For he was bending 'neath the storm
 That levels low the human race.

.

Hoary his locks, and bent his form,
 Far spent in life's tempestuous storm ;
 Nor had he pleasure here below,
 Save what his harp did then bestow :
 To raise his soul on soaring wing,
 He touched the all responsive string.

We are told that the mimic actors of Rome were so dramatic as almost to speak with their hands ; and a play can be acted when the facial expression is allowed to count for little : how much more effective when all are in unison.

The soul's interpreters—the eyes, the lips, the entire expression of the countenance depicts the mental condition, the former kindling into flame at the bare recital of injuries, or glistening with softened moisture before the pathetic tale :—

Alternate came the smile and tear,
 Now brought by Hope, anon by woe :
 And yet ! the prospects oft were dear,
 Which made his heaving bosom glow.
 Hope won the day by brighter view,
 And drove his doubts and cares away—
 His harp seem'd strung, and tun'd anew,
 Then sweeter grew the sadden'd lay.

In the full flow of the fresh and youthful animation of a high strung nervous system, the soul of the minstrel became absorbed in a hereditary or adopted profession—all else being viewed with indifference. But with advancing and declining years, we may suppose an august calm, a tranquillity of tone and manner, a dignified repose characterised the aged minstrel, producing deep and lasting impressions on the assembly, which may be summed up in these lines :—

Anon they view'd the Minstrel smile,
 While he the harp now newly strung ;
 His voice they heard begin the while,
 Old strains that long ago were sung :—
 And he these sang with tender heart,
 For they old days brought back to mind ;
 They pierced his soul as with a dart,
 And he the wound could not upbind.
 For of the battle he would sing,
 In which their sires did fight and fall ;
 Thus in their hearts was left the sting,
 Of cruel deeds he did recall.

While one cannot revert to those days, when “Opened wide the baron’s hall

To vassel, tenant, serf, and all”— without sentiments of true admiration at the generosity of the host, and the romantic character of the bonds that united the assembled clan to its lord and to each other; yet few (with present and more just ideas of man’s heaven-born freedom, civil and religious) can seriously desire the revival of institutions and customs, the actors in which were either class tyrants or slaves.

After these earlier poets came those of the latter part of the fifteenth, and beginning of the sixteenth century, who may be termed our Mediæval Scottish Poets, among whom may be named as worthy a distinguished place—Robert Henryson, born 1430, died 1506, author, among other poems, of the “Testament of Faire Creseide,” “The Two Mice,” and “Robene and Makyue,” a beautiful pastoral ballad, the earliest known example of that class of poetry in the Scottish language, and marked by great descriptive powers, with variety and sweetness of diction. Walter Kennedy, born 1450, died 1508; William Dunbar, born 1460, died 1520, our Scottish Chaucer, who was the “Rhymer,” or Poet-Laureate of Scotland, and by general consent holds the highest place among the poets of this period. He was immeasurably superior to any of whom England could boast all through that dreary one hundred and ninety years between the “Canterbury Tales,” and the “Faerie Queane.” The poem—“The Merle and the Nightingale”—is an eminently beautiful one. The former argues human love to be best; the latter replies in behalf of love to God. He has thus the honour of leading the vanguard of British poetry in the sixteenth century. Gavan Douglas, born 1474, died 1522, the first British scholar who translated "The XIII. Bukes of the Eneadoes of the Famose Poet Virgill into Scottish Meter, Euery Buke hauing hys perticular Prologe." It was completed about 1513, though the earliest edition dates from 1553. The prologues prefixed to the several books were original compositions by Douglas, and are considered equal in point of excellence to the works of the poet he showed such ability in translating, while they have been characterised as "yielding to no descriptive poems in any language." It has been supposed that these prologues suggested to Scott the idea of the introduction to the several cantos of "The Lay of the Last Minstrel," and "Marmion." The voice of contemporaries, as well as those that followed, and, subsequently, has freely accorded the palm of excellence next to Burns and Scott, in a markedly pronounced manner to him who

. In a barbarous age
Gave rude Scotland Virgil's page.

Alexander Barclay, born 1475, died 1552; Sir David Lindsay, born 1490, died 1555, whose poems were printed in 1540, and are among the first fruits of the Scottish press; Richard Maitland, born 1496, died 1586; Florence Wilson, born 1500, died 1547; Alex. Scott, born 1502; George Buchanan, born 1506, died 1582, who enjoys the reputation of being considered the most distinguished among the Latin poets of Europe in his day—his translation of The Psalms of David has long enjoyed the highest reputation; Alexander Montgomery, born 1540, died 1614(?); Robert Ayton, born 1570, died 1638; and William Drummond of Hawthornden, born 1585, died 1649. By these "Lesser Lights" the poetic torch was transmitted burning. Drummond is reputed to have been the first Scottish poet who wrote in pure English. He lived in the interval between Sir David Lindsay and Allan Ramsay, at a period when the style and influence of most of his predecessors were on the wane, and stood almost alone as a literary star of pure radiance, mid a darksome period of our literary history. Thus the force of his genius, shining through his own melodious notes, raised him to the high position of being considered the only literary and polished poet whose works adorn Scottish literature during the seventeenth century, and he has been long viewed as a soft Italian star twinkling through that long night of comparative darkness. His poetry is marked by great elegance and simplicity, and an easy, natural flow of versification, while his sonnets are considered his best productions, many of them being imbued with his sadder muse. They were written to commemorate the personal charms and accomplishments of the lady to whom he was betrothed, but who died on the eve of the wedding day, which event tinged deeply his whole future life. They also exhibit a love for and appreciation of the charms of natural scenery, a feature which almost wholly disappeared from English poetry during the following century. Drummond was a pure poet, one who belongs to the descriptive and reflective class, and was an admirer of the great poets of the Spenserian era. He may have been the first Scottish poet who possessed some of the works of Shakespeare, cultivating an acquaintance with what was best and purest in our literature, becoming also its devotee. Drummond is well entitled to the grateful admiration of his countrymen. Though he died two centuries and a half ago, he yet lives, through his works, in the hearts of his countrymen, who recently erected, in the old churchyard of Lasswade, a handsome mural monument to his memory on the green slopes overhanging the Esk.

All these stand in the front rank of Scottish poets of their era ; behind are a great host of lesser men.

During his twenty years' captivity in England (where, though unjustly retained an exile by Henry the Fourth, he was educated with sedulous care befitting his high rank), the perusal of the works of the earliest of our Scottish Poets, nearly a century after the ever memorable battle of Bannockburn, (doubtless with Gower, Chaucer, and others), touched the sensitive mind and heart of the Royal youth James Stuart, the most illustrious of his race, and son of Robert, third King of Scotland.

It may be that Blind Harry's life of Scotland's noble patriot stirred the chafed spirit of the exiled youthful king. We know that manuscript copies of the works of these early Scottish metrical historians — so replete with glowing patriotism — especially those of the latter, were freely and industriously circulated among the nobles and barons of those early days, and that, after the introduction of printing, some of them became household treasures.

The "Life of Wallace" was the inspiration of Burns, for he declared that its perusal "so roused his love of country," as to cause him to feel that a "tide of Scottish prejudice would continue to boil in his veins till the floodgates of life were shut in everlasting rest."

During the Royal youth's long and dreary exile, separated so cruelly from home and kindred, he happily found solace in the cultivation of his taste for music and poetry. His consciousness of the powers with which he had been endowed is seen from the manner in which he records his resolution to write his greatest work—

" And in my tyme more ink and paper spent
To lyte effect, I tuke conclusion
Sum new thing to write."

That he did not give himself up to melancholy and despair during his long and dreary imprisonment, is apparent from numerous passages scattered through his inimitable poem. Let one suffice—

“Bewailling in my chamber thus allone,
Despeired of all joye and remedye;
For-tirit of my thought and wo-begone,
And to the wyndow gan I walk in hye,
To see the world and folk yt went forbye,
As for the tyme, though I of mirthis fude,
Mycht have no more, to luke it did me gude.”

His love for minstrelsy doubtless received an impetus from his ardent love for the beautiful and accomplished Lady Jane, or Joanna Beaufort—daughter of the famous Duke of Somerset, and grand-daughter of John, Duke of Gaunt—whom he describes so tenderly in his poem, “The King’s Quhair,” or “The King’s Book.” He first saw this lady, who subsequently became his Queen, from the turret windows of his semi-prison, while walking with her maidens in the gardens of Windsor Castle.

The opening half of the fifteenth century, which was adorned by the genius of Gower and Chaucer in England, received additional lustre from that of James First, whose poetical productions are considered equal to either. The exiled Prince’s poem, “The King’s Quhair” (his first great work with all its original, racy, happy freshness), was written about 1415, and the period to which it belongs, taken in connection with the poets who immediately preceded him, has been characterized as “one of the most brilliant eras in our literary history, establishing Scotland’s claim to a participation in these primitive honours.” While some English writers are persistently cited as the fathers of our verse, the name of their great Scottish compeer is apt to be passed over in silence.

As the King’s great poem marks a new and advanced era in the poetic literature of his country, we give, in the original spelling, a few of those stanzas which record his first glimpses of her who so stirred his ardent love, and roused his poetic fire:—

Kest I down myn eye ageyne,
 Quhare as I saw walkyng under the Towre,
 Full secretly, new cumyn hir to pleyne,
 The fairest or the freschest young flour
 That ever I sawe, methought, before that houre,
 For quhich sodayne abate, anon astert
 The blude of all my body to my hert.

And though I stood abaisit then a lyte,
 No wonder was, for quhy my wittis all
 Were so overcome with plesance and delyte,
 Only through latting of myn eyen fall,
 That sudaynly my hert become hir thrall
 For ever : of free wyll, for of manace
 There was no takyn in hir suete face.

And in my hede I drew ryght hastily,
 And eft sones I lent it forth ageyne,
 And saw hir walk that verray womanly,
 With no wight mo, bot only women tueyne.
 Than gan I study in myself and seyne,
 Ah swete ! are ye a worldly creature,
 Or hevyngly thing in likenesse of nature ?

Or are ye god Cupidis owin princesse,
 And cumyn are to louse me out of band ?
 Or are ye veray Nature the goddesse,
 That have depayntit with your hevynly hand,
 This gardyn full of flouris, as they stand ?
 Quhat sall I think, allace ! quhat reverence
 Sall I mester to your excellence ?

Giff ye a goddesse be, and that ye like
 To do me payne, I may it not tastit ;
 Giff ye be worldly wight, that dooth me sike,
 Quhy lest God mak you so my derest hert,
 To do a sely prisoner thus smert,
 That lufis you all, and wote of nought but wo,
 And, therefore, merci suete ! sen it is so.

Quhen I a lytill thrawe had maid my mone,
 Bewailing myn infortune and my chance,
 Unk nawin how or quhat was best to done,
 So ferre I fallying into lufis dance,
 That soleyndly my wit, my countenance,
 My hert, my will, my nature, and my mynd,
 Was changit clene ryght in ane other kind.

No poet ever gave himself more honestly to depict the whole-heartedness of his devotion to the object of his affection. The entire poem is both a true sacrifice of worship and a garland of praise. Its heart is truth, and its garments are music. It is luxuriant with the rich grass and flowers of language, and graphic speech of the 15th century, although these greet the eye in antique phrase. There is in the poem—greatness, culture, balance, scope, and originality of thought and expression. Song is the speech of feeling, and the royal poet so used it. While he moved in the shining orbit of rank, his soul was embued with the music of poetry, in which he proved himself a master. The choicest things in literature—of which this is one—are such as awaken a response in the common heart.

In his great poem, James is simple, easy, and true to his own nature—hence its sweetness and power. His thoughts and words flow like a full, peaceful stream, diffuse with plenteousness unrestrained. They are musical, graceful, and lyrical. They, doubtless, increased his love for, and devotion to the object of his affections, for this is the secret of genuine lyric stanzas. Verily, “The King’s Quhair” contains the best poetry which appeared between that of Chaucer and the Elizabethan era.

James the First is believed to have led the van in the poetic movement which culminated in Dunbar, and died away in Sir David Lindsay, just before the noise and tumult raised by the trumpet blast of the Reformation. He is, in every respect, worthy of being enrolled in “that little constellation of remote, but never-failing luminaries who shine in the highest firmament of literature, and who, like morning stars, sang together at the bright dawning of British poesy.”

Ellis pronounces “The King’s Quhair” to be “full of simplicity, and not inferior in poetical merit to any similar production of Chaucer.” He considers the introduction to the poem to be “remarkably spirited and beautiful,” and the general structure of the poem itself to be “equal in fancy, elegance of diction, and tender delicacy of feeling to any similar work of the same period produced in England, or in its author's native Kingdom."

As an amatory poem Washington Irving says—"It is edifying in these days of coarser thinking to notice the refinement and exquisite delicacy which pervade it, banishing every gross thought, or immodest expression, and presenting female loveliness, clothed in all its chivalrous attributes of almost supernatural purity and grace."

In attempting to trace the source of the exquisite refinement of the poetry of James the First, it may be mentioned (he was in the eleventh year of his age ere he left his father's court) that there is evidence that among the Scottish nobility, even in that early age, there were families of a superior type, some of whose younger branches were accustomed to Continental travel, and were at particular periods, because of their education, ability and refinement, welcomed in the best society in Europe.

Henry the Fourth restored the young monarch to his throne, and two historians of that period, Fordon, and Boece, besides others, record the estimation in which he was held by his subjects after his restoration, and the great influence which he subsequently wielded over them in many directions—likewise fostering their poetical and musical tastes. It is believed that his genius shewed itself most masterful in music; for tradition has it that in the use of the harp he excelled and surpassed all compeers. Boece the historian speaks thus of him:—"He was crafty in playing baith of lute and harp, and sindry other instruments of music: he was expert in gramer, oratory, and poetry, and maid sae flowan and sententious versis;—he was ane natural and borne poete."

By general consent King James is viewed as the acknowledged father of Scottish melody; and popular tradition—it may be called belief—claims for him the parentage of many of our most beautiful airs. Thus his influence over the musical and poetical element of his native country was both strong and lasting.

Many of his minor pieces have been lost, still we have “Christis Kirk on the Grene,” and “The Peblis to the Play,”* both being descriptive of the rural manners and past times of that age. In the latter piece there are two songs mentioned as being then in popular use:—“There fure ane man to the holt”—i.e., There went a man to the wood; and “Their sall be Mirth at our Meeting,” both being unfortunately lost. The first is referred to in the sixth stanza of the “Peblis to the Play,”† where the Royal Poet exhibits genuine originality: unfolding that rich store of humorous, playful, and graphic delineations of every day life which subsequent song-writers, with Burns at their head, imitated, enlarged, and perfected: which have ever since been the peculiar marks of the genius of Scottish poetry.

These seem the earliest songs of which we have any notice, save fragments dated about 1286, 1296, and 1314. None of these, however, can be viewed as lyric songs in the modern use of that term. The well-known ballad—“The Battle of Harlaw”—has been attributed to the beginning of the fifteenth century. It is considered the most lengthy ancient Scottish historical ballad extant. The event on which it is founded occurred in 1411, and it seems likely that the poem was committed to writing soon after.

A further mention of song occurs in Gavan

* This poem has been attributed to James V., but the testimony of Major (almost a contemporary of the first James) in ascribing it to James I. is considered both by Bishop Percy and Ritson as conclusive.

† Our desire to keep this essay within as narrow limits as possible forbids us quoting these stanzas.

Douglas' prologues to his translation of Virgil, written about 1512, which contains references to four separate songs, viz. :—"I come hither to woo," "The Ship sails ower the sault faem," "I will be blithe and licht," and "The joly day now dawis," all of which seem lost, save the merest fragment of the latter.

In the ludicrous poem, entitled "The Tale of Colkebbie Sow"—written not long after the era of James the First, which appears in "Laing's Remains of Scottish Poetry"—are found the names of a number of songs and tunes then popular, such as "Trolly Lolly," "Cok craw thou qll day," "Twysbank," "Terway," "The Bass," "Be yon wodsyd," "Joly Lammane," "Lait, lait in evinnynis," "Joly Martene with a mok," "Rusty Bully with a bek," "Tras and Trenass," &c. The verses of all these are believed to be lost, and if the tunes exist it is, with one or two exceptions, under other names. The Tale itself bears internal evidence of having been written during the era of Minstrelsy.

Subsequent events, extending over a considerable period, tended to the development of these kindred arts among the nobles and people. Intimate relations with France had their own effect in this direction, while the career of James the Fifth—himself a composer and song-writer, and the musical accomplishments of his unfortunate daughter, Mary Stuart—tended to foster the growing national love for both. That the accomplished, but unstable Queen, inherited her passion for these sister arts is freely acknowledged; and it seems generally conceded that her two secretaries—Chatelar and Rizzio—were admitted to favour largely for their musical skill and accomplishments.

Thus did the Court encourage among the nobility a love for music, which, by slow degrees, permeated all classes of society. Chatelar is credited with having added a few pathetic melodies to the national stock, which have long been considered indigenous; while to Rizzio the country may be indebted for some of its finer and more popular pieces.

Be this as it may, these kindred arts so flourished, in rude and elementary forms, at the period referred to as to rouse into action the musical and poetical ardour of the more educated portion of the nation.

To expatiate upon the characteristics of early ballad poetry would be a digression from the main line of this essay, still, as more than even a passing reference to these seems essential to its completeness, a short description may be allowed.

Ballad poetry grew up in the stormy feudal times, in out-of-the-way localities and in obscure nooks and corners—so rude in structure and expression as to be quite uncontrolled by critical rules, yet full of energy and vitality. It naturally divides itself into two parts—historical and romantic. The former exhibits the unsettled state of the country through its wars with the sister kingdom, the many and long regencies, and the consequent general lawlessness which prevailed; the latter displays the numerous domestic phases and constitutional temperaments of a people seemingly ready to adopt whatever was romantic and enthusiastic in manners and sentiment.

Clanship had its origin in self-protection and self-aggrandizement. The sept was so closely bound together that an injury done to its weakest member was viewed as an offence against the clan, and nothing short of the blood of the offender, and that of his entire kindred, was considered sufficient atonement. Thus the dark side of clanship was exhibited in originating and multiplying sources of jealousy, in fostering and maintaining the antipathies of rival families, and in those long-continued and embittered tribal feuds with all their inevitable results. On the eve of a Clan Raid, the bard's recitals roused the tribe to action and vengeance, and in centuries following the piper played the pibroch or battle-spey of the sept for the same object.

A more recent illustration of this trait in the Celtic character was afforded at the battle of Waterloo, during the hours when its fortunes may have said to hang in the balance. It is given in Book Third of "Johnston's History of the Scottish Regiments"—Cameron Highlanders, 79th Regiment. Sometime after the gallant Picton was killed, and General Kempt had been severely wounded, Milhand's Cuirassiers advanced upon Kempt's Brigade, in the pride of success after their destruction of a battalion of Hanoverians, whereupon "the 79th and other regiments at once threw themselves into square, and whilst the Camerons were forming Piper Kinneth Mackay stepped outside the bayonets, and played round the square the air, 'Cogaidh nà Sith' (War or Peace)."

Direful were the evils springing from numerous marauding expeditions and night forays. The powerful lord, who, safe in numerous retainers and moated keep, bade defiance to law, meted out his vengeance in the sacking of castles during the hours of rest, and the wholesale slaughter of the slumbering inmates; the burning of border keeps, with their mailed knights, the ladies at their bower windows, and household retainers; successful forays into the enemies' country, with the horrible accompaniments of fire and sword; the ravaging and depopulation of large districts of country, carrying off hundreds of prisoners; the lifting of droves of cattle and all moveables of value—these heart-rending scenes being depicted in the ballad poetry of the time with tragic realism and considerable truthfulness.

It was over such a state of things, 'mid such scenes, principally where factious Chiefs and Barons held sway, and in whose bosoms glowed the fiercest hatred, that the ballad casts its glamour. Amid these northern semi-savage tribes bardism found its chosen home. There the minstrels of the "North Countrie" held undisputed sway, and received pre-eminence over their less favoured brethren.

Early ballad poetry is deeply imbued with all this. The prevailing features are harsh and ferocious, often narrating harrowing cruelties perpetrated in cold blood, Yet now and again gracious tenderness and generous treatment are displayed — traits of character exhibiting true sympathy with suffering humanity, lying trodden under foot, like a tender beauteous way-side flower ; or, to change the figure, the conqueror becoming the helper of the helpless, the protector of the unprotected, the succourer of the needy.

It is a relief to know that, in some of the ballads, there are silver linings to the clouds, as in the fine heroic songs of "Chevy Chase" and "Auld Maitland," where there are not only genuine strokes of nature and artless passion, but deeds of rude, yet high-minded gallantry.

The tone and spirit of chivalry, derived from love, devotion, and valour, had its own share in moulding the manners and customs of that early period. The chivalrous, gentle, tender regard for women on the one part, and the delicacy of feeling which, even in so rude an age, seems to have characterised the Scottish wife and maiden on the other, were doubtless fostered by predisposing circumstances.

The love for offspring, too, is touchingly exemplified in the ballads, and numerous are the instances of parental and filial affection.

Superstition is also a leading element in early poetry, and this may be traced to a variety of causes. What ignorance and superstition are believed to have seen is soon beheld anew, and, by oft-repeated testimony, marvellous incidents are placed beyond the region of doubt. These, with other visions and prognostics, float about and people the air; thus, through the well known channels of rustic tradition, each mountain, glen, and solitary heath came to possess its own unearthly visitors—each sept and family its omen, or boding spectre. Superstition, thus reduced to a system, fell into the hands of a class, and by them, as gifted seers, and wizards, and minstrels, systematized and expounded, exhibited these and other characteristics in the early ballads.

But to return. Before the invention of printing, and even for some time afterwards, the regular preservation of our old ballads could scarcely have been expected.

As many of the Minstrels could neither read nor write, there would be comparatively few manuscript copies of those early songs. Thus would the Bards have to trust to well-stored, and well-exercised memories, for the entertainment and amusement of lovers of poetry in grange and hall.

Doubtless successive garlands of song appeared, bloomed, faded and were forgotten to such an extent that even the names of but few of them have been preserved. It is matter of the deepest and most sincere regret that a large portion of the ancient music and poetry of Scotland was irretrievably lost centuries ago.

About the middle of the sixteenth century there was printed at St Andrews a curious work, entitled "Vedderburn's Complainte of Scotland," wherein is preserved the names of thirty-seven of the more ancient songs of Old Caledonia, many of which, considerably upwards of three centuries ago, must have been the delight, solace, and admiration of our ancestors.

Though pressed for space, we are tempted to give the names of these, from the melancholy interest attaching to treasures partly lost—choice samples of the lost poetry of the time—"The Percy and the Montgumrye," "The Hunts of Cheviot," and "The Battle of Harlaw," being three historical ballads; "Grieved is my sorrow," "O lusty May with Flora quene," "Cull ta me the rushes green," and "Still under the leaves green," these have been preserved. But the remainder are lost, viz., "My hart is leinit on the land," "In ane mirthful morou," "Allace that samyn sweit face," "My luf is layd upone ane knycht," "Fair luf lend thou me thy mantil joy," "My lufe is lyand seik, send him joy, send him joy," "Turne the sweit Ville to me," "Greuit is my sorrow," "Sal I go vitht you to Rumbelo fayr," "The Huntis of Cehuet," "The Battel of the Hayrlaw," "O myne harte hay this is my sang," "Maestress fayr ze vil forfoyr," "Al musing of meruellis a mys hef I gone," "God sen the Duke had bidden in France, and Delabaute had nevyr cum hame," "Rycht soirly musing in my mynd," "The sang of Gilquiskar," "The frog cam to the myl dur," "Bill vill thou cum by a lute and belt thee in Sanct Francis cord," "Trolle lolee lemendon," "Allone I veip in grit distress," "Brume, brume on hil," "The Aberdenis nou," "Skald a bellis nou," "Faytht is there none," "King Vilzamis note," "Lady help zour prisoneir," "Gode zou gude day vil boy," "Allace I vyit zour tua fayrene," "Cou thou me the raschis grene," "Still vnder the leyuis grene," "The breir byndes me soir," "Pastance vitht gude companye," "The lang noune now," and "The Cheapel Valk."

Further service was rendered by Andro Hart, printer in Edinburgh, about the beginning of the seventeenth century, by the publication of a work entitled "Ane Compendious Book of Goodly and Spiritual Songs, collectit out of sundrie parts of Scripture, with sundrie other Ballats, chainged out of Profaine Songs, for the avoiding of Sinne and Harlotrie"—printed in 1590 and 1621, wherein is fortunately preserved some of our more ancient Scottish melodies. It is, however, believed that Hart's volume contains a goodly number of parodies on the songs in the earlier volume, issued at St Andrews.

In October, 1568, George Bannatyne, a young man "of the middle class, left Edinburgh at the time when the pest broke out there, when hundreds were dying in that city," and retired to the old manor of Newtyle, near the village of Meigle, in Strathmore, his father's country house. There he devoted himself for three months to transcribing in one large volume, from the mutilated and obscured manuscripts he succeeded in procuring, the fugitive productions of the Scottish muse, during which time he transcribed three hundred and seventy-two poems, in no less than eight hundred folio pages. The Scottish people, natural lovers of literature, cannot be too grateful to the memory of Bannatyne for his abundant labour of love, in thus rescuing from oblivion much of our early poetry, which, but for his prompt and disinterested action, would have been long ago lost to posterity. This volume has, fortunately, been carefully preserved, and long ago found a sure resting-place in the Advocates' Library, Edinburgh, where it has been long known and treasured as the "Bannatyne Manuscript." It was published in extenso a few years ago by a Glasgow society. Having a taste for poetry, Bannatyne made himself conversant, in their manuscript form, with the works of such poets as Dunbar, Douglas, Henryson, Montgomery, Alex.

Scott, and other contemporaries. At that early date it was not customary to print literary productions, save for some reason beyond their intrinsic merits. The preservation of these early poems was thus placed in extreme peril, and many of them would in all probability have been lost, but for the zeal of Bannatyne.

The late widely-known and highly-esteemed David Laing, LL.D., Edinburgh, did good service in more recent years by collecting, collating, and editing a handsome volume which contains the "Select Remains of the Ancient Popular Poetry of Scotland," published in parts during 1821-22, and re-issued by Blackwood in 1885. It contains twenty-seven separate poems—on social life, love, war, folk-lore, and fairy-land. Thus we still possess a portion of the minstrel ballads and popular poetry of an early date, apart from Percy's Relics of Ancient Poetry, and Scott's Border Minstrelsy, though it cannot be said to be so vigorous as to rise to the dignity of a popular epos; still they are genuine utterances of natural Scottish feelings, hopes, and aspirations, of which none need be ashamed.

The earliest volume of what may be properly termed Song, published in Scotland, was printed at Aberdeen in 1662, by John Forbes. It consists of a collection of music, bearing the title "Cantos, Songs, and Fancies in several Musical Parts, both apt for voices and viols." A goodly number of the songs, however, are taken from the "Compendious Book of Goodly and Spiritual Songs," referred to on a former page; others are quoted from the older Scottish poets of the preceding century, while the music is chiefly English, and apparently adapted for Church service, &c. Thus the work cannot be said to contain even one true Scottish song or melody. Forbes' work was recently reprinted by Mr Gardner, Paisley, in his "New Club Series."

Fully half-a-century more elapsed ere the National muse became generally popular. It is feared much of the native poetry of this period has also been lost, though portions have survived the general wreckage, among which may be named that of Alexander Montgomery, author of "The Cheerie and the Slae," whose works have often been reprinted in more recent times.

Scottish music and poetry were only partially known to the world until the more modern stars appeared on the literary horizon, in the persons of Allan Ramsay, Blair, Beattie, Joanna Baillie, Thompson, Falconer, Grahame, Campbell, Macneill, Burns, Hogg, Cunningham, Scott, Tannahill, and, lastly, in that of Wilson, Moir, Pollok, Aird, Mackay, Robert Buchanan, W. C. Smith, and a host of others—all of whom drank at the perennial fountain opened by their predecessors, and thus swelled the noble brotherhood of Scottish singers, whose productions prove them worthy successors of the earlier bards and songsters of Scotland.

Thus do poets and singers at once inspire and satisfy the capacity which takes pleasure in their ideal creations. For it seems generally conceded that their cultivation has for its object the idealising of the real, and the realising of the ideal—these yielding satisfaction and pleasure of a higher order than are found in material things. Their tendency is towards increased refinement, and to a truer realisation of the great, the good, and the noble with which man in his best estate was endowed. Thus do they make nobler in us only what is already noble—that which is higher than those senses through which they pass—our surroundings being proportionally inferior to our ideals.

In Scotland, in those early days, the science of literature was in its infancy. So late as 1706, there was published at Edinburgh, by James Watson, the first portion of a collection of ancient poetry, entitled "Comic and Serious Scots Poems." A second followed three years later, and a third, published in 1710, completed the work. About this period, Scottish music was introduced to, and became very popular with the upper classes of society in the sister kingdom; and Scotch airs were sung at all the chief places of public amusement in London, and other English cities.

That a highly intellectual, sensitive, and poetic people may be prostrated by a continued course of tyranny and persecution is strikingly exemplified by the literary history of Scotland under the reigns of Charles the First and Charles the Second. During that period nothing of permanent value in poetic literature can be named from the days of Drummond of Hawthornden to the rise of James Thomson; while in the sister country the reverse holds good.

Poesy had somewhat waned, through the growing obsolescence of the elder poets, by the time its restorer appeared in the person of the Scottish Theocritus—Allan Ramsay, the acknowledged leader of modern Scottish poets, who, until the days of Burns, was the most distinguished name in the long list the lyrical muse of the country has produced.

Allan was born towards the end of 1686 in the village of Leadhills, an obscure hamlet on the banks of Glengoner, in Lanarkshire, and had the misfortune to lose his father while yet an infant. Soon after, his mother married a small land-holder in the same county. The boy was sent to the village school, where he was allowed to remain until he could read Horace "faintly in the original." At his mother's death, in 1700, when the lad was but fifteen, the step-father resolved to place him somewhat on his own resources. With this in view, he brought Allan to Edinburgh, where he was apprenticed to a wig-maker, and continued at the trade several years after the term agreed on had expired.

The earliest of his poetical productions now traceable is one addressed, in 1712, "To the Most Happy Members of the Easy Club," of which he was appointed poet-laureate three years later. The genius, and felicitous expression exhibited by King James the First in his poem "Christ's Kirk on the Green," seems to have early touched the sympathetic chords of Allan's poetic temperament, for, in 1716, he published an edition of that poem, with a second canto by himself, to which he added a third two years later.

Near the North Bridge, on the way to "John Knox's house," on the left, stand the remains of the house long occupied by Ramsay, its two upper storeys having been removed about forty years ago. Here, "at the sign of the Mercury," he lived and laboured as author, printer, editor, and publisher—frequently issuing his poems singly, in sheets or half-sheets. In these forms they enjoyed much favour, and had a ready sale at the price of one penny each—the worthy citizens sending their children for "Allan Ramsay's last piece." He continued to reside there till 1725.

In 1724 appeared the first volume of "The Tea-Table Miscellany," a collection of choice songs and melodies of his country. The second and third appeared in 1727, after he had removed his business to the Luckenbooths* (long since demolished), the fourth and last being published subsequent to 1733.

* Booths or shops formed by enclosing the open arcaded spaces where business was transacted, leaving only windows and doors such as are now in use.

In the preface to this work, Ramsay states that a number of the songs were partly written by himself, and partly "done by some ingenious young gentlemen who were so pleased by his undertaking that they generously lent him their assistance." Of these, four can be distinctly named—Robert Crawford, William Hamilton of Gilbertfield, William Hamilton of Bangour, and David Mallet. The first was a cadet of the family of Drumsoy, and wrote several songs popular in their day; the second was Ramsay's senior as a poet, whose effusions roused the ambition of his more favoured brother; the third came of an ancient family in Ayrshire, who received a classical education, early developing a taste for poetry, in which he ultimately excelled. The fourth and last was a native of Perthshire, studied at the University of Edinburgh, attached himself to literature, developed a taste for poetry, and became a friend of Ramsay, to whom he addressed an epistle on Mallet's departure to London, where he enjoyed the friendship of his distinguished countryman, James Thomson, author of "The Seasons."

The "Tea-Table Miscellany" became very popular, and passed through no less than twelve editions within a few years. This was followed by two volumes in the same field, entitled "The Ever-Green: being a Collection of Scots Poems, wrote by the Ingenious before 1600." In these six volumes Ramsay did much more than simply preserve many of the older songs and ballads; he improved both by numerous masterly touches of his own; he enriched Scottish literature by original compositions of great beauty and pathos, abounding with characteristic tenderness, and no less characteristic humour. His greatest work is "The Gentle Shepherd," a pastoral drama of the loves and lives of the Scottish peasantry in the early portion of the last century. The "Gentle Shepherd" is acknowledged to be the best of his poems, and able critics have not hesitated to pronounce it the finest pastoral drama in the English language. It is characterised by an air of primitive simplicity, and child-like tenderness and beauty of expression, and is inimitable as the best lengthy example we have of every-day folk-speech, and is a most expressive example of our classic doric. Its landscapes are peopled with beings who, in their naturalness, carry us along with them in their several positions, situations, and circumstances. Whether we consider the elegant simplicity of the style, the ease and unaffected humour of the dialogue, the lovely scenes which it delineates, the enchanting pastoral poetry which it contains, or the pure morality it inculcates, it hardly has a fellow. Thus he not only produced an inimitable pastoral, interspersed with tender and beautiful lyrics, but he adapted these to the old tunes, familiar and well-known by all classes. On its first appearance, in 1725, it was hailed with great enthusiasm, and, passing rapidly through various editions, was welcomed by lovers of poetry and song, from the Peer to the cottager. Ramsay instinctively felt it was essential that his thoughts and feelings should receive rhythmic utterance, and in such a manner as to be incapable of being written more fully and precisely in any other way. That this gift was largely possessed by him is clear from a careful perusal of his poems, which were the harbinger of that brighter day issuing in the meridian splendour of Burns, Scott, and other favoured sons of song.

Ramsay's genius in interpreting the charming and harmonious voices of nature and humanity is excelled only by his great successor, Robert Burns, who was so enamoured with "The Gentle Shepherd" that he pronounced it "the most glorious poem ever written."

Campbell, too, made it his companion, and wrote—"the verses of this inimitable pastoral had passed into proverbs, and is still the delight and solace of the peasantry whom it describes, and is engraven on the memory of his native country." Wilson, of Christopher North celebrity, wrote—"though Theocritus was a pleasant pastoral, and Sicilia sees him among the stars, yet all these dear idyls together are not equal in worth to the single "Gentle Shepherd."

By general, nay, universal consent, its merits are of a high order, and will carry its author's name honourably through the centuries that follow. Poetry addressed to all, and fully and freely enjoyed and appreciated, must be animated by the spirit that breathes around.

It must, however, be noted, that Ramsay did not scruple to alter and remould many of the older pieces, without giving the originals side by side, and took no pains to apprise his readers of the extent to which he carried these alterations and emendations. But while this is so, it must not be forgotten that his own contributions to the stock of Scottish song paved the way for subsequent achievements in the art. In the "Tea-Table Miscellany" he laid the foundation, on a firm basis, of all future collections of Scottish song, and so roused the national spirit as to impart a fresh impetus in that direction. It is agreed on all hands that our National Lyre was permanently enriched by his genius. At this period in the history of the Scottish Lyra, few, if any, had shewn such mastery over rhyme, or greater command of the melody of verse than Ramsay.

This cursory sketch of some of the leading Scottish Poets and their productions demands a passing reference to the poetic and musical creations of the Jacobites during the first half of the eighteenth century. Both leaders and people in that unfortunate movement aimed at nothing less than the repeal of the Union, and the restoration of the Stuart dynasty. The zeal and enthusiasm awakened on behalf of "Bonnie Prince Charlie" flowered into those inimitable songs and airs, which, as pictographs of the social and political condition of the period, are allowed to be unsurpassed in the song literature of this or any other country. They are admitted to be the most pathetic and chivalrous expression—a wealth of felicitous utterance—of self-sacrificing devotion and loyalty to a Royal Cause to be found in the literature of nations.

Party songs—composed with the avowed object of aiding the Stuart cause, and instinct with thrilling ardent fealty—they are remarkable illustrations of what poetry and music can do with a people capable of heroic self-abandonment. In matter and in form, these Jacobite songs stand alone in the literature of the country, as compositions having no affinity with our more ancient ballads of daring romantic adventure, or with the softer strains of our pastoral and lyric poetry. They are marked by a strength of character which cannot brook opposition—a humour, rude, rough, and wild, wedded to a tenderness irresistible, lying "too deep for tears"—a certain recklessness of thought, and fearlessness of expression—bold to face all opposition; revealing a dauntless race, resolutely determined to do or die in the struggle to secure the restoration of the Stuart dynasty to the throne of their ancestors; hurling their fiercest anathemas against all who opposed their darling project.

The marvellous enthusiasm which characterised the people and their leaders in both rebellions on behalf of the Stuart race smote with its contagion all classes, and inspired those songs with their singularly originality of thought and force and fervour of style. It should be borne in mind that both authors and ballads are the lineal representatives of the early skalds, and subsequent minstrels and their poetry.

It may be noted that there was a marked absence of song from the reigning Royalist party during that period—a barren contrast to the Cavalier genius. A strong romantic affection attached itself to the exiled royal race, and to those who lost home, and lands, and all things dear for their devotion to their ancient royal house. The deep injustice and bitter persecution meted out to the sufferers in the unequal struggle were such as to arouse the national feeling in their behalf—their bards partaking in the common sympathy. Hence many of these songs are inimitable in their tenderness and pathos.

It is believed that, owing to their non-publication in a collected form until the second decade of the present century, many Jacobite songs have been lost. A few were given to the public in their original spirit and simplicity, with their melodies, by Ritson; while Cormack subsequently added a goodly number to the list. But it was reserved for the Ettrick Shepherd, so late as the second decade of the present century, to gather the scattered fragments of that earlier fertile era, which had hitherto been floating on the breath of tradition, or mouldering to decay in the archives of Highland families who had suffered in that cause.

The result of Hogg's labours was embodied in two volumes, published by Blackwood in 1819-1820, entitled "The Jacobite Relics of Scotland, being the Songs, Airs, and Legends of the Adherents to the House of Stuart." These volumes contain a great variety of songs and airs, both Scottish and Highland—a goodly number being previously unknown to the many enthusiastic admirers of the minstrelsy of Scotland. Ballads and songs, differing greatly in character, and hailing from localities widely separated, are here found side by side. They were gathered from many sources, and selected from a wealth of material as those most worthy of being made known to the many, as they had hitherto been to the few. Several of these, chiefly Highland, and previously unknown, are believed to be additions to the commonstock, and are here printed for the first time. It will be observed that, in some instances, songs in the lowland Scottish dialect are set to what appears to be old Highland melodies. If this be objected to, it should be remembered that Burns set the example.

The volumes contain upwards of two hundred songs, with their melodies, besides a considerable number additional in the appendices to both, among which will be found that not a few fresh favourites are added to the already rich treasure-house of Scotland's song. Among these may be named—"Here's to the King, Sir," "Johnnie Cope," "Carle, and the King come," "The Blackbird," "Lewis Gordon," "Adieu for ever more," "Charlie is my darling," "The wee, wee German Lairdie," "Prince Charles and Flora Macdonald's Welcome to Skye," "The Auld Stuart's back again," "Oh he's been lang o' comin'," "Bonnie Laddie, Highland Laddie," "The Chevalier's Lament," "Cam Ye by Athole Braes," "Here's a Health," "Flora and Charlie," "O'er the water to Charlie," "There'll never be Peace," "A wee bird cam to oor ha' door," "The Tears of Scotland," and "We'll never see peace sin' Charlie's Awa."

Percy's "Reliques of Ancient Poetry" first appeared in 1765, in three volumes, and soon won for itself considerable popularity. It is believed to have been one of the chief agencies in reviving a love for early metrical romance poetry. In them the traditionary minstrelsy, ancient ballads, and historical songs were collected, restored, remodelled, and preserved for posterity. It was a poetry which, to its own generation, had ministered to an important public use, by softening, and perhaps chastening the rudeness of a martial and unlettered people. It was now to serve a widely different purpose—to help in restoring nature where it had been partially displaced by artifice, to give life again to what had seemingly grown cold, and to invigorate a poetry which had become sickly from excessive refinement.

But the poetry which Bishop Percy brought to the acquaintance of scholars had a life elsewhere, and of yore. It was composed of winged words, which had taken their flight from one generation to another, like swallows in their courses, alighting here and there in the sunshine and warmth. It was like the seeds of flowers carried hither and thither, to take root in genial earth, and flower in many soils. Its home was not so much in books, as in floating traditions preserved alike in cot and hall. It was a music in the air, for it might be heard by the farmer at the plough, the sower in the field, the reaper in harvest, the shepherd on the hillside, the milkmaid by her pail, the mother by her cradle and at her daily household labours, the matron at her spinning wheel, the weaver plying his shuttle, and lovers in their wooing:—all were familiar with its strains. It was a poetry dwelling “chiefly in the North,” having little or no affinity with Southern refinement.

In 1802 appeared “The Minstrelsy of the Scottish Border,” by “The Great Wizard,” in two volumes, followed in 1803 by a second enlarged edition in three volumes. This work was the means of introducing its author to the reading world. Indeed, it placed him in the front rank of the poets of the nineteenth century. It was the beginning of a career of prolific and successful authorship, unequalled in the annals of literature. Motherwell's collection appeared in 1827, while others followed; but space forbids further and more minute details of more recent publications of ballad poetry.

Dr Robert Chambers says—"While the Scottish people are more proud of their songs and music than of any other branch of their literature, they can tell very little regarding the origin and early history of those endeared national treasures."

It is acknowledged that, until a comparatively recent date, very little was known regarding the antiquity, history, and biography of the great bulk of our oldest songs and ballads. All that could generally be known about the most of them was that they were certainly old, if not belonging to a remote antiquity. It was not until near the close of the last century that an effort was made to ascertain the age, authorship, and occasion of many of our Scottish songs. This praiseworthy attempt was the work of Joseph Ritson, whose example was followed by others. But these labours, and their results, were limited in range, costly in price, and beyond the reach of the masses. Still, those early efforts paved the way for subsequent and more successful explorers.

In 1843 the publication of "Chambers's Cyclopædia of English Literature" did much in this direction; while the felt want was more fully met by the publication, in 1844, of Whitelaw's "Comprehensive Collection of the most approved Songs of Scotland"—a second enlarged edition being issued in 1866.

The writer fears some readers may consider he has entered at too great length into the early history of Scottish Poets, Poetry, and Song, with their many and varied environments, somewhat after the style of a poetical antiquary. This has been done, however, in the hope of imparting fresh interest to our early muse, by enabling readers who desire to trace in some faint degree the sources from which these have sprung, and the channels through which they have reached us—thus giving a panoramic view as extensive as the limits of this essay will admit.

While many of our Scottish Poets have left enduring monuments that permanently enrich mankind, two—Burns and Scott—by their exceptional originality, and power of rhythmic utterance, have so gained the national favour as to stand out prominently in its literature as stars of the first magnitude.

Burns was born on 25th January, 1759, in a lowly cottage near the town of Ayr.* His father, though a

* It may be that Burns' ancestors (the old spelling being Burness), came from Orkney, there being two localities of that name there, viz., Burness, a parish in the island of Sanday, and an ancient township or district in the parish of Firth, on the mainland.

The subject forms the groundwork of an interesting article in the Scots Magazine for January of this year. 'An old letter is given in full from Montrose (date obliterated) written by a Dr James Burness, of the Bombay Army, to Mr William Burness, Stonehaven, on the subject of the genealogy of the family, concerning which they were in correspondence. The Dr writes—"It is not improbable that your information is the same as that contained in the letter from Mr John Burness (presumably the father of William) to my father, Provost Burness of Montrose. If so, I have strong reason to believe that the origin of the name there given is incorrect, as a law document is still in existence granting a respite to Johnne Burness, and others, for th—[piece mice-eaten] of the Earl of Caithness, and dated S[tirlin]g, September 1528, in the reign of King James the 5th, no less than 165 years before the revolution referred to by Mr John Burness. The Johnne Burness alluded to in the respite was in all probaman of superior understanding, and high moral and religious principle, was somewhat austere, while his mother was much more cheerful, and possessed an inexhaustible store of old ballads and songs. When singing some of these she often caused tears to trickle down an old man's cheeks, while with others she brought the fire flash into the dark eye of her listening and gifted son. His ear was thus early attuned to the old minstrelsy of the country, its spirit finding a permanent resting-place in his soul, to come forth in after years, clothed in more graceful forms than it had ever assumed in the "elden time." In his soul were kindled those emotional feelings and desires which subsequently glowed into a poetic fire of sentiment or emotion, whereby he saw old truths in new and attractive lights, which he embodied in his immortal lyrics.

The "Gentle Shepherd" had been nearly thirty years before the public when Burns first saw the light. The poem had by that time so permeated all classes of society as to become the fire-side companion of a large number or section, cultured as well as uncultured, among the people of Scotland. Ramsay's inimitable pastoral had found its way into Ayrshire, and had entered the home of Burns' father while the son was still under the paternal roof. We picture to ourselves this singularly gifted youth—even then aglow with noble and manly sentiments, though unconscious of the powers with which he was endowed, yet destined to rise to the highest pinnacle of fame on which his admiring and loving countrymen could place him—sitting by his father's ingle, the day's toil bility an Orkney man. It is more likely, therefore, that the name was originally derived from Burness, the name of a parish in the Orkneys.

(Signed) James Burness, M.D., Bombay Army.
To William Burness, Stonehaven."

o'er, reading with great and all absorbing interest, scene after scene, act after act of this inimitable pastoral. His whole being was kindled into an intensity of poetic emotion, such as none can even faintly realise save those who have experienced something of this spirit—a tempting subject for the genius of our best and most gifted Scottish limner. In the first flush, vigour, and bright enthusiasm of youth, amid the dawns of his intellectual powers, so deeply impregnated with ardent poetic inspiration, he would peruse and re-peruse those masterly delineations of humble rural life, drawn by the magic touch of genius. But while thus stirred by the works of Ramsay, we learn from his letters that he did not confine himself to these. He was somewhat conversant with several of the plays of Shakespeare; the works of Pope, including his translation of the “Odyssey” and “Iliad”; Spencer, Macneill, Thomson, Shenstone, Gray, Blair, Beattie, Goldsmith; the “Life of Wallace,” Mackenzie’s “Man of Feeling,” Macpherson’s “Ossian,” “The Spectator,” Harvey’s “Meditations,” Locke’s “Essay on the Human Understanding,” Robert Ferguson’s poems, and others. Of most of these he was a confessed student and admirer, and was not a little indebted to some of them for turns of phrase and general tenor of reflection, and much of his imagery and sentiment were suggested by a close and earnest study of these works.

The last name on the list was more distinguished, though less fortunate than any of his contemporaries. Ferguson’s poems had for Burns a peculiar charm, because of the remarkable facility of versification, play of fancy, humour, and vigorous description which they display. His exceptional misfortunes, long continued and severe, culminated in his death ere he had completed his twenty-fourth year. Over his early but neglected grave, in Canongate Churchyard, Burns sought and obtained permission to erect a fitting memorial, on which he caused the following lines to be inscribed :—

“No sculptur'd marble here, nor pompous lay,
No storied urn, nor animated bust !
This simple stone directs pale Scotia's way
To pour her sorrows o'er the poet's dust.”

Ferguson's poems, of which “The Farmer's Ingle” is considered the most successful, came first before the public through the pages of “Ruddiman's Weekly Magazine,” where their merits were at once acknowledged. They are faithful portraitures of scenes of rural life and traits of Scottish character, and must have made lasting impressions on the life and genius of Burns. They further possess all the simplicity, the natural impulse and emotion, the bird-like utterance which characterise the songs of the true lyrical poet.

The works of another countryman, James Thomson, author of “The Seasons,” and other popular poems, must have powerfully influenced Burns' poetic sensibilities. That he was well versed in these may be seen from a perusal of his “Address to the Shade of Thomson,” written on the occasion of his crowning the Poet's bust at Ednam with a wreath of bays :—

“And long, sweet Poet of the year,
Shall bloom th' at wreath thou well hast won ;
While Scotia, with exulting tear,
Proclaims that Thomson was her son !”

Thomson's poems display great originality of conception, refinement of diction, and poetic imagery. It was he who first gave faithful and fascinating pictures of the rolling mysteries of the year, showing that its seasons are but the varied manifestations of the One Great God. His delineations and descriptions powerfully impress his readers with the magnificence of nature, as exhibited in the circling seasons—soul-cheering spring, the birth-time of nature ; glorious summer, the effulgence of nature's choicest beauties ; abundant autumn, nature clothed in her garb of gold ; and cheerless winter, nature stripped of her attractive beauties, and enshrouded in the attire of death. The varied year in its endlessly diversified forms—in its long looked for birth, in its youth and vigour, in its full-grown manhood, in its rich and graceful decline, and in its majestic death—is all so faithfully and exquisitely portrayed by Thomson as to place his works among the classics of our literature.

"The Minstrel," by Beattie, is at once highly conceived and admirably finished. Lord Lyttelton says of it—"I read it with as much rapture as poetry in her sweetest, noblest charms ever raised to my mind. It seemed to me that my once most beloved Thomson was come down from heaven, refined by the converse of purer spirits than those he lived with here, to let me hear him sing again the beauties of nature and finest feelings of virtue, not with human, but with angelic strains."

It has long held its place among our best classic poems, because of the beauty and elegance of its language, the harmony of its versification, the richness of its imagery, the soft and genial flow of the most sublime, delicate, and pathetic sentiment, combined with the most exquisite taste. The first Book of the Minstrel was published in 1770, and, four years later, the second was issued—twenty-two years before the death of Burns, with whom, doubtless, it must have been a great favourite.

Hector Macneill's reputation as a poet and songwriter was well established before Burns rose to fame. His poem, "Scotland's Scaith, or the History of Will and Jean," first appeared in 1795, nearly two years before the death of Burns, and soon rose to great popularity. In 1801 Macneill issued an edition of his poems in two volumes. Other editions followed. Several of his songs, such as "My Boy Tammy," "Come under my Plaidie," "Saw ye my Wee Thing," and his touching ballad, "Donald and Flora," have long enjoyed great popularity, and may not be surpassed by similar productions of any Scottish poet, save Burns, to whom they were well known, and by whom they were carefully studied.

The author of "The Grave," Rev. Robert Blair, born at Edinburgh, 1699, ordained minister of Athelstaneford, East Lothian, in 1731, was an accomplished scholar, and a man of no mean acquirements in scientific and general knowledge. The poem was written antecedent to its author assuming the sacred functions of the ministry, but its publication was held in abeyance for some time. It was, however, ultimately submitted to the judgment of the celebrated Dr Watts, who wrote approvingly of it, and recommended its publication. It was accordingly issued in 1743, and again in 1747. The poem was received by all classes as a highly finished and very powerful production. Campbell considered that "the eighteenth century had produced few specimens of blank verse of so familiar and simple a character as that of 'The Grave.'" Pinkerton says—"It is the best piece of blank verse we have, save that of Milton;" while Southey speaks of it in his "Life of Cowper" as the only poem he could recall as having been written in imitation of the "Night Thoughts." This, however, could not be, as "The Grave" was written before Young's great poem. It was one of the most popular productions of the last century, and from the first took its place among the standard classics of our poetical literature—its language and imagery being free, natural, and picturesque, though somewhat gloomy. Blair has been charged with having enriched his poem by many beautiful thoughts and elegant expressions from other poets, which he failed to acknowledge. Be this as it may, it cannot be gainsaid that he has enriched our poetic literature by largely contributing to its stores from his own poetic wealth. The poem was well known to Burns, and by him highly esteemed.

It is apparent that Burns was well versed in upwards of a score at least of well-reputed standard authors of the eighteenth century. The old idea that he was something akin to "an illiterate and isolated prodigy," who, "without models, or with models only of the meanest sort," fought his way to the front ranks in literature simply by sheer force of native genius, as the "Sage of Chelsea" would have us believe, is no longer tenable. That he was endowed with genius of a high order goes without saying; but he would have been a genius such as has never yet appeared had he been what Carlyle represents.

Burns was wise enough to avail himself of the literary inheritance of his country far beyond what is generally supposed, and he valued highly all that had grown and was garnered by his predecessors for the common good, as unfailing springs of intellectual culture. Did space permit, instances could be given of his indebtedness to Shenstone, Edward Young, Goldsmith, Gray, Ferguson, and others. Let a few suffice. If "The Cottar's Saturday Night" be carefully compared with Shenstone's "Schoolmistress," in both of which we have the perfect form of the Spencerian stanza, it will be found that as regards treatment and language, measure and style, Burns moulded "The Cottar" less after the manner of Shenstone, than of Ferguson's "Farmer's Ingle." Still suggestive resemblances to the former are apparent, not so much for sentiment as style. If we compare the stanza of "The Cottar" beginning 'They chant their artless notes in simple guise,' and the two that follow, with the XII. and XIV. of the "Schoolmistress," we can scarcely fail to perceive a suggestive likeness.

Burns must have been a close and appreciative student of the character and art of Goldsmith. The direct references to the Irish poet in the letters of Burns, the quotations from "The Traveller," and the "Deserted Village," incorporated and assimilated with his own, and the use of excerpts as mottoes for popular pieces, clearly show his love and admiration for the man and his productions.

Both poets had much in common. They were marked by a keen appreciation and admiration of the beauties of Nature. She had bestowed on both many choice gifts—powers of conception and expression—quickness of perception in grasping and appropriating ideas suited to their requirements, which found utterance in forcible and graphic language, in virtue of which it became their own. They also possessed unusual tenderness and sensitiveness of heart for suffering humanity, and pled the cause of the poor, when down trodden and oppressed, and loved the humble virtuous peasant and his lowly train. Goldsmith's lines:—

"To me more dear, congenial to my heart
One native charm than all the gloss of art," were re-echoed by Burns in his felicitous tale, "The Twa Dogs," thus:—

"There's sic parade, sic pomp of art,
The joy can scarcely reach the heart."

Both poets had mused and meditated long and deeply on the mysteries of life, and the sources from which happiness springs. Experience and observation alike had taught them that it comes neither from social position, riches, nor educational attainments, but from the disposition and condition of the heart. This highest earth boon—happiness—is not outside of us, as a thousand times ten thousand of our species have supposed; who, scheming successfully for self-aggrandizement, and, while securing riches by questionable devices, have made certain ship-wreck of their own and others' peace of mind and contentment of heart—a golden truth worthy of being written on the tablets of the memory as with a diamond.

Over and against the great moral precept, and as an incentive to the one and a deterrent from the other—that the right-doer will be rewarded and the wrong-doer punished—there is the still higher motive, that it is right to do right because it is divinely commanded. Only in right-doing can our highest nature be developed, and become God-like, such a nature being necessarily of slow growth.

Goldsmith's definition of the source of true happiness has been often quoted:—

“Still to ourselves in every place consign'd
Our own felicity we make or find.”

Burns, thoughtful on many subjects, carefully studied this all-important one; and though, unfortunately for himself and many of his countrymen, his actions were often too much, and very sadly at variance with his precepts, it seems generally allowed that he made up his mind in the definite and pronounced manner indicated in these lines:

“Nae treasures, nor pleasures
Could make us happy lang:
The heart aye's the part aye
That makes us right or wrang.”

And further—

“If happiness hae not her seat
And centre in the breast,
We may be wise, or rich, or great,
But never can be blest.”

First Epistle to Davie.

These are but a few of many similarities of sentiment. There are also close resemblances in language. Let two suffice. Goldsmith's lines:—

“In all my wanderings round this world of care
In all my griefs, and God has given my share,” are beautifully paraphrased by Burns thus :—

“ In a' my share of care and grief
Which fate has largely given,
My hopes, my comfort, and relief
Are thoughts of her and Heaven.”

Epistle to Davie.

Lastly, Goldsmith has these lines :—

“ Who quits the world where strong temptations try,
And since 'tis hard to combat, learns to fly.”

Burns follows with the well-known couplet :—

“ In vain Religion meets my shrinking eye,
I dare not combat, but I turn and fly.”

A carefully observant student will soon discover that there are many similar parallels.

Let us now turn to the poems of Shenstone, with a similar object. These took early hold of Burns from the time he first saw them in his seventeenth year, and held their sway to the close of life's short span. From them he seems to have caught much of his inspiration. In 1783 he wrote—“ My favourite authors are of the sentimental kind, such as Shenstone, particularly his Elegies.”

There is also a direct reference to him in the preface to the Kilmarnock edition of Burns' poems, as “ that celebrated poet whose divine Elegies do honour to our language, our nation, and our species.” Three examples are all our space admits. In the seventh Elegy we find the following :—

“ Stranger, he said, amid this pealing rain,
Benighted, lonesome, whither wouldst thou stray ?
Does wealth or power thy weary step constrain ?”

Turning to Burns' “ Man was made to Mourn,” we find a similar venerable figure introduced as speaking thus :—

“ Young stranger, whither wanderest thou ?
Does thirst of wealth thy step constrain ?”

Again, in the sixth Elegy, we have these lines :—

“ Sing on my bird !—the liquid notes prolong,
Sing on my bird !—'tis Damon hears thy song.”

While Burns' opening lines in the Sonnet, on hearing a thrush sing in January, run thus :—

“ Sing on, sweet thrush, upon the leafless bough Sing on, sweet bird, I listen to thy strain.”

Shenstone, writing of buoyant youth and its high hopes, says :—

“ O youth ! enchanting stage, profusely blest !
Then glows the breast, as opening roses fair,” which Burns paraphrased in his “ Ode to Despondency,” when reviewing the period of childhood, thus :—

“ Ye tiny elves that guileless sport,
Like linnets in the bush,
Ye little know the ills ye court,
When manhood is your wish ! ”

We are tempted to trespass yet again by a short reference to the indebtedness of the National Bard to the author of “ Night Thoughts.” These proved a very magazine of thought and phraseology to various classes of poets during last century—to Beattie, Goldsmith, and others ; while even in some of the finer passages of Cowper and Burns his influence is clearly traceable. It is an open question—when and how Burns became so deeply imbued with Young's great work, but there is no doubt that he read and pondered it often and carefully, and that much of its thoughts are interwoven with his own. On one occasion he wrote to Clarinda—“ I have been this morning taking a peep through—as Young finely says—the dark portion of time long elapsed.”

While traces of Shenstone's influence are apparent in the piece, “ Man was made to Mourn,” there seems also that of Young. “ Man's inhumanity to Man ” is an oft quoted line in the complaint of Burns. If we turn to Young's “ Third Night,” we find these lines :—

“ Man hard of heart to man—
Man is to man the sorest, surest ill.”

Still further, in the "Fifth Night," we find the line :—

"Inhumanity is caught from man."

In the "Ninth Night," are these :—

"Turn the world's history ; what find we there ?
Man's revenge . . .
And inhumanities to man."

Again, in "A Man's a Man for a' That"—which is understood to be the exponent of Burns' political creed—we have these lines :—

"The rank is but the guinea stamp,
The man's the gowd for a' that."

"The honest man, tho' e'er so poor,
Is king o' men for a' that."

"Ye see yon birkie ca'd a lord,
Wha struts an' stares and a' that ?
Though hundreds worship at his word,
He's but a coof for a' that.
For a' that, and a' that,
His riband, star, and a' that ;
The pith o' sense an' pride o' worth
Are higher rank than a' that."

In the "Sixth Night" of The Complaint we have these lines :—

"External homage and a supple knee To beings pompously set up !
. . . All more is Merit's due,
Her sacred and inviolable right,
Nor ever paid the monarch but the man,
Our hearts ne'er bow but to superior worth.

Each man makes his own stature . . .
High worth is elevated place ;
Makes more than monarchs, makes an honest man ;
Tho' no exchequer it commands, 'tis wealth ;
And, though it wears no riband, 'tis renown."

On comparing these lines with those immediately preceding, it will be at once apparent that Burns was familiar with the latter ; and that between both sets of quotations there are unmistakable resemblances, drawn by masterly hands both ; standing to each other in the relative positions of a first bold outline, and that of a finished picture—the latter being the perfect lyric of the National Bard.

In Burns' "Song of Death" we have these lines :—

"Thou strik'st the young hero— a glorious mark !
He falls in the blaze of his fame."

While, in the "Fifth Night," occurs the line :—

"Death loves a shining mark, a single blow."

Many more similarities could be given to show that Burns was familiarly conversant with Young : let these suffice.

Coincidences of thought and expression might be also pointed out in our National Poet and his favourite authors—Ramsay, Ferguson, Pope, Macneill, Beattie, and others, but our limits forbid us following this theme further.

To some this may appear to detract from the originality of Burns : to those most competent to form an opinion, it does not. Chaucer in his "Tales," Shakespeare in his "Plays," Bacon in his "Essays," Milton in his Poems, Macaulay in his prose and poetry, and a host of others are open to the charge. Pedantry of this type, however, may without hesitation be set aside. What these masters touched they embellished—they found dry bones, and breathed into them life. No one intellect, be it ever so gigantic, can climb these highest heights unaided. Help is sought, and footholds found from predecessors ; for it seems entirely beyond the power of the most gifted author to originate the thoughts contained in his works. These coming from close reading, and long and earnest study, have grown with his growth, increased and strengthened with his years, and he has instinctively moulded and assimilated them mentally, as he does his food physically.

The powers of conception and expression are not always found in unison. The former is often possessed while the latter is withheld. When united, as they were in such masters of thoughts and words as Ramsay, Burns, and Scott, there is all the difference between genius and mediocrity.

The production of new and original ideas, and their happy combination in an attractive manner, are very different things: the former is a rare attainment, the latter, while commoner, is no less a choice gift and high faculty.

We trust the reader will pardon this lengthy digression from the main line of discussion.

So early as Burns' sixteenth year, the "shy, retiring boy" felt the first emotions of love, and simultaneously came the desire to rhyme—aroused, doubtless, by the incident that his partner in the harvest field was a "bonnie, sweet, sonsie lassie," and sang so sweetly that it was to her favourite reel he composed his first song, "Handsome Nell," of which he wrote—"It was done at an early period of my life, when my heart glowed with honest warm simplicity, unacquainted and uncorrupted with the ways of the wicked world. It has many faults, but I remember I composed it in a wild enthusiasm of passion, and to this hour I never recollect it but my heart melts, and my blood rallies at the remembrance."

The emotional and passionate fire thus enkindled never died out, but glowed fervently in the dark and brilliant eye. It was fed by one love affair after another, which seems to have been the chief influence acting on quick feelings and a powerful imagination. Even in those early days his heart seems to have been occasionally stirred to its depths by a perception of his powers—"deeply drawing"—which grew seemingly into a conviction that he had a work to do, a mission to fulfil. Henceforth there flowed those inimitable poems, in which are united fine imagery, natural and imaginative description; with sublimity of language, and fertility of thought, delineating the emotions of youth and love, joy and sorrow, prosperity and adversity, hope and despair; age, retrospect, and resignation, which ever since have exerted such wondrous fascination—the perennial source of the joy and pride of his loving countrymen at home and abroad.

Early in 1786 Burns made known his desire to publish a volume of his poems. The proposal was so favourably responded to that the publication of an edition of six hundred copies was finally resolved on. The work was issued from the provincial press of John Wilson, bookseller in Kilmarnock. During June and July of that year Burns was engaged in revising the proofs of those now world-famed poems, which were destined to attain such a unique position in the permanent literature of his country, and secure for their author imperishable fame. The volume itself has long held a first place among the most highly prized of our book treasures. Originally published for five shillings, the present value of a really good copy cannot be far short of one hundred guineas, and as time rolls on it will doubtless become increasingly valuable.

Burns could scarcely credit the reality of the name and fame his volume had brought. The blood must have flown to his cheek—man though he was—in a vivid crimson wave, when he so suddenly and unexpectedly rose to fame. The key note of his secret aspirations had been unlocked, and his fondest hopes were far exceeded. Even when the first edition of his poems had been exhausted, and after his arrival in Edinburgh—where he was patronised by “The Lounger,” and lionised by the literati of the metropolis—his modesty compelled him to write:—“I am not vain enough to hope for distinguished poetic fame in a language where Shenstone and Gray had drawn a tear.” In “The Vision,” a poem couched in the highest strain of poetical genius, Burns describes the art of both these favourites, in the grace of its pathetic touch, as quite beyond the range of his own fervid genius :—

“Thou canst not learn, nor can I show,
To paint w th Thomson's landscape glow ;
Or wake the bosom-melting throe,
With Shenstone's art ;
Or pour with Gray, the moving flow
Warm on the heart.”

In contradistinction to this modest estimate of himself may be set that of the late Professor Wilson, of Christopher North celebrity, who echoes but the universal opinion. He says :—“ Burns was by far the greatest poet that ever sprang from the bosom of the people, and lived and died in humble circumstances and condition, who will ever be regarded as the glorious representative of the genius of his country, on which alone rests the perpetuity of his fame.”

It is generally allowed that his gift of original thought was very marked ; still his gift of original expression has been estimated as even greater. His powers of perception, assimilation, concentration, and condensation are considered to have been exceptional : all these found utterance in forcible and graphic language, in which, what he drew from others, became under his magic touch—his own.

Did ever the fire of self-sacrificing chivalry and patriotic self-abandonment burn more intensely and blaze higher than in “ Bruce's address to his Army at Bannockburn.” Of thought and sentiment embodying a living principle we have that inimitable lyric—“ A man's a man for a' that.” In what full measure of mystic lore, and felicitous diction—a Shaksperian blending of tragedy and comedy, are such poems as “ Tam o' Shanter,” and “ The Jolly Beggars.” Both humour and fancy play around such pieces as “ John Anderson my jo John.” “ The Death of poor Mailie,” “ The Jolly Beggars,” “ Tam Samson's Elegy,” and a host of others. What exquisite tenderness and pathos are infused into his amatory lyrics, and matchless love songs. What passionate sentiment is disclosed in the one where he sings of "Mary in Heaven," and "Mary that sleeps by the murmuring stream." In these feeling and intellect are happily blended, while in the highest lyrics the former is generally allowed to predominate. Poetry cannot go deeper than the feelings of the heart. It is the true exponent of them. It was during the last few years of his life that Burns threw his whole genius into song, for that was the form of literature he had loved from his cradle—home, sweet home, being redolent with the voice of song, his mother's memory being richly stored with the old tunes of her native country, which she sung to her eldest son from his cradle all through boyhood. This took deep root, for the book he most prized was an old song-book, which became his daily companion.

Thoughts, sentiments, or emotions laid hold of Burns with such force that the joys and sorrows he depicts so graphically became his own; while intensity was his more characteristic part—kindling his soul into its warmest glow. There is nothing artificial in his thoughts, feelings, and desires: all is natural, and true to the actualities of the human heart. Thus it is that the peasantry of Scotland have all along loved their National Bard, it may be, as fervently as ever people loved a poet. Through his poems—so full of the fine flavour of old vernacular humour and dialect often passing into deep pathos—there came a sympathy for him such as nothing else could have evoked. They express the thoughts and feelings, manners and customs of peasants, shepherds, and small moorland farmers in the language and phrases they used at their firesides. They interpret to each class its own inner life. No wonder the people loved these songs, in which their desires, hopes, and aspirations are reflected. Patriotism, as therein exhibited, roused the national spirit which had so long lain dormant. His writings, with a marked individuality of their own, have deeply moved and greatly influenced his countrymen all through the century. It is now generally allowed that Scottish song culminated in Burns.

True poetry can scarcely earn its title chiefly through a dexterity in so arranging and adjusting words that a musical cadence falls softly on the ear. Every true poem, at all worthy the name, must possess noble and pathetic thought as the foundation of the superstructure. This being secured, there can be thrown around the subject a robe of appropriate expression which cannot be too natural, or too delicate and musical.

True poetry touches man's soul, and appeals to the imagination—that faculty enfolding the springs of being—the potencies of the inner higher life. Scottish song and story are central in touch, inexhaustible in resources: poetic wealth of green fields and mountain breezes unwrought, undiscovered—still waiting to enrich and beautify the natural soul and character.

The first number of “Johnston’s Musical Museum” appeared during the year Creech issued the first Edinburgh edition of Burns’ poems, its main object being to preserve and improve the songs and music of Scotland. It should not be overlooked that the oldest musical airs of Scotland are in general older than the words with which they are now associated, and have often proved the inspirers of these—two, or it may be three sets of words having followed each other to the same tune. To Johnston's work Burns was solicited to contribute, and he wrote some songs for it.

He brought from obscurity a still greater number that in their original dress were either too uncouth, or too indecent—robing them anew in befitting language.

A greater than Johnston, however, appeared in the person of George Thomson of Edinburgh, who was fortunate in securing the assistance of Burns, and with his aid did more than any of his predecessors to give Scottish song and music the world-wide celebrity it has long enjoyed.

While all this is fully and freely acknowledged, it is at the same time believed that Burns moulded many of his pieces on ground work laid to hand by his predecessors, and that to many of them he was largely indebted. The times in which he lived were most opportune for a National Bard, for behind him, there was a great background of song centuries old, which formed a great storehouse of inspiration. The touch of his genius transmuted these inferior metals into gold.

A very marked instance of this is found in what may be regarded as the best known and most widely diffused of Scottish songs—"Auld Lang Syne." Here the soft lowland dialect, intermingled with the more northerly Doric, and formed a "perfect instrument" in the hands of Burns. It greatly surpasses our present English in its simplicity and naivete, and could not be rendered into present-day language in its fluency and flow. If we substitute for "Auld Lang-syne," "Old Long Since Ago," all its fine flavour is gone. Both the poetry and music of this fine old piece, as we now have it, were developed from that which existed long prior to the days of Burns. Thus it is, in both its parts, an example of the evolution of art. The earliest known form of the song appears so far back as the Bannantyne M.S. It again saw the light in somewhat altered guise in Watson's collection of Scottish poems, published in 1711, and subsequently in Ramsay's "Tea-Table Miscellany," issued in 1724.*

In a letter of Burns to Mrs Dunlop, dated 17th December 1788, enclosing a copy of the song as revised by himself, he wrote—"There is an old song and tune which has often thrilled my soul," and he apostrophised it in these words—"Light lie the turf on the breast of the heaven-inspired poet who composed this glorious fragment."

We do not for one moment vindicate what has been styled the occasional coarseness and vulgarity of a few of Burns' poems; still, it is only justice to record that in these respects his literary failings are few compared with some of his predecessors. These arose chiefly from vitiated associates, through whose influence he showed a want of self-reliance, and a lack of self-mastery, and through whom the safeguards of his father's careful religious instruction and training did not prevent sad excesses in the gratification of his impetuous passions, which, alas, he found hard to restrain, and fatal to indulge, and which overbore the voice of conscience, from want of power to obey its dictates. It would, have imparted additional lustre to his name, and greatly increased his moral power, as well as the usefulness and influence of his poems and life-work, had he not permitted a single word savouring of the immoral to drop from his lips, or flow from his pen. And it would have been well for himself and his countrymen had all his writings been inspired with the high moral tone exhibited in that sublime production, "The Cottar's Saturday Night"—a poem, the perusal of which inspires us with the conviction that man's true dignity does not rest on mere transient external circumstances, but on the high standard of his moral nature: a poem which has thrown a halo of sanctity around the life of that portion of the Scottish peasantry in whose dwellings an altar has been reared for the simple and loving worship of our Great Creator and Father.

* The Tea Table Miscellany, as its name implies, was intended to supply the more educated citizens of Edinburgh, in their social gatherings, with a selection of the best Scottish National Melodies. In this way were introduced to the drawing-rooms of the litterati, those beautiful musical airs or songs, with the words, which had their "setting" mid the atmosphere of lowly rural cottages.

Scott had scarcely completed his sixteenth year when he first saw "the peasant bard," in the Scottish Capital, in December 1786. Burns was then in the full vigour of youthful bloom, with a noble countenance lit up with large, dark, flashing eyes, a strongly knit frame, and a nervous temperament tremblingly delicate.

The unique volume was at once hailed by all classes as one containing poetry of a high order, which, notwithstanding its acknowledged faults and defects in language and sentiment, has, beyond all doubt, the great merit of possessing intense life-pervading and life-breathing truth. It is the offspring of the fulness of the poetic inspiration, and exhibits the extraordinary powers with which its author was endowed; for it is believed that its pages bear the evidence that to him belongs the honour of having struck the lyric cords with a depth, truth, and beauty of expression unrivalled by the songs of any other nation.

Wit, sentiment, and passion glow on its pages, through the native dialect he so much loved, in short and concentrated outbursts of great beauty and fidelity of language. It came straight from, and goes straight to the heart, thrilling it by its masterly touches of nature, thus making his world of readers all akin.

There are strong humanising elements running through all his poems,—unsophisticated, unelaborated, simple, natural yet original, seemingly caught from his surroundings. His utterances are simple, straight-forward, yet dignified. His modes are large and human, and seem akin to the forms of primary thought, and often possess a grandeur rarely if ever heard till then. The capable reader soon becomes conscious that he is in the presence of a master spirit, whose thoughts and expressions bear an intimate relation to universal humanity, as well as to himself, and thus possess a vital relation to all.

From this it may be inferred that he carefully avoided the artificial and conventional style, which rather vitiated the poetry of many of his predecessors, his aim being, apparently, to return to the elemental in subject, and to the natural in language, in his delineations and descriptions of homely themes taken from lowly everyday life.

When stirred by their environments his thoughts flowed gently like a stream, broad and placid, carrying on its bosom life and growth of its own kind, to all who care to drink of its waters; or, under the impulse of strong passion and vivid imagination, expressing himself in language vehement and strong, full of warm feeling, or bitter denunciation, like a rushing torrent with the lightning's glare o'erhead. Thus his portraiture of Scottish life and manners—while rough and ready, broad and strong—are in their main aspects true.

He appears before his countrymen in no false guise,—a rustic poet in homely garb, using his native dialect as the medium for describing scenes and incidents alike in nature and human life and character, for the delight and solace of his countrymen.

One great precious truth runs like a golden thread through his poems—the noble sentiment so dear to man,—individuality and independence—the real spiritual co-equality of all true-hearted men, notwithstanding great disparity of outward rank and condition. This forms the central truth in his teaching, encouraging all to struggle bravely in life's daily battle. The priceless legacy which he has left is intrinsically and universally human in its portrayal of Fact and Nature; and so it is that the works of the chief of Scotland's lyric poets have gradually won for their author the highest literary eminence on which his countrymen, from the palace to the cot, can place him; and from that lofty and enduring pedestal it is their delight to view him as "The Greatest National Poet."

Burns wrote much, if his narrow forbidding environments are to be taken into account; still it is believed that his literary life-work is but a tithe of what it might have been. May it not be that what we possess give but glimpses of his fervid genius? Many of his poems are the results of occasional outbursts when under fits of depression, sore-stricken poverty, or bitter disappointment—written, too, often on the spur of the moment, when in a high state of nervous excitement. They often came like the flash of a meteor, at other times they were the product of considerable thought; still the suggestion has great force that many of them are imperfect and fragmentary to what they might have been had leisure and a moderate competency been his. The full force of his intellectual vigour—gathered from increased culture, experience, and leisured length of days—were never his; so that what we have are but as sparks from the anvil ; such as are, however, rarely seen.

It is pleasing to know that Scott's mother was well acquainted with the poetry of her day, particularly that of Ramsay and Burns, though neither the names of Scott's father, nor that of his mother, nor of their more illustrious son, appear on the list of subscribers to that now famous and much coveted first Edinburgh edition of 1776.

Scott was born at Edinburgh on 15th August 1771, and was fully thirty years of age ere his first important work was issued. He had thus education and leisure, also close and frequent intercourse with a large circle to help him forward in the accomplishment of his self-imposed task ; time for frequent visits to the original sources, scenes, and haunts whence his ballads sprang ; time for study, meditation, and observation ; time for the maturing and ripening of his great intellectual powers. The Fates were favourable to the fostering and development of his genius.

Burns' death took place when Scott had just passed his twenty-fifth birthday ; but nine years elapsed ere he showed that the mantle of him whom he so much revered had fallen upon himself.*

* On the occasion of Burns' visit to Edinburgh in 1786-87, he received an invitation from the late Professor Ferguson (among others) to meet several of the literati of the city at his house. Scott was then a lad of fifteen, yet had sense and feeling enough to be much interested in the poetry of Burns, whom he longed to know. Along with other youths, Scott was present on the occasion, for he says—"We youngsters sat silent, looked, and listened."

During the entertainment, Burns became interested in a picture on the wall of the apartment, representing a soldier lying dead on the snow, his widow, with a child in her arms on one side, his dog on the other, while underneath were some touching lines of which none present, save Scott, could give the authorship, whereupon Burns "rewarded the youth

Scott's first highly popular publication of note—"The Minstrelsy of the Scottish Border," in two volumes, published in 1802—at once secured for him no mean place in the republic of letters. These poetical legends of the "Green Border hills" he collected during numerous visits to the romantic wilds of the border land, in which, it may be said, he was partly cradled. He spent most of the leisure of his youth and early manhood in gathering every ballad, border song, and romantic legend which still lingered there. The Minstrelsy was thus the product of great labour and long research. Not only did he collect, but he also annotated these ballads—his previous efforts in translating some German productions having developed this latent talent, thus encouraging him to assume the position of an original ballad-writer, and several of his own happily marvellous imitations of these are interspersed throughout the "Minstrelsy."

with a look and a word which, though of mere civility, I then received and still recollect with very great pleasure."

This scene in the lives of these two illustrious Scotchmen is given by Lockhart, and forms the subject of a life-like picture, by Mr Martin Hardie, now (1894) hanging on the walls of the Royal Academy at Edinburgh. The venerable Professor is represented sitting in his arm chair, poker in hand to stir the fire, his arm meanwhile arrested as he looks up to view Burns who, facing Scott, clad in schoolboy garb of the time, is gazing intently, though with a look of diffidence, at the peasant bard—the greatest nature-taught Scottish poet.

The large canvas is peopled with a goodly number of the brilliant men of the period, while the subject and its treatment is allowed to possess so great an interest that the picture will possibly be the most popular one in this year's exhibition.

The works of both Scott and Burns have furnished more subjects for book illustration than any other Scottish writers, and form, in the main, the chief subjects of the illustrated works issued yearly during the past half century by the Society for the "Propagation of the Fine Arts in Scotland."

The publication of "The Lay of the Last Minstrel," in 1805, when Scott was in his thirty-fourth year, at once set the seal of public approval on a work so full of picturesque incident, in an exceptionally marked manner: and by the publication of the two poems that followed in rapid succession—"Marmion," and the "The Lady of the Lake" (the latter credited with being the best of his poetical works), and by those that subsequently appeared, this success was both increased and confirmed.

In the field of metrical romance Scott's supremacy stands unquestioned. In a letter to Ellis, in 1802, Scott speaks of a ballad on which he was then engaged, and the stanza chosen as a "kind of romance of border chivalry in a light-horse sort of stanza." His original idea was to insert it in the "Minstrelsy," but after submitting the manuscript to Wordsworth, Jeffrey, and others, he yielded to their solicitations, and extended the poem into an independent metrical romance. Its sale was beyond all precedent. The poem addressed itself to the past history of Scottish chivalry, and burned with such a glow of bardic inspiration as to strike a note that roused into enthusiasm the half-slumbering poetic national mind. It also revived a love for old metrical romances that seemed till then as dead as were the knights and lovers who formed their central figures.

Thus the publication of "The Lay" laid the foundation of Scott's fame as an original poet, both from the novelty of style and treatment of subject, and the spirit and power with which it, and those that followed, were written. His countrymen were convinced that a poet possessing original genius had appeared, whose works added fresh laurels to our National Literature. There is both motion and buoyancy in the best passages of his poetry, which thrills the heart and stirs the imagination, as few poets can equal.

Are not these two favoured sons of song, Burns and Scott, fittingly denominated the masters of the Scottish Lyra—bright and inspiring examples of the high position which can be won by energy, perseverance, purpose, and intensity of aim, working towards the development of great natural gifts? And are not their works evidence that they uttered music rarely approached, that they stand head and shoulders above their fellows in their chosen art, that therein they move in another and higher sphere?

To Scott were given mental qualities such as few men possess: an heroic soul, gigantic energy, great concentration and quickness of perception, retentive memory in a high degree—keenly alive to, and greatly influenced by the martial spirit and social customs of feudal times, and profoundly impressed by the rich and varied scenery of his native land. His poems show the epic inspiration, and give us life-like descriptions of the ancient manners and customs of our forefathers—in their wooing and warring, sporting and hunting, fighting and killing. And this amid scenes of ancient chivalry and knightly daring, with the huntsman's bugle ringing in our ears to the call of feudal customs and traditions. These he presents in great richness of colouring and variety of scenery, abounding with incidental touches and delicate shades of expression, causing these word-painted pictures to stand as exquisite transcripts of our native scenery almost, if not altogether unrivalled.

Scott's material had lain hidden in feudal times, which had passed away ere his day—had lain like skeletons in the valley of forgetfulness, till, by his genius he brought it into life, and clothed it in new garb, bringing it afresh into action, and in a guise and form suited to modern sympathies.

Every old castle, ivied tower, or ruined fortalice which came within his range was transformed in his vivid and fertile imagination—tenanted anew with “Lords and Ladies gay,” with their numerous retainers, and a long procession of historical and ideal figures, all of whom, imaged in his mind, seemed to move before his eyes as really as when the banquet-hall was lit in the elden time. Every fair domain, ancient battle field, craggy steep, moorland fell, or mountain pass famous in Scottish story, were, by the magic of his creative genius, peopled anew, as by Homeric fire, with all the excitement of the tournament, or with clans fighting out in deadly combat their bitter feuds, or the armies of two gallant nations struggling for ascendancy. Has he not thus by enriching the literature of his country annexed new territory to the human soul?

His touch lit up fair Melrose, Dunvegan, and other ruined piles, casting a halo and a fascination round these such as no other poet has equalled; while, by a wave of his wand, stretched over the battlefields of Bannockburn, Flodden, and other historic spots, he has given an interest all its own to these, and to our national struggles for liberty and independence.

He possessed the power to stir the soul with a sort of ecstasy and boundless enthusiasm, such as few poets ever displayed. It has been affirmed that he often had a kind of hare-brained “light in his eye,” which sparkles in his finer passages, whether poetry or prose.

The more truly and intelligently Scott’s poetic romances are read and studied, the more will it be perceived that he has bequeathed to his country a great national inheritance. Apart from the charm of his metrical romances, his lyrics alone secure for him a lasting place in the literature of his country. “Jock o’ Hazeldean,” “The Cavalier,” “The Pibroch of Doniel Dhu," "Rosabella," "Alice Brand," "Allan-a-dale," "Brignal Binks," "Norah's Vow," "Lochinvar," and many others have long been household songs, and will hold their high place as long as closeness and vigour of thought and elegance of style are coupled with tenderness and melody, cheerfulness and highly sensitive humour. They please the ear, gratify the taste, and touch the heart.

His songs—those of Burns also—made the tour of the world more than half a century ago; are read and sung in every country and clime; and are held in everlasting remembrance. The songs of both poets are an inspiration and exposition of the love of home, kindred, and country. As a lyrist Scott assails us, as with a reveillez from verdant woods where the hart has been tracked, and the roe-buck ensnared to his fall; he identifies us with outlaws whose daring exploits he holds up to admiration; he associates us with freebooters and cavaliers who are "Prince Charlie's Men," and he keeps us in hall mid "dames and ladies high and fair."

Contemporary with Scott were John Leyden and James Hogg, the Ettrick Shepherd—the three greatest names in modern Border Poetry. From the former Scott received more assistance in the preparation of the first two volumes of the "Minstrelsy" than from any other. Leyden contributed two modern border ballads to the work—"Lord Soulis," and "The Cout of Keeldar"—both being of the romantic type, showing at the same time a loving sympathy with Nature in its varied aspects, as objects of poetic interest. He also contributed two odes—one "On Visiting Flodden Field"—the other "On Scottish Music," as well as the poem called "The Mermaid." Leyden's poetic fame rests mainly on his poem, "The Scenes of Infancy," which is chiefly descriptive of his native valley in Teviotdale, but includes the entire district anciently known by that name. He was born in 1775, and died at Java in 1811.

Hogg was born at Ettrick Forest, Selkirkshire—the Arcadia of Scotland—towards the latter end of 1770. His ancestors had been shepherds for centuries. Owing to a severe reverse of family circumstances James was taken from school when but six years of age, and hired to herd cows, receiving as wages a "ewe lamb, and a pair of shoes every six months." The following year he was again sent to school for a single quarter, where he learnt to read the Bible, and write what was called "big text." This completed his education. What he subsequently achieved in the realm of letters was won by diligence and perseverance,—marvellous faculties when cultivated sedulously.

From childhood he was a lover of music, and taught himself the use of the violin, in which he ultimately excelled. His poems and lyrics early won a lasting place in the literature of his country, while the melody of language exhibited in his poem, "Kilmeny," has few equals. It is a remarkable production, even under the most favoured circumstances, but much more so when viewed in the light of his very meagre educational advantages.

It has been said of Hogg that he has never been surpassed in his descriptive weird poetic tales, and it is but rarely that one appears so gifted as to give permanent substantial form to floating fancies and traditions, and that in such exquisitely flowing and melodious verse. So magical are the fairy touches throughout his writings that one might almost be tempted to dream they had been transported to a world of light and shade, where "all things are forgotten." Through his literary genius we can enter and explore that realm of fancy called Fairy-land, the belief in which, Scott affirms, lingered longest in this upland forest of Ettrick.

When quite a young man, the poems of Burns so stirred in him the spirit of emulation that, while tending his flocks along the hill sides and mid the pastoral solitudes of his native county, he carried writing materials with him, and taught himself the art. Thus did he place his first poem on paper. Other works stimulated his energies, such as Hamilton's edition of "The Life of Sir William Wallace," and Ramsay's "Gentle Shepherd."

The picture he has drawn of himself at this early period is in these words:—"With my plaid about me, best mantle of inspiration, a beuk of auld ballants, as yellow as the cowslips, in my hand or bosom, and maybe, sir, my ink horn dangling at my button-hole, a bit stump o' pen, nae bigger than an auld wife's pipe, in my mouth, and a piece o' paper, torn out o' the hinder-end of a volume, crunkled on my knee." Be it remembered he could only read when he had reached the age of eighteen, and write when he was twenty-six. Notwithstanding these serious drawbacks, his genius surmounted numerous and formidable obstacles, and so exerted itself that he wrote those marvellously weird visions which have placed his name honourably among Scotland's most gifted sons.

In 1801 Scott visited Ettrick and Yarrow, and there met the young shepherd-bard, then about thirty years of age. Leyden introduced Scott to young Laidlaw, who in turn commended Hogg to his visitor as the "best qualified of any person in the Forest to assist him in his researches" after the ballad lore of that district for the completion of the third volume of "The Minstrelsy." Scott accompanied his future steward to Ettrick house, the farm occupied by him and his parents, and was charmed with his new acquaintance. "He found," says Lockhart, "a brother poet, a true son of Nature and genius, hardly conscious of his powers," and was so successful that he remained several days in the district, visiting many places of historic interest in company with Laidlaw and Hogg, and gleaned an abundant harvest through the acquaintance of his protegee with the older people, including Hogg's mother. The friendship thus formed lasted till Sir Walter's death.

Hogg's works, both in poetry and prose, are numerous, and have long been before the public in varied forms and editions. Professor Wilson, in reviewing "The Queen's Wake," wrote:—"Kilmeny alone places our shepherd among the Undying Ones." The works of these three poets,—Burns, Scott, and Hogg—have filled so many hearts, influenced so many lives, and stirred so many souls to their depths, that to weigh their effect on national literature and life and character is beyond computation or is an impossible undertaking.

True poetry has a higher mission to perform than simply to please the ear and gratify the intellectual taste. Its higher function is to expound great truths, which fill the mind and touch the heart, and in the nature of things are fitted to instruct and advance mankind. These the poet robes in weighty and powerful utterances, fitted to arrest and concentrate the attention; for it has long been a truism that the tendency of literature, and especially poetical literature, is to subdue the animosities, soften the feelings, elevate the affections, refine the heart, foster the growth of self-control and self-respect, and thus beautify, adorn, and purify the soul and life of man. Man thus endowed, how noble! God the endower—how transcendently noble!

A large majority of our species are lovers of music and poetry. There are sufficient musical tastes among men to enjoy the former, and enough of the latter faculty to enable them to derive pleasure therefrom. Both are the gifts of Nature, and were designed to be among our every day pleasures. But while the class capable of receiving these is very large, that qualified to impart them is very small,

If the highest class of musicians be few, the corresponding order of poets is still fewer. These are endowed with a rare combination—a masterful imagination, a fancy of great brilliancy, and a profound understanding—indeed all those qualities which go to constitute the true poet:

The world has not seen a second Homer, a Dante, a Virgil, a Shakespeare, a Milton, a Goethe, a Burns, or a Scott, so full-toned in compass that they seem to have fetched their harp strings from other spheres whereby their works have permeated the vital air of the world. A few of our poets endowed with one, or more, or all of those faculties, in a greater or less degree, have appeared as crescents radiant with brightness, or as the full grown moon in her Scythian splendour—their number—Oh how few!

Most, if not all of our great poets, have felt they had a high function to fulfil—a mission to their fellows, which was alike their duty and pleasure to deliver, and enforce faithfully and well. They occupy the high places of the world, and are among the intensest thinkers, and stand in the vanguard of the great march of man's advancement, leading the way to further achievements; not mere dreamers—each gifted with his own mellifluous method of expressing weighty and powerful truths, full of significance and importance, in bright and inspiring lines. They consider it theirs so to present human life and action in its multifarious aspects that a lodgment be secured in many minds, as seeds either of slow or rapid growth, ultimately blossoming out of the dust, and bearing fruit in its season on minds of varied culture and acquirement. Their utterances are what tens of thousands feel and appreciate, though devoid of the power of expressing—thus their message comes like a revelation.

It can scarcely be doubted that the works of those poets, who have produced the masterpieces of human genius, must necessarily possess great influence on an ever increasing circle of readers, moulding much of their thought and action. To all such our National Scottish Poetry and Song yield much pleasure and profit, enriching and sweetening their thoughts, and making their lives brighter and better, by sending forth a purifying influence, which in the nature of things becomes infused into the minds of others. Poetry is thus the language of man's awakened intellect, of his stimulated passions, of his devotion, and of all his higher mental conceptions and aspirations. Language, after all, is, in the first instance, the instrument of human thought. We ask the poet to give us thought as well as music. Then do those jewelled lines take a lasting place in the mind, and secure a firm hold on the memory. The intellectual triumphs of such poetry are very marked. It raised Burns from his toilsome daily task at the plough; Allan Cunningham from the drudgery of the quarry; Hogg from the shepherd's shieling; Tannahill from the dreary weaver's shuttle—and placed them, with many more of the tuneful brotherhood, "among the immortals."

Poetry is figurative and glowing speech in mellowed and majestic accents. It is thought passionately alive to the unfolding of its theme. If the thought be new and expressed with such beauty of word and rhythm as to arrest attention, and command study, Man will be all the richer. The gift of melodious utterance is peculiarly Scottish, therefore to Scotsmen, where'er their lot is cast, their national poets are a never failing source of pleasure—many of their productions recounting early struggles for Scotland's liberty, holding up to our admiration the heroic acts of the great historic names in our national history, with all their noble traditions and associations. Patriotism is thereby nurtured, and becomes a vital force; the moral energy of the nation is thereby strengthened, and finds suitable expression.

It may here be noted, with perhaps a pardonable feeling of national Scottish pride, that the three most popular patriotic songs in the language were written by Scotsmen:—"Scots wha hae wi' Wallace bled," by Burns; "Ye Mariners of England," by Campbell; and "Rule Britannia," by Thomson. These, and a host of other lyrics, full of passion and pathos, dwell in the heart, and are like leaves of fresh laurel, ever sweet and pleasant—intertwined in the wreaths of Scottish fame.

The intellectual faculties of the few occasionally impress communities deeply and lastingly, beneficial or otherwise, according to the moral standard of their productions. Thus we naturally look to those who, by their great intellectual endowments, and by general consent, wear the world's laurels as the greatest benefactors of our race. It does not seem to matter so much in what department of its affairs their efforts are put forth to make mankind their debtors; for if discoveries are made in one branch of study or science, others are stimulated, and further advances follow. It is evident that the race has been better and more enduringly benefited by the exceptional and the extraordinary among men, than by those who possess nothing beyond a modicum of ability and plain common sense—though both are in themselves rich boons. Thus the world's progress has been more rapid in every department of literature, science, and art, by the inventions, conceptions, and productions of those endowed with exceptional genius. They strike out new paths, and in the main are the real pioneers of progress. The real value of genius lies in the truthfulness of its utterances, and in its utility to benefit the race.

If an examination were made of the class of literature which preceded the three great masters of the Scottish lyre, Burns, Scott, and Hogg in their respective spheres, the superiority of that which they left, as compared with what they found, and that which has to a considerable extent been produced as the result of their teachings, together with the part which that literature holds in our vital growth and civilization as a people, it would then be seen how much the country, and the entire English speaking race owe to them.

The work which the earliest of the three hoped to accomplish, but failed in some degree to do, was successfully performed by Scott—who may be said to have achieved his literary aspirations more fully than most men. He unlocked the stores which had hitherto been closed, and admitted his readers to new fields of thought, full of beauty and enchantment. His ideals were noble, his self-imposed task such as few, if any but himself, could have successfully accomplished. He resuscitated and fanned into flame our half-forgotten, semi-dead spirit of nationality, clothing it in new and inviting forms suggested by his genius and patriotism, which burned in him as a consuming fire. He conferred a new order of nobility on poets by the fruits of his genius; for from the story of incessant feuds and discords—from the blood, bones and ashes of the Past he called into life and action all that was elevating, inspiring, and attractive in Scottish story, weaving it into an immortal wreath of garlands, for the adornment of the brow of Caledonia past, present, and future.

It is from this point of view—that one generation of poets have been succeeded by another, and that but for their predecessors, few, if any of them, would have sung so well and so sweetly—that we have dwelt so long on the services which some of our earlier native poets, from Thomas the Rhymer downwards, have rendered their country. Burns revived the national love for poetic literature, by stirring into life the thought and feeling of the country, by new and appropriate utterances suited to the pent-up feelings of humanity, thereby gaining the national ear, and so rousing national enthusiasm, that henceforth his songs formed part of the mother tongue of our race. The ground was thus cleared and the way paved for his successors and imitators, whose name is legion. Scott, by his metrical romances, ballads, and lyrics intensified and completed these—their united works standing out as land marks in the world's literature, and are as trees of knowledge whose fruit is pleasant to the taste.

They have been, and will continue to be, a vital force and influence expanding as years roll on. Scott was Scottish to the very core, and to him his native country is mainly indebted for its classic name and fame, and from its legendary lore he drew what inspiration there was in him. He is our Shakespeare, for by the spell of his single genius he has invested even our very soil with an interest and sentiment somewhat akin to that which drew from far both old and young to sacred spots and historic localities on pious pilgrimage.

Thus, though essentially distinct, the lyric poetry of the one, and the minstrel-ballad poetry of the other mark both as the leaders of their country in these departments—the former being the chief exponent of song lore, the latter of metrical or ballad lore.

If other poets are less known than they ought to be, it is not because their works are unworthy of being carefully read, studied, and treasured. They suffer, then, as all co-workers do, where there is the dominancy of one or two master minds and personalities. Burns and Scott rear high their forms, but a very host of the brotherhood are behind and before, and may easily be found.

After the publication of Ramsay's works, and forward towards Burns' day, a love for Scottish song arose, and soon spread itself among all classes. Considerable additions were made to the common stock by eminent men of the time, and by ladies also, and not a few of our finest melodies belong to this period. Prominent among the lady songstresses belonging to, or in proximity with this time, were Grizzel Baillie, born 1665, died 1746, a native of the Border, and authoress of the well-known lyric, "Were na my heart light." She takes a first place among the earliest of the lady-band, who enriched and extended the lyric stores of their native land. Other ladies, allied by birth to those romantic Border counties, followed, chief among whom were Jane Elliot, born 1727, died 1805, and Mrs Cockburn, born 1712, died 1794, who, in her old age, became a friend of Scott in his boyhood. Both ladies wrote one song each, on the same subject, which attained celebrity, and became known as "The Flowers of the Forest"—that is, the fall of the youth of Selkirk on the field of Flodden. These two songs were first made known through the publication, in 1769, of David Herd's collection of "Scottish Songs: Ancient and Modern."

In Robert Chambers' edition of Scottish songs, published in 1829, will be found interesting reminiscences of Mrs Cockburn, by Scott, to which work we refer those of our readers who are interested in this and kindred subjects.

The names of other ladies belonging to the tuneful sisterhood who gave Scottish song the full advantage of female genius, and breathed into it a depth of feminine feeling and pathos, are Mrs Grant of Laggan, born 1755, died 1838; Mrs Hunter, born 1742, died 1821; Mrs Inglis, born 1774, died 1843; and Joanna Baillie, born 1762, died 1851, who, as a lyric poetess, is unsurpassed among her sex for depth of pathos, fulness of spirit, finely polished language, and a high strain of refined sentiment. Scott held her in great esteem for her many accomplishments, and fully appreciated her poetic talents, designating this nobly gifted woman—"the immortal Joanna."

Her works are numerous, and her songs will always occupy a conspicuous niche in the temple of Scottish song, for freshness, beauty of expression, and ripeness of thought. Of those well-known and long popular may be named "Woo'd and Married and a'," "Saw Ye Johnnie Comin'," "Poverty parts gude Company," "Hooly and Fairly," and "The Gowan glitters on the Sward," but there are very many more.

There are a goodly array of poets belonging to this period—i.e., the close of last and opening quarter of this century—who stand out so conspicuously as song-writers, that they cannot be passed over in silence.

First may be named the Rev. John Skinner, long a clergyman of the Scottish Episcopal Church in the more northern portion of Aberdeenshire. He was largely endowed with good sense, simple healthy feeling, Scottish humour and true nobility, and was spoken of as possessing the "soul of a gentleman, the genius of a poet, and the learning of a scholar." He draws direct from nature and humanity. His poems are marked by strong vitality; thus to him has been assigned no mean place among the song-writers of Scotland. His country owes him a deep debt of gratitude for such songs as "Tullochgorum," "Lizy Liberty," "The Ewie wi' the Crookit Horn," "Tune your Fiddles," "John o' Badenyon," "O, Why should Old Age so much wound us, O," "The Stipendless Parson," and "The Man of Ross."

Burns, writing to Skinner towards the end of 1787, says—"Tullochgorum's my delight. The world may think slightly of the craft of song-making if they please. . . . There is a certain something in the old Scotch songs, a wild happiness of thought and expression, which peculiarly marks them, not only from English songs, but also from the modern efforts of song-writers in our native manner and language. The only remains of this enchantment, these spells of imagination rest with you."

A song-writer of true simplicity and pure sentiment, ruling among poets by the sceptre of song, appeared in the person of Robert Tannahill, born at Paisley 1774, died 1810. He inherited from his mother a fervent poetic temperament. When but a school boy his genius flowered into song, and during his apprenticeship to the trade of a weaver—then a lucrative occupation in the west of Scotland—and while actually employed at the loom, his thoughts were absorbed in the composition of his songs, which were written on a rude temporary desk by his side. Thus were indited some of his best songs, such as "The dear Highland Laddie," "O, are ye sleeping, Maggie?" "The Braes o' Balquhither," "The Wood of Craigie Lea," "Jessie, the Flower o' Dunblane," “Gloomy Winter’s now awa’,” “Good Night, and Joy,” and many others. Tannahill was a great enthusiast of the muse, his whole soul being lit up with its fire, which burned intensely to his sad and untimely death. About 1803, he fortunately made the acquaintance of R. A. Smith, a celebrated musical composer, to whose music many of the poet’s best songs were wedded. Thus arrayed, they are well-known and valued wherever Scottish song is appreciated—for their elevation and tenderness of sentiment, richness of rural imagery, simplicity, and naturalness of diction. His fame as a lyric poet is well deserved, for the lyre of Scotland, in his hand, retained its native, artless, sweet, and touching notes, and the hills and valleys of Scotland recognised and welcomed the Doric strain.

Among the poets belonging to this period, or in proximity to it, may be mentioned Alexander Ross, born 1699, died 1784, author of “The Fortunate Shepherdess,” and several Scottish songs, among others, “The Rock and the wee pickle Tow,” or “The Spinning o’t,” and “The Bridal o’t.” Alexander Geddes, LL.D., born 1737, died 1802; author of the well-known piece “The Wee Wifiekie,” “Lewis Gordon,” and many others. James Tytler, born 1747, died 1805; author of “Locherroch Side,” “Lass gin ye lo’e me,” “The Bonnie Brucket Lassie.” Dr Austin, born 17—, died 1774, an accomplished physician at Edinburgh, whose love experiences caused him to indite the piece “For lack of gold she has left me, O.” Dr Blacklock, born 1721, died 1791, the blind poet and divine, author of a volume of poems which appeared in 1746, reprinted with additions in 1754 and 1756. He was one of the earliest to perceive the genius of Burns. Sir John Clerk, of Pennycuik, born 1680, died 1755, the writer of the well-known song, “The Miller.” William Dudgeon, born 17—, died 1813; Sir Gilbert Elliot, born 1722, died 1777; Lieut.-General Sir Harry Erskine, born 17—, died 1765; Hon. Andrew Erskine, died 1793; David Macbeth Moir, born 1798, died 1851; long a personal friend of the founder of the well-known firm of William Blackwood & Sons, and a valued contributor to their well-known Magazine, which they have issued for nearly a century. Moir's contributions, particularly his poetic ones, were under the nom-de-plume, Delta, by which he was known in the literary world. His friend and biographer, Thomas Aird, says "that the popularity of Delta's soft and beautiful pieces was very great, especially among the young, and helped well to fix 'Blackwood' on the hearts of the rising generation." Some of Moir's pieces are marked by great tenderness, and are very touching and sincere. His well-known pieces "Casa Wappy," and "Casa's Dirge," particularly the former, are generally referred to in proof of the statement. Aird says of it that its simple, sobbing, wailing pathos has drawn more tears from mothers than any other dirge of our day. It has been well said tears are the truest of critics. Lady Ann Lindsay, born 1750, died 1825, was authoress of the world-renowned ballad, "Auld Robin Gray." Rev. John Logan, born 1748, died 1788, author of "The Braes of Yarrow," "The Light of the Moon," "The Dying Christian," "The Reign of Messiah," and many other beautiful pieces, was the friend and class-mate of Michael Bruce. Richard Hewit, born 17—, died, 1794; John Lowe, born 1750, died 1798; Dr James Muirhead, born 1742, died 1806; Isabel Pagan, born 17—, died 1821; usually designated Tibbie Pagan, authoress of the well-known piece, "Ca' the Yowes to the Knowes,"—a song which enchanted Burns, though he was ignorant of its origin. In his notes to Johnston's Museum, he says—

“This song is in the true Scottish taste, yet I do not know either air or words were ever in print before. It has a border sound ; and in the line, is Annandale or Eskdale, and, I believe, good Yarrow.” Michael Bruce, born 1746, died, 1767 ; author of the well-known poem “Loch Leven,” the “Elegy to Spring,” the justly famed “Ode to the Cuckoo,” which Edmund Burke has characterised as “the most beautiful lyric in the language.” John Wilson, born 1785, died 1854, a voluminous author, the well-known Christopher North, the prince of critiques since the days of Jeffrey—the author of “Noctes Ambrosianæ,” “The Isle of Palms,” “The City of the Plague,” “The Convict,” and a very host of other poems, all marked by great descriptive power, graceful and delicate fancy, impressive grandeur, and heart-subduing pathos, the central luminary of that brilliant constellation which illumined the pages of “Maga” for the first half of the present century. Lastly, Adam Skirving, born 1719, died 1803, author of that universally popular song, “Johnnie Cope,” and that named “Tranent Muir.” These, with many others, have secured by their poetic productions a lasting and honourable place in the literature of their country.

‘ I’se gang wi’ you, my shepherd lad,’

Still later came Thomas Aird, born 1802, died 1876, the friend of Wilson, Moir, and other literary men of that day, by whom he was held in the highest esteem. In 1848 his poems appeared in a collected form, and by 1863 had reached a fourth edition. The volume contains many beautiful pieces, among which may be named “The River,” “The Holy Cottage,” “The Swallow,” “Frank Sylvan,” and “My Mother’s Grave,” the latter breathing a spirit of great tenderness, loving devotion, and intensest pathos. Dr Horatius Bonar, born 1808, died 1889, a voluminous and highly popular writer of religious works, and author of many beautiful hymns and lyrics, such as "No More Sea," "The Meeting Place," "A Little While," "Heaven," "The Martyrs of Scotland," "Newly Fallen Asleep," "Here, O my Lord, I see Thee face to face," "I was a Wandering Sheep." John S. Blackie, born 1809—one of whom every Scotsman may be justly proud—the genial author of "Lays and Legends of Ancient Greece," "Lyrical Poems," "Homer and the Iliad," "Songs of the Highlands and Islands," and many other poems and lyrics of great beauty and expressiveness, among which may be named "Beautiful World," and "The Death of Columba." William Miller, born 1810, died 1872; Dr Norman Macleod, born 1812, died 1872; James Hedderwick, born 1814; Charles Mackay, born 1814, died 1891, a charmingly fresh and melodious singer, author of many pieces which hold no mean place in the temple of fame reared by the tune-far brotherhood, among which may be named "Far, Far upon the Sea," "The Child and the Mourners," "I Lay in Sorrow Deep Distressed," "I Love my Love," "Piety," "The Lost Day," and "The Death-Song of the Poet." John Campbell Shairp, LL.D., Principal of the United College of St Salvador and St Leonard, St Andrews, born 1819, died 18—, author of a volume issued in 1864, entitled "Kilmahoe," a Highland Pastoral with other poems. He also wrote many other pieces, as well as some beautiful lyrics, among which may be named "From the Highlands," "From the Borders," "From the Lowlands," "The Moor of Rannoch," and "The Bush aboon Traquair," the two latter being greatly admired. James Smith, born 1824, author of "Wee Cockielorum," "Wee Joukydaidles," "Clap, Clap Handies," and many other tender and touching poems in the Scottish dialect. Dr George Macdonald, born 1824, one of the most popular of living Scottish poets and novelists. Some of his poetic works, as "The Gospel Woman," "The Disciple," and the "Organ Songs" will long maintain the high position they have attained. Scattered through his numerous works will be found many exquisite lyrics. Alexander Smith, born 1830, died 1867, the well-known author of "A Life Drama," "City Poems," and other poems. Isa Craig Knox, born 1831. These, with many others that might be named in the great company of our Scottish masters of song, take an honourable place and name, having added fresh laurels to their country's garland of song, thus keeping awake and increasing a thoughtful admiration for what they and their predecessors have bequeathed to us in their matchless music of English words.

Had space permitted this essay would have included notices of such poets as Allan Cunningham, Robert Allan, Sir Alexander Boswell, Alexander Wilson, Richard Gall and a goodly array of their contemporaries.

These sketchy references to our song-writers of the earlier portion of this century would be sadly defective without a reference to Thomas Campbell, (born 1777, died 1844), author of "The Pleasures of Hope" (pronounced by Byron "one of the most beautiful didactic poems in our language.") "Gertrude of Wyoming," and other highly popular pieces (including his lyrics) are marked by great purity of diction, pathos, and imaginative power. Among his most popular songs may be named, "Hohenlinden," "The Battle of the Baltic," "O'Conner's Child," "The Soldier's Dream," "The Last Man," "The Exile of Erin," "Glenara," and "The Dirge of Wallace."

With Campbell this sketch of Scottish Poets and Poetry must close, our limits being fully exhausted. Were we to embrace those of the past half century, this essay would require the entire volume of which it but forms the introduction. To those of our readers who desire to acquaint themselves more fully with the subject, we refer them to such works as Irvine's "History of Scottish Poetry," Wilson's "Poets and Poetry of Scotland," Whitelaw's "Books of Scottish Song," Rogers' "Scottish Minstrel," and Edwards' "Modern Scottish Poets."

In glancing over the lists of song writers scattered throughout the pages of this essay, it will be found that while to the educated, and even to the noble of the land, we are indebted for a few of our best effusions, yet the greater portion have emanated from the people themselves—the peasants and artisans of humble life.

Of the ballad and lyrical or musical poems of Scotland, the secular largely preponderate, the epic and dramatic being considered inferior to that of the sister country.

However it may be accounted for, there has long existed in the hearts of Scotsmen, irrespective of great differences, social and educational, a true love for literature in general and poetry in particular, amounting, it may be, to a passion. They have been and are a song-loving people. They love both the words and the airs or music to which these are set. The very air of the country was formerly redolent with the voice of song. Those who have made the subject their special study have drawn a marked distinction between the countries on either side of the Tweed, giving the palm to the northern.

Honours have been freely accorded to Scotland, both for her lyric literature and music which have been withheld from the sister kingdom. "The Land o' Cakes," "of brown heath and shaggy wood," claims hundreds of these beautiful compositions, many of which are of such high excellence as to have given her song-music and poetry a reputation co-extensive with the civilized world. On all hands it is freely admitted that her sources of song have been in the past uniquely fertile.

It may be premised that the contrast between our earlier minor sons of song, as compared with writers of the same class south of the border, is considered to be very marked.

The special development of the national mind, through the new and widely embraced faith which marked the era of the Reformation was largely confined to the more educated classes, learning being then at a very low ebb. Invention, culture, and advancement had not been born. Life was narrow and sordid. The son followed in his father's footsteps. There was nothing to excite interest and create ambition. Now there had come a great change, an awakening which, in process of time, was destined to revolutionize all this. The ideas which had swayed the popular mind—the rubbish of centuries—was to be cleared away. The impetus imparted to the truth, that "the greatest thing on earth is man, and the greatest thing in man is mind," developed the farther truth of man's personal responsibility and individual immediate relation to the Supreme Being, by the doctrines then vigorously promulgated, superadded to those great influences, both literary and spiritual, which were the necessary sequence of the translation, printing, and circulation and consequent opening of the treasures of the Sacred Scriptures to the newly awakened heart and conscience, must have been very great.

It roused the national mind so effectually from its long slumber that it has never again relapsed into that torpor in which it had lain for centuries. But the new life necessarily took time to develop, for national progress is often of very slow growth; still, it was sufficiently marked to impress itself indelibly on the mental development of the nation—its literature and poetry.

The clear logical tenets of Scottish systematic Theology acted, doubtless, as a whetstone to the intellect, and helped to develop a serious and thoughtful, a reading and an argumentative people. Thus the religious element in Scotland has been a powerful factor in shaping the character of the people, their institutions, and literature. The conflict of the "Covenant" forms the great epic in Scottish history. Likewise the superior parochial education which was established in Scotland very soon after the Reformation, and which she has ever since enjoyed, whereby facilities were afforded for a course of educational training to the children of the peasant and the artisan, coupled with the very moderate cost of study at our Universities, laid the foundations of that self-reliance, self-respect, and independence of thought and action, and that love for literature generally which is universally allowed to be the heritage of her sons in whatever part of the globe their lot may be cast. This has manifested itself in a great variety of ways for centuries—a love for, and a pride in our national poetry being one of its essential characteristics.

Scotland is proverbially prolific in the number of her peasant minor poets. It may be that the traditions and associations of the heroic past, and our early struggles for national independence, impressed themselves so indelibly on the national mind, as to cast a halo round our historic battlefields; and that those of our countrymen on whom descended the poetic mantle, partly caught their inspiration from those great historic events, and the no less historic names associated with them.

The beauty and variety of our scenery must have their own inspiring effect on poetic temperaments—lofty mountains, now bare in storm-rift brows and sides: now wild in scattered confusion of rocks riven from their ancient beds, and in the chasms of convulsive nature: now encircled with the grave grand beauty of kingly forests, or robed in the purple and gold of queenly flowers: now capped with misty cloud or glittering snow; rugged hills and shaggy woods—those in the distance gracefully melting into the sky; quiet glens and brawling burns; climbing paths and winding glades; fertile valleys and verdant plains; far extending, deeply-bosomed lakes, with richly wooded and green-robed islets (their whispering leaves rustling in the breeze), encircled mid their waters; roaring cataracts, gushing torrents, and lesser waterfalls pouring their burden into deep chasms; swift running rivers, murmuring streams, and wimpling burns flowing lakeward or seaward through richly wooded scenery, bearing on their banks remnants of such historic heritages as chapels and shrines, ruins of ancient abbeys and crumbling castles, dismantled keeps, and dilapidated towers rich in legendary lore; towering cliffs and bold promontories, with cloud swept crest and weeping cliff, keeping watch o'er rock-bound shores; the mystic glory of the ever changing hues and colourings of rising and setting suns, capping the tree tops with coronal and oriflamme, and making a golden glory of piled up and ever-varying clouds; the multitudinous sea trembling and flashing as with the light of all precious stones dancing on it, grand or gracious with the terror and beauty of storm and calm, with its familiar ebb and flow, imparting its own weird charm to the surrounding landscape; rugged coasts and island studded seas reflecting the rays of the radiant morn, noon wrapped in rainbow shadows, or twilight stealing o'er the realm of night; pebbled beach or silvered strand; while landward are lordly mansions embowered mid well-wooded parks and preserves; ancestral halls of lesser pretensions, full of weird legends; the yeoman's homestead and surrounding lands; the humbler cottages of the rural population; with the fairy knowes and their legendary lore—all this, beautified and enriched by the voices of song birds, and the sweetness of our numerous wild flowers, have so presented themselves in boundless variety to the poetic vision of lovers of home, kindred, and country, as to form in their minds little short of an ideal realm of romance, and have incited and inspired Scotland's imaginative and sympathetic sons with those emotional sentiments which are the heritage of poets, and find their natural outcome in measured and harmonious lines. Here poetry gathers her flowers, and wreathes her laurels.

The clothing of nature is indeed ornate with beauty. The colouring of grass and herbs, the tints of flowers, the loveliness of birds, and the symmetry and gracefulness of animals have never yet been fully and perfectly portrayed. While the fleecy, feathery cirri, floating so gracefully overhead, broken here and there by the deeply tinged azure blue, and the radiance of graduated colouring on sea and earth and sky in many scenes and moods, have not yet been truly and fully delineated either by painter or poet. If we ask the most gifted limner for his own estimate of his most successful attempts to give nature true form and expression, he will readily acknowledge, that, while his work may glow with life after its own sort, yet it is, at best, but an approximation towards his own ideal; for his thoughts and aspirations are more subtle, more delicate and complex than language or other vehicle of thought can portray. Human genius, either in artist or poet, cannot delineate Nature to perfection, in as much as Nature transcends Art.

Nature, in her infinite variety, touches the soul as nothing else can. Youth, in all its susceptibilities, often gazes on the running brook and the murmuring stream, mid its surroundings of hill and dale; anon, on the majestic mountain, with its mantle of mist, or on the fathomless gorge, until tears fill the eyes. To some this may be but a dream, to others it is a reality, while to both it may and often does constitute the very essence of romance.

Our native land has been so long vocal with the sweet sounds of poetry echoing from river, stream, and lake, mountain, slope, and summit, pastoral valley, and meadow, as to suggest the thought that the Great Designer of all this beauty is He who endowed man with those finer chords of his being which vibrate in subtle sympathy with nature's touch, producing that harmony between the soul and its Creator, which has been the inspiration of the poet's noblest themes, and sublimest aspirations in each successive age—thus poetry has been called “the breath and finer spirit of all knowledge.”

Music of this class is speech in its most fascinating form. It is the natural language of the soul in its loftiest moods. It is that faculty with which our Creator has endowed us, whereby we are helped and encouraged to cultivate these higher aspects of love and devotion man longs so much to attain. It is the expression alike of our highest joy—for joy sings ; or of our deepest sorrow, which it often soothes ; for even sorrow utters its own sad and plaintive wail in tones and accents solemn and revered. When the sense and the sound, the words and the music, fully harmonize, then come the most beautiful and lofty utterances of which man is capable, for then the soul is in its best estate—its sublimest disposition.

As the true artist not only loves his art, but instinctively cultivates it for the pleasure he experiences, so the true poet is led by similar impulses, and feels a thrill of emotion when his lines flow smoothly and clearly. In the spring time of life there is additional joy and beauty in all this, for then it is that the throb of pleasure and thrill of delight are most deeply felt, and the fire of life burns most brightly ; and poetry—natural, simple, unaffected, and true to Nature and Man, united with an artistic sense of what is beautiful and pathetic in human life—finds permanent lodgment in the soul, producing its own sweet sway over the mind, and yielding healthful nourishment from youth to manhood, even to old age.

It is well to remember that while each lyric is the conception of its author, and brought to the birth by him, yet our heritage of song is more than merely cumulative, for its growth is vital, and therefore composed of historically dependent members, who could never have sung so well had they not been preceded by others of the craft—soul after soul, with love-light in their eyes, sending forth their longings in the sweet music of set speech and song, echoed and re-echoed across the intervening centuries, even to our own day, by responding and sympathetic hearts.

The youthful poetic soul is peculiarly susceptible of this spell, for it is then a passion, an intense glow, a tumultuous rush of feeling, and generally retains its hold through life—cares and duties, mayhap, keeping it merely in abeyance, but when these are surmounted, the youthful poetic ardour regains to some extent its hold, and retains undisputed sway. In youth, and during the full vigour of manhood, we are more generally animated with a strong desire to cultivate the art, and excel in it, than in declining years; and this desire seems to be implanted in more human breasts than is generally supposed. In youth the voice of nature is as sweet music; fresh and graceful odours ascend from the green or russet forest, from flowers of every hue, from every tree and shrub, plant and leaf, and from every songster of the grove; but this is tempered and softened as life advances, for then the quiet and mellowed light of sunset is thickly gathering around. And it is well that it is so, for the highest experiences of the soul are often so perplexing and mixed as to seem set round with prickly thorns—like the rose on its stem.

No one, however, can be thus animated unless there be, in some degree, the instinctive poetic temperament whereby the entire faculties are kindled, so as to impart precious sight to the eye, and thought to the mind. Doubtless, like that of its twin sister, the faculty is capable of indefinite improvement, and is developed largely by cultivation; but the heart and the harp must be somewhat in unison ere musical strains and measured lines can flow harmoniously in the living waters of song.

The true purpose of every earnest student should be to acquire that discrimination which will enable him to distinguish between the intellectual endowments of different minds, and so feed upon, and assimilate all that genius has set before him—no matter how diversified it may be. Mental, like bodily food, is various, and the function of health is to assimilate to itself the variety proffered.

The block of marble as it comes from the quarry is but a shapeless mass; but when placed under the hands of the sculptor, it is transformed into "a thing of beauty and a joy for ever." The chaste and classic piece of statuary was not found in the marble; it was formed out of it by the genius of the sculptor, as a master in his art. The miner finds the rough diamond, but the art of the lapidary shapes it into a sparkling gem of rarest beauty. So is it with the human soul. In its rough, natural, untutored state — uneducated, undisciplined — it follows the lowest instincts of the animal; placed under the benign influences of education in its higher aspects, the plebeian may, and often does become the philosopher, the philanthropist, or the hero.

All through the present century numerous collections of the works of Scottish Poets have appeared, among which may be noted "The Pocket Encyclopædia of Songs," in two volumes, printed at the University press of Glasgow, and published in 1816. "The Harp of Renfrewshire," a work containing many original songs, and preceded by "Essay on the Poets of Renfrewshire," by W. Motherwell, then quite a young man, published at Paisley in 1819; "Harp of Caledonia"—a more comprehensive collection, in three volumes, published in 1821. Four years later Allan Cunningham issued at London "The Songs of Scotland," in four volumes. In 1829 the Messrs Chambers of Edinburgh published their edition of "The Songs of Scotland," in two volumes, under the editorship of their senior partner, with an introductory historical essay from his pen on Scottish songs. In 1835 appeared, in two volumes, the "Songs of England and Scotland," by Peter Cunningham. About 1850 was issued, in one volume, "The Book of Scottish Song," edited by Whitelaw, and published by Blackie & Son, Glasgow, while fully twenty years thereafter that firm issued in two handsome volumes—"The Poets and Poetry of Scotland," with biographical notices by James Grant Wilson. During 1842 there appeared, in two volumes, a collection of modern songs by writers then living, entitled "Whistle-Binkie"—a work which has been highly popular, and has gone through several editions. These, with many others on the same subject, have been much appreciated.

Scottish song of the last fifty years has been characterised—among other distinguishing features—by high moral tone, in affinity with refined delineation of nature—the wedding of the material and the spiritual, lifting the soul as by a necessary gracious transition from the lower to the higher. This may be taken alike as a pledge and prophecy of progress in popular taste and culture, of which there is need in presence of certain questionable literature in the prose and poetry of our day ;—auguring well for the future when those now young shall have assumed the responsibilities of life.

By Lyric and Idyllic, rather than Dramatic Form, even such masters as Tennyson, Browning, and Swinburne, have been more successful in touching the popular spirit.

Other nations have virility and wit, some more, some less ; but in the Scottish soul there are both force and fun, which cannot be generated in any other soil, and which defies successful imitation. Certain enthusiasts go the length of saying there is no wit but Scotch wit,—this notwithstanding the cynical sarcasm of Sydney Smith and his surgical operation. It is presumed no one will deny that there is a rich abounding power and sense of humour in the Scottish mind, and ever since it was so far cultivated as to express itself in this manner, poetically it has attained power and realism, and has been largely developed.

We may say without immodesty or egotism, there is no wit in the world like it. Of this humour—the unique flavour of Scottish salt—the songs of our native land of the last half century are excellent representatives and interpreters. It is unnecessary to add these songs breathe and burn with the fire of patriotism.

Their beauty, power, and charm consist in their truthfulness and simplicity. They touch, with rare felicity, the elements and instincts of that higher human nature which lies beyond the accidents of time and place. Every phase of social and intellectual life is faithfully reflected in them; not a few give pictures of an ideal world—one purer and higher in thought and action than the present. And why should they not? for the best of our race are ever aiming to attain a higher moral use of these twin arts. This would elevate what is greatest and highest among men, and help them to attain unto a truer sense of that pure code given for the rule of life. A fierce light now shines on the pages of modern poetry, to reveal the least deviation from the high standard which has been reared, and now jealously guarded.

There is true philosophy in the saying which Mackenzie (author of the “Man of Feeling”) causes old Ben Silton to repeat:—“There is at least one advantage in the poetical inclination, that it is an incentive to philosophy. There is a certain poetic ground on which a man cannot tread without feeling an enlargement of heart. The causes of human depravity vanish before the romantic enthusiasm he professes; and many who are not able to reach the Parnassian heights may yet approach so near as to be bettered by the air of the climate." Wordsworth hoped that his poems might in some measure "console the afflicted, add sunshine to the daylight, by making the happy happier, teach the young and the gracious of every age to see, to think, and feel, and therefore become more actively and securely virtuous."

All along the fertile banks of the living stream of Scottish Song, there is an appeal to the heart, for it faithfully mirrors those simple and natural feelings which are common to the race—feelings that draw all classes within one circle, and towards a common centre. It has so stirred the heart of the nation as to become a vital force, passing through the blood of the great mass of the people.

To read and study the works of our best Scottish poets is to appreciate them; to be touched by them is to be brought under their spell. When under the poetic inspiration, their hearts were warm, their imagination vivid—thus their wealth of language and their beauty of imagery, and the might and majesty of their finer thoughts, impart fresh charms to what so e'er it touched, and where so e'er it came. To the sincere lovers of poetry the continued stream of Scottish song is a true pactolus.

This is emphatically a reading age beyond all others that have preceded it. The religious and mental awakening, and subsequent developments which Scotland experienced during the era of the Reformation, and the vast increase in the energy and activity of the nation resulting therefrom, have gone on ever increasing in strength. But it is only within the present century that, by a fortunate concurrence of events, literature has become so abundantly accessible, as to place the highest National classics within the reach of all. Thus reading has become a main factor in popular instruction and entertainment, and has largely taken the place of and partly superseded oral teaching.

Poetry as a branch of literature is assuredly cosmopolitan in its character, and must be the exponent of a genuine national expression of a distinctively national cast of thought. Scottish poets exhibit in their productions a natural independence and distinctiveness of utterance. Here we are in the open air, and in the sunshine of our national life. Here the human faculties have full play, and the beauty and joy of national life are seen. Though there be an occasional sameness of conception and execution in their themes and subjects, they exhibit the distinctive characteristics of the Scottish mind—a warm love for the beauties of Nature, an earnest desire to unfold new truths derived therefrom, faithful delineations of life and manners, a noble stand on behalf of freedom of thought in its most comprehensive sense, and a sturdy manliness and independence in fighting life's battle, and the due performance of duty:—thus will the vision be cleared, and the life ennobled. This, with the faithful maintenance of a high moral code, we accept as a healthy condition of national life, and constitutes a rich inheritance for the future.

The writer has been led in a measure to pursue this train of thought by his study of the subject, and by his acquaintance with Mr D. H. Edwards' series of fifteen volumes of "Modern Scottish Poets" at home and abroad published during the past sixteen years. Mr Edwards entered on his self-imposed, but congenial task in the full flush of healthful vigour, but without realising the ultimate importance and extent of the undertaking. What he supposed would occupy his spare time from editorial and other duties for twelve months, compressed into one unpretentious volume, has expanded into a labour of upwards of sixteen years. He undertook the preparation of a volume of selections, with accompanying short biographical sketches, under the belief that one such volume would exhaust available material; but he soon discovered that he had greatly underestimated the width and wealth of the subject. Even when engaged on his second issue, he concluded that, with the publication of a third, his labours would terminate. To his great surprise, however, each volume became the mother of its successor, and even now, after the publication of his fifteenth series, he is conscious that there lies, partly hidden, it may be, in numerous instances, many golden sheaves ungarnered, which would yield additional lustre to this collection of "Modern Scottish Poets."

Mr Edwards has shown himself possessed of the poetic insight, the deep searching analytic power which has enabled him to perform his difficult and laborious task successfully. Earnest appeals were made by letter and through friends all these years to secure a niche in "this temple of fame" for those whose productions unfortunately showed they were unworthy the honour. Thus were his sympathies often vigorously attacked, but by the strength of his innate perceptions, he was generally able to resist those importunities. This brought its own reward. Mr Edwards, however, did often sympathise most tenderly with aspirants—guiding and encouraging their efforts in thought and expression. To one undertaking such a task, deep and penetrating insight seems indispensable.

All Scotchmen who are lovers of poetry—and their name is legion—owe Mr Edwards a lasting debt of gratitude for his series of "Modern Scottish Poets." He has furnished his countrymen, those fifteen years, with an annual volume. These in the aggregate contain specimens of the poetic productions of upwards of twelve hundred poets, accompanied by interesting biographical sketches and critical notices of each contributor. These are marked by brevity and perspicacity, and give a sound critical estimate of each. The whole series has been read by thousands in all classes of society. Each year brought its welcome volume, with its interesting personal reminiscences, and well selected pieces, enriching our leisure hours, and making us happy. He has introduced us to kindly and pleasant companions who invite us as their guests, and entertain us with their choicest viands of thought and speech, whereby healthy and invigorating thought has been nourished, generous, frank, manly love cherished, and harmless laughter indulged.

Who can estimate the number of happy hours experienced by many when leisurely reviewing the "march-past" of men and women of all ranks and classes, types and characters, which defile before us in the series. Each volume contains not a few flashes from the anvil of some delightful genius:—gems—shall I say, if not of the first water, at least clear from the fountain, causing the eye to sparkle, the cheek to blush—gems which stir the blood, fire the imagination, so stirring the soul as to rouse it to its highest pitch of enthusiasm. And so long as Scotland's sons and daughters are thus animated, she will retain her ancient spirit, and the star of her glory will sparkle as of yore.

The most precious gems in poetic literature are those truly national pieces which have become, by general consent and approval, as rare flowers which are carried from mind to mind, like precious seeds of perennial growth. These show the highest efforts of which the human mind is capable, in its endeavours after higher attainments, and in its search after new forms of thought, embodied in graceful language, which have been so far successful as to have touched the heart strings of humanity, and made the reading world of one kindred and people.

Volumes which so influence and inspire their readers are well entitled to, and will ultimately obtain their merited reward. We venture to say the more Mr Edwards' series is studied, the more will they find audience in the hearts of their sympathetic readers. They contain many pieces which may be regarded as national, having been universally adopted as expressing national desires, hopes, and aspirations. And amid the minstrelsy of the choir, which has made the name of Scotland and her peasantry familiar throughout the inhabited globe, the varied notes from the songs and poetry contained in Edwards' series of Modern Scottish Poets will ever be heard. Thus do they contain a noble anthology, unique in our literature.

His arduous labours, extending over so many years, have brought him into contact with nearly all classes in the social scale, some of whom are among his valued contributors. With the greater number he has had pleasant intercourse, and many friendships thus formed he regards among the most pleasing, as they will be the most lasting, associations of his life. The exceptions are few; and in referring reluctantly to these in the course of our communications with him, he good humouredly hinted that some of the would-be contributors had but little of the poetic element in their composition. The class designated "the genus irritabile" was now and again difficult to deal with. The editor of this series, like the publisher and editor of the old "Whistle-Binkie," had to be decided in his opinions. Still he did so with all the delicacy at his command, remembering that they ardently desired to utter gracefully and poetically the thoughts that arose in them—but could not.

The present series—which this volume completes—is at once an illustration and a proof that the national love for poetry exhibits no signs either of decay or senility. The “vision and faculty divine” is neither stunted in its growth, nor meagre in development. It is still a living force in the Scottish soul. And with the present growth of education and mental culture, there will doubtless be many fresh devotees and worshippers at the shrine of the muses.

The beautiful and expressive old Scottish Doric, as a medium for versification, will doubtless become less general; but it is earnestly hoped that it will not fall out of use, nor wholly disappear, very many of its words being especially rich in their expressiveness and beauty, and redolent of all forms of rural scenes and pastoral life, like beautiful bits of moss besprent with dew, and tufted with blossom. Whatever be its fate, it can be safely affirmed that only the cream of poetry, in either dialect, will survive, or reach the distinction of being linked to music.

It may be considered that many of the pieces in the series are, to some extent, imitations of those which have gained a niche in the temple of fame; but they are not thereby wholly deprived of originality of conception and treatment. The editor does not claim great merit, or even a modicum, for many of these, but he trusts it will be generally allowed that there is a visible honesty of purpose in treating themes as they really are—not as they may appear to an over-sanguine temperament, and an over-heated imagination. In the former, writers are under the control of reason, while often in the latter they revolt from her sway.

The editor's aim throughout the entire work has been to select a variety of pieces where the poetic expression is not only appropriate and graceful, but partakes mainly of those moral qualities where manliness, patriotism, nobility, heroism, and love for home, country, and kindred are brought into play, while under the dictates of enlightened reason and the experiences of daily life. Of all these, it is hoped, the series will be found to contain many gems, some striking chords of such tenderness as often to blind the eyes with tears. It should always be borne in mind that the tendency of our best poetry is to strengthen those higher sentiments which charm and elevate the mind of man.

As the more precious stones differ greatly in quantity and quality, and form the choicest jewels in royal diadems, so the songs of Scotland are believed to be the most precious gems in her literary crown. The well-known author of "The Temple" says—"A verse may reach him whom a sermon flies." And as the most precious stones are comparatively rare, and are thus all the more prized, so is it with the purest and most highly finished of our literary gems—which are in fact priceless treasures.

But while many other precious stones are of lesser value, yet they are diligently sought for, and on them the lapidary and jeweller exert their skill. So, while the most precious poetic gems are believed to be comparatively rare, still there are many of minor value, abundant in quantity, varied in quality—gems of their own order, essential to our intellectual well-being, containing inspired thoughts couched in choicest language, and breathing the higher forms of emotional and intellectual life. The sentiments they breathe, and the emotional and moral atmosphere by which they are surrounded help to elevate and purify their votaries.

The subjects chiefly delineated in this series of the song-writers of Scotland embrace a wide range. There are the maximum, as well as the minimum —the greater and lesser pieces. Almost every phase of spiritual, intellectual, social, rural, and domestic life of the nineteenth century is portrayed in these volumes. Many of the pieces show that the respective writers possess considerable power over pure and simple diction, in unison with smooth and flowing rhythm; while others exhibit force and originality of conception, and mirror the poet's modes of thought, and his estimate of life with its responsibilities and obligations.

There is likewise exhibited an energy of passion, which, under the pressure of circumstances, internal and external, shows itself in many of the pieces. Some describe Nature for their love of her. Others identify her with the human heart more closely than he who, either from inferior imaginative power, or a want of appreciation, does not feel the inherent vitality in things. Some, again, study man as the highest manifestation of Nature and Creation. Many of the pieces are of that class which men do not willingly let die.

There are also pieces possessing charms for the sensibilities of youth, when the heart is full and soft, tender and more easily impressed than those of more mature years. Every lover of the muses will remember with what delight he perused and re-perused certain pieces which, in childhood and youth, captivated the imagination, and in the afterhood of life yielded pleasure in the retrospect. Many of them will recall youthful emotions, which thrilled the bosom of the village maiden and her youthful swain, when "pleased with the present, they were full of glorious hope."

Again, there are pieces, sacred in their mission, which fall alike on palace and hut—perennial—"most moving, delicate, and full of life"—descriptive of the occurrences of every-day life—home, sweet home, so dear to the heart of every right thinking person, with all its early remembrances and associations through life and in death, encircled with the finer susceptibilities and human affections of father, mother, sister, brother ; delineations of human life, in its ever varying, changeful aspects—youth and its loves, manhood with its aspirations, middle life with its cares, declining years with its hopes and noble desires ; reminiscences of early years—children in their prattle and youthful vigour, giving fair promise for the life that now is, unexpectedly laid low by disease, and mowed down by the “ sickle keen ;” manhood snatched when in full vigour, the mourners going about the streets ; old age ripened into fruit, and borne away as a “ shock of corn fully ripe.”

Then there are pieces descriptive of nature and natural objects—the sun, moon, and stars set in the vault of heaven ; the inconstant, yet constant seasons ; trees, shrubs, and flowers, bare and leafless in winter, budding into life and leaf with advancing spring, anon clad in all the fulness of summer foliage, bearing blossom and fruit in autumn, then passing into the “ sere and yellow leaf.”

Yet, again, there are pieces, marvels of delicacy and power, descriptive of youth’s little life of love in its earlier phases, and in its more steady growth, maturing, consolidating—not a few so touch the heart as to draw out its entire sympathies and feelings until they become satiated. This is the touch “ that makes the whole world akin.”

And there will be found scattered through the series pieces descriptive of Nature as she really is, with a singular force of realization of natural scenery, each having its own voice, one from the mountains, one from deep ravines, one from roaring cataracts, and one from the sea ; these speak to us of the silent majesty of our greater mountains and lesser hills, of the rapid flow of our larger rivers, and the more gentle motion of lesser streams; of far-reaching straths and lonely moors; of cultivated fields, plains, and valleys—all so full of stirring and endearing associations, past and present.

Thus the range of subjects is comprehensive and their treatment diversified. The editor fondly cherishes the hope that many of his numerous selections will be found to contain power, originality, deep insight into the springs of human thought, and vivid representation of objective and subjective realities that hold the reading world by a charm—special characteristics of our national poets. He indulges the hope that a great many of the pieces will ultimately be found to bear the indelible stamp of immortality.

He may further be allowed to say, that the fact—for which there is substantial ground—that in these years, these annual volumes have been diligently perused by the rising generation, the poetry in them having caught the ear, and touched the heart of youth (thereby influencing them for good in awakening latent talent, and encouraging laudable ambition), has been to the Editor a gratification, encouragement, and stimulus—an impetus and inspiration toward the time when a love of literature for its own sake will supplant lower pleasures, and usher in the era when higher and purer forms of intellectual culture shall engage man's thoughts and absorb his attention.

He who rises by the persistent cultivation of the powers with which he is endowed, and whose aim is to use these for the elevation of the race, and the consequent good of mankind, becomes a benefactor of his species, and attains to a high position among his fellows: for, after all, mind is the true measure and standard of man. It is in the ratio of our influence for good, by word and deed among our fellows, that we become truly noble. It must be borne in mind that the measure of a well spent life lies less in length of years than in noble acts and deeds ; they are man's greatest powers of kindness and love. What else can truly dignify humanity ?

He who writes with a consciousness that he possesses in some degree the power to produce something new and true for the use, or it may be the pleasure of his fellows—true to humanity, and to nature—has not lived in vain: and he who possesses the ability to touch the heart, and influence human life by the power of his prose, the rhythm of his poetry, or the pathos of his songs, is richly endowed, and for the manner of its use he is responsible. In forming an estimate of poetry, we should bear in mind that it contains the cream of a peoples thought.

Authors of the best type entertain their readers with their highest, best, purest thoughts, couched in their choicest language, and seem only to write when in their highest moods—their aim being moral elevation, simple grandeur, and personal purity of aim. No base metal is permitted, all is as pure gold as its author can present. It is the record of the best and happiest moments of the happiest and best minds. revealing what is fair, and bright, and beautiful in feeling, and imagination and thought. Such writings help to wile away many a languid hour, strengthen good resolution, fortify against temptation, lift the mind above its common level, infuse elevated ideas, draw the soul from Nature up to Nature's God, thus imparting lofty desires and aspirations, elevating the moral being, purifying the springs of action, and ennobling our better nature.

The influence exerted by this class of literature is past computation ; for our intercourse with those we never saw, through the written page, is often more intimate and close than it is with our dearest friends ; hence the necessity of being rigidly severe in our selection of authors. Here the choicest companionship may be attained, and we may obtain what fellowship and rank we desire, no matter how high. By our nobility of association in the kingdom of letters, our own inherent nobility will assuredly be tested. Here we have at command, the fellowship of the best and highest of the Kings and Queens and nobility of literature—the companionship, in our quiet hours, of the good and the great of all generations, assimilating ourselves to them—if we choose—in all that is truly great and good.

There is a beautiful aggressiveness in the poetic spirit. It is vigorous and expanding in its contagion. Where e'er it comes, if the spark exist, it kindles into flame, consuming the dross, and leaving the pure ore. Poetry is thus like the flowing river carrying its fertilizing influences on its bosom.

Poets of this class entertain us with their choicest viands ; they admit us to their sanctum, and treat us sumptuously ; thus there is mutual contact, and the entertained are permanently benefited and mentally enriched.

The kingdom of letters comprehends all others. It takes cognisance of all human intelligence in the whole circle of its manifestations and activities, and is without limit. In this kingdom are found all the greatest of human kind ; here they meet as one common brotherhood. In this realm there is but one country—that of genius, and one feast—that of intellectual culture and expansion. Here mind is the true measure of the man, and the illustrious writers of all nations shake hands as brethren wearing the badge of that fraternity, the literature of which fertilises and enriches human kind. This forms the true aristocracy, and the reader's inherent nobility of spirit will be measured by the depth of his sympathies in this direction. All peoples are justly proud of their literature, and every work which exhibits virility is now welcomed from whatever nationality it emanates. A literary history will always develop into a national history, in which is found the evolutions of a people with all their passions, struggles, defects, and ultimate victories, so that the richest and the most original are they who reflect life the most widely in its infinite variety.

The editor of this series of "Modern Scottish Poets" cherishes the hope that his volumes will be acknowledged to have contributed their quota to this "feast of fat things." He is well aware that the Song Minstrelsy of Scotland, both in grandeur and variety, is acknowledged to bear favourable comparison even to the lyric poets of Greece, so long considered the masters of Lyric muse. This reputation Mr Edwards has endeavoured to maintain. How far he has succeeded is not for him to say. This much, however, he can say, that it has been his aim throughout that nothing find a place in these pages tinged even in the faintest degree with thought and sentiment of a lower level than is portrayed in this essay. He has endeavoured to gather together a representative body of Scottish song, some of which, he trusts, may be considered classical. It has been his constant aim that every piece bear unmistakably the "guinea stamp," if not in a literary, at least in its higher moral bearings. It has been his aim that every true lover of our native minstrelsy will find that in these volumes the Scotch lyre has been fairly represented, alike in the old Doric, and in the more modern strains of present-day writers.

There but remains to the Editor the pleasant task of offering his sincere and grateful thanks to each of his contributors whose original productions grace the pages of his series, and to other authors and their publishers, by whose permission many valued copyright pieces are added, as well as to numerous friends who have so heartily aided him with material for the character sketches in his picture gallery of poets, and in numerous other ways afforded facilities to him during his sixteen years' labour in the preparation of this, our most extensive anthology of Scottish song.

INDEX OF NAMES.

VOLUMES 1 TO 15 INCLUSIVE.

In the following Index we give the date of birth and death of each poet so far as we have been able to learn. Not a few, however, have died since the publication of the first volume, particulars of whose decease we have failed to ascertain.

The figures preceding colon denote the volume, the figures following colon the page on which the sketch of the writer appears.

Acquiroff, Helen	1833-87	-	-	-	11 : 275
Adam, John	-	-	-	-	3 : 219
Adamson, Alexander	1846	-	-	-	14 : 84
Adamson, Robert	1832	-	-	-	1 : 226
Adamson, Robert M.	1867	-	-	-	15 : 373
Agnew, Nellie Johnson	1868	-	-	-	13 : 103
Aird, Marian P.	1815-88	-	-	-	3 : 90
Aird, Thomas	1802-76	-	-	-	3 : 206
Airth, James	1804-70	-	-	-	6 : 60
Aitchison, James	1846	-	-	-	15 : 23
Aitken, William	1865	-	-	-	13 : 59
Aitken, William	1851	-	-	-	2 : 161
Alexander, Alexander Crichton	-	-	-	-	5 : 303
Alexander, James	1858	-	-	-	7 : 224
Alexander, Patrick Proctor	1823-86	-	-	-	10 : 232
Alexander, William Lindsay	1808-84	-	-	-	10 : 222
Allan, David	1857	-	-	-	6 : 166
Allan, David S.	1840	-	-	-	12 : 65
Allan, John	1850	-	-	-	4 : 136
Allan, Robert	1848	-	-	-	9 : 361
Allan, William	1837	-	-	-	1 : 281
Allan, William	1844	-	-	-	6 : 342
Allison, Elizabeth	1842-80	-	-	-	7 : 145
Allison, James	1844	-	-	-	3 : 373
Anderson, Alexander	1854	-	-	-	1 : 157

Anderson, Basil R. 1861-88	-	-	-	6 : 402
Anderson, Duncan 1828	-	-	-	15 : 365
Anderson, G. W. 1856	-	-	-	14 : 17
Anderson, Jessie Ann 1861	-	-	-	8 : 77
Anderson, John 1820	-	-	-	7 : 308
Anderson, John 1822	-	-	-	7 : 329
Anderson, Lizzie D.	-	-	-	8 : 89
Anderson, Peter 1864	-	-	-	15 : 94
Anderson, Robert S. G.	-	-	-	11 : 197
Anderson, Thomas 1810-88	-	-	-	14 : 160
Anderson, William 1802-67	-	-	-	2 : 234
Andrew, David 1835	-	-	-	4 : 301
Andrew, John 1801-71	-	-	-	4 : 290
Andrew, John 1826	-	-	-	4 : 295
Angus, William 1870	-	-	-	15 : 122
Anton, P. 1851	-	-	-	13 : 117
Archer, W.	-	-	-	4 : 105
Armstrong, Andrew J. 1848	-	-	-	5 : 253
Arnold, George S. 1851-78	-	-	-	14 : 336
Arnot, David 1803-77	-	-	-	8 : 317
Baildon, Henry Bellyse 1849	-	-	-	4 : 146
Bain, James F. 1827-51	-	-	-	13 : 317
Bain, James L. 1860	-	-	-	10 : 157
Bain, Robert 1865	-	-	-	13 : 234
Balfour, Charles 1819	-	-	-	3 : 406
Balfour, Nellie Carter 1865	-	-	-	14 : 358
Balfour, William L. 1829	-	-	-	2 : 167
Ballantyne, James 1860-87	-	-	-	11 : 113
Ballantine, James 1807-77	-	-	-	3 : 25
Ballantine, James 1835	-	-	-	5 : 382
Barbour, Robert W. 1854-91	-	-	-	14 : 96
Barker, A. C. 1818	-	-	-	1 : 338
Barnard, Andrew 1860	-	-	-	13 : 132
Barnard, Francis 1834	-	-	-	10 : 290
Barnet, James 1825	-	-	-	2 : 288
Barr, John	-	-	-	12 : 284
Barr, Matthias 1831	-	-	-	2 : 200
Barrie, P. 1833	-	-	-	9 : 185
Bayne, H. Paterson 1868	-	-	-	14 : 156
Bayne, Peter 1830-96	-	-	-	14 : 116
Bayne, W. 1860	-	-	-	14 : 133
Bean, Margaret 1865	-	-	-	15 : 309
Beattie, David Alexander 1831	-	-	-	12 : 397
Begg, Peter 1819-85	-	-	-	4 : 209
Bell, Henry T. M. 1856	-	-	-	9 : 17

Bell, James	1846	-	-	-	-	10 : 339
Bell, James M.	1842-76	-	-	-	-	1 : 350
Bell, John	-	-	-	-	-	1 : 352
Bell, Margaret F. (Mrs Bell)	-	-	-	-	-	7 : 300
Bell, Robert	1845	-	-	-	-	15 : 305
Bell, Thomas	1766-1824	-	-	-	-	2 : 55
Bennet, Robert	1855	-	-	-	-	12 : 27
Bennet, William	-	-	-	-	-	12 : 382
Bennoch, Francis	1812	-	-	-	-	6 : 381
Berger, Mrs Arthur Hastings	-	-	-	-	-	14 : 289
Bernstein, Marion	-	-	-	-	-	1 : 51
Bethune, George W.	1805	-	-	-	-	2 : 313
Bethune, John	1812-39	-	-	-	-	1 : 94
Beveridge, James	-	-	-	-	-	8 : 230
Beveridge, Mitchell Kilgour	1831	-	-	-	-	12 : 258
Biggs, John Austen	1844	-	-	-	-	8 : 109
Bird, Robert	1854	-	-	-	-	10 : 179
Birrell, William D.	1868	-	-	-	-	14 : 178
Bisset, Alexander M'Donald	1869	-	-	-	-	13 : 186
Black, John	1847	-	-	-	-	2 : 179
Black, William	1825-87	-	-	-	-	12 : 102
Black, William	1841	-	-	-	-	10 : 17
Blackburn, Charles Frederick Osburn	1870	-	-	-	-	13 : 386
Blackburn, John J.	1836-72	-	-	-	-	14 : 62
Blackie, John S.	1809-95	-	-	-	-	1 : 377
Blair, James L.	1826-81	-	-	-	-	13 : 380
Blair, John	1818-89	-	-	-	-	13 : 146
Blair, Thomas	1813-88	-	-	-	-	13 : 377
Blair, William	-	-	-	-	-	9 : 135
Blyth, David	-	-	-	-	-	2 : 97
Blyth, David	1810-38	-	-	-	-	1 : 344
Blyth, Isabella	-	-	-	-	-	2 : 97
Blyth, Thomas	-	-	-	-	-	2 : 97
Bogue, Joanna	-	-	-	-	-	5 : 340
Bogue, John	1849	-	-	-	-	15 : 20
Bonar, Horatius	1808-89	(9 : xiii)	-	-	-	1 : 359
Booth, Jane	-	-	-	-	-	15 : 88
Borthwick, Jane	-	-	-	-	-	5 : 123
Boulton, Harold	1860	-	-	-	-	11 : 33
Bower, John	1843	-	-	-	-	4 : 360
Bowie, Agnes H.	-	-	-	-	-	12 : 152
Bowie, Robert S.	1846	-	-	-	-	6 : 222
Boyd, George	1848	-	-	-	-	12 : 131
Boyle, James T.	1849	-	-	-	-	14 : 166
Brack, Jessie Wanless	-	-	-	-	-	12 : 169

Bradley, William Joseph	1857	-	-	8 : 63
Braidwood, David G.	1861	-	-	7 : 284
Brechin, George	1829	-	-	3 : 414
Bremner, David	1813-78	-	-	11 : 203
Brenner, James F.	1864	-	-	6 : 170
Bridie, John	-	-	-	15 : 338
Brown, Alexander	1823	-	-	4 : 176
Brown, Alexander	1837	-	-	1 : 151
Brown, Hugh	1800-85	-	-	3 : 182
Brown, James	1836	-	-	5 : 230
Brown, James B.	1832	-	-	7 : 33
Brown, James P. died	1863	-	-	9 : 71
Brown, John	-	-	-	14 : 294
Brown, John	-	-	-	2 : 131
Brown, John D.	1820	-	-	3 : 55
Brown, J. J.	1859	-	-	1 : 341
Brown, Simon	1853	-	-	7 : 288
Brown, Thomas died	1873	-	-	3 : 265
Browne, John	1838	-	-	13 : 179
Browne, Marie Hedderwick	1857	-	-	14 : 105
Brownlie, John	1857	-	-	15 : 271
Bruce, David	1860	-	-	6 : 274
Bruce, George	1825	-	-	1 : 217
Bruce, Wallace	1844	-	-	14 : 344
Buchan, Alexander W.	1814	-	-	6 : 279
Buchan, Patrick died	1881	-	-	3 : 421
Buchanan, Andrew	-	-	-	11 : 355
Buchanan, David	1844	-	-	6 : 328
Buchanan, Francis	1825	-	-	11 : 133
Buchanan, Marion	1840	-	-	5 : 345
Buchanan, Walter	-	-	-	13 : 83
Buchanan, William	1821-66	-	-	3 : 287
Buist, Robert Cochrane	1860	-	-	12 : 344
Bulloch, John Malcolm	1867	-	-	12 : 85
Burden, Elizabeth Raymond	-	-	-	14 : 170
Burgess, Alexander	1807-85	-	-	1 : 271
Burgess, J. J. Haldane	1862	-	-	14 : 192
Burns, David	-	-	-	14 : 387
Burns, David	1848	-	-	7 : 365
Burns, James D.	1823-64	-	-	4 : 233
Burns, Thomas	1848	-	-	11 : 302
Burns, William	1825	-	-	8 : 340
Burr, James	1863	-	-	10 : 204
Burton, Ella	1845	-	-	8 : 169
Byers, Thomas	1850	-	-	4 : 286

Cadell, Mary	1866	-	-	-	10 : 216
Cadenhead, William	1819	-	-	-	1 : 347
Cairns, Arthur	1840	-	-	-	6 : 96
Calder, Robert H.	1850	-	-	-	5 : 173
Calder, Robert M.	1841-96	-	-	-	12 : 42
Carlyle, Thomas	1795-1881	-	-	-	3 : 425
Cameron, Archibald	-	-	-	-	15 : 239
Cameron, Charles Innes	-	-	-	-	12 : 256
Cameron, William C.	1822-89	-	-	-	3 : 274
Campbell, Archibald	1855	-	-	-	14 : 66
Campbell, Elizabeth	1804-78	-	-	-	1 : 135
Campbell, James	1853	-	-	-	7 : 260
Campbell, John	1846	-	-	-	6 : 200
Campbell, John	-	-	-	-	6 : 35
Campbell John	1808-92	-	-	-	3 : 164
Campbell, Lord Archibald	1846	-	-	-	13 : 245
Campbell, Mary Maxwell	died 1886	-	-	-	12 : 176
Campbell, Robert	1837	-	-	-	15 : 410
Campbell, Samuel Scott	1826	-	-	-	15 : 266
Campbell, Thomas	1837	-	-	-	1 : 25
Canning, Dan	1851	-	-	-	3 : 363
Cannon, James F.	1844	-	-	-	4 : 190
Canton, William	1845	-	-	-	11 : 17
Cargill, Alexander	1853	-	-	-	4 : 53
Carmichael, Daniel	1826	-	-	-	9 : 88
Carmichael, Peter	1807	-	-	-	4 : 230
Carnegie, David	1826	-	-	-	1 : 189
Carnie, William	-	-	-	-	7 : 204
Carter, James G.	1854	-	-	-	13 : 38
Catto, Edward	1849	-	-	-	1 : 144
Chalmers, Grace P.	1819-51	-	-	-	5 : 212
Chalmers, Robert	1862-96	-	-	-	9 : 326
Chambers, Robert	1802-71	-	-	-	2 : 357
Chapman, James	1835	-	-	-	2 : 318
Chapman, Thomas	1844-88	-	-	-	4 : 69
Chisholm, Walter	1856-77	-	-	-	2 : 62
Christie, James	1827	-	-	-	6 : 260
Christie, John	1848	-	-	-	5 : 367
Christie, John	1845	-	-	-	15 : 221
Christie, J. K.	-	-	-	-	1 : 18
Christie, Thomas Beaton Hutchison	1825-79	-	-	-	12 : 280
Clark, Gilbert	-	-	-	-	11 : 145
Clark, Hugh	1832	-	-	-	6 : 352
Cleghorn, Jane	1827	-	-	-	6 : 366
Clephane, Elizabeth C.	1869	-	-	-	5 : 225

Clever, Margaret M'Lean	-	-	12 : 173
Clyne, Norval 1817-89	-	-	1 : 362
Cock, James 1752	-	-	2 : 181
Coghill, James 1854	-	-	14 : 173
Colburn, George 1852	-	-	5 : 64
Colquhoun, Mary F.	-	-	14 : 281
Colquhoun, John 1805-85	-	-	14 : 286
Colquhoun, (Lady) Janet 1781-1852	-	-	14 : 282
Colquhoun, Lucy Bethia	-	-	14 : 291
Colquhoun, Mrs John	-	-	14 : 287
Colquhoun, Sir James (1) 1804-73	-	-	14 : 283
Colquhoun, Sir James (2) 1844	-	-	14 : 284
Comrie, Peter 1839	-	-	9 : 358
Cook, Andrew 1836	-	-	12 : 268
Cooper, George 1829-76	-	-	6 : 72
Cooper, James 1846	-	-	15 : 380
Copeland, John 1829	-	-	12 : 122
Corbett, Hamilton 1850-85	-	-	8 : 302
Cousin, Anne R.	-	-	5 : 109
Cousin, Mary 1862	-	-	4 : 364
Cousin, William V. 1860	-	-	7 : 178
Countts, David K. 1827	-	-	7 : 173
Countts, John T. 1824-69	-	-	8 : 349
Cowan, Alexander 1804-31	-	-	11 : 39
Cowan, Thomas 1834	-	-	4 : 326
Cowie, James 1827	-	-	1 : 386
Cowie, William	-	-	7 : 69
Cowper, William 1812-86	-	-	1 : 185
Coyle, Matthew 1862	-	-	14 : 215
Craig, Catherine P. 1826	-	-	6 : 309
Craig, John	-	-	4 : 38
Craig, John 1851	-	-	2 : 121
Craig, Kenneth M.	-	-	14 : 94
Craig Knox, Isa 1831	-	-	2 : 292
Craigmyle, Elizabeth	-	-	13 : 174
Cranston, James 1837	-	-	3 : 299
Crawford, Archibald 1785-1843	-	-	5 : 97
Crawford, James P. 1825-87	-	-	1 : 372
Crawford, John 1816-73	-	-	1 : 324
Crawford, John 1816	-	-	5 : 101
Crawford, John 1851	-	-	10 : 150
Crawford, John Kennedy 1831	-	-	7 : 292
Crawford, Mungo 1828-74	-	-	7 : 292
Crawford, William 1848-78	-	-	2 : 328
Crerar, Duncan M. 1838	-	-	6 : 121

Crichton, Mary D. Scott	-	-	6 : 82
Crombie, James Brand	-	-	11 : 368
Cross, Mary 1860	-	-	1 : 312
Cross, William 1804-86	-	-	6 : 17
Cruickshank, William died 1868	-	-	2 : 192
Cundell, Henry 1810-86	-	-	9 : 223
Cunningham, Andrew 1817-79	-	-	10 : 208
Currie, James 1829	-	-	3 : 117
Currie, William J. 1853	-	-	11 : 226
Cuthbertson, David 1856	-	-	1 : 267
Dakers, Robert A. 1865	-	-	14 : 144
Dalgity, Isa	-	-	8 : 65
Dalgity, John 1859	-	-	7 : 208
Dalgliesh, Walter 1865	-	-	15 : 67
DalGLISH, A. 1856	-	-	1 : 351
Dalrymple, C. E.	-	-	9 : 33
Darling, Isabella F. 1861	-	-	9 : 274
Davidson, E. 1828-73	-	-	4 : 93
Davidson, Harriet M. 1839-83	-	-	3 : 318
Davidson, James 1829	-	-	1 : 91
Davidson, M. T. M.	-	-	15 : 422
Davidson, Thomas 1838-70	-	-	2 : 84
Dawson, Christopher 1826	-	-	15 : 46
Deas, Elizabeth Ann	-	-	8 : 195
Delday, William 1855	-	-	12 : 39
Denham, John	-	-	6 : 57
Deveneau, M. H.	-	-	13 : 341
Dewar, Alexander 1822-83	-	-	10 : 244
Dewar, Archibald 1792-1855	-	-	13 : 343
Dewar, Henry A. 1844	-	-	10 : 67
Dewar, James 1877	-	-	13 : 345
Dickie, John 1823-91	-	-	14 : 234
Dickie, Matthew 1815-70	-	-	4 : 306
Dickson, Emma D.	-	-	4 : 101
Dickson, William 1817-89	-	-	7 : 349
Dinnie, Robert 1808-91	-	-	13 : 286
Dobie, George 1824	-	-	5 : 128
Dodds, James 1813-74	-	-	4 : 239
Dodds, Jeannie 1849	-	-	13 : 53
Doig, Alexander 1848	-	-	13 : 261
Donald, George	-	-	2 : 72
Donald, G. W. 1820-91	-	-	1 : 21
Donald, James 1815	-	-	14 : 129
Donaldson, Alexander 1851	-	-	6 : 374
Donaldson, John 1817	-	-	3 : 379

Donaldson, William	1847-76	-	-	1 : 342
Dorwald, A. K.	1866	-	-	13 : 347
Dougall, John	1829	-	-	13 : 210
Dougall, Neil	1776-1854	-	-	14 : 110
Dougall, William	1829	-	-	11 : 408
Douglas, George A. H.	1850	-	-	9 : 116
Douglas, Sarah Parker	1824-81	-	-	3 : 282
Douglas, Sir George	1856	-	-	14 : 89
Dow, Margaret Russel	-	-	-	8 : 45
Doyle, A. Conan	1859	-	-	15 : 257
Drake, John	1846	-	-	13 : 109
Draper, Francis	1832	-	-	9 : 48
Drummond, Alexander	1843-70	-	-	6 : 48
Dryerre, Henry	1848	-	-	5 : 274
Duncan, Alexander	1823-64	-	-	6 : 188
Duncan, James A.	1849	-	-	15 : 70
Duncan, John F.	1847	-	-	3 : 49
Duncan, Mary Lundie	1814-40	-	-	11 : 161
Duncan, Peter	-	-	-	3 : 167
Dunlop, Alison Hay	1835-88	-	-	13 : 72
Dunlop, Thomas	1839	-	-	4 : 219
Durie, James	1823	-	-	8 : 158
Durie, William S.	1818-74	-	-	5 : 271
Duthie, George	1804-84	-	-	7 : 345
Duthie, J. A.	1845	-	-	1 : 307
Duthie, Miss M.	-	-	-	8 : 201
Duthie, Robert	1826-65	-	-	14 : 230
Dykes, Thomas	1850	-	-	5 : 70
Eckford, James C.	1840	-	-	14 : 259
Eckford, Thomas	1832	-	-	8 : 404
Edwards, Thomas	1857	-	-	9 : 63
Elliot, Lady Charlotte	1839-80	-	-	1 : 55
Elliot, Margaret	-	-	-	6 : 379
Eyre, George	1862	-	-	8 : 53
Faed, Thomas	1826	-	-	12 : 351
Fairbairn, Angus	1829-87	-	-	4 : 316
Fairbairn, John Clarkson	1809-73	-	-	7 : 217
Fairbairn, Margaret W.	1825	-	-	10 : 249
Falconer, Alexander	-	-	-	13 : 303
Farquhar, George T. S.	1857	-	-	13 : 404
Farquhar, J. T. F.	1858	-	-	14 : 76
Farquhar, William A. G.	1863	-	-	7 : 275
Farquharson, Alexander	1836	-	-	13 : 278
Fergus, John W.	1856	-	-	9 : 292
Ferguson, Dugald	1839	-	-	13 : 296

Ferguson, Fergus	1824	-	-	-	5 : 92
Ferguson, Fergus	1836	-	-	-	2 : 249
Ferguson, James	1842	-	-	-	1 : 146
Ferguson, Nicol	1830	-	-	-	12 : 355
Fergusson, Robert	1819	-	-	-	10 : 396
Fergusson, Robert M.	1859	-	-	-	6 : 267
Fettes, James	1819	-	-	-	12 : 134
Figg, James Carnegie	1857	-	-	-	4 : 59
Findlay, Jessie P.	1857	-	-	-	12 : 49
Fisher, Alexander	1788	-	-	-	13 : 247
Fisher, Robert	1840	-	-	-	6 : 324
Fleming, R.	1856	-	-	-	4 : 199
Ford, Jane H. C.	1852-76	-	-	-	8 : 131
Ford, Robert	1846	-	-	-	1 : 125
Forsyth, Thomas	1850-69	-	-	-	15 : 378
Forsyth, William	1819-79	-	-	-	1 : 357
Forsyth, William	died 1889	-	-	-	13 : 205
Fowles, Lady Liston	-	-	-	-	4 : 321
Fraser, Gordon	1836	-	-	-	2 : 157
Fraser, James Chalmers Dean	1850	-	-	-	12 : 161
Fraser, John W.	1849	-	-	-	12 : 313
Fraser, Lydia F.	died 1876	-	-	-	3 : 309
Fraser, Mary	1852	-	-	-	9 : 330
Fraser, Peter Galloway	1862	-	-	-	13 : 254
Fraser, Thomas M'Kenzie	1822-86	-	-	-	12 : 250
Freeland, William	1828	-	-	-	5 : 17
Fullerton, John	1836	-	-	-	1 : 15
Fulton, William	-	-	-	-	12 : 378
Gairns, Robert	1804	-	-	-	9 : 385
Galbraith, James	1838	-	-	-	2 : 147
Gall, James H.	1842-78	-	-	-	1 : 9
Gall, William G.	1831	-	-	-	14 : 261
Gallacher, Daniel W.	1848	-	-	-	3 : 43
Garden, Alexander F.	1845	-	-	-	2 : 117
Garden, William	1848	-	-	-	2 : 24
Gardiner, Annie W.	-	-	-	-	9 : 255
Gardiner, John	-	-	-	-	4 : 40
Gardiner, Peter	1847-85	-	-	-	10 : 315
Gardiner, William	1804-85	-	-	-	9 : 248
Geddes, James Y.	1850	-	-	-	1 : 244
Geddes, Sir William	1828	-	-	-	15 : 176
Gemmell, Robert	1821-87	-	-	-	2 : 57
Gerrie, James	1852	-	-	-	1 : 356
Gibb, George	1826-84	-	-	-	3 : 376
Gibb, George A. G.	1860	-	-	-	9 : 349

Gebbie, George	1832-92	.	.	15 : 386
Gibson, Charles P.	1818-88	.	.	9 : 238
Gifford, William	-	.	.	13 : 350
Gilfillan, George	1813-78	.	.	15 : 110
Gilkison, John	1851-95	.	.	13 : 165
Gillespie, James Donaldson	1824-91	.	.	15 : 213
Glass, Andrew	1820	.	.	6 : 338
Goldie, Alexander	1841	.	.	11 : 359
Goodlet, Quentin C.	.	.	.	15 : 173
Gordon, Adam Lindsay	1828-70	.	.	12 : 229
Gordon, Alexander	1809-73	.	.	9 : 96
Gordon, Frank H.	1854	.	.	3 : 365
Gordon, Georgina J.	.	.	.	2 : 256
Gordon, John W.	1868	.	.	15 : 329
Gordon, William	1857	.	.	14 : 241
Gow, David	1865	.	.	9 : 26
Gow, James	1814-72	.	.	8 : 273
Graham, Alexander S.	1863	.	.	9 : 149
Graham, Donald	1862	.	.	9 : 103
Graham, William	1853	.	.	5 : 396
Graham, William	1800-86	.	.	3 : 188
Graham-Yooll, Helen Ann	.	.	.	7 : 65
Grant, David	1823-85	.	.	9 : 169
Grant, John Cameron	1857	.	.	15 : 249
Grant, Joseph	1805-35	.	.	10 : 344
Grant, Lewis	1872-92	.	.	12 : 196
Grant, Mary	.	.	.	1 : 121
Grant, Robert	1818	.	.	3 : 391
Gray, Isabella A.	.	.	.	11 : 293
Gray, John Y.	1846	.	.	10 : 257
Gray, Mary	1853	.	.	14 : 186
Gray, William H.	1825	.	.	10 : 198
Greene, J. W.	1864	.	.	15 : 345
Greig, David L.	1837	.	.	12 : 110
Greig, Gavin	1856	.	.	7 : 375
Greig, James	1811-59	.	.	13 : 190
Greig, James	1861	.	.	9 : 59
Groves, Louis	1867-92	.	.	14 : 137
Gulland, Charles	1840	.	.	6 : 244
Guthrie, James C.	1814-93	.	.	1 : 214
Guthrie, John	1814-78	.	.	2 : 92
Hall, Margaret	1868	.	.	14 : 49
Hall, William	1825	.	.	8 : 59
Hamilton, Alexander	1809-87	.	.	7 : 241
Hamilton, Andrew	1855	.	.	7 : 118

Hamilton, Janet 1795-1873	.	.	.	1 : 248
Hamilton, William 1863	.	.	.	8 : 291
Hampton, David MacHardy 1855	.	.	.	8 : 359
Hardie, John 1849	.	.	.	15 : 351
Hardy, Robina F.	.	.	.	6 : 310
Hargrave, Hugh D. 1854-83	.	.	.	2 : 139
Harper, Francis 1865	.	.	.	6 : 344
Harper, Helen W. 1842	.	.	.	4 : 249
Harper, Malcolm M'Lachlan	.	.	.	14 : 202
Harrison, John 1814-89	.	.	.	7 : 195
Hart, Alexander M. 1853	.	.	.	1 : 231
Harvey, William 1874	.	.	.	15 : 403
Hastings, Lady Flora 1806-39	.	.	.	3 : 230
Hawkins, Walter Robert 1855	.	.	.	4 : 143
Hay Robert Wright 1861	.	.	.	7 : 111
Hay, William 1794-1854	.	.	.	15 : 129
Haywood, Annie Winsor 1866	.	.	.	15 : 118
Hebenton, Edward 1842-87	.	.	.	7 : 53
Hedderwick, James 1814	.	.	.	3 : 410
Heddle, John George Moodie 1844	.	.	.	10 : 193
Heggie, John 1859	.	.	.	7 : 318
Henderson, Daniel M. 1851	.	.	.	6 : 115
Henderson, Daniel M'Intyre 1851	.	.	.	12 : 140
Henderson, James 1824	.	.	.	13 : 369
Henderson, James C. 1858-81	.	.	.	5 : 139
Henderson William 1831	.	.	.	7 : 278
Henrietta, Frank 1837-83	.	.	.	5 : 165
Hercus, James L. 1847-85	.	.	.	12 : 32
Hetrick, Robert 1769-1849	.	.	.	4 : 368
Hewitt, James 1847	.	.	.	1 : 242
Hillocks, James J.	.	.	.	1 : 275
Hogg, John 1839	.	.	.	9 : 163
Hogg, Robert 1864	.	.	.	7 : 236
Hogg, William 1822	.	.	.	6 : 370
Hogg, W. T. M. 1842	.	.	.	10 : 255
Honeyman, Catherine Ferguson 1809	.	.	.	14 : 341
Horsburgh, Andrew 1827	.	.	.	11 : 247
Hossack, Annie Dennison	.	.	.	12 : 182
Houston, John 1819-79	.	.	.	4 : 32
Houston, Robert 1860-90	.	.	.	14 : 238
Houstoun, William 1857	.	.	.	10 : 93
Horrat, James 1846	.	.	.	15 : 292
Howatson, Bella 1863	.	.	.	11 : 262
Howden, Robert 1776	.	.	.	2 : 34
Howden, Walter C. 1851	.	.	.	4 : 354

Howie, Mary Wright	1838-58	-	14 : 327
Hugh, Alexander	1854	-	13 : 232
Hume, John	1810	-	13 : 151
Hunter, Charles F.	1846	-	9 : 30
Hunter, Robert	1854	-	3 : 250
Hutcheon, Rebecca	1851	-	3 : 223
Hutcheson, David	1799-1880	-	3 : 23
Hutchieson, James C.	1847	-	1 : 84
Hutchison, John	1851	-	13 : 183
Hyslop, James	1798-1827	-	7 : 73
Hyslop, John	1837	-	4 : 281
Hyslop, Sarah J.	1845	-	4 : 348
Imrie, David	1809	-	2 : 224
Imrie, John	1847	-	11 : 412
Inglis, James	1845	-	13 : 391
Inglis, John	1857	-	3 : 236
Inglis, John	1813-87	-	5 : 161
Inglis, Mary	-	-	10 : 54
Inglis, Robert, S.	1835-86	-	10 : 297
Ingram, John G.	1805-75	-	3 : 81
Ingram, William	1765-1849	-	12 : 393
Innes, Robert	1810-94	-	5 : 98
Ironside, Daniel	1825	-	10 : 400
Irving, Archibald Stirling	1819-51	-	15 : 226
Jackson, William V.	1843	-	7 : 185
Jacque, George	1804-90	-	3 : 197
Jamieson, James	1840	-	5 : 187
Jamieson, Robert Dickson	1834	-	13 : 28
Japp, Alex. H.	1837	-	2 : 106
Jardine, James	1852	-	2 : 239
Jeffrey, Agnes	1848	-	9 : 337
Jeffrey, William Duthie	1845-92	-	8 : 103
Jeffries, Alexander Ew.	1874	-	14 : 219
Jenkins, Alexander	1841	-	11 : 353
Jerdan, Samuel S.	1846-78	-	2 : 17
Jobling, Charlotte	-	-	8 : 296
Johnston, Henry	1842	-	12 : 186
Johnston, J.	-	-	13 : 128
Johnston, James	1849	-	3 : 335
Johnston, James J.	1862	-	5 : 238
Johnston, John	1781-1880	-	8 : 321
Johnston, T. P.	-	-	5 : 372
Johnstone, John	1839	-	2 : 174
Johnstone, T. Boston	1846	-	8 : 147
Keith, Alexander	1811	-	7 : 272

Keith, Don	1848	-	-	-	4 : 192
Kelly, James	1855	-	-	-	10 : 88
Kelly, James	1848-79	-	-	-	1 : 204
Kelly, James	1856	-	-	-	1 : 172
Kelly, Joan	-	-	-	-	15 : 333
Kelly, John	1850	-	-	-	1 : 208
Kelly, John	1857	-	-	-	3 : 416
Kent, John	1860	-	-	-	15 : 63
Kennedy, Alex. Clark	1851	-	-	-	7 : 368
Kennedy, David	1849-85	-	-	-	5 : 44
Kennedy, James	1848	-	-	-	6 : 213
Kennedy, James Christopher	1844	-	-	-	7 : 321
Kerr, Alexander M.	1818	-	-	-	5 : 216
Kerr, Hugh	1815-93	-	-	-	15 : 418
Kerr, John	1852	-	-	-	10 : 331
Kerr, Mrs Susan	1840	-	-	-	15 : 391
Kidd, John G.	1857	-	-	-	7 : 336
King, Arthur	1856	-	-	-	10 : 33
King, Daniel	1844	-	-	-	9 : 244
King, Jessie M.	1862	-	-	-	11 : 270
Kinlay, James	1838	-	-	-	14 : 226
Kinnear, George H.	1863	-	-	-	9 : 85
Kippen, Duncan	-	-	-	-	15 : 139
Kirkland, Daniel	1833	-	-	-	15 : 190
Knight, William	1824	-	-	-	1 : 193
Knox, Anna	1823	-	-	-	14 : 361
Knox, James	-	-	-	-	12 : 361
Knox, Thomas	1818-79	-	-	-	9 : 107
Knox, William	-	-	-	-	15 : 164
Kyd, Jean	1858	-	-	-	11 : 118
Laidlaw, Walter,	1840	-	-	-	2 : 331
Laing, Alexander	1787-1857	-	-	-	2 : 273
Laing, Alexander	1840	-	-	-	6 : 147
Laing, Allan S.	1857	-	-	-	12 : 59
Laing, William	1829-58	-	-	-	3 : 85
Lamberton, William	1828	-	-	-	10 : 375
Lamont, Alexander	1843	-	-	-	3 : 291
Lamont, Duncan	1842	-	-	-	9 : 303
Lancaster, Gorge E. M.	-	-	-	-	2 : 183
Lang, Andrew M.	1857	-	-	-	4 : 61
Latto, Thomas C.	1818	-	-	-	5 : 330
Latto, W. D.	1823	-	-	-	3 : 37
Laubach, Conrad Hugo	1867	-	-	-	10 : 170
Lauder, James	1841	-	-	-	6 : 362
Law, James	1863	-	-	-	5 : 314

Lawrie, George J.	1797-1878	-	-	10 : 357
Lawrence, William M.	1860	-	-	10 : 321
Lawson, James	1799	-	-	11 : 67
Lawson, Jessie Kerr	-	-	-	13 : 239
Lawson, Roderick	-	-	3	9 : 218
Leask, John	1812-95	-	-	14 : 125
Leck, Jane	-	-	-	4 : 131
Lee, John	1797	-	-	3 : 59
Leggat, Joseph	1846	-	-	4 : 185
Leighton, Jessie	1868	-	-	11 : 99
Leighton, Robert	1822-69	-	-	1 : 300
Leighton, William	1841-69	-	-	1 : 294
Leith, Emily	-	-	-	8 : 164
Lennon, Francis	1857	-	-	8 : 51
Levack, George W.	1846	-	-	6 : 53
Levens, John T.	1862	-	-	7 : 123
Lindsay, David	1833	-	-	8 : 334
Lindsay, William	1840	-	-	1 : 328
Linen, James	1815-73	-	-	7 : 137
Lister, David	1865	-	-	14 : 70
Livingstone, John	1858	-	-	14 : 391
Livingstone, Peter	1823	-	-	1 : 229
Livingstone, Thomas L. F.	1829	-	-	9 : 166
Locke, Fred	1853	-	-	9 : 289
Logan, Alexander	1833	-	-	1 : 196
Logan, J. C.	1839	-	-	15 : 170
Logan, Thomas	1835	-	-	2 : 30
Londen, David	1838	-	-	9 : 399
Longmuir, John	1803	-	-	2 : 39
Lorne, Sir John George Edward Henry Douglas Sutherland Campbell, Marquis of	1845	-	-	7 : 252
Low, William Leslie	1840	-	-	15 : 73
Lowson, Alexander	1841	-	-	14 : 100
Luby, John	1858	-	-	12 : 368
Lumsden, James	1839	-	-	11 : 339
Lundie, Jane C.	1821-84	-	-	11 : 154
Lundie, R. H.	1824-94	-	-	15 : 416
Lyall, John W.	1836	-	-	5 : 386
Lyall, William R.	1831	-	-	10 : 142
Lyle, William	1822	-	-	6 : 28
Lyndon, William	-	-	-	15 : 31
Lyte, Henry F.	1793-1847	-	-	2 : 78
Mabon, Agnes	1841	-	-	9 : 207
Macaulay, John	1854	-	-	9 : 340
Macbeath, James M.	1828	-	-	11 : 215

Macculloch, James M. 1841	-	-	-	15 : 439
Macdonald, Christian 1868	-	-	-	14 : 321
Macdonald, Donald 1846	-	-	-	13 : 356
Macdonald, George 1824	-	-	-	2 : 266
Macdonald, Hugh 1817-60	-	-	-	7 : 43
Macdonald, James 1810	-	-	-	7 : 356
Macdonald, John 1860	-	-	-	1 : 98
Macdonald, Neil 1846	-	-	-	14 : 269
Macduff, J. R. 1818-95	-	-	-	10 : 308
Macfadyen, Dugald 1857	-	-	-	1 : 246
Macfarlane, John 1856	-	-	-	1 : 34
Macfie, Robert Andrew 1811-93	-	-	-	8 : 83
Macfie, Ronald Campbell 1867	-	-	-	15 : 104
Macgregor, Duncan 1854	-	-	-	11 : 83
Macintosh, Alexandra -	-	-	-	9 : 286
Macintosh, John 1853	-	-	-	11 : 363
Macintosh, William 1854	-	-	-	7 : 89
Macarsie, William 1821	-	-	-	14 : 253
Mackay, Charles 1814-1889	-	-	-	13 : 17
Mackay, Francis Alex. 1822	-	-	-	10 : 379
Mackay, James 1838	-	-	-	1 : 334
Mackay, Margaret died 1886	-	-	-	12 : 406
Mackellar, Mary -	-	-	-	2 : 196
Mackenzie, George 1859	-	-	-	14 : 331
Mackenzie, Georgina Brown	-	-	-	12 : 359
Mackenzie, Hannah B. -	-	-	-	9 : 269
Mackenzie, James Greig	-	-	-	8 : 182
Mackenzie, Violet Brown 1871	-	-	-	12 : 362
Mackie, David B. 1861	-	-	-	7 : 192
Mackie, Keith Forbes 1861	-	-	-	10 : 212
Mackinlay, William Archibald Bryson 1862	-	-	-	12 : 336
Maclachlan, Alexander 1856	-	-	-	5 : 40
MacLagan, Douglas 1812	-	-	-	3 : 173
MacLagan, Robert Craig	-	-	-	15 : 230
MacLaren, David 1847-87	-	-	-	1 : 314
Maclean, Duncan -	-	-	-	9 : 297
Maclean, Hugh A. -	-	-	-	10 : 84
MacLennan, George E. 1866	-	-	-	14 : 367
Macleod, Annie C. -	-	-	-	15 : 437
Macleod, Annie C. -	-	-	-	10 : 407
Macleod, Catherine -	-	-	-	9 : 158
Macleod, John -	-	-	-	15 : 430
Macleod, John -	-	-	-	15 : 425
Macleod, Mrs Norman (sen.) -	-	-	-	15 : 437
Macleod, Neil 1843 -	-	-	-	6 : 23

Macleod, Norman	1812-72	-	-	1 : 391
Macmillan, Daniel	1846	-	-	14 : 300
Macmorland, Peter	1810-81	-	-	6 : 87
Macnamara, Sylvester	1863	-	-	14 : 309
Macphail, Marion	1817	-	-	7 : 86
Macphail, Myles	1816-83	-	-	6 : 298
Macphail, Myles	1816-83	-	-	13 : 49
Macpherson, Alexander	1849	-	-	8 : 251
Macpherson, Colin	1826	-	-	3 : 33
Macpherson, Daniel	died 1886	-	-	10 : 26
Macpherson, Hector	1864	-	-	15 : 60
Macpherson, Mary	-	-	-	15 : 42
Macpherson, Ossian	1818-74	-	-	12 : 295
Macpherson, Patrick	1829	-	-	14 : 381
Macpherson, Rachael S.	1861	-	-	2 : 203
Macrae, David	-	-	-	2 : 188
Macrae, Mrs Flora Maitland	-	-	-	11 : 404
Mactaggart, John	1800-30	-	-	11 : 322
Mahon, James	1862	-	-	7 : 221
Manners, Lady Jane M.	-	-	-	2 : 289
Marshall, Agnes	1846	-	-	15 : 199
Marshall, Andrew	1824-92	-	-	15 : 288
Marshall, Charles	1796-1882	-	-	2 : 28
Marshall, James	1829	-	-	10 : 163
Martin, John L.	1852-76	-	-	2 : 333
Mason, John W.	-	-	-	7 : 95
Massie, J. C.	1868-88	-	-	9 : 55
Mather, James	1839	-	-	15 : 243
Matheson, George	1842	-	-	9 : 143
Matheson, Robert	1837	-	-	14 : 196
Mathieson, George E.	1857	-	-	4 : 99
Matthews, Alfred T.	-	-	-	13 : 270
Mauchline, James	1817	-	-	14 : 318
Mauchline, Robert	1846	-	-	10 : 129
Maxwell, Alexander	1791-1859	-	-	10 : 402
Maxwell, Charles C.	1829	-	-	7 : 276
Maxwell, George	1832	-	-	8 : 399
Maxwell, James Clerk	1831-79	-	-	8 : 120
Mayo, Isabella Fyvie	1843	-	-	11 : 126
M'Arthur, Peter	1805	-	-	1 : 329
M'Auslane, Donald M'C.	1836-81	-	-	5 : 199
M'Auslane, William T.	1832-93	-	-	2 : 135
M'Bryde, Anthony C.	1838	-	-	5 : 181
M'Cheyne, Robert Murray	1813-43	-	-	15 : 83
M'Clure, John	-	-	-	12 : 146

M'Corkindale, Duncan	1809-78	.	.	5 : 169
M'Crae, George Gordon	1833	.	.	12 : 220
M'Crakett, P.	1827-82	.	.	2 : 340
M'Culloch, James Sloane	1855	.	.	7 : 212
M'Cutcheon, John	1849	.	.	15 : 33
M'Diarmid, John	1790-1852	.	.	7 : 105
M'Donald, Agnes	.	.	.	15 : 155
M'Donald, Joseph	1827	.	.	5 : 257
M'Dougall, William	1800	.	.	4 : 17
M'Dowall, William,	1815-88	.	.	3 : 256
M'Ewan, Tom	1846	.	.	12 : 326
M'Farlane, Samuel	.	.	.	6 : 394
M'Fee, Robert C.	1848	.	.	13 : 310
M'Gill, James	1859-70	.	.	5 : 364
M'Gill, William G.	1851	.	.	5 : 360
M'Gregor, John	1827	.	.	14 : 149
M'Gregor, James	1858	.	.	14 : 152
M'Grigor, Mrs W. T.	.	.	.	15 : 136
M'Intosh, David	1846	.	.	2 : 329
M'Intosh, John	1848-86	.	.	5 : 203
M'Intosh, William S.	1838	.	.	9 : 69
M'Kay, Archibald	1801-83	.	.	2 : 375
M'Kean, Hugh	1869	.	.	14 : 324
M'Kenzie, Hugh	1828	.	.	8 : 176
M'Kenzie, Leslie	1865-89	.	.	15 : 320
M'Kimm, James	.	.	.	5 : 348
M'Lachlan, Alexander	1820	.	.	2 : 259
M'Lachlan, William A.	1849	.	.	13 : 401
M'Lachlane, Kenneth	1815-85	.	.	1 : 364
M'Laren, Hubert G.	1848	.	.	13 : 158
M'Laren, John W.	1861	.	.	2 : 346
M'Lauchlan, Thomas	1858	.	.	1 : 156
M'Lay, John	1799	.	.	12 : 388
M'Lean, Alexander T.	died 1882	.	.	4 : 72
M'Lean, Andrew	1848	.	.	6 : 135
M'Leod, Donald	.	.	.	12 : 290
M'Leod, Ewen	1809	.	.	15 : 133
M'Lintock, Agnes C.	.	.	.	13 : 338
M'Mahon, P. J.	1860	.	.	13 : 94
M'Murdo, George	.	.	.	5 : 220
M'Naughton, Peter	1814-89	.	.	4 : 265
M'Neil, Duncan M.	1830	.	.	6 : 318
M'Neill, Kate	1858	.	.	6 : 228
M'Neill, Peter	1839	.	.	5 : 292
M'Nicol, Duncan	1851	.	.	3 : 279

M'Pherson, James	1861-87	-	-	11 : 104
M'Queen, James	1862	-	-	13 : 45
M'Queen, William	1841-85	-	-	1 : 30
M'Queen, Thomas	died 1861	-	-	2 : 323
M'Taggart, John	1845	-	-	13 : 331
M'Vittie, James	1833	-	-	11 : 345
Mearns, Peter	1816	-	-	14 : 79
Meek, Robert	1836	-	-	6 : 209
Melville, Andrew Paterson	1867	-	-	12 : 75
Melville, William B.	-	-	-	10 : 366
Mennon, Robert	1797-1885	-	-	3 : 130
Menteath, Mrs Granville Stuart	1843-81	-	-	8 : 263
Menteath, Mrs Stuart	-	-	-	6 : 289
Menzies, George	1797-1847	-	-	11 : 48
Menzies, John	1811	-	-	12 : 370
Mercer, Graeme Reid	1812-86	-	-	15 : 194
Mercer, William Thomas	1821-79	-	-	12 : 263
Merrylees, Rachel Bates	-	-	-	5 : 115
Middleton, Alexander Gordon	1828-88	-	-	12 : 271
Mill, John F.	1838	-	-	3 : 17
Millar, Charles	1809-93	-	-	15 : 400
Millar, Thomas	1865	-	-	11 : 318
Millar, W. J.	1839	-	-	7 : 256
Miller, A. C.	1851	-	-	15 : 298
Miller, Charles	1810	-	-	4 : 113
Miller, Frank	1854	-	-	2 : 265
Miller, Hugh	1802-56	-	-	3 : 312
Miller, John	1840	-	-	11 : 332
Miller, Thomas	1831	-	-	5 : 146
Miller, William	1810-65	-	-	3 : 142
Milligan, James	-	-	-	8 : 138
Mills, J. S.	1829	-	-	1 : 316
Milne, Alexander	1869	-	-	14 : 141
Milne, John	1791	-	-	2 : 362
Milne, Robert C.	1859	-	-	15 : 78
Milne, William	1829	-	-	15 : 277
Mitchell, Alexander	1804	-	-	2 : 37
Mitchell, Anthony	1868	-	-	13 : 362
Mitchell, David Gibb	1863	-	-	11 : 27
Mitchell, John Murray	1815	-	-	8 : 153
Mitchell, William	1848-79	-	-	14 : 41
Mitchelson, Alexander	1849	-	-	1 : 322
Moffat, James	died 1853	-	-	13 : 336
Moffat, James C.	-	-	-	7 : 189
Moir, Margaret	1840	-	-	4 : 385

Moir, William R. 1842	-	"	1 : 61
Mooney, John 1862	-	-	10 : 135
Moore, William Kennedy	-	-	11 : 140
Morison, Jeanie	-	-	3 : 322
Morison, Joseph 1838	-	-	9 : 45
Morris, Andrew 1842	-	-	12 : 401
Morrison, Margaret	-	-	3 : 221
Morton, Mrs Jessie 1824	-	-	1 : 353
Morton, Thomas 1861	-	-	12 : 105
Mowat, George Houston 1846	-	-	14 : 183
Muir, Hugh 1846	-	-	10 : 174
Muir, Janet K. died 1888	-	-	2 : 381
Muir, William 1766-1817	-	-	2 : 49
Munro, Archibald 1825	-	-	5 : 191
Murchie, Mary J. 1860	-	-	9 : 265
Murdoch, Alexander G. 1844	-	-	1 : 177
Murie, George 1845	-	-	5 : 264
Murison, Alexander 1859	-	-	8 : 311
Murray, Alick 1856	-	-	9 : 213
Murray, David S. 1853	-	-	9 : 354
Murray, George	-	-	1 : 387
Murray, George 1812-81	-	-	4 : 164
Murray, George 1819-68	-	-	13 : 264
Murray, James 1812-75	-	-	3 : 147
Murray, Robert E.	-	-	3 : 155
Murray, Thomas 1835	-	-	8 : 268
Murray, William 1855	-	-	12 : 56
Mutch, Robert S. 1849	-	-	13 : 326
Napier, Rebecca	-	-	9 : 379
Neaves, Lord 1800-76	-	-	3 : 106
Neil, George 1858	-	-	11 : 192
Neill, Charles	-	-	4 : 202
Neill, William 1821	-	-	5 : 339
Neilson, James M. 1844-83	-	-	1 : 36
Nelson, John 1810	-	-	7 : 82
Newbigging, Thomas 1833	-	-	3 : 402
Nichol, John 1833-92	-	-	2 : 245
Nicholson, James 1822	-	-	1 : 233
Nicholson, William 1783-1849	-	-	3 : 63
Nicol, Charles 1858	-	-	6 : 70
Nicoll, Thomas P. 1841	-	-	1 : 81
Nicolson, Alexander died 1893	-	-	3 : 417
Nicolson, James Roy 1861	-	-	7 : 338
Nicolson, Laurance J. 1844	-	-	1 : 335
Nimmo, Hamilton 1836-93	-	-	8 : 245

Nisbet, Hume	1849	-	-	5 : 155
Niven, John	1859	-	-	10 : 370
Norval, James	1814	-	-	6 : 193
Officer, William	1856	-	-	8 : 364
Ogg, James	1849	-	-	1 : 360
Ogilvy, Donald	died 1885	-	-	13 : 217
Ogilvy, Dorothea	1823-95	-	-	1 : 45
Oliver, William	1804-78	-	-	8 : 98
Ormond, Thomas	1817-79	-	-	2 : 354
Orr, John	1814	-	-	8 : 327
Outram, George	1805-56	-	-	2 : 214
Owler, David	1860	-	-	15 : 356
Park, John	1804-65	-	-	9 : 73
Parker, Bella	1864	-	-	10 : 47
Paterson, George	1843-99	-	-	4 : 226
Paterson, Jeannie G.	1871	-	-	15 : 284
Paterson, John	1853	-	-	9 : 226
Paterson, John Curlie	1823-79	-	-	12 : 246
Paton, James	1843	-	-	2 : 309
Paton, Sir Joseph Noel	1821	-	-	2 : 296
Patterson, Alexander S.	1805-85	-	-	15 : 262
Paul, James	1859	-	-	11 : 387
Paul, John	1853	-	-	11 : 382
Paulin, George	1812	-	-	3 : 361
Paxton, John W.	1854	-	-	6 : 173
Peacock, John M.	1817-77	-	-	4 : 212
Penman, William	1849-77	-	-	1 : 39
Pettigrew, John	1840	-	-	5 : 35
Philip, Rev. William M.	-	-	-	8 : 212
Phin, William H.	1839	-	-	5 : 298
Pirie, George	1799-1870	-	-	4 : 196
Pitcairn, Janet W.	1865-89	-	-	9 : 181
Potter, Mary J.	1833	-	-	9 : 375
Pringle, Alice	-	-	-	7 : 232
Pringle, Robert	1841	-	-	12 : 81
Procter, Andrew	1841	-	-	3 : 367
Proctor, James	1826-59	-	-	2 : 79
Purdie, David W.	1860	-	-	11 : 297
Pyott, William	1851	-	-	8 : 409
Pyper, Mary	1795-1870	-	-	8 : 284
Rae, David	1853	-	-	11 : 399
Rae, James	1842	-	-	14 : 209
Rae, John	-	-	-	12 : 242
Rae, John	1859	-	-	3 : 216
Rae, Thomas	1868-89	-	-	11 : 234

Rae-Brown, Colin	1821	-	-	8 : 376
Rae-Brown, Colin Campbell	1860	-	-	8 : 383
Rae-Brown, Elsie	-	-	-	13 : 321
Ramsay, Donald	1848-92	-	-	15 : 233
Ramsay, Grace	1822-72	-	-	7 : 227
Ramsay, John	1802-79	-	-	3 : 270
Ramsay, Thomas	1822	-	-	7 : 227
Rankin, Alexander	1842	-	-	3 : 254
Rankin, J. E.	1828	-	-	4 : 154
Rankine, W. J. M.	1820-72	-	-	5 : 27
Reid, Alan	1853	-	-	9 : 151
Reid, Alexander	1842-86	-	-	5 : 280
Reid, George	1843	-	-	15 : 37
Reid, John	1857	-	-	4 : 206
Reid, John	1838	-	-	7 : 101
Reid, John D.	1849	-	-	15 : 166
Reid, John Dougall	-	-	-	10 : 73
Reid, John P.	1862	-	-	6 : 241
Reid, Robert	1850	-	-	1 : 318
Reid, Robert	1847	-	-	12 : 98
Reid, Samuel	1854	-	-	10 : 110
Reid, William	1827	-	-	2 : 349
Reid, William	1830-88	-	-	1 : 199
Renton, James	1841	-	-	7 : 49
Reston, Andrew	1818-58	-	-	5 : 63
Rettie, T. Leith	1854	-	-	7 : 342
Richardson, Robert	-	-	-	4 : 139
Ridpath, William S.	1820-81	-	-	2 : 242
Robb, John	1855	-	-	6 : 162
Robertson, Alexander	1825	-	-	2 : 326
Robertson, Alexander	1848	-	-	2 : 155
Robertson, Andrew Smith	1846	-	-	15 : 145
Robertson, Isabella	-	-	-	11 : 168
Robertson, J. L.	-	-	-	3 : 352
Robertson, Keith	died 1888	-	-	9 : 345
Robertson, Maggie	1853	-	-	15 : 160
Robertson, Mrs Logie	1860	-	-	3 : 348
Robertson, Mrs Louisa	1851	-	-	4 : 49
Robertson, William	1808	-	-	1 : 306
Robertson, William	-	-	-	7 : 57
Robertson, W. B.	-	-	-	12 : 17
Robson, Mark Newton	1861	-	-	14 : 31
Roger, James	1841	-	-	3 : 52
Rogers, Charles	1825	-	-	3 : 369
Ross, Angus	1830	-	-	1 : 292

Ross, James -	-	-	2 : 352
Ross, John 1801 -	-	-	7 : 297
Ross, William Stewart 1844	-	-	3 : 329
Rosslyn, Earl of 1833-90	-	-	8 : 17
Roxburgh, W.	-	-	9 : 394
Russel, David 1843	-	-	12 : 126
Russell, Mrs Jessie 1850 -	-	-	1 : 12
Russell, Thomas 1822	-	-	1 : 309
Salmond, James 1805-88 -	-	-	2 : 205
Sanders, Robert -	-	-	4 : 382
Sanderson, Robert 1836 -	-	-	1 : 67
Sanderson, William	-	-	15 : 300
Sangster, Margaret E.	-	-	6 : 107
Saxby, Jessie M. E.	-	-	4 : 117
Scorgie, John 1852	-	-	5 : 321
Scotland, James Simpson	-	-	12 : 411
Scott, Agnes Gordon	-	-	7 : 238
Scott, Andrew 1821	-	-	5 : 134
Scott, David 1864	-	-	4 : 57
Scott, James K. 1839	-	-	4 : 43
Scott, R. Adamson 1860 -	-	-	14 : 273
Scott, Robert P. -	-	-	9 : 40
Scott, William 1822	-	-	2 : 367
Scott, William 1795-1859	-	-	2 : 67
Scrymgeour, Norval	-	-	13 : 113
Sellars, David R. 1854	-	-	6 : 153
Shairp, John C. 1819-85 -	-	-	9 : 188
Shand, Alexander 1845	-	-	1 : 339
Shanks, Henry 1829	-	-	11 : 372
Sharp, William 1855	-	-	10 : 386
Shaw, John 1828	-	-	4 : 372
Shaw, Mary A. 1862	-	-	4 : 377
Shearer-Aitken, William 1856	-	-	1 : 269
Shelley, William 1815	-	-	1 : 139
Shepherd, James 1827-87	-	-	13 : 57
Sherer, C. J. 1849	-	-	8 : 38
Sidey, James A. 1825-86 -	-	-	3 : 392
Sievwright, Colin 1819-95	-	-	1 : 88
Sievwright, William 1823	-	-	1 : 187
Sim, Andrew 1807-36	-	-	1 : 230
Sim, William A. 1859	-	-	7 : 244
Simpson, Alexander Nicol 1855 -	-	-	11 : 307
Simpson, George Muir 1844	-	-	8 : 329
Simpson, Jane C. died 1886	-	-	9 : 379
Simpson, Jessie H.	-	-	9 : 379

Simpson, Mrs Jane Cross	1806-86	-	8 : 369
Simpson, Sir James Young	1811-70	-	13 : 193
Sims, George R.	1847	-	11 : 57
Simson, James	1858	-	4 : 64
Sinclair, Elizabeth M.		-	4 : 84
Sinclair, Francis		-	14 : 54
Sinclair, Patrick Fea	1840	-	13 : 383
Sinclair, Walter	1803	-	7 : 306
Sinclair, William	1811-70	-	15 : 406
Singer, John	1861	-	12 : 116
Skelton, John	1831	-	11 : 281
Skirving, Peter	1829-69	-	12 : 276
Small, James G.	1817-88	-	4 : 256
Smart, Alexander	1798-1866	-	11 : 72
Smart, William M.	1854	-	11 : 210
Smibert, Thomas	1810-54	-	2 : 379
Smith, David Coupar	1832	-	5 : 308
Smith, David M.	1848	-	2 : 211
Smith, Ebenezer	1835	-	3 : 98
Smith, Harry	1865	-	14 : 397
Smith, James	1813-85	-	1 : 191
Smith, James	1824-87	-	1 : 260
Smith, James	1860	-	12 : 365
Smith, John	1825	-	15 : 204
Smith, John	1836	-	13 : 198
Smith, Margaret		-	13 : 33
Smith, Mary W.		-	9 : 261
Smith, Mrs M. A.	1827	-	1 : 382
Smith, R. H. W.	1826	-	5 : 104
Smith, Walter	1864	-	13 : 267
Smith, Walter C.	1824	-	3 : 238
Smith, William Brown	1850-87	-	11 : 92
Smith, William W.	1827	-	2 : 141
Snaddon, Alexander	1842	-	8 : 115
Somerville, George W.	1847	-	4 : 170
Somerville, Robert	1831	-	4 : 163
Soutar Alexander M.	1846	-	1 : 101
Southesk, Earl of	1827	-	1 : 105
Spalding, Colin	1826	-	12 : 94
Spence, Peter	1805-83	-	13 : 136
Spens, Walter C.	1842	-	2 : 124
Sproat, George	1858	-	5 : 356
Stables, Gordon	1838	-	14 : 370
Stanley, Montague	1809-44	-	3 : 326
Stark, William	1857	-	9 : 232

Steel, Andrew 1811-82	-	-	3 : 76
Steel, Annie	-	-	12 : 150
Stephens, James Brunton 1835	-	-	12 : 303
Stevenson, Robert L. 1850-94	-	-	10 : 323
Stewart, Alexander 1829	-	-	5 : 77
Stewart, Alexander 1821	-	-	6 : 333
Stewart, Alexander 1841	-	-	10 : 120
Stewart, Andrew 1842	-	-	15 : 97
Stewart, Catherine M.	-	-	6 : 180
Stewart, Charles	-	-	8 : 305
Stewart, Charles 1813	-	-	11 : 287
Stewart, James 1801-43	-	-	1 : 211
Stewart, James 1841	-	-	6 : 252
Stewart, John 1835	-	-	7 : 267
Stewart, John Joseph Smale 1838	-	-	7 : 61
Stewart, Thomas 1859	-	-	8 : 188
Stewart, William 1835-48	-	-	12 : 89
Stewart, William 1867	-	-	10 : 139
Still, Peter 1814-48	-	-	3 : 305
Still, Peter jun. 1835	-	-	1 : 173
Stirling, James Hutchison 1820	-	-	7 : 314
Stoddart, James H. 1832-88	-	-	2 : 300
Stoddart, Thomas T. 1810-80	-	-	6 : 349
Stott, Maggie 1862	-	-	10 : 167
Strang, James	-	-	7 : 358
Stronach, George 1851	-	-	5 : 391
Stuart, Isabella	-	-	9 : 315
Sturoc, William C. 1822	-	-	4 : 335
Sutherland, Alexander 1863-83	-	-	10 : 37
Sutherland, Emily	-	-	6 : 347
Sutherland, George 1866-93	-	-	8 : 209
Sutherland, William	-	-	12 : 166
Swan, Annie S. 1859	-	-	6 : 397
Swan, Maggie 1867	-	-	10 : 42
Swan, Robert, 1853	-	-	10 : 62
Symington, Andrew J. 1825	-	-	5 : 84
Tasker, David 1840	-	-	2 : 280
Tatlow, Joseph 1851	-	-	6 : 205
Taylor, Ada E.	-	-	5 : 328
Taylor, Andrew B.	-	-	4 : 311
Taylor, David 1831	-	-	1 : 26
Taylor, David 1817-76	-	-	15 : 397
Taylor, James 1813-75	-	-	4 : 174
Taylor, John	-	-	15 : 420
Taylor, John 1816-87	-	-	5 : 325

Taylor, John 1837	-	-	4 : 181
Taylor, John 1839	-	-	1 : 77
Taylor, Malcolm 1850	-	-	6 : 101
Teenan, Joseph 1830	-	-	2 : 229
Tennant, Robert 1830-79	-	-	1 : 168
Tester, William H. L. 1829	-	-	1 : 325
Thain, Leslie Lauchlan 1853	-	-	13 : 283
Thom, Robert W. 1816	-	-	1 : 221
Thoms, Patrick Hunter 1796-1882	-	-	7 : 264
Thomson, Alexander 1869	-	-	15 : 187
Thomson, Alex. E. 1864-86	-	-	7 : 353
Thomson, Cecile M'Neill	-	-	4 : 88
Thomson, David 1806-70	-	-	2 : 112
Thomson, Hope A. 1863	-	-	15 : 152
Thomson, Hugh 1847	-	-	8 : 205
Thomson, James 1763	-	-	15 : 315
Thomson, James 1825	-	-	3 : 380
Thomson, James 1827-90	-	-	10 : 266
Thomson, James 1832	-	-	1 : 389
Thomson, James 1834-82	-	-	7 : 161
Thomson, John 1822-89	-	-	6 : 306
Thomson, John E. H. 1841	-	-	4 : 109
Thomson, Neil 1823	-	-	9 : 388
Thomson, Robert B. 1817-87	-	-	7 : 151
Thomson, Thomas 1800-79	-	-	8 : 95
Thomson, Thomas 1848	-	-	6 : 78
Thomson, William 1797-1887	-	-	1 : 321
Thomson, William 1860-83	-	-	2 : 156
Thomson, William	-	-	5 : 241
Thomson, William L. 1864	-	-	6 : 322
Thorpe, Thomas 1829	-	-	4 : 22
Tod, James 1833-55	-	-	9 : 129
Todd, A. B.	-	-	1 : 130
Todd, Maggie 1866	-	-	13 : 155
Tough, Margaret died 1863	-	-	5 : 286
Tough, Mary Ann	-	-	5 : 286
Towers, Walter	-	-	8 : 345
Trotter, Isabella died 1847	-	-	11 : 191
Trotter, James 1842	-	-	11 : 186
Trotter, Robert, 1738-1815	-	-	11 : 172
Trotter, Robert de Bruce 1833	-	-	11 : 177
Trotter, Robert junr. 1798-1875	-	-	11 : 174
Turner, George 1805-86	-	-	5 : 261
Turner, Robert S. 1848	-	-	4 : 27
Tuttielt, Lawrence 1825	-	-	15 : 326

Tyrie, Thomas Condie 1853-76	-	-	8 : 353
Urquhart, James 1864	-	-	6 : 140
Usher, John 1809-96	-	-	10 : 273
Veitch, John 1829-94	-	-	3 : 384
Waddie, Charles 1836	-	-	10 : 283
Walker, James D. 1839-91	-	-	14 : 247
Walker, John 1857	-	-	10 : 102
Walker, Josiah 1805-82	-	-	9 : 199
Walker, Robert 1843	-	-	12 : 320
Walker, William	-	-	8 : 219
Walker, William 1830	-	-	3 : 102
Wallace, Alexander 1816	-	-	3 : 337
Wallace, Andrew 1835	-	-	2 : 101
Wallace, George 1845	-	-	14 : 354
Wallace, Margaret 1829	-	-	1 : 293
Wallace, William 1862	-	-	7 : 202
Wanless, Andrew 1824	-	-	5 : 51
Wardrop, Alexander 1850	-	-	4 : 81
Waters, Daniel 1838	-	-	2 : 253
Watson, Alexander 1835-77	-	-	13 : 366
Watson, Archibald Inglis 1818-89	-	-	15 : 126
Watson, George 1846	-	-	14 : 36
Watson, Jean L. died 1885	-	-	4 : 126
Watson, Jessie J. S. 1854	-	-	3 : 262
Watson, John 1793-1878	-	-	1 : 42
Watson, John 1856	-	-	1 : 291
Watson, Robert A.	-	-	10 : 97
Watson, Thomas 1807-75	-	-	2 : 220
Watt, Alexander 1841	-	-	3 : 136
Watt, James E. 1839	-	-	1 : 73
Watt, J. L. M. 1868	-	-	9 : 122
Watt, M. R. 1819	-	-	1 : 369
Watt, Walter 1826	-	-	8 : 225
Watt, William 1792-1859	-	-	2 : 51
Watts, Thomas 1845-87	-	-	3 : 70
Webster, George 1823-80	-	-	9 : 368
Webster, George 1846	-	-	10 : 327
Wedderburn, Alexander 1836	-	-	6 : 238
Wedderburn, Alexander J. F. 1866	-	-	9 : 323
Weir, Arthur	-	-	11 : 417
Westwood, James 1850	-	-	8 : 253
Weyman, Alfred J. 1865	-	-	9 : 402
White, John 1807-96	-	-	3 : 45
White, M. Buchanan	-	-	14 : 312
White, Robert 1802	-	-	8 : 22

White, W. D. 1864	-	-	13 : 339
Whitehead, Thomas 1818-80	-	-	11 : 314
Whitelaw, James 1840-87	-	-	11 : 256
Whitelaw, J. M.	-	-	2 : 226
Whitlocke, Minnie Therèse	-	-	10 : 146
Whittet, James Peter 1834	-	-	11 : 394
Whittet, Robert 1829	-	-	6 : 128
Whyte, Christina	-	-	9 : 281
Whyte, William 1821	-	-	9 : 310
Whytock, Peter 1848	-	-	1 : 28
Wilkie, James 1862	-	-	6 : 273
Will, Charles 1861	-	-	9 : 365
Williams, George 1846	-	-	13 : 89
Williamson, Daniel 1843	-	-	15 : 53
Williamson, David R. 1855	-	-	8 : 234
Williamson, Effie	-	-	2 : 304
Williamson, Mrs 1815-82	-	-	8 : 192
Willock, A. Dewar 1846	-	-	9 : 403
Wilson, Alexander Stephen	-	-	8 : 390
Wilson, Arthur 1864	-	-	7 : 182
Wilson, Daniel 1816	-	-	8 : 33
Wilson, George 1818-59	-	-	15 : 5
Wilson, H. C.	-	-	1 : 70
Wilson, John 1835	-	-	5 : 377
Wilson, Samuel 1785-1863	-	-	13 : 65
Wilson, William 1801-60	-	-	13 : 223
Wilson, William	-	-	4 : 29
Wilson, William 1830	-	-	8 : 69
Wilson, William B. R. 1843	-	-	15 : 360
Wingate, David 1828-92	-	-	2 : 283
Wood, Andrew 1810-81	-	-	11 : 239
Wood, John P. 1852	-	-	15 : 384
Wood, John W. 1834-85	-	-	3 : 342
Wood, Marion Walker 1831	-	-	12 : 206
Wood, Robert	-	-	1 : 381
Wood, William M. 1847	-	-	6 : 111
Woolnoth, Alfred	-	-	10 : 116
Work, Thomas Lawrence 1838	-	-	12 : 211
Wright, John 1805-46	-	-	3 : 121
Wright, Joseph 1848	-	-	4 : 274
Wynd, James 1832-65	-	-	1 : 381
Yair, D. W.	-	-	7 : 247
Young, Andrew	-	-	1 : 331
Young, David 1811-91	-	-	15 : 282
Young, D. 1852	-	-	1 : 99

Young, Margaret 1817-94	-	-	7 : 130
Young, John 1825	-	-	1 : 276
Young, John 1826	-	-	3 : 160
Young, John B. 1865	-	-	14 : 305
Young, Thomas 1806-86	-	-	7 : 363
Yule, John T. 1848	-	-	3 : 225

B I R T H P L A C E S.

The figures preceding colon denote the volume, the figures following colon the page on which the sketch of the writer appears. In some instances we have been unable to ascertain birthplace.

ABERDEENSHIRE.

	Rae, J.	-	-	12 : 242
	Wedderburn, A.	-	-	6 : 238
Aberdeen,	Anderson, W.	-	-	2 : 234
do	Balfour, Mrs	-	-	14 : 358
do	Bulloch, J. M.	-	-	12 : 85
do	Cadenhead, W.	-	-	1 : 347
do	Carnie, W.	-	-	7 : 204
do	Catto, E.	-	-	1 : 144
do	Chalmers, R.	-	-	9 : 326
do	Craigmyle, Elizabeth	-	-	13 : 174
do	Dalgity, J.	-	-	7 : 208
do	Gall, J. H.	-	-	1 : 9
do	Gall, W. G.	-	-	14 : 261
do	Gibb, G.	-	-	3 : 376
do	Gordon, A.	-	-	9 : 96
do	Houston, R.	-	-	14 : 238
do	Hutchieson, J. C.	-	-	1 : 84
do	Keith, Alex.	-	-	7 : 272
do	King, A.	-	-	10 : 33
do	Macintosh, W.	-	-	7 : 89
do	McKenzie, L.	-	-	15 : 320
do	Milne, A.	-	-	14 : 141
do	Milne, J.	-	-	2 : 362
do	Mitchell, A.	-	-	13 : 363
do	Mitchell, J. M.	-	-	8 : 153
do	Mutch, R. S.	-	-	13 : 326
do	Nicoll, T. P.	-	-	1 : 81
do	Pirie, G.	-	-	4 : 196
do	Reid, S.	-	-	10 : 110
do	Scott, R. A.	-	-	14 : 273

Aberdeen, Smith, Harry	-	-	14 : 397
do Smith, W. C.	-	-	3 : 238
do Stewart, John	-	-	7 : 267
do Turner, R. S.	-	-	4 : 27
do Walker, J. D.	-	-	14 : 247
do Watson, R. A.	-	-	10 : 97
do Work, T. L.	-	-	12 : 211
Auchmaleddie, Booth, J.	-	-	15 : 88
Ballater, Robertson, A.	-	-	2 : 326
Balmoral, Tester, W. H. L.	-	-	1 : 325
Birse, Dinnie, R.	-	-	13 : 287
Boghead, near Huntly, Murray, George	-	-	13 : 264
Bonnykelly, New Deer, Ironside, D.	-	-	10 : 400
Bourtie, Gordon, W.	-	-	14 : 241
Bridgefoot of Ironside, Moir, W. R.	-	-	1 : 61
Cairnrobin, Anderson, Lizzie D.	-	-	8 : 89
Crathie, Dewar, A.	-	-	10 : 244
Cruden, Blackhills, Still, P., jun.	-	-	1 : 173
Cuminestown, Ingram, W.	-	-	12 : 393
Desswood, Niven, J.	-	-	10 : 370
Donside, Dalgity, Isa	-	-	8 : 65
Drumblade, Shand, A.	-	-	1 : 339
Ellon, Anderson, J. A.	-	-	8 : 77
do Brechin, G.	-	-	3 : 414
Feughs Glen, Harper, F.	-	-	6 : 344
Footdee, Allan, W.	-	-	6 : 342
Fraserburgh, Grant, M.	-	-	1 : 121
do Mowat, G. H.	-	-	14 : 183
Fyvie, Farquhar, William A. G.	-	-	7 : 275
do Jeffrey, W. D.	-	-	8 : 103
do Murray, A.	-	-	9 : 213
do Reid, R.	-	-	12 : 98
Glass, Geddes, W. D.	-	-	15 : 176
Glengairn, Reid, J.	-	-	7 : 101
Huntly, Gray, M.	-	-	14 : 186
do Macdonald, G.	-	-	2 : 266
do Macpherson, R. S.	-	-	2 : 203
do Matheson, R.	-	-	14 : 196
do Simson, James	-	-	4 : 64
Inverurie, Low, W. L.	-	-	15 : 73
Kincardine O'Neil, Mackie, J.	-	-	1 : 334
Leochel-Cushnie, Williams, George	-	-	13 : 89
Logie Buchan, Davidson, J.	-	-	1 : 91
Longside, Still, P.	-	-	3 : 306
do Watson, J.	-	-	1 : 291

Longside, Wedderburn, A. J. F.	-	9 : 323
Lonmay, Officer, William	-	8 : 364
Lumphanan, Gerrie, J.	-	1 : 356
Lumsden, Law, James	-	5 : 314
Manar, Fraser, M.	-	9 : 330
Methlic, Will, C.	-	9 : 365
Mintlaw, Craig, K. M.	-	14 : 94
Monymusk, Scorgie, John	-	5 : 321
Muir of Rhynie, Anderson, G. W.	-	14 : 18
New Deer, Rae, J.	-	3 : 216
Newhills, Greig, J.	-	13 : 191
Old Aberdeen, Rettie, T. L.	-	7 : 342
Old Meldrum, Hall, M.	-	14 : 49
do Watt, M. R.	-	1 : 369
Parkhill, Greig, Gavin	-	7 : 375
Peterhead, Buchan, P.	-	3 : 421
do Grant, R.	-	3 : 391
do Reid, W.	-	2 : 349
do Scott, W.	-	2 : 367
Pitsligo, Murison, Alexander	-	8 : 311
Rayne, Anderson, D.	-	15 : 366
do Wilson, A. S.	-	8 : 390
Rothiemay, Gibb, A. G.	-	9 : 349
Stuartfield, Webster, G.	-	10 : 327
Tarves, Burr, J.	-	10 : 204
Turriff, Forsyth, W.	-	1 : 357
Woodside, Barker, A. C.	-	1 : 338
do Cowie, J.	-	1 : 386
do Fullerton, J.	-	1 : 15
do Singer, J.	-	12 : 116

ARGYLESHIRE.

Appin, Whyte, C.	-	9 : 281
Ardlissa, Thomson, C. M.	-	4 : 88
Brenfield, near Ardrishaig, Ferguson, Dugald	-	13 : 296
Campbeltown, Macmillan, Daniel	-	14 : 300
do M'Corkindale, D.	-	5 : 169
do M'Taggart, John	-	13 : 331
do Ross, John	-	7 : 297
Dunoon, Macintosh, A.	-	9 : 286
do Maclean, D.	-	9 : 297
do Maclean, H. A.	-	10 : 84
Kintyre, Munro, A.	-	5 : 191
Lochgilphead, Lamont, D.	-	9 : 303
Morven, Macleod, J.	-	15 : 430

Mull, Stewart, C. M.	-	-	6 : 180
Oban, Campbell, John	-	-	6 : 35

AYRSHIRE.

Alton, Campbell, T.	-	-	1 : 25
Ardrossan, Clark, H.	-	-	6 : 354
do Sherer, C. J.	-	-	8 : 38
Ayr, Andrew, J.	-	-	4 : 290
do Crawford, A.	-	-	5 : 97
do Gardiner, J.	-	-	4 : 40
do Maclagan, D.	-	-	3 : 173
do Paterson, J. C.	-	-	12 : 246
do Smith, E.	-	-	3 : 98
do Strang, James	-	-	7 : 358
do Barr, Campbell R.	-	-	15 : 410
Catrine, Crawford, J. K.	-	-	7 : 292
do Crawford, J. P.	-	-	1 : 372
do Crawford, Mungo	-	-	7 : 292
do Goldie, A.	-	-	11 : 356
do Nimmo, Hamilton	-	-	8 : 245
Colmonnell, M'Clure, J.	-	-	12 : 146
Colyton, Mackinlay, W. A. B.	-	-	12 : 336
Cummock, Wilson, H. C.	-	-	1 : 70
Dalmellington, Hetrick, R.	-	-	4 : 368
Dalry, Wilson, A.	-	-	7 : 182
Dundonald, Macphail, M.	-	-	7 : 86
Dunlop, Brown, J. D.	-	-	3 : 55
Galston, Green, J. W.	-	-	15 : 345
do Macintosh, J.	-	-	11 : 363
do Stewart, A.	-	-	10 : 120
Girvan, Glass, A.	-	-	6 : 338
do Lawson, R.	-	-	9 : 218
Hillhouse, near Troon, Dykes, Thomas	-	-	5 : 70
Irvine, Ballantyne, James	-	-	5 : 382
do Dickie, J.	-	-	14 : 234
do Gemmell, R.	-	-	2 : 57
do Kelly, J.	-	-	15 : 334
do Wilson, W. B. R.	-	-	15 : 360
Kilbirnie, Campbell, J.	-	-	6 : 200
do Orr, John	-	-	8 : 327
Kilmarnock, Boyd G.	-	-	12 : 131
do Buchan, A. W.	-	-	6 : 280
do Cuthbertson, D.	-	-	1 : 267
do Dickie, M.	-	-	4 : 306
do Dunlop, T	-	-	4 : 220

Kilmarnock, Gordon, J. W.	15 : 329
do Lindsay, David	8 : 334
do M'Kay, A.	2 : 375
do M'Kenzie, Hugh	8 : 176
do Ramsay, J.	3 : 270
do Roxburgh, W.	9 : 394
Kilmaurs, (Larch Bank), Lamberton, W.	10 : 375
Kirkmichael, Roger, J.	3 : 52
Loudoun, Lawrie, G. J.	10 : 358
Mauchline, Todd, A. B.	1 : 130
Maybole, Taylor, John	15 : 420
Monkton, M'Bride, A. C.	5 : 181
Muirkirk, Howat, J.	15 : 292
do M'Murdo, George	5 : 220
Newmilns, Brown, H.	3 : 183
do M'Pherson, J.	11 : 104
do Wood, R.	1 : 381
Ochiltree, Andrew, J.	4 : 296
do Mearns, P.	14 : 79
Prestwick, Fisher R.	6 : 324
Saltcoats, Levens, J. T.	7 : 123
do M'Fee, R. C.	13 : 310
do Smith, W. B.	11 : 92
Skerrington, Campbell, M. M.	12 : 176
Sorn, Aitken, W.	2 : 161
do Clark, G.	11 : 145
do Wright, John	3 : 121
Stevenston, Watson, A.	13 : 366
Stewarton, Kerr, H.	15 : 418
Rosemount, near Troon, Gibbie G.	15 : 386
Whiteletts, Neil, G.	11 : 192
BANFFSHIRE.
Aberchirder, Bremner, D.	11 : 203
do Stables, G.	14 : 370
Aberlour, Stewart, Wm.	12 : 89
Banff, Shepherd, James,	13 : 57
Fordyce, Anderson, T.	14 : 160
Forglen, Harrison, J.	7 : 195
Gamrie, Hardie, J.	15 : 351
do (Bands of Montbletton), Cruickshank, W.	2 : 192
Keith, Garden, W.	2 : 24
do Knight, W.	1 : 193
do Macpherson, C.	3 : 33
Loch Park, Grant L.	12 : 196

Portsoy, Philip, W. M.	-	-	8 : 212
do Watson, A. J.	-	-	15 : 126
Rathven, Donaldson, W.	-	-	1 : 343

BERWICKSHIRE.

do Inglis, M.	-	-	10 : 54
Ayton, Tough, Margaret	-	-	5 : 286
do Tough, Mary Ann	-	-	5 : 286
do Mennon, R.	-	-	3 : 130
Berwick-on-Tweed, Whitelaw, J. M.	-	-	2 : 226
Channelkirk, Dodds, Jeannie	-	-	13 : 53
Chirnside, (Easter Harelaw), Chisholm, W.	-	-	2 : 62
Coldstream, Steel, A.	-	-	3 : 76
Duns, Calder, R. M.	-	-	12 : 42
do Millar, T.	-	-	5 : 146
do Pringle, Robert	-	-	12 : 81
Earlstoun, Mitchell, A.	-	-	2 : 37
Earlston, Forsyth, William	-	-	13 : 205
Garwald, Cowan, T.	-	-	4 : 326
Gavinston, Sutherland, W.	-	-	12 : 166
Greenlaw, Knox, T.	-	-	9 : 107
do M'Crakett, P.	-	-	2 : 341
Horndean, Paulin, G.	-	-	3 : 360
Longformacus, Brach, J. W.	-	-	12 : 169
do Wanless, A.	-	-	5 : 51
North Berwick, Mackenzie, G. B.	-	-	12 : 359

BUTE.

Rothsay, Thomson, Hugh	-	-	8 : 205
do Walker, J.	-	-	10 : 102

CAITHNESS-SHIRE.

Castleton, Melville, W. B.	-	-	10 : 366
Clyth, Williamson, D.	-	-	15 : 53
Thurso, Macdonald, D.	-	-	13 : 356
Wick, Waters, D.	-	-	2 : 253

CLACKMANANSHIRE.

Alloa, Carmichael, D.	-	-	9 : 88
do Westwood, James	-	-	8 : 258
Clackmanan, Burns, William	-	-	8 : 340
do Red Row, Barnard, F.	-	-	10 : 290
Collyland, Snaddon, Alex.	-	-	8 : 115
Dollar, Christie, J.	-	-	6 : 260
do Taylor, D.	-	-	15 : 397

Tillicoultry, Miller, F.	-	-	2 : 265
Tullibody, Beveridge, James	-	-	8 : 230

DUMBARTONSHIRE.

Alexandria, Brown, J.	-	-	2 : 131
Bonhill, Smith, Walter	-	-	13 : 267
Cumbernauld, Ferguson, N.	-	-	12 : 355
Dumbarton, Cameron, W. C.	-	-	3 : 274
do Campbell, A.	-	-	14 : 66
Kirkintilloch, Freeland, William	-	-	5 : 18
do Milne, R. C.	-	-	15 : 78
do Moffat, James	-	-	13 : 336
Luss, M'Nicoll, Duncan	-	-	3 : 279
Milton, Thorpe, T.	-	-	4 : 22
Renton, M'Lachlan, W. A.	-	-	13 : 401
do M'Lean, A.	-	-	6 : 135
Roseneath, Thomson, D.	-	-	2 : 112

DUMFRIES-SHIRE.

Sanders, R.	-	-	4 : 382
Annan, Johnston J.	-	-	13 : 128
do Steel, A.	-	-	12 : 150
do Thom, R. W.	-	-	1 : 221
Annandale, Gardiner, A. W.	-	-	9 : 255
Applegarth, Gardiner, W.	-	-	9 : 248
Canonbie, Donaldson, J.	-	-	3 : 379
Dumfries, Armstrong, A. J.	-	-	5 : 253
do Kerr, J.	-	-	10 : 331
do Rae, D.	-	-	11 : 399
Durrisdeer, Bennoch, F.	-	-	6 : 382
Ecclefechan, Carlyle, T.	-	-	3 : 425
do Jardine, J.	-	-	2 : 239
do Milligan, James	-	-	8 : 138
Eskdalemuir, Murray, Thomas	-	-	8 : 268
Johnstone, Johnstone, J.	-	-	2 : 174
do Stewart, J.	-	-	6 : 252
Kirkcounel, Anderson, A.	-	-	1 : 157
do Laing, W.	-	-	3 : 85
Kirtlebridge, Byers, T.	-	-	4 : 286
Langholm, M'Vittie, James	-	-	11 : 345
Little Kirkland, Hyslop, J.	-	-	4 : 281
Lockerbie, Murchie, M. J.	-	-	9 : 265
Sanquhar, Hyslop, J.	-	-	7 : 74
do Johnston, John	-	-	8 : 321
do Stoddart, J. H.	-	-	2 : 300

Thornhill, Davidson, E.	-	-	4 : 93
Torthorwald, Paton, J.	-	-	2 : 309
Wanlockhead, Reid R.	-	-	1 : 318

ELGIN OR MORAY.

Edinkillie, M'Queen, James	-	-	13 : 45
Elgin, Cock, J.	-	-	2 : 181
do Cooper, James	-	-	15 : 381
do Hay, W.	-	-	15 : 129
Forres, Laing, A.	-	-	6 : 147
Roths, Thomson, J.	-	-	3 : 381

FIFESHIRE.

Clephane, Elizabeth C.	-	-	5 : 225
Walker, W.	-	-	3 : 102
Abdie, Bethune, J.	-	-	1 : 94
Auchtertool, Brown, A.	-	-	1 : 151
Balgonie, Stuart, I.	-	-	9 : 315
Burntisland, Wilson, William	-	-	8 : 69
Ceres, Adamson, A.	-	-	14 : 84
do Anderson, R. S. G.	-	-	11 : 197
do Bell, T.	-	-	2 : 55
do Latto, W. D.	-	-	3 : 37
do Lister, D.	-	-	14 : 70
do Webster, G.	-	-	9 : 368
Clunie, Blair, W.	-	-	9 : 135
Cluny, Blair, J. L.	-	-	13 : 380
do Blair, T.	-	-	13 : 377
Cupar, Adamson, R. M.	-	-	15 : 373
do Bayne, W.	-	-	14 : 133
do Bremner, J. F.	-	-	6 : 170
do Bruce, D.	-	-	6 : 274
do Dawson, C.	-	-	15 : 46
do Kinlay, J.	-	-	14 : 226
do Thomson, W. L.	-	-	6 : 322
do Wood, J. W.	-	-	3 : 342
Dunfermline, Adamson, R.	-	-	1 : 226
do Allison, E.	-	-	7 : 145
do Beveridge, M. K.	-	-	12 : 258
do Coutts, David K.	-	-	7 : 173
do Houston, J.	-	-	4 : 32
do Millar, Thomas	-	-	11 : 318
do Paton, J. Noel	-	-	2 : 296
do Robertson, A. S.	-	-	15 : 145
do Stewart, A.	-	-	6 : 333

Dunfermline, Turner, George	-	-	5 : 261
do (Linckilns), Johnstone, T. B.	-	-	8 : 147
do (Torryburn), Bell, Margaret T.	-	-	7 : 300
Dunino, near St Andrews, Rogers, C.	-	-	3 : 369
Dysart, Jeffryes, A. E. W.	-	-	14 : 219
Falkland, Gulland, C.	-	-	6 : 244
do Mackarsie, W.	-	-	14 : 253
Goukha', Miller, John	-	-	11 : 332
Inverkeithing, Hutcheson, D.	-	-	3 : 23
Kennoway, Browne, J.	-	-	13 : 179
do Thomson, W.	-	-	1 : 321
Kingsbarns, Latto, T. C.	-	-	5 : 331
Kingskettle, Durie, James	-	-	8 : 158
Kirkcaldy, Dewar, Arch.	-	-	13 : 343
do Dewar, J.	-	-	13 : 345
do Hugh, Alex.	-	-	13 : 232
do Hutchison, J.	-	-	13 : 183
do Sinclair, Walter	-	-	7 : 306
do (Abbotshall), Dewar, H. A.	-	-	10 : 67
do (Dothan), Young, D.	-	-	15 : 282
Lalathan, Burgess, A.	-	-	1 : 271
Lathones, Macrae, D.	-	-	2 : 188
Leslie, Wallace, A.	-	-	2 : 101
Leven, Findlay, J. P.	-	-	12 : 49
do Smith, D. C.	-	-	5 : 308
Limekilns, Gifford, W.	-	-	13 : 350
Newburgh, Anderson, John	-	-	7 : 329
Pitcairley, Bain, J. F.	-	-	13 : 317
Pittenweem, Horsburgh, A.	-	-	11 : 247
do Robertson, Mrs Logie	-	-	3 : 348
Scoonie, Arnot, D.	-	-	8 : 317
St Andrews, Alexander, P. P.	-	-	10 : 232
do Loudon, D.	-	-	9 : 399
do Bruce, G.	-	-	1 : 217
St Monans, Lawson, Jessie K.	-	-	13 : 239
Walkertown, Marshall, A.	-	-	15 : 288

FORFARSHIRE.

Kennedy, Jas.	-	-	6 : 214
Airlie, Logan, J. C.	-	-	15 : 170
Arbroath, Airth, J.	-	-	6 : 60
do Angus, W.	-	-	15 : 122
do Beattie, D. A.	-	-	12 : 397
do Carnegie, D.	-	-	1 : 189
do Cooper, G.	-	-	6 : 72

Arbroath, Durie, W. S.	-	-	5 : 271
do Greig J.	-	-	9 : 59
do Reid, A.	-	-	9 : 151
do Scott, Andrew	-	-	5 : 134
do Simpson, A. N.	-	-	11 : 307
do Sturoc, W. C.	-	-	4 : 335
do Taylor, A. B.	-	-	4 : 311
do Watson, T.	-	-	2 : 220
do (St Vigeans), Smith, J.	-	-	12 : 365
Brechin, Graham, A. S.	-	-	9 : 149
do Kirkland, D.	-	-	15 : 190
do Laing, A.	-	-	2 : 273
do Sievwright, C.	-	-	1 : 88
do Sievwright, W.	-	-	1 : 187
do Spence, P.	-	-	13 : 136
do Stewart, Thomas	-	-	8 : 188
do Thomson, Alex. E.	-	-	7 : 353
do Weir, A.	-	-	11 : 417
do (Little Haughmuir), Milne, W.	-	-	15 : 277
do (Little Keithock), Cowie, W.	-	-	7 : 69
do (Piperton), Bean, M.	-	-	15 : 309
Broughty-Ferry, Matthews, A. T.	-	-	13 : 270
Carmyllie, Hume, John	-	-	13 : 151
do Young, D.	-	-	1 : 99
Carnoustie, Archer, W.	-	-	4 : 105
do Balfour, C.	-	-	3 : 406
do (Panmure), Balfour, W. L.	-	-	2 : 167
Cupar-Angus, Burrelton, Craig, J.	-	-	2 : 121
Dun, Japp, A. H.	-	-	2 : 106
Dundee, Adam J.	-	-	3 : 219
do Allan, W.	-	-	1 : 281
do Barnet, J.	-	-	2 : 288
do Begg, P.	-	-	4 : 209
do Blyth, D.	-	-	1 : 344
do Bridie, J.	-	-	15 : 338
do Buchanan, D.	-	-	6 : 328
do Buist, R. C.	-	-	12 : 344
do Cairns, A.	-	-	6 : 96
do Davidson, M. T. M.	-	-	15 : 422
do Doig, Alex.	-	-	13 : 261
do Geddes, J. Y.	-	-	1 : 244
do Gow, James	-	-	8 : 273
do Hillocks, J. I.	-	-	1 : 275
do Kyd, J.	-	-	11 : 119
do Laing, A. S.	-	-	12 : 59

Dundee, Leighton, R.	-	-	1 : 300
do Leighton, W.	-	-	1 : 294
do Livingstone, P.	-	-	1 : 229
do Mackie, D. B.	-	-	7 : 192
do Maclaren, D.	-	-	1 : 314
do Maxwell, A.	-	-	10 : 402
do Maxwell, Charles C.	-	-	7 : 276
do Maxwell, George	-	-	8 : 399
do M'Donald, Joseph	-	-	5 : 257
do M'Dougall, W.	-	-	4 : 17
do Millar, C.	-	-	15 : 400
do Mills, J. S.	-	-	1 : 316
do Mitchelson, A.	-	-	1 : 322
do Owler, D.	-	-	15 : 356
do Parker, B.	-	-	10 : 47
do Phin, W. H.	-	-	5 : 298
do Rankin, A.	-	-	3 : 254
do Robertson, I.	-	-	11 : 168
do Robertson, K.	-	-	9 : 345
do Robertson, W.	-	-	7 : 57
do Scrymgeour, Norval	-	-	13 : 113
do Stanley, M.	-	-	3 : 326
do Tasker, D.	-	-	2 : 280
do Taylor, D.	-	-	1 : 26
do Taylor, M.	-	-	6 : 101
do Thoms, P. H.	-	-	7 : 264
do Thomson, James	-	-	1 : 389
do Urquhart, J.	-	-	6 : 140
do Watson, G.	-	-	14 : 36
do White, W. D.,	-	-	13 : 339
do Whitelaw, J.	-	-	11 : 256
do Whytock, G.	-	-	1 : 28
do Willock, A. D	-	-	9 : 404
do Wynd, J.	-	-	1 : 381
do Young, Thomas	-	-	7 : 363
do (Bullionfield), Smith, D. M.	-	-	2 : 211
do (Camperdown), Todd, Maggie	-	-	13 : 155
Dunnichen, Ormond, T.	-	-	2 : 354
Edzell, Inglis, James	-	-	13 : 391
do Mitchell, W.	-	-	14 : 42
Fearn, Watson, J.	-	-	1 : 42
Forfar, Farquhar, G. T. S.	-	-	13 : 404
do Farquhar, J. T. F.	-	-	14 : 76
do Kinnear, G. H.	-	-	9 : 85
do Leask, John	-	-	14 : 125

Forfar, Lowson, A.	-	-	14 : 100
do Massie, J. C.	-	-	9 : 55
do Ross, J.	-	-	2 : 352
do Sim, A.	-	-	1 : 230
do Smith, James	-	-	1 : 191
do (Lunanhead), Smart, W. M.	-	-	11 : 210
do (Westfield), Donald, G. W.	-	-	1 : 21
Friockheim, Boyle, J. T.	-	-	14 : 166
Glamis, Guthrie, J. C.	-	-	1 : 214
Hillside of Montrose, M'Intosh, D.	-	-	2 : 329
Kirriemuir, Lindsay, W.	-	-	1 : 328
do Smith, R. H. W.	-	-	5 : 105
Letham, Dorward, A. K.	-	-	13 : 347
do Gray, J. Y.	-	-	10 : 257
Lethnot, Murray, W.	-	-	12 : 56
Liff, Birrell, W. D.	-	-	14 : 178
Montrose, Burns, David.	-	-	7 : 365
do Duncan, Peter	-	-	3 : 167
do Lee, J.	-	-	3 : 59
do Nichol, J.	-	-	2 : 245
do Reid, G.	-	-	15 : 37
do Smart, A.	-	-	11 : 72
do Stott, M.	-	-	10 : 167
do Watt, J. E.	-	-	1 : 73
Newbigging, Eckford, J. C.	-	-	14 : 259
Newtyle, Duncan, J. F.	-	-	3 : 49
Panbride Parish, Soutar, A. M.	-	-	1 : 101
Ruthven, Pyott, William	-	-	8 : 409
Stracathro, Keith, D.	-	-	4 : 192
Tannadice, Duthie, J. A.	-	-	1 : 307
do Heberton, E.	-	-	7 : 53
Tarfside, Stewart, W.	-	-	10 : 139
Vayne, (Fearn), Campbell, E.	-	-	1 : 137

HADDINGTONSHIRE.

Abbey Mill, Lumsden, James	-	-	11 : 339
Aberlady, Reid, J. P.	-	-	6 : 241
Gifford, Donaldson, A.	-	-	6 : 374
Haddington, Jerdan, S. S.	-	-	2 : 17
Tranent, M'Neill, P.	-	-	5 : 292
Whitekirk, Hogg, W. T. M.	-	-	10 : 255

INVERNESS-SHIRE.

Cameron, C. J.	-	-	12 : 256
Badenoch, Macpherson, C.	-	-	12 : 295

Badenoch, Alvie, Macpherson, D.	-	10 : 26
Benbecula, Stewart, A.	-	5 : 78
Campbelltown, Macleod, N.	-	1 : 391
Fort Augustus, Macgregor, D.	-	11 : 83
Fort William, Mackillar, M.	-	2 : 196
Granton, Baildon, H. B.	-	4 : 146
do M'Intosh, John	-	5 : 204
Hedgefield, Mackay, M.	-	12 : 406
Inverness, Biggs, J. A.	-	8 : 109
do Fraser, T. M.	-	12 : 250
do Mackenzie, George	-	14 : 331
Lochend, Menteith, Mrs G. S.	-	8 : 264
Skye, Macleod, Neil	-	6 : 233
do Nicolson, A.	-	3 : 417
do (Colbost), M'Leod, E.	-	15 : 133
do (Knock), Macpherson, Alex.	-	8 : 251
do (Skeabost), Macpherson, M.	-	15 : 42

KINCARDINESHIRE.

Brown, J. P.	-	9 : 79
Arbuthnott, Menzies, G.	-	11 : 48
Banchory-Ternan, Grant, J.	-	10 : 345
do Ogg, J.	-	1 : 360
Durris, Calder, R. H.	-	5 : 173
do Gordon, F. H.	-	3 : 365
Fettercairn, Duthie, M.	-	8 : 201
Fordoun, Hutcheon, R.	-	3 : 223
Glenbervie, Duthie, George	-	7 : 345
Laurencekirk, Colburn, George	-	5 : 64
do Cowper, W.	-	1 : 185
do Hampton, D. M.	-	8 : 359
do Macdonald, James	-	7 : 356
Stonehaven, Duthie, R.	-	14 : 230
do Longnair, J.	-	2 : 39
Strachan, Mitchell, D. G.	-	11 : 27
Upper Banchory, Chapman, J.	-	2 : 318
do Grant, D.	-	9 : 169

KINROSS-SHIRE.

Milnathort, Guthrie, J.	-	2 : 92
do Robertson, J. L.	-	3 : 352
do Yule, J. T.	-	3 : 225
Scotlandwells, Heggie, John	-	7 : 318

KIRKCUDBRIGHTSHIRE.

Auchencairn, Robertson, L.	-	-	4 : 49
do Trotter, J.	-	-	11 : 186
Barnwalls, Campbell, James	-	-	7 : 260
Borgue, Mactaggart, John	-	-	11 : 322
do M'Cutcheon, J.	-	-	15 : 33
Burnfoot, M'Culloch, J. S.	-	-	7 : 212
Castle-Douglas, Harper, M. M.	-	-	14 : 202
Crossmichael, Wilson, Samuel	-	-	13 : 66
Dalbeattie, Sproat, G.	-	-	5 : 356
do Trotter, R. de B.	-	-	11 : 177
Dalry, Carter, James G.	-	-	13 : 38
Gatehouse-of-Fleet, Faed, R. A. Thomas	-	-	12 : 351
Glencree, Moffat, J. C.	-	-	7 : 189
Maxwelltown, M'Dowall, W.	-	-	3 : 256
New Galloway, Kidd, J. G.	-	-	7 : 336
do Trotter, R.	-	-	11 : 172
do (Balmaclellan), Murray, G.	-	-	4 : 164
Urr, M'Kimm, James	-	-	5 : 348
do Scott, J. K.	-	-	4 : 44

LANARKSHIRE.

Abbingdon, Macfarlane, J.	-	-	1 : 34
Airdrie, Craig, J.	-	-	4 : 38
do Kelly, J.	-	-	1 : 172
do Tennant, R.	-	-	1 : 168
do Wright, J.	-	-	4 : 274
Avondale, Brown, J.	-	-	5 : 230
Bailleston, Stewart, C.	-	-	11 : 287
Bellshill, Thomson, H. A.	-	-	15 : 152
Biggar, Henderson, Wm.	-	-	7 : 278
do Whyte, W.	-	-	9 : 310
Busby, M'Ewan, T.	-	-	12 : 326
Cambuslang, Robertson, A.	-	-	2 : 155
Cambusnethan, Hogg, W.	-	-	6 : 370
do Kelly, James	-	-	1 : 204
do (Crindledyke), Ballantyne, J.	-	-	11 : 113
Carlisle, Crawford, J.	-	-	10 : 150
do Kelly, J.	-	-	10 : 88
do Lang, A. M.	-	-	4 : 61
Carmichael, Cranston, J.	-	-	3 : 299
Carnwath, Russel, D.	-	-	12 : 126
Carstairs, Allan, D.	-	-	6 : 166
do Macnamara, Sylvester	-	-	14 : 309
Coatbridge, Bayne, H. P.	-	-	14 : 156

Coatbridge, Crombie, J. B.	-	-	11 : 368
Dalserf, Arnold, G. S.	-	-	14 : 336
Douglas, Jacque, G.	-	-	3 : 198
East Kilbride, Watt, A.	-	-	3 : 136
Falla, Chapman, T.	-	-	4 : 69
Glasgow, Agnew, Nellie J.	-	-	13 : 103
do Aird, M. P.	-	-	3 : 90
do Aitchison, J.	-	-	15 : 23
do Aitken, William	-	-	13 : 59
do Allison, James	-	-	3 : 373
do Bain, Robert	-	-	13 : 234
do Barrie, P.	-	-	9 : 185
do Bell, J. M.	-	-	1 : 350
do Bird, R.	-	-	10 : 180
do Black, W.	-	-	10 : 18
do Black, W.	-	-	12 : 102
do Blackie, J. S.	-	-	1 : 377
do Bogue, J.	-	-	15 : 20
do Bogue, Joanna	-	-	5 : 341
do Bowie, R. S.	-	-	6 : 222
do Bradley, W. J.	-	-	8 : 63
do Brown, John	-	-	14 : 294
do Brownlie, J.	-	-	15 : 271
do Buchanan, Marion	-	-	5 : 345
do Buchanan, Walter	-	-	13 : 83
do Burden, E. R.	-	-	14 : 170
do Canning, Dan	-	-	3 : 363
do Christie, T. B. H.	-	-	12 : 280
do Clever, M. M.	-	-	12 : 173
do Copeland, J.	-	-	12 : 122
do Corbett, Hamilton	-	-	8 : 302
do Crawford, W.	-	-	2 : 328
do Dougall, J.	-	-	13 : 210
do Duncan, J. A.	-	-	15 : 70
do Falconer, Alex.	-	-	13 : 303
do Fergus, J. W.	-	-	9 : 292
do Ferguson, Fergus	-	-	5 : 93
do Ferguson, F.	-	-	2 : 249
do Fisher, A.	-	-	13 : 247
do Fulton, W.	-	-	12 : 378
do Galbraith, J.	-	-	2 : 147
do Gilkison, J.	-	-	13 : 165
do Groves, L.	-	-	14 : 137
do Hamilton, A.	-	-	7 : 241
do Hedderwick, J.	-	-	3 : 410

Glasgow,	Henderson, D. M.	-	-	6 : 115
do	Henderson, D. M.	-	-	12 : 140
do	Henderson, J. C.	-	-	5 : 139
do	Henrietta, F.	-	-	5 : 165
do	Hogg, R.	-	-	7 : 236
do	Imrie, J.	-	-	11 : 412
do	Jackson, W. V.	-	-	7 : 185
do	Jamieson, Robert Dickson	-	-	13 : 28
do	King, D.	-	-	9 : 244
do	Kelly, J.	-	-	3 : 416
do	Kerr, Alex. M.	-	-	5 : 216
do	Lawson, J.	-	-	11 : 67
do	Lennon, F.	-	-	8 : 51
do	Levack, G. W.	-	-	6 : 53
do	Locke, F.	-	-	9 : 289
do	Luby, J.	-	-	12 : 368
do	Macdonald, H.	-	-	7 : 43
do	Macdonald, J.	-	-	1 : 98
do	Matheson, G.	-	-	9 : 143
do	M'Auslane, D. M.	-	-	5 : 200
do	M'Donald, A.	-	-	15 : 155
do	M'Lauchlan, T.	-	-	1 : 156
do	M'Lean, A. T.	-	-	4 : 72
do	Millar, W. J.	-	-	7 : 256
do	Muir, J. K.	-	-	2 : 381
do	Murdoch, A. G.	-	-	1 : 177
do	Newbigging, T.	-	-	3 : 402
do	Norval, J.	-	-	6 : 193
do	Outram, G.	-	-	2 : 214
do	Paterson, J.	-	-	9 : 226
do	Penman, W.	-	-	1 : 39
do	Pettigrew, J.	-	-	5 : 35
do	Rae-Brown, Elise	-	-	13 : 321
do	Ramsay, D.	-	-	15 : 234
do	Reid, J. D.	-	-	10 : 73
do	Reston, A.	-	-	5 : 63
do	Russell, J.	-	-	1 : 12
do	Salmon, J.	-	-	2 : 206
do	Scott, Agnes G.	-	-	7 : 238
do	Simpson, Mrs J. C.	-	-	8 : 369
do	Smith, Mary W.	-	-	9 : 261
do	Spens, W. C.	-	-	2 : 124
do	Stark, W.	-	-	9 : 232
do	Stewart, A.	-	-	15 : 97
do	Stewart, Charles	-	-	8 : 305

Glasgow, Stirling, J. H.	-	-	7 : 314
do Thomson, John E. H.	-	-	4 : 109
do Thomson, N.	-	-	9 : 388
do Thomson, W.	-	-	5 : 242
do Thomson, W.	-	-	2 : 156
do Walker, R.	-	-	12 : 320
do Wallace, G.	-	-	14 : 354
do (Auchenairn) Bell, J.	-	-	10 : 339
do (Maryhill) Hart, A. M.	-	-	1 : 231
do do Macfadyen, D.	-	-	1 : 246
do (Parkhead) Hargrave, H. D.	-	-	2 : 139
do (Parkside) Russell, T.	-	-	1 : 309
do (Springburn) Paterson, J. G.	-	-	15 : 284
do (Tradeston) M'Auslane, W. T.	-	-	2 : 135
Hamilton, Mackenzie, H. B.	-	-	9 : 269
Kirkfieldbank, Carmichael, P.	-	-	4 : 231
do Ramsay T.	-	-	7 : 227
Lanark, Dobie, G.	-	-	5 : 128
do Ramsay, G.	-	-	7 : 227
Lesmahagow, Hogg, J.	-	-	9 : 163
Monkland (Calder), Kelly, John	-	-	1 : 208
Motherwell, Hamilton, A.	-	-	7 : 118
New Lanark, Sinclair, E. M.	-	-	4 : 85
Old Monkland, Murie, G.	-	-	5 : 265
Rutherglen. Renton, J.	-	-	7 : 49
Shotts, Darling, I. F.	-	-	9 : 274
do (Carrshill), Hamilton, J.	-	-	1 : 248
Stonehouse, Dalglish, A.	-	-	1 : 351
Tarbrax, Howatson, B.	-	-	11 : 262
Thornliebank. Miller, Charles	-	-	4 : 113
Tweedsmuir, Inglis, John	-	-	5 : 161

LINLITHGOWSHIRE.

Abercorn (Philipston) Campbell, S. S.	-	-	15 : 266
Bathgate, Allan, J.	-	-	4 : 136
do Fleming, R.	-	-	4 : 199
do Simpson, J. Y.	-	-	13 : 193
do (Meadowhead) Shanks, H.	-	-	11 : 372
Blackburn, Legatt, J.	-	-	4 : 185
Bo ness, Figg, J. C.	-	-	4 : 59
do Stephens, J. B.	-	-	12 : 303
Dalmeny, Duncan, A.	-	-	6 : 188
Linlithgow, Bennet, R.	-	-	12 : 27
Uphall, Shairp, J. C.	-	-	9 : 188
Whitburn, Johnston, J.	-	-	3 : 335

Whitburn, Wardrop, A.	-	-	4 : 81
-----------------------	---	---	--------

MIDLOTHIAN.

Fraser, J. C. D.	-	-	12 : 161
Bonnyrigg, Hamilton, William	-	-	8 : 291
Carlops, Farquharson, A.	-	-	13 : 278
Dalkeith, Miller, W.	-	-	3 : 142
do Morton, J.	-	-	1 : 353
do Procter, A.	-	-	3 : 367
do Procter, J.	-	-	2 : 79
do Scott, D.	-	-	4 : 57
East Handaxwood, Black, J.	-	-	2 : 179
Edinburgh, Acquiroff, H.	-	-	11 : 275
do Alexander, J.	-	-	7 : 224
do Barbour, R. W.	-	-	14 : 97
do Barr, M.	-	-	2 : 200
do Blackburn, C. F. O.	-	-	13 : 386
do Bonar, H.	-	-	1 : 359
do Bower, J.	-	-	4 : 360
do Braidwood, D. G.	-	-	7 : 284
do Burns, J. D.	-	-	4 : 233
do Burton, Ella, -	-	-	8 : 169
do Caddell, M.	-	-	10 : 216
do Cameron, A.	-	-	15 : 239
do Chalmers, Grace P.	-	-	5 : 213
do Coghill, J.	-	-	14 : 173
do Colquhoun, Sir J.	-	-	14 : 283
do Craig-Knox, I.	-	-	2 : 292
do Deas, E. A.	-	-	8 : 195
do Denham, J.	-	-	6 : 57
do Deveneau, M. H.	-	-	12 : 341
do Dickson, Wm.	-	-	7 : 350
do Douglas, G. A. H.	-	-	9 : 116
do Dow, M. R.	-	-	8 : 45
do Doyle, A. C.	-	-	15 : 257
do Drake, John	-	-	13 : 109
do Dryerre, H.	-	-	5 : 274
do Dunlop, Alison Hay	-	-	13 : 72
do Fairbairn, A.	-	-	4 : 316
do Fairbairn, J. C.	-	-	7 : 217
do Tyrie, T. C.	-	-	8 : 353
do Gardiner, P.	-	-	10 : 316
do Gillespie, J. D.	-	-	15 : 213
do Greig, D. L.	-	-	12 : 110
do Hardy, Robina F.	-	-	6 : 310

Edinburgh,	Hastings, Lady F.	-	3 : 230
do	Hunter, C. F.	-	9 : 30
do	Inglis, R. S.	-	10 : 297
do	Irving, A. S.	-	15 : 226
do	Johnston, T. P.	-	5 : 372
do	Knox, Anna	-	14 : 361
do	Lawbach, C. H.	-	10 : 170
do	Logan, A.	-	1 : 196
do	Logan, T.	-	2 : 30
do	Lylè, W.	-	6 : 29
do	Mackay, F. A.	-	10 : 379
do	Mackie, K. F.	-	10 : 212
do	Macphail, Myles	-	6 : 298
do	Macphail, Myles	-	13 : 49
do	Marshall A.	-	15 : 199
do	Mason, J. W.	-	7 : 95
do	Mauchline, James,	-	14 : 318
do	Mauchline, R.	-	10 : 129
do	Maxwell, J. C.	-	8 : 120
do	M'Cheyne, R. M.	-	15 : 83
do	M'Diarmid, J.	-	7 : 106
do	M'Grigor, W. T.	-	15 : 136
do	M'Intosh, W. S.	-	9 : 69
do	M'Laren, J. W.	-	2 : 346
do	Melville, A. P.	-	12 : 75
do	Middleton, A. G.	-	12 : 271
do	Mill, J. F.	-	3 : 17
do	Millar, A. C.	-	15 : 298
do	Morton, T.	-	12 : 105
do	Muir, H.	-	10 : 174
do	Neaves, Lord	-	3 : 107
do	Neill, C.	-	4 : 202
do	Nicolson, J.	-	1 : 233
do	Nicolson, J. R.	-	7 : 338
do	Pitcairn, J. W.	-	9 : 181
do	Rankine, W. J. M.	-	5 : 28
do	Reid, J.	-	4 : 206
do	Reid, W.	-	1 : 199
do	Ridpath, W. S.	-	2 : 242
do	Sanderson, W.	-	15 : 300
do	Scott, R. P.	-	9 : 40
do	Shearer-Aitken, W.	-	1 : 269
do	Sidey, J. A.	-	3 : 393
do	Simpson, G. M.	-	8 : 329
do	Sinclair, P. F.	-	13 : 383

Edinburgh, Sinclair, W.	-	-	15 : 406
do Skelton, J.	-	-	11 : 281
do Skirving, Peter	-	-	12 : 276
do Small, J. G.	-	-	4 : 256
do Smith, James	-	-	1 : 260
do Smith, John	-	-	15 : 205
do Somerville, G. W.	-	-	4 : 170
do Southesk, Earl of	-	-	1 : 105
do Stevenson, R. L.	-	-	10 : 323
do Stoddart, T. T.	-	-	6 : 349
do Stronach, G.	-	-	5 : 391
do Swan, M.	-	-	10 : 42
do Teenan, J.	-	-	2 : 229
do Thomson, A.	-	-	15 : 187
do Thomson, James	-	-	15 : 315
do Thomson, T.	-	-	6 : 78
do Tod, J.	-	-	9 : 129
do Waddie, C.	-	-	10 : 283
do Wallace, Wm.	-	-	7 : 202
do Watt, Walter	-	-	8 : 225
do White, M. Buchanan	-	-	14 : 312
do Wilson, D.	-	-	8 : 33
do Wilson, G.	-	-	15 : 5
do Wood, A.	-	-	11 : 239
do Wood, M. W.	-	-	12 : 206
do Wood, W. M.	-	-	6 : 111
do Young, A.	-	-	1 : 331
do (Millerhill) Paxton, J. W.	-	-	6 : 173
Granton, Watt, J. L. M.	-	-	9 : 122
Leith, Alexander, W. L.	-	-	10 : 222
do Cargill, A.	-	-	4 : 53
do Christie, J.	-	-	5 : 367
do Cousin, A. R.	-	-	5 : 109
do Cundell, H.	-	-	9 : 223
do Ford, J. H. C.	-	-	8 : 131
do Gibson, C. P.	-	-	9 : 238
do Lauder, J.	-	-	6 : 362
do Macfie, R. A.	-	-	8 : 83
do Meek, R.	-	-	6 : 209
do Swan, A. S.	-	-	6 : 397
do Wallace, M.	-	-	1 : 293
do White, Robert	-	-	8 : 22
do (Anchorfield) M'Crae, G. G.	-	-	12 : 220
Loanhead, Thomson, Thomas	-	-	8 : 95
Mavisbank, Mercer, W. T.	-	-	12 : 263

Musselburgh, Anderson, John	-	-	7 : 308
do Sellars, D. R.	-	-	6 : 153
do Wilkie, J.	-	-	6 : 273
Penicuik, Brown, A.	-	-	4 : 177
do Howden, W. C.	-	-	4 : 354
do (Valleyfield) Cowan, A.	-	-	11 : 39
Stow, Howden, R.	-	-	2 : 34

NAIRNSHIRE.

Dam of Dulsie, Macpherson, P.	-	-	14 : 381
-------------------------------	---	---	----------

ORKNEY AND SHETLAND.

Baltasound, Sutherland, A.	-	-	10 : 37
Deerness, Delday, W.	-	-	12 : 39
Eday, Island of, Allan, D. S.	-	-	12 : 65
Kirkwall, Heddle, J. G. M.	-	-	10 : 194
do Hercus, J. L.	-	-	12 : 33
do Macbeath, J. M.	-	-	11 : 215
do Mooney, J.	-	-	10 : 135
Lerwick, Burgess, J. J. H.	-	-	14 : 192
do Nicolson, L. J.	-	-	1 : 335
Shetland, Saxby, J. M. E.	-	-	4 : 118
St Andrews, Smith, Margaret	-	-	13 : 33
Stronsay, Hossack, A. D.	-	-	12 : 182
Unst, Anderson, B. R.	-	-	6 : 402
do Johnston, J. J.	-	-	-5 : 238

PEEBLES-SHIRE.

Watson, J. L.	-	-	4 : 126
Watt, W.	-	-	2 : 51
Halmyre, Somerville, R.	-	-	4 : 163
Langcoat, Murray, J.	-	-	3 : 147
Peebles, Chalmers, R.	-	-	2 : 357
do Smibert, T.	-	-	2 : 379
do Veitch, J.	-	-	3 : 384
do (Kirkburn) Swan, R.	-	-	10 : 62
Stobo, Jeffrey, A.	-	-	9 : 337
Traquair, Eckford, Thomas	-	-	8 : 404
West Linton, Coutts, J. T.	-	-	8 : 349
do Sanderson, R.	-	-	1 : 67

PERTHSHIRE.

Walker, William	-	-	8 : 219
Alyth, Smith, John	-	-	13 : 198
Auchterarder, Pringle, A.	-	-	7 : 232

Auchterarder, Sutherland, E.	-	-	6 : 347
Auchtergaven, King, J. M.	-	-	11 : 270
do M'Farlane, S.	-	-	6 : 394
Balhousie Castle, Whittet, J. P.	-	-	11 : 394
Balquhiddier (Stronvar), Ferguson, R.	-	-	10 : 396
Bonhard, Macduff, J. R.	-	-	10 : 308
Braco, Comrie, P.	-	-	9 : 358
Burrelton, Marshall, J.	-	-	10 : 163
Callander, Macdonald, Christian	-	-	14 : 321
Cargill, Ford, R.	-	-	1 : 125
Carse of Gowrie, Gray, W. H.	-	-	10 : 198
Comrie, Gilfillan, G.	-	-	15 : 110
do Graham, D.	-	-	9 : 103
Crieff, Dakers, R. A.	-	-	14 : 144
do Fraser, J. W.	-	-	12 : 313
do Wilson, W.	-	-	4 : 29
do Wilson, W.	-	-	13 : 223
do (North Bridgend), Kippen, D.	-	-	15 : 139
Dunkeld, Dougall, W.	-	-	11 : 408
do Graham, W.	-	-	3 : 188
Dunning, Nelson, J.	-	-	7 : 82
Errol, Anton, P.	-	-	13 : 118
do Fraser, Peter G.	-	-	13 : 254
do White, John,	-	-	3 : 45
Fortingall, Fergusson, R. M.	-	-	6 : 268
Glenquaich, Crerar, D. M.	-	-	6 : 121
Kilspindie, Robb, John	-	-	6 : 162
Kincardine, Peacock, J. M.	-	-	4 : 212
Kinclaven (Airtally), Menzies, J.	-	-	12 : 371
Loch Earn, Hyslop, S. J.	-	-	4 : 349
Longforgan, Paul, J.	-	-	11 : 387
do. Robertson, W.	-	-	1 : 306
Mains of Nairn, Taylor, J.	-	-	4 : 174
Meikle, Paterson, G.	-	-	4 : 226
Milnab (near Crieff), Edwards, T.]	-	-	9 : 63
Murthly. Young, John B.	-	-	14 : 305
New London (St Martins), Gairns, R.	-	-	9 : 385
Perth, Bisset, A.	-	-	13 : 186
do Buchanan, F.	-	-	11 : 133
do Christie, J.	-	-	15 : 221
do Mackay, Charles	-	-	13 : 17
do M'Gregor, J.	-	-	14 : 149
do M'Gregor, J.	-	-	14 : 152
do Imrie, D.	-	-	2 : 224
do Kennedy, D.	-	-	5 : 44

Perth, Reid, Alex.	-	-	5 : 280
do Stewart, James,	-	-	1 : 211
do Walker J.	-	-	9 : 199
do Whitehead, T.	-	-	11 : 314
do Whittet, R.	-	-	6 : 128
do Wood, J. P.	-	-	15 : 384
do (Dovecotland) Scotland, J. S.	-	-	12 : 411
do (Huntingtower) Taylor, J.	-	-	4 : 181
do do Taylor, John	-	-	5 : 325
Pitlochry, Bain J. L.	-	-	10 : 157
Rattray, Spalding, C.	-	-	12 : 94
Stanley, Ferguson, J.	-	-	1 : 146
do Reid, J. D.	-	-	15 : 166
St Madoes (Pitfour), Young, John	-	-	3 : 160
Tulliepourie, M'Naughton, P.	-	-	4 : 265
Woodside, Paul, J.	-	-	11 : 382

RENFREWSHIRE.

Eyre, George	-	-	8 : 53
Eaglesham, Mather, J.	-	-	15 : 243
Eastwood, Wingate, D.	-	-	2 : 283
Greenock, Crawford, J.	-	-	1 : 324
do Crawford, John	-	-	5 : 101
do Dougall, N.	-	-	14 : 110
do Harper, H. W.	-	-	4 : 249
do Maclachlan, A.	-	-	5 : 40
do Macmoreland, P.	-	-	6 : 87
do M'Lachlane, K.	-	-	1 : 364
do M'Lintock, Agnes C.	-	-	13 : 338
do Neill, W.	-	-	5 : 339
do Park, J.	-	-	9 : 73
do Pyper, Mary	-	-	8 : 284
do Rae-Brown, Colin	-	-	8 : 376
do Watson, J. J. S.	-	-	3 : 262
Houston, M'Neill, K.	-	-	6 : 228
Johnstone, Lamont, A.	-	-	3 : 291
do Livingstone, J.	-	-	14 : 391
do M'Lachlan, A.	-	-	2 : 259
Kilbarchan, Houstoun, W.	-	-	10 : 93
do Shaw, M. A.	-	-	4 : 377
Paisley, Barr, J.	-	-	12 : 284
do Buchanan, W.	-	-	3 : 287
do Christie, J. K.	-	-	1 : 18
do Cook, A.	-	-	12 : 268
do Cross, W.	-	-	6 : 17

Paisley, Gallacher, D. W.	-	-	3 : 43
do Graham, W.	-	-	5 : 396
do Kent, J.	-	-	15 : 63
do Lyall, John W.	-	-	5 : 386
do Marshall, C.	-	-	2 : 28
do M'Arthur, P.	-	-	1 : 329
do Sharp, W.	-	-	10 : 386
do Shaw, J.	-	-	4 : 372
do Symington, A. J.	-	-	5 : 84
do Wallace, A.	-	-	3 : 337
Pollockshaws, M'Queen, W.	-	-	1 : 31
do Nicol C.	-	-	6 : 70
Port-Glasgow, Cleghorn, J.	-	-	6 : 366
do Macdonald, N.	-	-	14 : 268
do Macaulay, J.	-	-	9 : 340
do Thomson, J.	-	-	7 : 162
Renfrew, M'Neil, D. M.	-	-	6 : 318
Thornliebank, Donald, G.	-	-	2 : 72

ROSS AND CROMARTY.

Cromarty, Miller, Hugh	-	-	3 : 313
do Ross, Angus	-	-	1 : 292
Fodderty, Bayne P.	-	-	14 : 116
Kilnuir, Sim, W. A.	-	-	7 : 244
Loch Carron, Mackenzie, V. B.	-	-	12 : 362
Raddery, Taylor, J.	-	-	1 : 77
Tain, Macpherson, H.	-	-	15 : 60

ROXBURGHSHIRE.

Oliver, William	-	-	8 : 98
Ancrum, J. Mahon	-	-	7 : 221
Bowden, Aird, T.	-	-	3 : 206
do Thomson, James	-	-	10 : 266
Denholm, Robson, M. N.	-	-	14 : 31
Eckford, Burns, T.	-	-	11 : 302
do Yair, D. W.	-	-	7 : 247
Ednam West Mains, Lyte, H. F.	-	-	2 : 78
Hawick, Hunter, R.	-	-	3 : 250
do Inglis, J.	-	-	3 : 236
do Jamieson, James	-	-	5 : 187
do Scott, W.	-	-	2 : 67
Jedburgh, Allan, R.	-	-	9 : 361
do Laidlaw, W.	-	-	2 : 331
do Smith, W. W.	-	-	2 : 141
Kelso, Bell, J.	-	-	1 : 352

Kelso, Duncan, M. L.	-	-	11 : 161
do Forsyth, T.	-	-	15 : 378
do Linen, J.	-	-	7 : 138
do Lundie, J. C.	-	-	11 : 154
do Lundie, R. H.	-	-	15 : 416
do Merrylees, R. B.	-	-	5 : 115
do Thomson, J.	-	-	6 : 306
Lilliesleaf, Knox, W.	-	-	15 : 164
do Gray, I. A.	-	-	11 : 293
Sproustan, (near Kelso), Dodds, J.	-	-	4 : 240
Teviotdale, Davidson, T.	-	-	2 : 84
Teviothead, Elliot, M.	-	-	6 : 379
Yetholm, Mabon, A.	-	-	9 : 207

SELKIRKSHIRE.

Abbotsford, Usher, J.	-	-	10 : 274
Ettrick, Bennet, W.	-	-	12 : 382
do (Over Phawhope), Dalgliesh, W.	-	-	15 : 67
Galashiels, Brown, J. B.	-	-	7 : 34
do Hall, Wm.	-	-	8 : 59
do Rae, T.	-	-	11 : 234
do Williamson, E.	-	-	2 : 304
Selkirk, Currie, W. J.	-	-	11 : 226
do Currie, J.	-	-	3 : 117
do Fairbairn, M. W.	-	-	10 : 249
do Murray, D. S.	-	-	9 : 354
do Williamson, Mrs	-	-	8 : 192

STIRLINGSHIRE.

Henderson, J.	-	-	13 : 370
Bannockburn, Bowie, A. H.	-	-	12 : 152
Birdston, Muir, W.	-	-	2 : 49
Blair-Drummond, M'Laren, H. G.	-	-	13 : 158
Boquhan, M'Kean, Hugh-	-	-	14 : 324
Bridge of Allan, (Pendreich), Robertson, M.	-	-	15 : 160
Campsie, Neilson, J. M.	-	-	1 : 36
Carronshore, Towers, Walter	-	-	8 : 345
Cowie Bank, Buchanan, A.	-	-	11 : 355
Dennyloanhead, Rae, J.	-	-	14 : 209
Falkirk, Macculloch, J. M.	-	-	15 : 439
Goshen, Honeyman, C. A.	-	-	14 : 341
Grangemouth, Barnard, A.	-	-	13 : 132
Greenhill, Robertson, W. B.	-	-	12 : 17
Kilsyth, Brown, J. J.	-	-	1 : 341
do Brown, Simon	-	-	7 : 288

Milton of Campsie, Young, J.	-	1 : 276
Stirling, Blair, J.	-	13 : 146
do Cousin, M.	-	4 : 364
do Harvey, W.	-	15 : 403
do Nisbet, Hume	-	5 : 155
St Ninians, Jenkins, A.	-	11 : 353

SUTHERLANDSHIRE.

Golspie, Mackenzie, J. G.	-	8 : 182
Helmsdale, Mathieson, G. S.	-	4 : 99

WIGTONSHIRE.

Kirkmaiden, M'Gill, James	-	5 : 364
do Williamson, D. R.	-	8 : 324
Old Luce, M'Gill, William, G.	-	5 : 360
Whithorn, Cannon, J. F.	-	4 : 190
Wigton, Fraser, G.	-	2 : 157

OCCUPATIONS.

The figures preceding colon denote the volume, the figures following colon the page on which the sketch of the writer appears. In some instances we have been unable to ascertain occupation.

Abbey-keeper,	Donald, G. W.	-	-	1 :	21
do	Laidlaw, W.	-	-	2 :	331
Accountant,	Kippen, D.	-	-	15 :	139
do	M'Gill, J.	-	-	5 :	364
do	Mills, J. S.	-	-	1 :	316
do	Todd, A. B.	-	-	1 :	132
Agriculturist,	Bisset, A. M.	-	-	13 :	186
Architect,	Maclaren, D.	-	-	1 :	314
do	Salmon, J.	-	-	2 :	205
Architect and Photographer,	Macintosh, John	-	-	11 :	364
Artist,	Ballantine, J.	-	-	3 :	26
do	Faed, R. A. Thomas	-	-	12 :	351
do	Greig, James	-	-	9 :	60
do	Henderson, J. C.	-	-	5 :	141
do	M'Arthur, P.	-	-	1 :	329
do	M'Ewan, T.	-	-	12 :	329
do	Nisbet, Hume	-	-	5 :	155
do	Paton, J. Noel	-	-	2 :	296
do	Reid, S.	-	-	10 :	112
do	Stanley, M.	-	-	3 :	327
do	Thomson, A. E.	-	-	7 :	353
do	Woolnoth, A.	-	-	10 :	116
Auditor,	Houston, J.	-	-	4 :	32
Auctioneer,	Crawford A.	-	-	5 :	97
Baker,	Airth, J.	-	-	6 :	61
do	Garden, W.	-	-	2 :	24
do	M'Neil, D. M.	-	-	6 :	318
Banking,	Cargill, A.	-	-	4 :	53
do	Cundell, H.	-	-	9 :	223
do	Gulland, C.	-	-	6 :	244

Banking,	Harper, M. M.	-	-	14 : 202
do	Mackay, F. A.	-	-	10 : 379
do	Miller, F.	-	-	2 : 265
do	Weir, A.	-	-	11 : 417
Barber,	Henrietta, F.	-	-	5 : 166
Blacksmith,	Coyle, M.	-	-	14 : 215
do	Greig, D. L.	-	-	12 : 110
do	Hetrick, R.	-	-	4 : 368
do	Lamont, D.	-	-	9 : 303
do	Macaulay, J.	-	-	9 : 340
do	Penman, W.	-	-	1 : 39
do	Wilson, William	-	-	8 : 69
Board of Trade Officer,	Whytock, P.	-	-	1 : 28
Boiler-maker,	Peacock, J. M.	-	-	4 : 213
Bookbinder,	Allan, W.	-	-	6 : 342
do	Linen, J.	-	-	7 : 138
do	Macdonald, J.	-	-	1 : 98
do	M'Kay, A.	-	-	2 : 375
do	Simpson, G. M.	-	-	8 : 329
Book Canvasser,	Durie, James	-	-	8 : 159
do	Shand, A.	-	-	1 : 339
Book-Deliverer,	Boyle, J. T.	-	-	14 : 167
Book-keeper,	Drake, John	-	-	13 : 109
do	Henderson, D. M.	-	-	6 : 116
do	Henderson, D. M.	-	-	12 : 141
Bookseller,	Comrie, P.	-	-	9 : 358
do	Fisher, R.	-	-	6 : 324
do	Kent, J.	-	-	15 : 63
do	Mackie, D. B.	-	-	7 : 192
do	MacIennan, George E.	-	-	14 : 367
do	Macphail, M.	-	-	6 : 298
do	Macphail, Myles	-	-	13 : 49
do	M'Neill, Peter	-	-	5 : 293
do	Nicoll, T. P.	-	-	1 : 81
do	Owler, D.	-	-	15 : 356
do	Somerville, R.	-	-	4 : 163
do	Wanless, Andrew	-	-	5 : 53
do	Watson, A. J.	-	-	15 : 126
do	Webster, G.	-	-	10 : 328
do	Wilson, W.	-	-	13 : 226
Bricklayer,	Hargrave, H. D.	-	-	2 : 139
Broker,	M'Mahon, P. J.	-	-	13 : 95
Brushmaker,	M'Lauchlan, T.	-	-	1 : 156
Builder and Contractor,	Miller, J.	-	-	11 : 333
Burgh Officer,	Muir, H.	-	-	10 : 176

Butcher, Hogg, W.	-	-	6 : 370
Cabinet-maker, Armstrong, A. J.	-	-	8 : 253
do Brown, A.	-	-	1 : 151
do Crawford, J.	-	-	10 : 151
do Officer, William	-	-	8 : 364
Cabman, M'Nicol, D.	-	-	3 : 279
Carpenter, Nelson, J.	-	-	7 : 82
Carter, Young, J.	-	-	1 : 276
Cashier, Moir, W. R.	-	-	1 : 62
do Rettie, T. L.	-	-	7 : 342
do Russell, D.	-	-	12 : 126
Chemist, Brown, J. J.	-	-	1 : 341
do Fraser, G.	-	-	2 : 157
do Inrie, D.	-	-	2 : 225
do Lister, D.	-	-	14 : 71
Civil Engineer, Miller, W. J.	-	-	7 : 256
do Wilson, A. S.	-	-	8 : 390
Clerk, Andrew, J.	-	-	4 : 291
do Balfour, W. L.	-	-	2 : 168
do Birrell, W. D.	-	-	14 : 179
do Blackburn, C. F. Osburn	-	-	13 : 387
do Cameron, A.	-	-	15 : 239
do Christie, J.	-	-	5 : 367
do Clark, H.	-	-	6 : 354
do Cowie, W.	-	-	7 : 69
do Crombie, J. B.	-	-	11 : 369
do Drummond, Alex.	-	-	6 : 48
do Ford, R.	-	-	1 : 125
do Fullerton, J.	-	-	1 : 15
do Grant, J.	-	-	10 : 348
do Groves, L.	-	-	14 : 138
do Hebenton, E.	-	-	7 : 53
do Heggie, John	-	-	7 : 318
do Houston, R.	-	-	14 : 238
do Johnstone, J. J.	-	-	5 : 238
do Maclean, H. A.	-	-	10 : 85
do Macpherson, Alex.	-	-	8 : 254
do M'Crae, G. G.	-	-	11 : 220
do Mill, J. F.	-	-	3 : 17
do Milne, A.	-	-	14 : 141
do Mooney, J.	-	-	10 : 136
do Murray, G.	-	-	1 : 387
do Nicolson, J. R.	-	-	7 : 338
do Reid, Alex.	-	-	5 : 280
do Scott, W.	-	-	2 : 67

Clerk, Shearer-Aitken, W.	-	-	1 : 269
do Smith, D. M.	-	-	2 : 211
do Smith, J.	-	-	12 : 365
do Stephens, J. B.	-	-	12 : 303
do Sutherland, A.	-	-	10 : 38
do Thomson, W. L.	-	-	6 : 322
do Wallace, W.	-	-	7 : 202
Clerk and Manager, Hawkins, W. R.	-	-	4 : 143
Clothier, Scott, J. K.	-	-	4 : 44
Coachmaker, Rae, J.	-	-	14 : 210
Coal Merchant, Sutherland, George	-	-	8 : 209
Collector, Miller, Thomas	-	-	5 : 147
Colliery, Barnard, F.	-	-	10 : 299
do Dougall, W.	-	-	11 : 409
do M'Lay, J.	-	-	12 : 388
Colliery Manager, Wingate, D.	-	-	2 : 284
Colliery Overseersman, Ballantyne, J.	-	-	11 : 113
Colonial Service, Mercer, W. T.	-	-	12 : 264
Colporteur, Pyott, William	-	-	8 : 410
do Stewart, A.	-	-	10 : 21
Commercial Traveller, Bayne, H. P.	-	-	14 : 156
do Bell, J. M.	-	-	1 : 350
do Campbell, T.	-	-	1 : 25
do Leighton, R.	-	-	1 : 300
do Maclaren, H. G.	-	-	13 : 159
do Macleod, N.	-	-	6 : 233
do Nicolson, L. J.	-	-	1 : 336
do Sellars, D. R.	-	-	6 : 154
Commission Agent, Macdonald, D.	-	-	13 : 356
do Sinclair, P. F.	-	-	13 : 383
do Whitehead, T.	-	-	11 : 314
Compositor, Campbell, John	-	-	6 : 201
do Gallacher, D. W.	-	-	3 : 43
do Kelly, James	-	-	1 : 204
do M'Laren, J. W.	-	-	2 : 346
do Taylor, A. B.	-	-	4 : 311
Crofter, Stewart, W.	-	-	10 : 139
Customs, Archer, W.	-	-	4 : 105
Customs Officer, Stewart, A.	-	-	6 : 333
Dancing Master, Burgess, A.	-	-	1 : 271
Dealer in vertu , Whyte, W.	-	-	9 : 311
Dentist, Biggs, J. A.	-	-	8 : 110
Designer (Damask), Robertson, A. S.	-	-	15 : 145
do (Lace), White, W. D.	-	-	13 : 339
Detective, Reid, J.	-	-	7 : 101

Detective Officer, Chapman, J.	-	2 : 318
Distiller, Ross, John	-	7 : 297
Draper, Anderson, P.	-	15 : 94
do Bennett, R.	-	12 : 27
do Buchanan, F.	-	11 : 133
do Calder, R. M.	-	12 : 42
do Crawford, Mungo	-	7 : 292
do Macfadyen, D.	-	1 : 246
do Maclachlan, A.	-	5 : 40
do Macpherson, H.	-	15 : 61
do M'Lachlane, K.	-	1 : 365
do Murie, G.	-	5 : 265
do Proctor, A.	-	3 : 367
do Skirving, P.	-	12 : 277
do Smith, John	-	13 : 200
do Swan, R.	-	10 : 62
Dressmaker, Dodds, Jeannie	-	13 : 53
do Hossack, A. D.	-	12 : 183
Dyer, Ferguson, James	-	1 : 146
do Hewitt, J.	-	1 : 242
Editor, Aird, T.	-	3 : 207
do Bayne, P.	-	14 : 116
do Canton, W.	-	11 : 18
do Carnie, W.	-	7 : 204
do Dickson, Wm.	-	7 : 350
do Forsyth, W.	-	1 : 357
do Freeland, W.	-	5 : 18
do Latto, T. C.	-	5 : 333
do Latto, W. D.	-	3 : 37
do M'Diarmid, J.	-	7 : 106
do M'Dowall, W.	-	3 : 256
do M'Lean, A.	-	6 : 135
do Menzies, G.	-	11 : 48
do Miller, H.	-	3 : 314
do Paterson, J. C.	-	12 : 247
do Pirie, G.	-	4 : 196
do Sharp, W.	-	10 : 390
do Stewart, A.	-	15 : 98
do Stoddart, J. H.	-	2 : 300
do Wood, W. M.	-	6 : 111
Education, Buchan, A. W.	-	6 : 280
do Byers, T.	-	4 : 286
do Cranstoun, J.	-	3 : 299
do Graham, W.	-	3 : 188
do Grant, D.	-	9 : 169

Education, Macintosh, W.	-	-	7 : 89
Elocutionist, Pringle, A.	-	-	7 : 232
Engineer, Allan, J.	-	-	4 : 136
do Barr, J.	-	-	12 : 284
do Black, J.	-	-	2 : 179
do Carmichael, D.	-	-	9 : 89
do Hogg, R.	-	-	7 : 236
do Mactaggart, John	-	-	11 : 324
do Newbigging, T.	-	-	3 : 402
do (Managing), Allan, W.	-	-	1 : 282
Engine-keeper, Adamson, R.	-	-	1 : 226
do Barnard, Andrew	-	-	13 : 132
do Paxton, John, W.	-	-	6 : 174
Engraver, M'Bryde, A. C.	-	-	5 : 183
do Neilson, J. M.	-	-	1 : 36
Excise Officer, Jerdan, S. S.	-	-	2 : 17
Factor, Oliver, William	-	-	8 : 99
Factory Overseer, Cock, J.	-	-	2 : 181
do Paul, John	-	-	11 : 383
do Taylor, D.	-	-	1 : 26
Factory-worker, Carnegie, D.	-	-	1 : 189
do Catto, E.	-	-	1 : 144
do Currie, W. G.	-	-	11 : 226
do Goldie, A.	-	-	11 : 360
do Hunter, R.	-	-	3 : 250
do Hutchison, J.	-	-	13 : 183
do Inglis, J.	-	-	3 : 236
do Kirkland, D.	-	-	15 : 190
do Mahon, J.	-	-	7 : 221
do Massie, J. C.	-	-	9 : 55
do Matthews, A. T.	-	-	13 : 272
do Orr, John	-	-	8 : 327
do Thomson, J.	-	-	1 : 390
do Walker, J.	-	-	10 : 103
Farming, Allan R.	-	-	9 : 361
do Delday, W.	-	-	12 : 40
do Eckford, J. C.	-	-	14 : 259
do Farquharson, A.	-	-	13 : 278
do Hume, J.	-	-	13 : 151
do Keith, D.	-	-	4 : 192
do Knox, W.	-	-	15 : 164
do Lawrence, W. M.	-	-	10 : 322
do Mackarsie, W.	-	-	14 : 253
do M'Farlane, S.	-	-	6 : 394
do M'Gill, W. G.	-	-	5 : 360

Farming,	M·Kimm, J.	-	-	5 : 349
do	Millar, C.	-	-	15 : 400
do	Reid, J. D.	-	-	15 : 166
do	Shanks, H.	-	-	11 : 372
do	Sinclair, W.	-	-	7 : 307
do	Sproat, G.	-	-	5 : 356
do	Stewart, W.	-	-	12 : 89
do	Usher, J.	-	-	10 : 276
do	Watson, J.	-	-	1 : 42
do	Young, D.	-	-	1 : 99
Farm Servant,	Harper, F.	-	-	6 : 345
Forester,	Gordon, F. H.	-	-	3 : 365
Fruit-grower,	Craig, J.	-	-	2 : 121
Gardener,	Dalgity, J.	-	-	7 : 208
do	Farquhar, W. A. G.	-	-	7 : 275
do	Hardie, J.	-	-	15 : 351
do	Howden, R.	-	-	2 : 34
do	Murray, A.	-	-	9 : 214
do	Murray, W.	-	-	12 : 57
do	Neill, W.	-	-	5 : 339
do	Pettigrew, J.	-	-	5 : 35
do	Robertson, A.	-	-	2 : 326
do	Robertson, W.	-	-	1 : 306
do	Thomson, J.	-	-	3 : 381
do	Wilson, H. C.	-	-	1 : 70
Gas Light Co. Servant,	Hamilton, A.	-	-	7 : 242
Glass-Cutter,	Reid, J. P.	-	-	6 : 241
Government Official,	Skelton, J.	-	-	11 : 281
Granite Polisher,	Chalmers, R.	-	-	9 : 326
Grocer,	Buchanan, A.	-	-	11 : 356
do	Colburn, G.	-	-	5 : 65
do	Graham, A. S.	-	-	9 : 149
do	Graham, D.	-	-	9 : 103
do	Hugh, A.	-	-	13 : 232
do	Reston, A.	-	-	5 : 63
do	Stewart, T.	-	-	8 : 188
do	Sutherland, W.	-	-	12 : 167
do	Wilson, S.	-	-	13 : 67
Handloom-weaver,	Black, W.	-	-	12 : 102
do	Ross, J.	-	-	2 : 352
Hatter,	Brown, Simon	-	-	7 : 288
H.M. Sasine Officer,	Mackenzie, J. G.	-	-	8 : 182
Horse-trainer,	Gordon, A. L.	-	-	12 : 232
Hotelkeeper,	Anderson, John	-	-	7 : 310
do	Forsyth, William	-	-	13 : 205

Hotelkeeper, Spalding, C.	-	-	12 : 95
House Agent, Dewar, J.	-	-	13 : 345
Inspector of Poor, Shaw, J.	-	-	4 : 372
do Wallace, A.	-	-	2 : 102
Insurance Agent, Murray, D. S.	-	-	9 : 354
do Inspector, Nicol C.	-	-	6 : 70
do Manager, Gibson, C. P.	-	-	9 : 239
do Official, Martin, J. L.	-	-	2 : 333
Iron Moulder, Russell, T.	-	-	1 : 309
Iron Plainer, Lyall, J. W.	-	-	5 : 386
do Ross, A.	-	-	1 : 292
Jeweller, Jackson, W. V.	-	-	7 : 185
do M'Intosh, W. S.	-	-	9 : 69
do Smith, D. C.	-	-	5 : 308
Joiner, Bruce, G.	-	-	1 : 217
do Burns, D.	-	-	14 : 387
do Ironside, D.	-	-	10 : 400
do M'Kean, H.	-	-	14 : 324
do Morison, J.	-	-	9 : 45
do Soutar, A. M.	-	-	1 : 101
do Wilson, J.	-	-	5 : 378
Journalist, Begg, P.	-	-	4 : 210
do Dakers, R. A.	-	-	14 : 144
do Dykes, T.	-	-	5 : 71
do Glass, A.	-	-	6 : 339
do Graham, W.	-	-	5 : 396
do Hedderwick, J.	-	-	3 : 410
do Kelly, J.	-	-	1 : 208
do Locke, F.	-	-	9 : 290
do Macdonald, H.	-	-	7 : 43
do Macdonald, N.	-	-	14 : 268
do Mackinlay, W. A. B.	-	-	12 : 336
do M'Leod, D.	-	-	12 : 292
do M'Queen, W.	-	-	1 : 31
do Middleton, A. G.	-	-	12 : 271
do Murray, George	-	-	13 : 265
do Rae-Brown, Colin C.	-	-	8 : 383
do Robertson, K.	-	-	9 : 345
do Sims, G. R.	-	-	11 : 57
do Simson, J.	-	-	4 : 66
do Smibert, T.	-	-	2 : 379
do Walker, J. D.	-	-	14 : 248
do Whitelaw, J.	-	-	11 : 256
Keeper of reservoir, Thomson, D.	-	-	2 : 112
Labourer, Bethune, J.	-	-	1 : 94

Labourer,	Hogg, J.	-	-	9 : 164
do	Niven, J.	-	-	10 : 372
do	Taylor, J.	-	-	1 : 78
do	Still, P.	-	-	3 : 306
do	Watt, A.	-	-	3 : 137
Land Surveyor,	Durie, W. S.	-	-	5 : 291
do	Sanderson, R.	-	-	1 : 67
Law,	Bird, R.	-	-	10 : 181
do	Clyne, N.	-	-	1 : 362
do	Cowan, A.	-	-	11 : 41
do	Dodds, J.	-	-	4 : 242
do	Gow, D.	-	-	9 : 27
do	Hamilton, William	-	-	8 : 291
do	Jenkins, A.	-	-	11 : 353
do	Melville, A. P.	-	-	12 : 75
do	Neaves, Lord	-	-	3 : 107
do	Nicolson, A.	-	-	3 : 471
do	Outram, G.	-	-	2 : 214
do	Spens, W. C.	-	-	2 : 124
do	Stoddart, T. T.	-	-	6 : 349
do	Sturoc, W. C.	-	-	4 : 335
do	Urquhart, J.	-	-	6 : 142
do	Wedderburn, A. J. F.	-	-	9 : 323
do	White Robert,	-	-	8 : 22
do	Wilkie, J.	-	-	6 : 273
do	Young, Thomas	-	-	7 : 363
Law Clerk,	Anderson, B. R.	-	-	6 : 402
do	Bell, J.	-	-	1 : 352
do	Shepherd, J.	-	-	13 : 57
Leather Merchant,	Fulton, W.	-	-	12 : 378
Lecturer,	Maxwell, Charles C.	-	-	7 : 276
do	M'Lachlan, A.	-	-	2 : 260
Letter Carrier,	Milne, J.	-	-	2 : 362
do	Snaddon, Alex	-	-	8 : 115
do	Thomson, Hugh	-	-	8 : 205
Letter Stamper,	Christie, J. K.	-	-	1 : 18
Librarian,	Maxwell, George	-	-	8 : 399
do	Smith, James	-	-	1 : 261
do	Stewart, C.	-	-	11 : 288
do	Stewart, C.	-	-	8 : 306
do	(Assistant), Cuthbertson, D.	-	-	1 : 267
Light Porter,	Chisholm, W.	-	-	2 : 63
Lithographer,	Canning, D.	-	-	3 : 363
do	Keith, Alex.	-	-	7 : 272
Lithographic artist	Jamieson, J.	-	-	5 : 187

Lithographic Artist,	Wood, J. P.	-	15 : 384
Litterateur,	Bayne W.	-	14 : 133
do	Black, W.	-	10 : 19
do	Brown, J. P.	-	9 : 79
do	Carlyle, T.	-	3 : 425
do	Doyle, A. C.	-	15 : 257
do	Findlay, Jessie P.	-	12 : 49
do	Johnston, H.	-	12 : 188
do	Macdonald, G.	-	2 : 266
do	Mackay, Charles	-	8 : 17
do	Murdoch, A. G.	-	1 : 177
do	Rae-Brown, Colin	-	8 : 376
do	Scott, R. P.	-	9 : 40
do	Stables, Gordon	-	14 : 370
do	Stevenson, R. L.	-	10 : 324
do	Stronach, G.	-	5 : 391
do	Swan, A. S.	-	6 : 397
Lodge and store keeper,	Buchanan, D.	-	6 : 329
Machinist,	Macdonald, C.	-	14 : 321
Manager,	Bower, J.	-	4 : 360
do	(Brush Factory), Logan, T.	-	2 : 30
do	(Clerks), Leighton, W.	-	1 : 294
do	(Globe Parcel Express) Maclean, D.	-	9 : 297
do	(Sewer Pipe Coy.) Lyle, W.	-	6 : 29
do	(Stationery Warehouse), Hart, A. M.	-	1 : 231
do	(Store), Blair, Thomas	-	13 : 377
Manufacturer,	Cross, W.	-	1 : 18
do	Kerr, A. M.	-	5 : 216
do	Macmillan, Daniel	-	14 : 300
do	Simpson, Alexander Nicol	-	11 : 307
do	Wallace, G.	-	14 : 355
Manufacturing Chemist,	Spence, P.	-	13 : 138
Marine Insurance,	Lawson, J.	-	11 : 68
Mason,	Cowie, J.	-	1 : 386
do	Dinnie, R.	-	13 : 287
Mechanic,	Gardiner, P.	-	10 : 316
do	M'Intosh, D.	-	2 : 329
do	Robertson, A.	-	2 : 155
Medical,	Bell, R.	-	15 : 305
do	Braidwood, D. G.	-	7 : 285
do	Buchan, P.	-	3 : 421
do	Buist, R. C.	-	12 : 346
do	Dougall, J.	-	13 : 210
do	Gillespie, J. D.	-	15 : 213
do	Johnstone, J.	-	13 : 128

Medical,	Macfie, R. C.	-	-	15 : 104
do	Maclagan, D.	-	-	3 : 173
do	Maclagan, R. C.	-	-	15 : 230
do	M'Lachlan, W. A.	-	-	13 : 401
do	Sidey, J. A.	-	-	3 : 392
do	Simpson, Sir J. Y.	-	-	13 : 193
do	Smith, John	-	-	15 : 204
do	Stirling, J. H.	-	-	7 : 314
do	Taylor, John	-	-	15 : 420
do	Thain, Leslie L.	-	-	13 : 283
do	Trotter, J.	-	-	11 : 186
do	Trotter, R.	-	-	11 : 173
do	Trotter, R. de B.	-	-	11 : 177
do	Trotter, R., junr.	-	-	11 : 174
do	Wilson, G.	-	-	15 : 5
do	Wood, A.	-	-	11 : 239
Merchant,	Bremner, D.	-	-	11 : 203
do	Crawford, J. K.	-	-	7 : 293
do	Davidson, J.	-	-	1 : 92
do	Guthrie, J. G.	-	-	1 : 214
do	Inglis, John	-	-	5 : 162
do	Knox, T.	-	-	9 : 107
do	M'Corkindale, D.	-	-	5 : 161
do	M'Naughton, P.	-	-	4 : 369
do	Mitchell, A.	-	-	2 : 37
do	Moffat, James	-	-	13 : 336
do	Scott, Andrew	-	-	5 : 136
do	Thomas, P. H.	-	-	7 : 264
do	Wood, J. W.	-	-	3 : 342
Merchant and Shipowner,	Whittet, J. P.	-	-	11 : 395
Messenger-at-arms,	Dewar, H. A.	-	-	10 : 67
Mill Foreman,	Watt, J. E.	-	-	1 : 73
Mill Furnisher,	Thomson, R. B.	-	-	7 : 154
Mill Overseer,	Westwood, James	-	-	8 : 259
Mill Worker,	Sinclair, E. M.	-	-	4 : 84
Miller,	Mackay, J.	-	-	1 : 334
Milliner,	Macpherson, R. S.	-	-	2 : 203
do	Muir, J. K.	-	-	2 : 382
do	Paterson, J. G.	-	-	15 : 284
Millwright,	Young, D.	-	-	15 : 282
Miner,	Ferguson, N.	-	-	12 : 355
do	M'Murdo, G.	-	-	5 : 221
do	Scott, David	-	-	4 : 57
do	Wilson, A.	-	-	7 : 182
Mining,	Gordon, J. W.	-	-	15 : 329

Mining Agent,	Beveridge, M. K.	-	12 : 259
Ministry,	Adamson, R. M.	-	15 : 373
do	Aitchison, J.	-	15 : 23
do	Alexander, A. C.	-	5 : 303
do	Alexander, W. L.	-	10 : 222
do	Anderson, D.	-	15 : 365
do	Anderson, John	-	7 : 329
do	Anderson, R. S. G.	-	11 : 197
do	Andrew, J.	-	4 : 295
do	Anton, P.	-	13 : 119
do	Arnold, G. S.	-	14 : 336
do	Arnot, D.	-	8 : 317
do	Bain, J. F.	-	13 : 317
do	Bain, J. L.	-	10 : 159
do	Ballantine, J.	-	5 : 382
do	Beattie, D. A.	-	12 : 397
do	Bell, J.	-	10 : 339
do	Bennet, W.	-	12 : 382
do	Bethune, G. W.	-	2 : 313
do	Blair, W.	-	9 : 135
do	Bonar, H.	-	1 : 359
do	Bowie, R. S.	-	6 : 223
do	Brownlie, J.	-	15 : 271
do	Burns, David	-	7 : 365
do	Burns, J. D.	-	4 : 233
do	Calder, R. H.	-	5 : 173
do	Cameron, C. J.	-	12 : 256
do	Campbell, R.	-	15 : 410
do	Clark, G.	-	11 : 145
do	Cooper, James	-	15 : 380
do	Craig, K. M.	-	14 : 94
do	Cunningham, A.	-	10 : 208
do	Davidson, T.	-	2 : 84
do	Dewar, A.	-	10 : 244
do	Dewar, Archibald	-	13 : 343
do	Dickie, M.	-	4 : 306
do	Donaldson, J.	-	3 : 379
do	Dunlop, T.	-	4 : 220
do	Fairbairn, J. C.	-	7 : 217
do	Farquhar, G. T. S.	-	13 : 404
do	Farquhar, J. T. F.	-	14 : 76
do	Ferguson, F.	-	2 : 249
do	Ferguson, Fergus	-	5 : 92
do	Fergusson, R. M.	-	6 : 268
do	Fettes, J.	-	12 : 135

Ministry,	Fraser, J. C. D.	.	12 : 162
do	Fraser, Peter G.	-	13 : 254
do	Fraser, T. M.	-	12 : 252
do	Gardiner, J.	-	4 : 40
do	Gilfillan, G.	-	15 : 112
do	Gray, W. H.	-	10 : 198
do	Greig, J.	-	13 : 190
do	Guthrie, J.	-	2 : 92
do	Hillocks, J. I.	-	1 : 275
do	Horsburgh, A.	-	11 : 247
do	Howat, J.	-	15 : 292
do	Jacque, G.	-	3 : 197
do	Johnston, T. P.	-	5 : 373
do	Johnstone, J.	-	2 : 174
do	Johnstone, T. B.	-	8 : 147
do	Kerr, J.	-	10 : 331
do	Lawrie, G. J.	-	10 : 357
do	Lawson, R.	-	9 : 218
do	Livingstone, J.	-	14 : 392
do	Livingstone, P.	-	1 : 229
do	Longmuir, J.	-	2 : 39
do	Low, W. L.	-	15 : 73
do	Lundie, R. H.	-	15 : 416
do	Lyte, H. F.	-	2 : 78
do	Macduff, J. R.	-	10 : 308
do	Macgregor, D.	-	11 : 83
do	Macleod, J.	-	15 : 430
do	Macleod, John	-	15 : 425
do	Macleod, N.	-	1 : 391
do	Macmorland, P.	-	6 : 87
do	Macrae, D.	-	2 : 188
do	Marshall, C.	-	2 : 28
do	Mather, J.	-	15 : 244
do	Matheson, G.	-	9 : 143
do	M'Cheyne, R. M.	-	15 : 83
do	M'Lean, A. T.	-	4 : 72
do	M'Pherson, J.	-	11 : 105
do	Mearns, P.	-	14 : 79
do	Melville, W. B.	-	10 : 366
do	Miller, C.	-	4 : 113
do	Milligan, James	-	8 : 138
do	Mitchell, A.	-	13 : 363
do	Mitchell, D. G.	-	11 : 30
do	Mitchell, J. M.	-	8 : 153
do	Moore, W. K.	-	11 : 140

Ministry,	Murray, G.	-	-	4 : 164
do	Murray, J.	-	-	3 : 147
do	Murray, R. E.	-	-	3 : 155
do	Park, J.	-	-	9 : 73
do	Paton, J.	-	-	2 : 309
do	Patterson, A. S.	-	-	15 : 262
do	Paul, J.	-	-	11 : 389
do	Philip, W. M.	-	-	8 : 212
do	Proctor, J.	-	-	2 : 79
do	Rankin, J. E.	-	-	4 : 154
do	Robertson, W. B.	-	-	12 : 17
do	Rogers, C.	-	-	3 : 370
do	Sanders, R.	-	-	4 : 382
do	Scotland, J. S.	-	-	12 : 412
do	Sim, W. A.	-	-	7 : 245
do	Small, J. G.	-	-	4 : 256
do	Smith, Harry	-	-	14 : 397
do	Smith, Walter	-	-	13 : 268
do	Smith, W. C.	-	-	3 : 238
do	Smith, W. W.	-	-	2 : 141
do	Stewart, A.	-	-	5 : 77
do	Thomson, J. E. H.	-	-	4 : 109
do	Thomson, John	-	-	6 : 306
do	Tuttielt, L.	-	-	15 : 326
do	Walker, J.	-	-	9 : 199
do	Wallace, A.	-	-	3 : 337
do	Watson, R. A.	-	-	10 : 97
do	Whitelaw, J. M.	-	-	2 : 226
do	Williams, George	-	-	13 : 89
do	Williamson, D. R.	-	-	8 : 234
do	Wilson, W. B. R.	-	-	15 : 360
do	Yair, D. W.	-	-	7 : 247
Missionary,	Copeland, J.	-	-	12 : 123
do	Dickie, J.	-	-	14 : 234
do	Robson, M. N.	-	-	14 : 32
Mole catcher,	Crnickshank, W.	-	-	2 : 192
Musical Instrument Maker,	Watt, W.	-	-	8 : 226
Musician,	Acquiroff, H.	-	-	11 : 276
do	Adamson, A.	-	-	14 : 84
do	Allan, D. S.	-	-	12 : 68
do	Bogue, J.	-	-	15 : 20
do	Crawford, W.	-	-	2 : 328
do	Laubach, C. H.	-	-	10 : 170
do	Lauder, J.	-	-	6 : 363
do	M'Queen, J.	-	-	13 : 45
Musicseller,	Barr, M.	-	-	2 : 200

Musicseller, Dryerre, H.	-	5 : 274
do Macpherson, P.	-	14 : 382
do Nimmo, H.	-	8 : 245
Newspaper Manager, Kennedy, D.	-	5 : 46
Nurse, Macpherson, M.	-	15 : 42
Nurseryman, Laing, Alex.	-	6 : 148
do Marshall, J.	-	10 : 164
Office Keeper, Eckford, Thomas	-	8 : 405
Organ Builder, Gardiner, W.	-	9 : 250
Packman, Laing, A.	-	2 : 273
do Lindsay, W.	-	1 : 328
Painter, Boyd, G.	-	12 : 131
do Brechin, G.	-	3 : 414
do Bridie, J.	-	15 : 338
do Campbell, A.	-	14 : 66
do Crawford, J.	-	1 : 324
do Crawford, John	-	5 : 101
do Dobie, George	-	5 : 128
do Duncan, J. F.	-	3 : 49
do Edwards, T.	-	9 : 64
do Gall, W. G.	-	14 : 264
do Jeffreys, A. E. W.	-	14 : 220
do Kinlay, J.	-	14 : 226
do Thomson, Thomas	-	8 : 95
do Watson, T.	-	2 : 220
do Wynd, J.	-	1 : 381
Paper Mill Manager, Hutchison, J. C.	-	1 : 85
Pastry-cook, Mitchelson, A.	-	1 : 322
Pattern Drawing, Taylor, J.	-	4 : 175
Pattern-maker, Brown, J.	-	2 : 131
do Towers, Walter	-	8 : 345
Photographer, Hall, W.	-	8 : 60
Plasterer, Johnston, J.	-	3 : 335
Plumber, Waters, D.	-	2 : 254
Police Force, Chapman, T.	-	4 : 70
do Gibb, G. A. G.	-	9 : 350
do M'Gregor, J.	-	14 : 152
do Shelley, W.	-	1 : 139
do Will, C.	-	9 : 365
do (Lieutenant), Anderson, W.	-	2 : 234
do (Royal Irish), Lindsay, D.	-	8 : 335
Poorhouse Governor, Lowson, A.	-	14 : 100
Portmanteau Manufacturer, Reid, W.	-	1 : 199
Post Office Service, Brown, J.	-	5 : 230
do Bruce, D.	-	6 : 274
do Campbell, J.	-	6 : 41

Post Office Service,	Fergus, J. W.	-	9 : 292
do	Houston, W.	-	10 : 93
do	Hyslop, J.	-	4 : 282
do	Kidd, J. G.	-	7 : 336
do	Mackenzie, G.	-	14 : 331
do	Paterson, J.	-	9 : 226
do	Stark, W.	-	9 : 232
do	Tennant, R.	-	1 : 168
do	Thomson, W.	-	1 : 321
do	Yule, J. T.	-	3 : 225
Potato Merchant,	Lumsden, J.	-	11 : 341
do	Macpherson, C.	-	3 : 33
Precentor,	Jamieson, R. D.	-	13 : 28
Press Overseer,	Smart A.	-	11 : 73
Press Reader,	Stewart, J.	-	7 : 267
Printer,	Anderson, T.	-	14 : 160
do	Christie, J.	-	15 : 222
do	Cook, A.	-	12 : 269
do	Donaldson, W.	-	1 : 343
do	Fleming, R.	-	4 : 199
do	Imrie, J.	-	11 : 412
do	Millar, A. C.	-	15 : 298
do	Ramsay, D.	-	15 : 236
do	Somerville, G. W.	-	4 : 171
do	Thomson, T.	-	6 : 78
do	Work T. L.	-	12 : 214
Printer and Publisher,	Barnet, J.	-	2 : 288
Prison Chaplain,	Sievwright, W.	-	1 : 187
Professor,	Blackie, J. S.	-	1 : 377
do	Maxwell, J. C.	-	8 : 122
do	Nichol, J.	-	2 : 245
do	Rankine, W. J. M.	-	5 : 28
do	Shairp, J. C.	-	9 : 188
do	Veitch, J.	-	3 : 385
do	Wilson, D.	-	8 : 33
Public Weigher,	Meek, Robert	-	6 : 209
Publisher,	Chambers, R.	-	2 : 357
do	Gebbie, G.	-	15 : 386
do	Henderson, W.	-	7 : 275
do	Japp, A. H.	-	2 : 106
do	Ross, W. S.	-	3 : 332
do	Whittet, R.	-	6 : 128
do	Wilson, W.	-	4 : 29
Publishing Manager,	Harrison, J.	-	7 : 196
Railway Service,	Allan D.	-	6 : 166

Railway Service, Balfour, C.	-	-	3 : 407
do Barrie, P.	-	-	9 : 185
do Carmichael, P.	-	-	4 : 231
do Garden, A. F.	-	-	2 : 117
do Gemmell, R.	-	-	2 : 57
do Gibb, G.	-	-	3 : 377
do Gordon, W.	-	-	14 : 241
do M'Dougall, W.	-	-	4 : 18
do Milne, W.	-	-	15 : 277
do Renton, J.	-	-	7 : 49
do Robb, J.	-	-	6 : 162
do Roger, J.	-	-	3 : 52
do Tatlow, J.	-	-	6 : 205
do (Clerk), Watson, J.	-	-	1 : 291
do (Surfaceman), Anderson, A.	-	-	1 : 157
do (Traffic Inspector), Aitken, W.	-	-	2 : 162
do do Stewart, J.	-	-	6 : 252
Registrar, Duncan, P.	-	-	3 : 167
Rope Worker, Watson, G.	-	-	14 : 36
Saddler, Muir, W.	-	-	2 : 49
Sailor, Blyth, D.	-	-	1 : 344
do Brown, A.	-	-	4 : 177
Salesman, Robertson, W.	-	-	7 : 57
Sawmiller, Ogg, J.	-	-	1 : 361
Seamstress, Pyper, Mary	-	-	8 : 285
Secretary, Buchanan, W.	-	-	13 : 84
do Denham, J.	-	-	6 : 57
do Fraser, J. W.	-	-	12 : 313
do M'Auslane, W. T.	-	-	2 : 136
do M'Taggart, J.	-	-	13 : 331
do Rae, J.	-	-	11 : 399
do Walker, R.	-	-	12 : 320
do (Private), Taylor, M.	-	-	6 : 102
Seedsman, M Clure, J.	-	-	12 : 146
Servant, M'Lintock, Agnes C.	-	-	13 : 338
Sewing Machine Agent, Blackburn, J. J.	-	-	14 : 63
School Board Officer, Burns, T.	-	-	11 : 303
Shepherd, Ferguson, D.	-	-	13 : 297
do Inglis, R. S.	-	-	10 : 299
do Murray, T.	-	-	8 : 268
Sheriff Officer, Macdonald, J.	-	-	7 : 356
Shipbuilder, King, D.	-	-	9 : 244
Ship Captain, Gifford, W.	-	-	13 : 350
do M'Fee, R. C.	-	-	13 : 311
Shipowner, Hutcheson, D.	-	-	3 : 23

Shoemaker,	Burr, J.	-	-	10 : 204
do	Campbell, S. S.	-	-	15 : 266
do	Duthie, George	-	-	7 : 346
do	Galbraith, J.	-	-	2 : 147
do	Jeffrey, W. D.	-	-	8 : 103
do	Kerr, H.	-	-	15 : 418
do	Knight, W.	-	-	1 : 193
do	Lamberton, W.	-	-	10 : 375
do	Lee, J.	-	-	3 : 60
do	M'Kenzie, H.	-	-	8 : 176
do	Murison, A.	-	-	8 : 311
do	Reid, R.	-	-	12 : 98
do	Reid, W.	-	-	2 : 350
do	Smith, E.	-	-	3 : 98
do	Steel, A.	-	-	3 : 76
do	Stewart, J.	-	-	1 : 211
Soldier,	Anderson, G. W.	-	-	14 : 19
do	Angus, W.	-	-	15 : 122
do	Cooper, G.	-	-	6 : 73
do	Currie, J.	-	-	3 : 117
do	Dorward, A. K.	-	-	13 : 347
do	Gall, J. H.	-	-	1 : 9
do	Gordon, A.	-	-	9 : 96
do	Leggat, J.	-	-	4 : 185
do	M'Donald, J.	-	-	5 : 257
do	Menzies, J.	-	-	12 : 372
do	Turner, G.	-	-	5 : 261
Spinner, Singer, J.	-	-	-	12 : 117
Spinning Mill Manager, Maxwell, A.	-	-	-	10 : 403
Stationer,	Cowan, T.	-	-	4 : 327
do	Douglas, G. A. H.	-	-	9 : 116
do	Luby, J.	-	-	12 : 368
do	Smith, W. B.	-	-	11 : 93
do	Waddie, C.	-	-	10 : 283
Stone-dresser, Scorgie, J.	-	-	-	5 : 321
Stonedye worker, M'Culloch, J. S.	-	-	-	7 : 212
Storekeeper, Allison, J.	-	-	-	3 : 373
Sugar Refiner, Macfie, R. A.	-	-	-	8 : 83
Tailor,	Crawford, J. P.	-	-	1 : 374
do	Doig, A.	-	-	13 : 261
do	Donaldson, A.	-	-	6 : 374
do	Duncan, A.	-	-	6 : 188
do	Geddes, J. Y.	-	-	1 : 244
do	Grant, R.	-	-	3 : 391

Tailor,	M'Intosh, J.	-	-	5 : 204
do	Miller, W.	-	-	3 : 142
do	Mowat, G. H.	-	-	14 : 183
do	Neil, G.	-	-	11 : 194
do	Nicolson, J.	-	-	1 : 233
do	Ramsay, T.	-	-	7 : 227
do	Teenan, J.	-	-	2 : 229
do	Thomson, H. A.	-	-	15 : 152
do	Thomson, W.	-	-	2 : 156
do	Thomson, W.	-	-	5 : 244
do	Wardrop, A.	-	-	4 : 81
do	Watts, T.	-	-	3 : 71
do	Wedderburn, A.	-	-	6 : 238
Teaching,	Andrew, D.	-	-	4 : 301
do	Bain, R.	-	-	13 : 234
do	Bean, M.	-	-	15 : 310
do	Beveridge, J.	-	-	8 : 230
do	Blair, J. L.	-	-	13 : 380
do	Brown, H.	-	-	3 : 183
do	Browne, J.	-	-	13 : 169
do	Burgess J. J. H.	-	-	14 : 192
do	Campbell, J.	-	-	7 : 260
do	Carter, J. G.	-	-	13 : 38
do	Christie, J.	-	-	6 : 260
do	Christie, T. B. H.	-	-	12 : 281
do	Coutts, D. K.	-	-	7 : 173
do	Coutts, J. T.	-	-	8 : 349
do	Cowper, W.	-	-	1 : 185
do	Dawson, C.	-	-	15 : 46
do	Duthie, M.	-	-	8 : 201
do	Falconer, A.	-	-	13 : 304
do	Fergusson, R.	-	-	10 : 397
do	Gray, J. Y.	-	-	10 : 260
do	Gray, M.	-	-	14 : 187
do	Greig, G.	-	-	7 : 375
do	Hall, M.	-	-	14 : 49
do	Hampton, D. M.	-	-	8 : 359
do	Hay, W.	-	-	15 : 130
do	Haywood, A. W.	-	-	15 : 118
do	Hogg, W. T. M.	-	-	10 : 255
do	Hyslop, J.	-	-	7 : 76
do	Ingram, J. C.	-	-	3 : 81
do	Ingram, W.	-	-	12 : 393
do	Johnston, J.	-	-	8 : 322
do	Kelly, J.	-	-	10 : 89

Teaching,	Kerr, S.	15 : 391
do	Kinnear, G. H.	9 : 85
do	Lamont, A.	3 : 291
do	Laing, W.	3 : 86
do	Louden, D.	9 : 399
do	Macnamara, S.	14 : 309
do	Macpherson, C.	12 : 296
do	Mauchline, J.	14 : 318
do	Mauchline, R.	10 : 131
do	M'Crackett, P.	2 : 341
do	Moffat, J. C.	7 : 189
do	Munro, A.	5 : 192
do	Murchie, Mary J.	9 : 266
do	Mutch, R. S.	13 : 326
do	Neill, C.	4 : 202
do	Paulin, G.	3 : 360
do	Pringle, R.	12 : 81
do	Rae, J.	12 : 242
do	Reid, A.	9 : 152
do	Robertson, J. L.	3 : 352
do	Roxburgh, W.	9 : 394
do	Scott, R. A.	14 : 273
do	Scott, W.	2 : 369
do	Smith, J.	1 : 191
do	Smith, M. A.	1 : 382
do	Smith, R. H. W.	5 : 105
do	Still, P., junr.	1 : 174
do	Taylor, J.	4 : 181
do	Thomson, J.	7 : 162
do	Trotter, J.	11 : 191
do	Tyrie, T. C.	8 : 353
do	Webster, G.	9 : 368
do	White, J.	3 : 46
do	Whitlocke, M. T.	10 : 146
do	Young, A.	1 : 331
do	Young, J. B.	14 : 306
Tea Merchant,	Henderson, J.	13 : 369
do	Walker, W.	8 : 219
Theatrical,	Ridpath, W. S.	2 : 242
Ticket-writer,	Alexander, J.	7 : 224
Timekeeper,	Bradley, W. J.	8 : 63
do	Thompson, N.	9 : 389
Tinplate-worker,	Logan, A.	1 : 196
Tinsmith,	Hunter, C. F.	9 : 30
Tobacconist,	Fisher, A.	13 : 247

Tobbaconist, Smart, W. M.	-	-	11 : 211
Town Clerk, Duthie, R.	-	-	14 : 231
Travelling Agent, M'Vittie, James	-	-	11 : 348
Tweed Merchant, Jardine, J.	-	-	2 : 240
Typefounder, Blair, J.	-	-	13 : 146
Umbrella Manufacturer, Gilkison, J.	-	-	13 : 165
do Wright, J.	-	-	4 : 275
Upholsterer, Laing, A. S.	-	-	12 : 60
do Millar, Thomas	-	-	11 : 318
do Phin, W. H.	-	-	5 : 298
U. S. Consul, Bruce, Wallace	-	-	14 : 344
Vocalist, Corbett, Hamilton	-	-	8 : 302
do Fairbairn, A.	-	-	4 : 316
Warehouseman, Thorpe, T.	-	-	4 : 22
Watchmaker, Howden, W. C.	-	-	4 : 354
Weaving, Donald, J.	-	-	14 : 129
do Gow, James	-	-	8 : 274
do M'Gregor, J.	-	-	14 : 149
do Norval, J.	-	-	6 : 193
do Ormond, T.	-	-	2 : 354
do Rankin, A.	-	-	3 : 254
do Tasker, D.	-	-	2 : 280
do Taylor, D.	-	-	15 : 397
do Thomson, J.	-	-	15 : 316
do Watt, W.	-	-	2 : 51
do Wright, J.	-	-	3 : 122
Weaving and Burgh Official, Leask, J.	-	-	14 : 125
Weaving Foreman, Cairns, A.	-	-	6 : 96
Wine Merchant, Cadenhead, W.	-	-	1 : 347
Wood Carver, Burns, W.	-	-	8 : 340
Woodcutter, Gairns, R.	-	-	9 : 385
Wood-turner, Thomson, J.	-	-	10 : 267
Woollen Manufacturer, Brown, J. B.	-	-	7 : 34

POEMS AND SONGS.

The figures preceding colon denote the volume, the figures following colon the page on which the poem or song appears.

A' for thy bonnie sel' ; by H. A. Dewar	-	10 : 72
A' his lane ; by A. Anderson	-	1 : 167
A'thing looks dowie ; by T. P. Johnston	-	5 : 374
A'thing's changed thegither ; by T. Knox	-	9 : 115
A' things o' life, the ; by W. B. Smith	-	11 : 96
Abbey church bells, the ; by A. Stewart	-	6 : 334
Abbey of Aberbrothock, the ; by J. F. Bain	-	13 : 318
Abide in me ; by J. Proctor	-	2 : 82
Abide with me ; by G. A. H. Douglas	-	9 : 117
Abide with me ; by H. F. Lyte	-	2 : 78
Abide with us ; by Mary Pyper	-	8 : 290
Abide with us ; by J. Walker	-	10 : 109
Abu Klea ; by J. Whitelaw	-	11 : 260
Across the sea ; by M. J. Murchie	-	9 : 268
Across the sea ; by W. Black	-	10 : 20
Ad poetam ; by H. Dryerre	-	5 : 275
Adam Glen ; by A. Laing	-	2 : 279
Adam o' Fintry ; by W. Black	-	10 : 25
Address ; by J. L. Bain	-	10 : 158
Address to a bat, an ; by D. Young	-	15 : 282
Address to a fiddle ; by A. Farquharson	-	13 : 280
Address to a flea, an ; by J. M'Intosh	-	5 : 210
Address to a thrush ; by A. Steel	-	3 : 77
Address to Dundonald Castle ; by R. Gemmell	-	2 : 59
Address to my bed ; by A. Morris	-	12 : 404
Address to the comet of 1882 ; by M. Macphail	-	13 : 51
Address to the mosquitoes ; by J. Kennedy	-	6 : 221
Address to the muse ; by J. Airth	-	6 : 67
Address to the rainbow, an ; by A. Hamilton	-	7 : 243
Address to the river Garnock ; by T. M'Queen	-	2 : 324

Address to the Viking ship ; by T. B. Johnstone	8 : 151
Adieu, an ; by C. Mackay -	13 : 22
Adown the glen the pibroch sounds ; by D. Kippen	15 : 144
Advice to a young minister ; by P. Macmorland	6 : 93
Aff the fang ; by A. Reid -	9 : 155
Affection's gift ; by T. Watts -	3 : 73
After death ; by J. C. Simpson -	9 : 379
After life's fitful fever ; by J. H. Simpson	9 : 381
After many years ; by W. L. Thomson -	6 : 323
After singing-time ; by Elizabeth Craigmyle	13 : 176
After the battle of Alma ; by P. P. Alexander -	10 : 239
Afterthoughts ; by H. B. Mackenzie -	9 : 273
Aftertime, the ; by H. Johnston -	12 : 190
Again ; by W. C. Howden -	4 : 356
Aged believer at the gate of heaven, the ; by W. L. Alexander -	10 : 227
Aged man, the ; by J. Gow -	8 : 278
Aged saint entering heaven, the ; by W. L. Alexander -	10 : 227
Aged widow to her wedding ring, the ; by J. Cleghorn -	6 : 368
Agnes ; by J. Tatlow -	6 : 208
Aichteen ; by D. Macfadyen -	1 : 247
Ailsa Craig ; by J. T. Levens -	7 : 123
Alane ; by I. Dalgity -	8 : 66
Albion's sons ; by A. Wilson -	7 : 184
Album verses ; by R. S. Inglis -	10 : 305
Alice Lee ; by G. A. H. Douglas -	9 : 121
Aline ; by G. Stronach -	5 : 395
Allacardoch's braes ; by L. Robertson -	4 : 51
All glitter is not gold ; by J. Young -	3 : 161
All thine ; by A. S. Swan -	6 : 400
All things praise Thee ; by M. W. Wood	12 : 208
All things shall cease to be ; by D. G. Braidwood	7 : 285
Alma, the ; by W. Laing -	3 : 88
Alone ; by A. G. Scott -	7 : 239
Alone in London ; by H. B. Baildon -	4 : 148
Alone with nature ; by A. C. Alexander	5 : 303
Along the bay ; by A. S. Irving -	15 : 230
Along the shore ; by J. M'Taggart -	13 : 334
Amang the heather ; by W. Cross -	6 : 23
American critic, our ; by W. Dougall -	11 : 410
Amid the highland glens ; by H. A. Thomson	15 : 154
Amid the hills ; by F. A. Mackay -	10 : 385
Among my books ; by Earl of Rosslyn -	8 : 20

Among the hills ; by J. Kelly	-	10 : 91
Ane o' ilk hunder ; by C. Millar	-	15 : 401
Ane's ain fire en' ; by L. Robertson	-	4 : 52
Ane's ain hame ; by R. Lawson	-	9 : 222
Angel bird, the ; by D. Grant	-	9 : 180
Angel in the cloud, the ; by W. C. Cameron	-	3 : 275
Angel of death, the ; by J. T. Coutts	-	8 : 352
Angel of hope, the ; by J. G. Ingram	-	3 : 82
Angels, the ; by M. W. Fairbairn	-	10 : 253
Angler's song, the ; by A. N. Simpson	-	11 : 312
Angler's song, the ; by J. Ballantyne	-	11 : 116
Angler's trysting-tree, the ; by T. T. Stoddart	-	6 : 351
Angling in story and song ; by J. Dougall	-	13 : 214
Angling song ; by Nellie J. Agnew	-	13 : 108
Anither day is past ; by H. A. Dewar	-	10 : 69
Annie ; by A. Murray	-	9 : 215
Annie ; by J. M. Macculloch	-	15 : 442
Annie ; by W. S. Ridpath	-	2 : 244
Annie was my dearie, O ; by C. Sievwright	-	1 : 88
Anniversary poem ; by A. Munro	-	5 : 193
Annuit, the ; by G. Outram	-	2 : 216
Another baby ; by B. Howatson	-	11 : 264
Anticipation ; by W. D. White	-	13 : 340
Anxious mither, the ; by R. H. Calder	-	5 : 176
April ; by A. Falconer	-	13 : 309
April ; by J. Denham	-	6 : 58
April ; by J. G. Mackenzie	-	8 : 183
April mood, an ; by A. Brown	-	1 : 153
Aqua vite ; by A. Murray	-	9 : 216
Arab maid, the ; by D. S. Murray	-	9 : 357
Archie Allan ; by A. Laing	-	2 : 275
Archie an' Eppie ; by C. Sievwright	-	1 : 89
Ardrossan, a retrospect ; by H. Clark	-	6 : 361
Are oor folk in ? by Jessie K. Lawson	-	13 : 240
Aristocratic Descent ; by T. Whitehead	-	11 : 317
Arran for me ; by A. J. Symington	-	5 : 87
Artist, the ; by Jeannie Dodds	-	13 : 54
Artist's studio, an ; by G. Boyd	-	12 : 131
Artless Jean ; by R. Hetrick	-	4 : 371
As a flower of the glen ; by T. Murray	-	8 : 272
As I gaed doun Glenmoriston ; by H. Boulton	-	11 : 35
As I sat restin' alane ; by W. S. M'Intosh	-	9 : 70
Asleep in Jesus ; by M. Mackay	-	12 : 408
Aspirations of a young poet ; by W. Lamberton	-	10 : 377
As we talked together ; by W. B. Smith	-	11 : 98

At a soldier's grave ; by F. Ferguson	-	5 : 94
At evening time it shall be light ; by A. W. Gardiner		9 : 256
At evening time there shall be light ; by B. Parker		10 : 53
Athanasius contra mundum ; by G. Wilson	-	15 : 17
At her feet ; by Charlotte Jobling	-	8 : 298
At it again ; by J. D. Reid	-	10 : 81
At Kyle Rhea ; by A. Nicolson	-	3 : 419
At midnight with the book ; by W. Cowper	-	1 : 185
At the window ; by R. W. Hay	-	7 : 114
At twilight ; by S. Reid	-	10 : 115
At your ain fireside ; by W. J. Currie	-	11 : 231
August Idyl, an ; by W. A. Sim	-	7 : 245
Auld Ailie Brown ; by M. Inglis	-	10 : 59
Auld ash tree, the ; by R. Dinnie	-	13 : 295
Auld ash tree, the ; by T. Davidson	-	2 : 88
Auld Bessie's Lament ; by G. Turner	-	5 : 263
Auld Betty MacClood ; by J. L. Hercus	-	12 : 33
Auld birchen tree, the ; by A. Robertson	-	2 : 326
Auld blasted tree, the ; by A. Farquharson		13 : 279
Auld bleachin' green, the ; by J. Bridie	-	15 : 339
Auld brig, the ; by J. Bridie	-	15 : 340
Auld brig's welcome, the ; by W. Bruce		14 : 351
Auld care ; by T. Newbigging	-	3 : 405
Auld collie ; by R. Gairns	-	9 : 386
Auld corbie well, the ; by J. D. Walker	-	14 : 251
Auld creepie steel, the ; by G. A. G. Gibb		9 : 352
Auld daddy darkness : by J. Ferguson	-	1 : 150
Auld draw-well, the ; by D. B. Mackie	-	7 : 194
Auld Duncan ; by D. Grant	-	9 : 179
Auld emigrant, the ; by R. S. Bowie	-	6 : 225
Auld Eppie Brown ; by J. Stewart	-	1 : 212
Auld fail dyke, the ; by J. A. Sidey	-	3 : 399
Auld farm hoose, the ; by C. F. Honeyman	-	14 : 342
Auld fiddle, the ; by J. Niven	-	10 : 372
Auld fireside, the ; by D. W. Purdie	-	11 : 300
Auld folk, the ; by D. Cuthbertson	-	1 : 268
Auld folk, the ; by W. J. Currie	-	11 : 228
Auld folks, the ; by J. Stewart	-	7 : 271
Auld grannie ; by P. M'Neill	-	5 : 296
Auld grannie's taen awa' ; by R. Fisher		6 : 327
Auld granny Mucklejohn's view of the times ; by Charles Stewart	-	8 : 306
Auld gudewife o' the Drum, the ; by J. M'Kimm,		5 : 351
Auld Hemal hoose, the ; by T. Watts	-	3 : 74
Auld hoose, the ; by W. Allan	-	6 : 343

Auld hoose, the ; by J. Rae	-	14 : 212
Auld hoose, the ; by J. Urquhart	-	6 : 143
Auld hoose at hame, the ; by J. White	-	3 : 45
Auld Hughie's wooin' ; by J. Barr	-	12 : 285
Auld Jamie, the blacksmith ; by W. Milne	-	15 : 278
Auld John Nicol ; by P. Buchan	-	3 : 422
Auld Johnny Graham ; by W. Wilson	-	13 : 227
Auld kirk knock, the ; by Agnes C. M'Clintock	-	13 : 338
Auld kirkyaird, the ; by T. Morton	-	12 : 108
Auld kirkyaird, the ; by J. M. Macculloch	-	15 : 443
Auld kirkyaird, the ; by W. B. Smith	-	11 : 97
Auld kirkyard, the ; by J. G. Paterson	-	15 : 287
Auld kirkyard, the ; by A. Hamilton	-	7 : 243
Auld kirkyard, the ; by M. P. Aird	-	3 : 93
Auld kirkyard, the ; by C. Dawson	-	15 : 52
Auld laird's deid, the ; by W. Aitken	-	2 : 166
Auld langsyne ; by R. Hetrick	-	4 : 369
Auld Lewie Law : by J. Ogg	-	1 : 361
Auld Liz ; by W. T. M'Grigor	-	15 : 137
Auld Maggie's elegy ; by Thomas Murray	-	8 : 270
Auld man, the ; by James Westwood	-	8 : 262
Auld man, the ; by W. L. Low	-	15 : 76
Auld man, the ; by Walter Towers	-	8 : 346
Auld man, the ; by F. Barnard	-	10 : 295
Auld man creeps ower ane an' a', the ; by J. Livingstone	-	14 : 39
Auld man's fareweel, the ; by W. Garden	-	2 : 24
Auld man's last sang, an ; by J. Singer	-	12 : 118
Auld man's memories, an ; by J. Coghill	-	14 : 176
Auld man's sang, an ; by J. Norval	-	6 : 198
Auld man's soliloquy, the ; by A. Steel	-	3 : 78
Auld manse, the ; by M. Inglis	-	10 : 58
Auld manse, the ; by G. J. Lawrie	-	10 : 362
Auld Mary ; by W. Gardiner	-	9 : 253
Auld meal mill, the ; by D. B. Mackie	-	7 : 192
Auld meal mill, the ; by J. Smith	-	13 : 201
Auld mill wheel, the ; by R. Bennet	-	12 : 28
Auld mither Scotlan' ; by J. Hamilton	-	1 : 255
Auld Peter o' Hare ; by J. M'Gregor	-	14 : 155
Auld plough, the ; by F. Harper	-	6 : 345
Auld road en', the ; by J. P. Reid	-	6 : 243
Auld Sandy Malt ; by Margaret T. Bell	-	7 : 304
Auld schule, the ; by W. Blair	-	9 : 141
Auld schule, the ; by R. Lawson	-	9 : 221
Auld schule-bell, the ; by J. Browne	-	13 : 180

Auld Scotch sangs, the ; by G. W. Bethune	2 : 314
Auld Scotch sangs, the ; by D. Allan -	6 : 167
Auld Scotland ; by A. S. Robertson -	15 : 151
Auld Scotland isna dead ; by C. Stewart	8 : 308
Auld Scotland's Sabbath bells ; by J. Norval -	6 : 196
Auld Scottish thistle, the ; by John Orr -	8 : 328
Auld Scottish tongue, the ; by N. Ferguson	12 : 357
Auld slitrig brig, the ; by W. Scott -	2 : 69
Auld stockin' fit, the ; by A. Brown -	4 : 180
Auld summer seat, the ; by J. Christie -	15 : 223
Auld Tammas Marr ; by W. Reid -	2 : 350
Auld thackit biggin. the ; by W. Thomson -	5 : 252
Auld thackit hoose, the ; by R. M. Calder	12 : 48
Auld thing ower again ; by F. Buchanan -	11 : 137
Auld time ; by J. C. D. Fraser -	12 : 162
Auld times, the ; by G. Gibb -	3 : 378
Auld timmer brig, the ; by Hamilton Nimmo	8 : 249
Auld water barrel, the ; by J. Houston -	4 : 37
Auld Watty Brownlee ; by J. Hogg -	9 : 164
Auld wife's address to her gudeman, the ; by D. K. Coutts -	7 : 174
Auld wife's lament, the ; by J. Gardiner	4 : 42
Auld wife s sang, an ; by A. S. Laing -	12 : 60
Auld wooer, the—a song ; by J. C. Paterson	12 : 249
Auld year, the ; by M. Stott -	10 : 168
Aurora ; by Robert Pringle -	12 : 83
Australian Anthem ; by D. M'Leod -	12 : 293
Australian stockrider's second sight, the ; by Francis Sinclair -	14 : 59
Autumn ; by W. Officer -	8 : 365
Autumn ; by T. Whitehead -	11 : 316
Autumn ; by Lizzie D. Henderson -	8 : 91
Autumn ; by A. C. Alexander -	5 : 305
Autumn gloaming ; by L. Grant -	12 : 202
Autumn leaf, an ; by A. Brown -	1 : 154
Autumn leaf, the ; by R. S. Murray -	3 : 157
Autumn leaves ; by E. Davidson -	4 : 96
Autumn morning ; by J. Urquhart -	6 : 146
Autumn musings ; by G. Donald -	2 : 77
Autumn reflections ; by David Lindsay -	8 : 337
Autumn thought, an ; by C. H. Laubach	10 : 174
Autumn thoughts ; by A. Milne -	14 : 143
Awa' owre yon hill ; by G. Neil -	11 : 196
Awa' wi' them a' ; by J. Drake -	13 : 112
Awa' wi' sangs o' sorrow ; by W. Buchanan -	13 : 87

Awake, awake ; by J. L. Bain	-	10 : 163
Aye best at hame ; by A. M. Soutar	-	1 : 102
Aye dae your best ; by J. Kent	-	15 : 64
Aye do the best ye can ; by R. Hogg	-	7 : 237
Aye keep lookin up ; by D. Macmillan	-	14 : 301
Aye keep oot o' debt ; by A. Wedderburn	-	6 : 239
Aye keep your heart aboon ; by A. Wanless	-	5 : 58
Aye to the fore ; by J. Taylor	-	4 : 184
Aye work awa' ; by J. Wright	-	4 : 279
Ayrshire miners tale, an ; by G. Gebbie	-	15 : 387
Baabbie Gair ; by J. J. H. Burgess	-	14 : 193
Babie, the ; by J. E. Rankin	-	4 : 157
Baby ; by J. G. Carter	-	13 : 40
Baby ; by M. W. Wood	-	12 : 208
Baby ; by M. W. Fairbairn	-	10 : 251
Baby ; by G. Macdonald	-	2 : 270
Baby Alie ; by M. Grant	-	1 : 123
Baby and banjo ; by J. R. Nicolson	-	7 : 341
Baby died to-day ; by W. Leighton	-	1 : 296
Baby Elsie ; by R. Richardson	-	4 : 141
Baby Marion ; by J. Nicolson	-	1 : 235
Baby Violet ; by J. D. Reid	-	10 : 83
Bachelor's lament, a ; by A. Morris	-	12 : 403
Bachelor's lament, the ; by W. D. Latto	-	3 : 39
Back lying farm, a ; by J. L. Robertson	-	3 : 355
Bad harvest, a ; by J. Coghill	-	14 : 177
Bailie's knowe, the ; by N. Ferguson	-	12 : 358
Bairnie, the ; by W. W. Smith	-	2 : 142
Bairnie awa', the ; by P. M'Crakett	-	2 : 343
Bairnie on yer knee, the ; by F. Lennon	-	8 : 52
Bairnie tak's after his faither, the ; by R. M. Calder	-	12 : 44
Bairnies at hame, the ; by D. Tasker	-	2 : 281
Bairnies' dinner, the ; by W. A. M'Lachlan	-	13 : 402
Bairnies' hymns at e'en, the ; by T. Morton	-	12 : 106
Bairns, the ; by William Pyott	-	8 : 410
Bairns, the ; by I. A. Gray	-	11 : 294
Bairns, the ; by John Smith	-	13 : 202
Bairns in our street, the ; by J. Brown	-	5 : 235
Bairn's petition, the ; by J. Lauder	-	6 : 364
Bairns taegither ; by J. E. Rankin	-	4 : 158
Ballad ; by J. F. Cannon	-	4 : 190
Ballad ; by T. Bell	-	2 : 55
Ballad ; by J. Grant	-	10 : 356
Ballad ; by J. Grant	-	10 : 352
Ballad of bosh, the ; by W. Bayne	-	14 : 136

Ballad of Brechin, a ; by J. W. Fraser	-	12 : 315
Ballad of Seafield tower, the ; by M. Bean		15 : 312
Ballad : The gipsy woman of the tower ; by Margaret T. Bell	-	7 : 302
Ballade of old magazines ; by J. M. Bulloch		12 : 87
Balm and briar ; by A. Jeffrey	-	9 : 338
Baloo, my bairnie, fa' asleep ; by J. Smith	-	1 : 266
Bangin' the ba' ; by P. J. M'Mahon	-	13 : 99
Banks o' Doon, the ; by D. Waters	-	2 : 256
Banks o' Glazert, the ; by J. Shaw	-	4 : 374
Banks of Tarf, the ; by W. Nicolson	-	3 : 68
Banks o' the Dye, the ; by J. W. Brack	-	12 : 171
Bannockburn ; by W. Archer	-	4 : 106
Bannockburn ; by P. P. Alexander	-	10 : 239
Bard of Avon, the ; by W. Wilson	-	8 : 76
Bard of passion, the ; by J. A. Anderson		8 : 82
Bard's ghost, the ; by T. Whitehead	-	11 : 314
Barley bree, the ; by A. Dewar	-	10 : 247
Battle of Drumclog, the ; by A. G. Murdoch	-	1 : 181
Battle of Trafalgar ; by J. Johnston	-	8 : 324
Battle of Pentland Hills, the ; by J. Wright	-	3 : 127
Battle of Restenmet, the ; by G. H. Kinnear		9 : 87
Battle of Spearford, the ; by S. Wilson	-	13 : 71
Battle of the dead, the ; by C. Waddie		10 : 286
Battle of the Nile ; by J. Johnston	-	8 : 323
Bauldy Mill ; by J. Harrison	-	7 : 199
Bawbee saved is a bawbee gained, a ; by D. Gow		9 : 30
Be a man ; by J. Paul	-	11 : 386
Be a man ; by R. Chalmers	-	9 : 328
Beattie's garden lesson ; by J. Longmuir		2 : 47
Beauties of a border landscape, the ; by A. F. Garden	-	2 : 119
Beautiful home ; by J. Copeland	-	12 : 124
Beautiful in fading ; by R. B. Merrylees		5 : 118
Beautiful May ; by A. Glass	-	6 : 340
Beautiful sea, the ; by A. Brown	-	4 : 179
Beauty ; by W. Leighton	-	1 : 299
Beauty in nature ; by J. Taylor	-	15 : 421
Beauty is worthless when honour is lost ; by D. M. Hampton	-	8 : 361
Beauty o' life's gloamin', the ; by J. A. Duncan		15 : 70
Beauty o' Scotland, the ; by W. Neill	-	5 : 339
Beauty of nature, the ; by J. Kelly	-	10 : 90
Beauty's power ; by A. S. Irving	-	15 : 229
Beauty's power on the raging sea ; by G. Sproat		5 : 359

Bedtime ; by Earl of Rosslyn	-	8 : 19
Bedtime ; by J. M. E. Saxby	-	4 : 125
Bee in the bonnet, the ; by P. Anton	-	13 : 124
Beethoven at the piano ; by G. E. M. Lancaster	-	2 : 186
Before and after ; by George Eyre	-	8 : 57
Before the dawn ; by A. R. Cousin	-	5 : 111
Beggar wean ; by A. Hamilton	-	7 : 120
Beggar's fate, the ; by J. Trotter	-	11 : 190
Beggar's wallet, the ; by Hamilton Corbett	-	8 : 304
Be happy while you may ; by C. Macleod	-	9 : 162
Behind the veil ; by J. Cranstoun	-	3 : 304
Behold the Lamb of God ; by J. Proctor	-	2 : 83
Be kind to auld grannie ; by A. M'Kay	-	2 : 376
Be kind to the auld ; by J. W. Lyall	-	5 : 389
Be kind to the bairns ; by Alex. Snaddon	-	8 : 120
Be kind to the birdies ; by G. Watson	-	14 : 40
Bell ; by J. W. Fraser	-	12 : 314
Belle o' Lasswade, the ; by W. Stewart	-	12 : 90
Belshazzar's feast ; by J. H. Stirling	-	7 : 316
Bells, the ; by A. S. Swan	-	6 : 399
Benighted Englishman, the ; by D. Williamson	-	15 : 56
Benjie ; by A. Stewart	-	10 : 126
Bereavement ; by W. L. Alexander	-	10 : 229
Bereavement—hope ; by M. W. Fairbairn	-	10 : 254
Berwick Braes ; by G. Sutherland	-	8 : 211
Beside a little grave ; by W. C. Spens	-	2 : 127
Beside a wood ; by A. Reid	-	5 : 285
Bessie o' Mireyside Ha' ; by J. F. Mill	-	3 : 20
Best o' my fortune's the spending o't, the ; by W. Lamberton	-	10 : 377
Best thing wi' gear is the haining o't, the ; by A. M'Kay	-	2 : 377
Bethel ; by D. Macgregor	-	11 : 90
Bethlehem ; by J. R. Macduff	-	10 : 315
Better away ; by J. H. Simpson	-	9 : 380
Better sma' fish than nane ; by J. Macintosh	-	11 : 365
Betty's trust ; by J. Russell	-	1 : 14
Bewitched bachelor unbewitched, the ; by A. Stewart	-	5 : 82
Bible, the ; by M. Macphail	-	7 : 88
Biddy Magee ; by W. Dalgliesh	-	15 : 68
Bidin' her time ; by J. G. Paterson	-	15 : 285
Bield on the mountain, the ; by W. M'Queen	-	1 : 32
Big arm-chair, the ; by R. Mennon	-	3 : 130
Big tea kettle, a ; by D. Carmichael	-	9 : 91

Biggin' on the brae, the ; by J. M. Neilson	1 : 37
Billy's rose ; by G. R. Sims	11 : 65
Birchen tree, the ; by A. Milne	14 : 142
Birchington revisited ; by W. Sharp	10 : 396
Bird and the bee, the ; by J. D. Burns	4 : 238
Bird in the garden ; by P. Still, junr.	1 : 175
Bird in the hand is worth twa on a tree, a ; by Alex. Snaddon	8 : 118
Birdies, the ; by W. Leighton	1 : 297
Birds ; by J. B. Crombie	11 : 370
Birds and bards of Bonnie Scotland, the ; by D. M. M'Neil	6 : 319
Bird's message, the ; by M. T. Whitlock	10 : 147
Bird's nest, the ; by Mrs J. C. Simpson	8 : 375
Bird's nest, the ; by A. Smart	11 : 80
Birkenshaw ; by J. Rae	14 : 214
Birth of a song, the ; by J. E. H. Thomson	4 : 111
Birth of Burns, the ; by Jessie K. Lawson	13 : 242
Bishop's well, the ; by W. Blair	9 : 138
Bittie nearer hame, a ; by J. Whitelaw	11 : 257
Black Thursday ; by M. K. Beveridge	12 : 261
Black Saturday, the ; by J. Murray	3 : 150
Blackbird, the ; by J. B. Brown	7 : 39
Blackbird's lament, the ; by C. Will	9 : 366
Blacksmith, the ; by P. J. M'Mahon	13 : 100
Blacksmith, the ; by J. H. Stoddart	2 : 300
Blake, William ; by J. Thomson	7 : 166
Blantyre ; by W. C. Spens	2 : 128
Blawearie, I'm wae ; by G. M'Murdo	5 : 222
Bless the weans ; by T. Thomson	6 : 79
Blessed are they that mourn ; by I. F. Mayo	11 : 131
Blighted life, a ; by A. Shand	1 : 339
Blind ; by J. Greig	9 : 62
Blind, blind, blind ; by J. Morison	3 : 325
Blind Alice ; by R. Duthie	14 : 231
Blind boy's lament, the ; by H. A. Dewar	10 : 68
Blind lassie, the ; by T. C. Latto	5 : 336
Blind musician, the ; by James Milligan	8 : 143
Blindness and vision ; by G. T. S. Farquhar	13 : 406
Blinkin' o't, the ; by J. Greig	13 : 192
Blood on my hands ; by B. Parker	10 : 51
Blood on the wheel ; by A. Anderson	1 : 165
Blood-stained road, the ; by F. Mary Colquhoun	14 : 292
Blossom and Babe ; by W. Canton	11 : 20
Blow him home ; by Charlotte Jobling	8 : 298

Blowing bubbles ; by Emily Leith	-	8 : 166
Blue-eyed maid, the ; by R. S. Mutch	-	13 : 329
Blue-eyed Speedwell, the ; by S. Macnamara	-	14 : 311
Blyth summer's awa ; by J. Pettigrew	-	5 : 36
Boast na' the bairnie ; by J. Leggat	-	4 : 188
Bobby's prayer ; by D. Russel	-	12 : 128
Bocht wit's best ; by J. Chapman	-	2 : 322
Body's complaint of the soul, the ; by Elizabeth Craigmyle	-	13 : 177
Bon-accord ; by W. D. Geddes	-	15 : 179
Bonnets o' bonnie Dundee, the ; by Maggie Todd	-	13 : 158
Bonnie Ayr ; by E. Smith	-	3 : 100
Bonnie bairnies ; by Colin Sievwright	-	1 : 90
Bonnie banks o' Noran, the ; by A. E. Thomson	-	7 : 354
Bonnie bird ; by Earl of Southesk	-	1 : 115
Bonnie bird, the ; by F. Bennoch	-	6 : 386
Bonnie Bonaly ; by J. W. Mason	-	7 : 96
Bonnie braes o' Dun. the ; by J. A. Duthie	-	1 : 308
Bonnie burnie ; by N. Thomson	-	9 : 391
Bonnie bus' o' brier ; by P. M'Neill	-	5 : 297
Bonnie Deeside ; by W. Carnie	-	7 : 206
Bonnie Dryfe ; by W. Gardiner	-	9 : 255
Bonnie faded flower ; by A. J. Willock	-	9 : 402
Bonnie is the land o' Garioch ; by W. Gordon	-	14 : 246
Bonnie Jean ; by F. Henrietta	-	5 : 167
Bonnie Jean o' Auchinha' ; by T. M'Lauchlan	-	1 : 156
Bonnie Jean's lament ; by J. P. Reid	-	6 : 243
Bonnie lass o' Broughty Ferry, the ; by G. Duthie	-	7 : 347
Bonnie lassie tell me ; by J. Wynd	-	1 : 382
Bonnie Lismore ; by W. Gardiner	-	9 : 254
Bonnie Mary ; by J. Rae	-	14 : 214
Bonnie Mary Puce ; by W. C. Sturoc	-	4 : 343
Bonny Mary Græme ; by G. Pirie	-	4 : 197
Bonnie May ; by D. Burns	-	14 : 388
Bonnie Meg ; by W. W. Smith	-	2 : 143
Bonnie Nith ; by D. Russel	-	12 : 129
Bonnie Noranside ; by J. Kennedy	-	6 : 216
Bonnie Ochtertyre ; by D. Kippen	-	15 : 141
Bonnie Scotland ; by T. Thorpe	-	4 : 23
Bonnie Strathyre ; by H. Boulton	-	11 : 36
Bonnie streams o' Ayrshire, the ; by A. Glass	-	6 : 341
Bonnie wee Sam ; by R. A. Dakers	-	14 : 146
Bonnie wee trootie, the ; by J. Dougall	-	13 : 211
Bonnie woods o' Fyvie, the ; by A. K. Dorward	-	13 : 348
Bonnie woods of Luthrie, the ; by P. Begg	-	4 : 211

Bonny Glencotha ; by G. Dobie	-	5 : 133
Bonny Teenie Broon : by J. Taylor	-	1 : 80
Boo to the bus' that bield's ye ; by J. Usher	-	10 : 277
Boo-man. the ; by J. Norval	-	6 : 199
Boortree, the ; by J. G. Carter	-	13 : 42
Border maiden, the ; by J. W. Fraser	-	12 : 316
Borderer's keep, the ; by J. L. Hercus	-	12 : 36
Borderland ; by J. Inglis	-	3 : 236
Borthwick braes ; by M. Barr	-	2 : 203
Boss nut, the ; by H. G. M'Laren	-	13 : 162
Botanist's song, the ; by A. Stewart	-	15 : 102
Bouquet. the ; by J. Stuart	-	9 : 316
Bowl o' bluid, the ; by G. Cooper	-	6 : 74
Bowler's song, the ; by J. Smith	-	12 : 365
Boyhood ; by J. Wilson	-	5 : 380
Boyhood in old Glasgow : by P. Barrie	-	9 : 186
Boys are away, the ; by I. F. Darling	-	9 : 278
Braes o' Blackcastle, the ; by J. Roger	-	3 : 52
Braes o' Loch Awe, the ; by R. Bell	-	15 : 308
Braes o' Lochlee, the ; by J. Campbell	-	7 : 263
Braes o' Galloway, the ; by W. Nicolson	-	3 : 69
Brave and fair, the ; by J. M. Bell	-	1 : 350
Brave auld sangs, the ; by G. Paulin	-	3 : 361
Braw young lad, the ; by R. D. Jamieson	-	13 : 32
Bread ; by S. S. Jerdan	-	2 : 20
Brechin's braes : by D. Kirkland	-	15 : 192
Brevity of human life, the ; by W. D. Latto	-	3 : 40
Bricht sun had faded. the ; by R. S. Bowie	-	6 : 227
Bridal o' the robins the ; by Walter Watt	-	8 : 227
Bridal there will be, a ; by T. Dykes	-	5 : 73
Bride, the ; by A. Cowan	-	11 : 44
Bride's lament, the ; by A. Laing	-	6 : 152
Bright blooming inland so gay, the ; by C. Macpherson	-	3 : 34
Bright through scenes of beauty ; by J. Park	-	9 : 75
Brightest side, the ; by W. M. Smart	-	11 : 212
Bring flowers ; by M. Cross	-	1 : 312
Bring them home ; by I. F. Darling	-	9 : 279
British ass, the ; by A. Nicolson	-	3 : 420
British association. 1874 ; by J. C. Maxwell	-	8 : 127
British oak, the ; by T. T. Stoddart	-	6 : 350
Brittle thread, the ; by W. T. M'Grigor	-	15 : 139
Broken heart, the ; by W. Scott	-	2 : 373
Broken troth, the ; by A. Falconer	-	13 : 308
Broken verses ; by H. G. M'Laren	-	13 : 162

Brook, the ; by G. Clark	-	11 : 153
Brooklet, the ; by W. C. Spens	-	2 : 127
Brooklet, the ; by R. M. Adamson	-	15 : 377
Broomy braes o' hame, the ; by R. Fleming	-	4 : 199
Brotherhood, the ; by J. Thomson	-	6 : 309
Bruised reed, the ; by W. B. Robertson	-	12 : 25
Bucket, the ; by P. Still	-	3 : 308
Bud, a ; by A. S. Wilson	-	8 : 393
Buds, the ; by A. Gordon	-	9 : 101
Buikin' o' Robin and Mirren, the ; by P. Buchan	-	3 : 423
Building of a ship, the ; by A. Macpherson	-	8 : 254
Bunch of heather bells, the ; by J. Linen	-	7 : 144
Bundle o' clouts, the ; by A. Watt	-	3 : 137
Buynan ; by H. Cundell	-	9 : 225
Buried treasures ; by M. H. Browne	-	14 : 108
Burn, the ; by P. Bayne	-	14 : 123
Burn, the ; by R. Bell	-	15 : 306
Burn, the ; by W. Shelley	-	1 : 140
Burnie, the ; by W. Wallace	-	7 : 202
Burnie, the ; by J. Nicholson	-	1 : 239
Burnie on the hill. the ; by J. Mooney	-	10 : 156
Burnie that wins to the sea, the ; by J. A. Sidey	-	3 : 396
Burns ; by H. Cundell	-	9 : 225
Burns ; by T. Faed	-	12 : 353
Burns' birthday song ; by A. Lowson	-	14 : 102
Burns' centenary celebration ; by J. Bridie	-	15 : 342
Burns' centenary prize song ; by H. M'Kenzie	-	8 : 180
Burns' vision of the future ; by M. Macphail	-	6 : 298
Bush ab on Traquair, the ; by J. C. Shairp	-	9 : 195
But ; by J. Bower	-	4 : 362
Butterfly treasures ; by M. Wallace	-	1 : 293
By a poet's grave ; by G. Paterson	-	4 : 228
By-and-by ; by Emily Leith	-	8 : 165
By-and-by ; by S. S. Jerdan	-	2 : 21
By crystal streams ; by J. Kelly	-	1 : 172
By Islay's shores ; by W. Black	-	10 : 23
By the auld trystin' tree ; by W. Dalgliesh	-	15 : 68
By the clear windin' Mosset ; by J. M'Queen	-	13 : 47
By the gate ; by J. Fullerton	-	1 : 16
By the restless sea ; by J. Tatlow	-	6 : 206
By the rippling stream ; by J. Robb	-	6 : 163
By the river ; by R. Bain	-	13 : 237
By the river Jed ; by J. Jamieson	-	5 : 190
By the sea ; by G. Boyd	-	12 : 134
By the sea ; by J. Denham	-	6 : 57

By yon burnside ; by M. J. Murchie	-	9 : 266
By yon burnside ; by P. Duncan	-	3 : 169
Cabin boy, the ; by W. Freeland	-	5 : 25
Caged bird, the ; by J. W. Wood	-	3 : 346
Caged lark, the ; by Colin Rae-Brown	-	8 : 380
Caged lark, the ; by M. N. Robson	-	14 : 33
Caledonia ; by H. A. Maclean	-	10 : 86
Caledonia's blue bells ; by D. M. Crerar	-	6 : 123
Caller ou ! by T. Dykes	-	5 : 72
Caller ou' ; by John Smith	-	15 : 212
Cam ye doon ; by J. Grant	-	10 : 356
Cameron's fareweel, the ; by J. Currie	-	3 : 121
Cameron's Gathering, the ; by D. Graham	-	9 : 104
Cameronian Regiment, the ; by W. Bennet	-	12 : 384
Campsie Glen ; by J. Shaw	-	4 : 373
Campsie Glen ; by J. Lawson	-	11 : 69
Can the birds be singing to me ? by J. H. C. Ford	-	8 : 137
Can we forget ? by J. C. Figg	-	4 : 60
Canaanite's daughter, the ; by G. Reid	-	15 : 38
Candidate, the ; by A. Thomson	-	15 : 187
Candidate, the ; by W. K. Moore	-	11 : 144
Canticum in aliam matrem Aberdonensem ; by W. D. Geddes	-	15 : 182
Canting auld kimmer, the ; by W. Cross	-	6 : 22
Canzonette ; by C. S. Osburn Blackburn	-	13 : 350
Capon tree, the ; by Wm. Oliver	-	8 : 100
Captive lark, the ; by R. S. Inglis	-	10 : 303
Captives ; by Lady C. Elliot	-	1 : 57
Captive's return, the ; by P. H. Thoms	-	7 : 264
Carle, the ; by R. D. Jamieson	-	13 : 30
Carle he lap across the burn, the ; by T. Newbigging	-	3 : 405
Carlise Cathedral ; by F. Millar	-	2 : 266
Carlyle ; by J. Y. Geddes	-	1 : 244
Carpe diem ; by W. Smith	-	13 : 268
Carrick hills, the ; by W. J. M. Rankine	-	5 : 33
Carrier lad, the ; by D. Kennedy	-	5 : 49
Castle-Kennedy ; by W. Milne	-	15 : 280
Castlelaw ; by F. A. Mackay	-	10 : 385
Castles in the air ; by R. Somerville	-	4 : 163
Castles in the air ; by M. B. White	-	14 : 316
Castles in the air ; by J. Ballantine	-	3 : 28
Cataplasm, the ; by J. Galbraith	-	2 : 152
Catherine M'Nee ; by W. A. M'Lachlan	-	13 : 403

Cauld fire-en', the ; by J. Brown	5 : 233
Cauld was the blast ; by A. Cairns	6 : 100
Cauld winter's come at last ; by D. Keith	4 : 194
Caumstane laddie, the ; by G. Turner	5 : 262
Celestial city, the ; by A. G. Middleton	12 : 273
Ceres races ; by J. W. Wood	3 : 344
Change ; by J. Ballantine	5 : 383
Change ; by M. Swan	10 : 45
Changed ; by A. Lamont	3 : 295
Channel stane, the ; by J. Usher	10 : 279
Charade ; by A. Scott	5 : 138
Charity ; by J. Blair	13 : 150
Charity ; by H. Nisbet	5 : 160
Charlie's grave ; by D. Macrae	2 : 191
Charming little Minnie, O ; by W. D. Jeffrey	8 : 107
Chatterton's last hours ; by G. Eyre	8 : 55
Checkmate ; by L. M'Kenzie	15 : 324
Cheek ; by G. Wallace	14 : 355
Cheer ; by A. J. Symington	5 : 90
Cheerfulness o' simmer, the ; by D. Thomson	2 : 116
Chequered way, the ; by A. Brown	1 : 155
Chieftain's coronach, the ; by J. N. Paton	2 : 298
Chieftain's grave, the ; by J. Inglis	13 : 397
Child and the bird, the ; by D. Grant	9 : 176
Child and the robin, the ; by W. Wallace	7 : 203
Child and the rose, the ; by A. Reid	9 : 157
Child and the snowdrop, the ; by C. F. Hunter	9 : 31
Child comforter, the ; by D. S. Murray	9 : 355
Child memories ; by J. Black	2 : 179
Child of shame, a ; by H. B. Baildon	4 : 150
Childhood ; by Walter Towers	8 : 347
Childhood ; by J. Bell	10 : 343
Childhood's days ; by G. Gibb	3 : 377
Childhood's days ; by R. Hutcheon	3 : 224
Childhood's love ; by M. N. Robson	14 : 35
Children, joyous tripping ; by S. S. Campbell	15 : 267
Children of Scotia, bold and brave ; by O. Macpherson	12 : 299
Children's Christmas eve and morning, the ; by Ada E. Taylor	5 : 328
Children's Christmas hymn ; by J. S. Scotland	12 : 413
Child's angel, the ; by W. B. Robertson	12 : 22
Child's fancy, a ; by J. Mather	15 : 248
Chit-chat by a little kit-cat ; by R. C. Milne	15 : 79
Choice, the ; by G. W. Somerville	4 : 172

Choillemhor ; by Joanna Bogue	5 : 342
Chords of a heart ; by W. C. Spens	2 : 125
Christ is coming ; by J. R. Macduff	10 : 314
Christ within the veil ; by A. R. Cousin	5 : 110
Christian aspirations ; by J. Trotter	11 : 189
Christian brotherhood ; by Grace P. Chalmers	5 : 214
Christian hero, the ; by W. H. Gray	10 : 201
Christian soldier putting off his armour at the gates of Hades, the ; by G. Wilson	15 : 16
Christian's aspirations, the ; by T. Blair	13 : 379
Christian's home, the ; by P. H. Thoms	7 : 266
Christians in the Catacombs, the ; by Mrs G. S. Menteath	8 : 265
Christian's watchword. the ; by J. Fettes	12 : 138
Christmas eve ; by J. P. Whittet	11 : 397
Christmas eve ; by A. King	10 : 36
Church militant, the ; by I. F. Mayo	11 : 130
Church's hymn of praise, the ; by Grace P. Chalmers	5 : 215
City arabs ; by W. Thomson	5 : 251
City by night, the ; by T. Morton	12 : 107
City by the sea, the ; by R. Bain	13 : 235
City flowers ; by D. Maclean	9 : 299
City of dreadful night, the ; by J. Thomson	7 : 172
City of the sad, the ; by D. Bruce	6 : 275
Clang of my sabre is music to me, the ; by G. W. Anderson	14 : 26
Clansman, the ; by John Macleod (of Morven)	15 : 430
Clashin' Jenny Tinkler ; by J. Barr	12 : 289
Clean fireside, a ; by R. Tennant	1 : 170
Clean hearthstane, the ; by J. Moffat	13 : 337
Clearance song, the ; by J. C. Shairp	9 : 198
Clinical examination, the ; by John Smith	15 : 208
Clink o' the chink, the ; by D. Ogilvy	1 : 50
Clitumnus by moonlight ; by D. M'Corkindale	5 : 171
Clo'—old clo' ! by K. Robertson	9 : 346
Cloud and calm ; by P. Anderson	15 : 95
Clouds ; by J. Taylor	4 : 176
Clouds ; by M. N. Robson	14 : 36
Clouds, the ; by G. Jacque	3 : 200
Clouds, the ; by J. H. C. Ford	8 : 133
Cobbler's song, a ; by A. S. Robertson	15 : 150
Cock e'e, the ; by M. M. Harper	14 : 206
Coila ; by M. Moir	4 : 387
Colbrand's tower ; by J. Dodds	4 : 243
Cold is the mould ; by J. G. M. Heddle	10 : 196

Cold light of stars, the ; by J. L. Robertson	3 : 359
Collier's ragged wean, the ; by D. Wingate	2 : 287
Colourless life, a ; by M. Fraser	9 : 336
Come and woo ; by R. Reid	1 : 318
Come away ; by J. Andrew	4 : 292
Come back, my dearie ; by A. M. Soutar	1 : 104
Come back to me, my love ; by J. Bogue	15 : 22
Come, boys, come ; by R. B. Thomson	7 : 157
Come doon to the burnside ; by J. Y. Gray	10 : 260
Come doon the howm ; by J. P. Crawford	1 : 375
Come forth ; by P. G. Fraser	13 : 255
Come, gentle eve ; by G. Boyd	12 : 132
Come hame, gudeman ; by T. Knox	9 : 113
Come, hie to the mountains ; by D. Bremner	11 : 206
Come, hing yer heads ; by James Thomson	15 : 320
Come, Holy Spirit ; by W. Robertson	7 : 59
Come, Holy Spirit ; by D. Ironside	10 : 401
Come home ; by J. Gerrie	1 : 356
Come, love, where lintwhites sing ; by W. A. B. Mackinlay	12 : 340
Come mirth ; by J. Allison	3 : 375
Come near me ; by H. Dryerre	5 : 278
Come, raise your strains ; by D. S. Allan	12 : 73
Come unto Me ; by R. P. Scott	9 : 42
Come unto Me ; by A. Keith	7 : 274
Come weary pilgrim ; by C. Macleod	9 : 161
Come wi' me, Bessie ; by J. J. S. Watson	3 : 264
Come with me in my light-built boat ; by Nellie J. Agnew	13 : 107
Come with me, O ; by W. Fulton	12 : 380
Comfort in adversity ; by M. Cousin	4 : 366
Coming o' the spring, the ; by A. Watt	3 : 141
Coming rest, the ; by J. Fettes	12 : 139
Coming tempest. a ; by J. H. Stirling	7 : 315
Communion anthem ; by J. Cooper	15 : 382
Comparison. a ; by R. A. Macfie	8 : 86
Comparisons ; by M. Fraser	9 : 333
Comparisons ; by P. Comrie	9 : 360
Comrade, goodbye ; by J. D. Reid	10 : 76
Confide in your mother ; by M. N. Robson	14 : 32
Conjugal felicity ; by W. D. Latto	3 : 41
Consecration hymn ; by J. Stewart	7 : 268
Consider the lily ; by D. G. Mitchell	11 : 31
Consider the lilies ; by A. Keith	7 : 273
Consider the lilies ; by A. Reid	5 : 284

Consider the lilies ; by Jeannie Dodds	-	13 : 55
Consider the lilies : by J. Hume	-	13 : 154
Contentment ; by R. D. Jamieson	•	13 : 29
Contentment : by Thomas Stewart	-	8 : 190
Contrast, a ; by T. L. F. Livingstone	-	9 : 168
Contrasts ; by J. Nichol	-	2 : 246
Conundrum ; by R. Whyte	-	8 : 31
Convalescent in London ; by J. B. Brown	-	7 : 36
Convict's sigh, the ; by R. Swan	-	10 : 62
Coo wi' the iron tail, the ; by W. Walker	-	3 : 104
Coontin' did it, the ; by J. D. Reid	-	15 : 168
Coo's calved noo, the ; by J. Scorgie	-	5 : 323
Coster's farewell, the ; by Colin C. Rac-Brown	-	8 : 388
Cosy lamb in cosy fold ; by R. A. Scott	-	14 : 275
Cot, the ; by W. Hamilton	-	8 : 293
Cot on the brae, the ; by A. Sutherland	-	10 : 40
Cottage by the quarry, the ; by W. Forsyth	-	13 : 208
Cottage by the sea, the ; by Mrs F. M. Macrae	-	11 : 405
Cottage on the moor, the ; by I. F. Darling	-	9 : 276
Country's sangs, our ; by T. L. Work	-	12 : 218
Courage ; by W. Graham	-	5 : 400
Courage ; by J. M. Manners	-	2 : 291
Courage take ; by J. Burr	-	10 : 206
Course of feigned love never did run smooth, the ; by T. Davidson	-	2 : 89
Covenanter, the ; by D. Arnot	-	8 : 319
Covenanter's clover, the ; by A. Knox	-	14 : 362
Covenanters' Monument, the ; by A. D. Hossack	-	12 : 185
Cradle song, a : by M. Gray	-	14 : 189
Cradle that rockit us a', the ; by A. T. Matthews	-	13 : 273
Craignair ; by G. Sproat	•	5 : 358
Craw's wedding, the ; by T. M'Ewan	-	12 : 335
Creative wisdom ; by D. Buchanan	-	6 : 329
Creep afore ye gang ; by J. Ballantine	-	3 : 28
Creep before you gae ; by P. Livingstone	-	1 : 229
Cripple laddie, the ; by J. Gow	-	8 : 282
Cripple laddie, the ; by A. Smart	-	11 : 76
Cripple orphan loon, the ; by E. Catto	-	1 : 145
Cronies, the ; by J. Gilkison	-	13 : 172
Crook and Plaid, the ; by Hamilton Nimmo	-	8 : 247
Cross, the ; by A. R. Cousin	-	5 : 113
Cross of Constantine, the ; by Lady F. Hastings	-	3 : 234
Crossing the Fairport Bar ; by J. Christie	-	5 : 369
Crowned with myrtle ; by A. S. Irving	-	15 : 229
Crusader's song ; by A. Cowan	-	11 : 47

Cry from the city, a ; by H. G. M'Laren	13 : 164
Cuckoo, a summer ode, the ; by A. J. Symington	5 : 88
Cuddle doon, my bairnie ; by G. J. Gordon	2 : 258
Cuddle into mammie ; by G. Watson	14 : 39
Culloden ; by J. Chapman	2 : 321
Cumha Neill Mhic-Dhomhnaill ; by M. Macpherson	15 : 44
Curling ; by A. Watson	13 : 368
Curling song ; by Walter Watt	8 : 229
Curling song ; by J. Christie	6 : 265
Curling song ; by H. Shanks	11 : 377
Curly pow : by E. Williamson	2 : 306
Cushendall ; by T. Miller	5 : 151
Da, da, da ; by W. Hamilton	8 : 295
Daddie's awa' at the war ; by R. B. Thomson	7 : 156
Daddy, look at Tottie ; by J. Alexander	7 : 225
Dainty bit plan, the ; by W. Cross	6 : 25
Dairsie Castle ; by J. F. Bremner	6 : 170
Daisies ; by R. R. Anderson	6 : 407
Daisies, the ; by R. Whittet	6 : 134
Daisy, the ; by D. Ramsay	15 : 238
Daisy, the ; by A. J. Willock	9 : 403
Daisy buds ; by W. Lyle	6 : 31
Daisy chain, a ; by A. C. Miller	15 : 299
Daisy house, the ; by R. B. Merrylees	5 : 121
Daisy's just as bonnie, the ; by J. Macaulay	9 : 342
Dame Scott ; by P. Begg	4 : 212
Dante and Beatrice ; by Emily Leith	8 : 166
Darby O'Reilly ; by J. Harrison	7 : 198
Dark Flodden field ; by A. Adamson	14 : 86
Darkest o' clouds hae aye silver lining, the ; by J. White	3 : 48
Das ist im leben ; by R. M. Adamson	15 : 376
Dashing young fellow, the ; by W. J. M. Rankine	5 : 31
Daughter's lament, the ; by J. Paul	11 : 392
David Kennedy ; by A. King	10 : 37
Davie Dakers ; by I. Robertson	11 : 169
Day-dream the ; by D. Hutcheson	3 : 24
Day-spring, the ; by R. E. Murray	3 : 156
Day by day ; by A. R. Cousin	5 : 112
Day in February, a ; by M. B. White	14 : 317
Day that first I saw ye, the ; by W. Graham	5 : 398
Days o' langsyne, the ; by J. C. Guthrie	1 : 216
Days o' langsyne, the ; by James Thomson	10 : 269
Days of old ; by D. Maclean	9 : 298
Days of other years, the ; by J. G. Ingram	3 : 84

Days that were dearest, the ; by R. H. W. Smith	5 : 107
Dead ; by A. J. F. Wedderburn	9 : 324
Dead child, the ; by M. Gray	14 : 188
Dead fisherman, the ; by W. L. Low	15 : 74
Dead lark, the ; by T. Anderson	14 : 165
Dear auld Scotland ; by R. D. Jamieson	13 : 28
Dear Kelvin glade ; by J. Bogue	15 : 22
Dear little Loo ; by I. A. Gray	11 : 297
Dear names ; by J. Dalgity	7 : 209
Dear old days, the ; by W. G. Gall	14 : 265
Dear Scotland ; by P. Gardner	10 : 318
Death ; by P. P. Alexander	10 : 238
Death ; by J. D. Reid	10 : 80
Death ; by J. E. H. Thomson	4 : 112
Death ; by J. Macanlay	9 : 341
Death ; by J. Milligan	8 : 142
Death and Marion ; by W. G. M'Gill	5 : 361
Death at the palace ; by E. Allison	7 : 151
Death in Yarrow ; by J. B. Brown	7 : 41
Death o' grannie, the ; by H. Muir	10 : 176
Death of a believer, the ; by J. D. Burns	4 : 236
Death of Achilles ; by A. L. Gordon	12 : 233
Death of Chatterton, the ; by J. P. Brown	9 : 80
Death of Samson, the ; by J. A. Anderson	8 : 80
Death of Summer, the ; by J. B. Brown	7 : 40
Death of the flowers, the ; by T. Thorpe	4 : 25
Death of time, the ; by J. Stuart	9 : 321
Death review ; by J. Donald	14 : 130
Death, the divider ; by H. B. Baildon	4 : 152
Deathless : by W. Gifford	13 : 352
Death's Shadows ; by J. Smith	12 : 366
Debauchee, the ; by R. Swan	10 : 63
Debt unpaid, a ; by A. H. Japp	2 : 111
Decadence of the Scots language, manners, and customs, the ; by J. L. Robertson	3 : 356
Deein' beggar, the ; by W. M'Dougall	4 : 20
Deein' laddie's address to his mither, the ; by J. Currie	3 : 120
Deein' widow's wail, the ; by J. Norval	6 : 198
Deep sea graves ; by J. Morrison	3 : 326
Deer are away to the silver wood, the ; by J. Park	9 : 77
Deeside—Braemar to Balmoral ; by A. Woolnoth	10 : 119
Deil in love, the ; by T. Watson	2 : 220
Deil's stane, the ; by D. M. Smith	2 : 213
• Den Finella ; by M. Duthie	8 : 204

Departed nigh, the ; by W. B. Robertson	12 : 23
Deserted Gael, the ; by N. Macleod	6 : 234
Despondency ; by A. Thomson	15 : 189
Destruction of Pompeii ; by P. Spence	13 : 140
Devil's dream, the ; by T. Aird	3 : 211
Dewdrop and the moonbeam, the ; by T. Newbigging	3 : 404
Dewdrop and the rose, the ; by W. G. Gall	14 : 266
Dewdrop on a rose, a ; by L. Grant	12 : 199
Dewdrops ; by A. Gordon	9 : 100
Dews ; by W. Thomson	2 : 156
Diana ; by P. Bayne	14 : 117
Did you ever think to write a poem ? by J. W. Gordon	15 : 330
Didactic poem ; by J. T. F. Farquhar	14 : 77
Died at his loom ; by J. D. Walker	14 : 249
Died at sea ; by J. W. Paxton	6 : 179
Died on the street ; by J. Y. Geddes	1 : 245
Dies irae ; by W. B. Robertson	12 : 26
Dinna gie her drink, my laddie ; by W. Walker	8 : 224
Dinna greet for me ; by J. Murray	3 : 154
Dirge, a ; by J. Leask	14 : 127
Diotima ; by W. Lyle	6 : 34
Discordant harp, the ; by A. Pringle	7 : 236
Dithyramb, a ; by J. L. Robertson	3 : 358
Do angels bid them come ? by J. A. Sidey	3 : 400
Do I love her ? yes, I love her ; by P. Gardiner	10 : 320
Do stay ; by M. A. Smith	1 : 384
Do you remember ? by J. Kyd	11 : 119
Doctor, the ; by J. McPherson	11 : 107
Doctor Irongray ; by R. C. Buist	12 : 350
Doctor's maid, the ; by J. Scorgie	5 : 324
Doddie ; by D. S. Murray	9 : 355
Dominie's dochter, the ; by A. J. Armstrong	5 : 255
Dominie's snuffbox, the ; by Ella Burton	8 : 170
Donald and Lucy ; by J. Linen	7 : 140
Don't forget the rich ; by Lord Neaves	3 : 114
Don't fret about it ; by S. Macnamara	14 : 311
Doodles gets a tooth ; by J. W. Greene	15 : 349
Doon at the heel ; by R. M. Calder	12 : 47
Doon by a wee bit wimplin' burn ; by C. Nicol	6 : 71
Doon whaur the echo rings ; by T. Anderson	14 : 165
Dorts, the mason ; by W. C. Smith	3 : 248
Dotty ; by J. Leck	4 : 133
Double search, the ; by A. R. Cousin	5 : 112

Douglas ; by J. W. Fraser	-	12 : 318
Down in the mighty deep ; by J. P. Whittet	-	11 : 396
Down Whitechapel way ; by I. F. Mayo	-	11 : 130
Dreadful minutes, the ; by C. Mackay	-	13 : 22
Dream of a dream, a ; by T. C. Tyrie	-	8 : 356
Dream of another world, a ; by J. G. Ingram	-	3 : 83
Dream of the north countree a ; J. Howat	-	15 : 296
Dream of youth, a ; by A. M'Lean	-	6 : 136
Dreamer, the ; by J. Tatlow	-	6 : 207
Dreamer, the ; by J. Thomson	-	7 : 167
Dreaming and working ; by R. M. Fergusson	-	6 : 269
Dreaming of thee ; by J. Strang	-	7 : 360
Dreamland ; by B. Howatson	-	11 : 266
Dreams ; by Mrs Balfour	-	14 : 359
Dreams ; by A. Steele	-	12 : 150
Dreams ; by W. C. Sturoc	-	4 : 346
Dreams of heaven ; by C. P. Craig	-	6 : 302
Dreams of Home ; by W. Henderson	-	7 : 283
Drieck i' the draw ; by G. J. Gordon	-	2 : 258
Dressing Dolly ; by D. Carmichael	-	9 : 92
Drifting apart ; by F. Sinclair	-	14 : 57
Drink ; by R. C. M'Fee	-	13 : 313
Drop of dew, a ; by J. Airth	-	6 : 66
Drought and doctrine ; by J. B. Stephens	-	12 : 307
Droukit pedlar, the ; by J. Kennedy	-	6 : 217
Drowned ; by R. S. G. Anderson	-	11 : 201
Drunkard, the ; by F. Draper	-	9 : 53
Drunkard's bairn, the ; by J. Hutchison	-	13 : 185
Drunkard's funeral, the ; by J. Tod	-	9 : 131
Dry up thy tearfu' e'e ; by G. Cooper	-	6 : 73
Dryburgh Abbey ; by D. A. Beattie	-	12 : 398
Dubs at oor door ; by H. Nimmo	-	8 : 247
Duncan Gorme ; by C. E. Dalrymple	-	9 : 34
Dundee's Portrait ; by J. T. F. Farquhar	-	14 : 78
Dune wi' time ; by J. J. S. Watson	-	3 : 263
Dunnottar Castle ; by G. Colburn	-	5 : 69
Dunmore ; by R. F. Hardy	-	6 : 317
Dunstaffnage ; by J. Donaldson	-	3 : 380
Dura Den ; by D. Arnot	-	8 : 320
Dust and Discontent ; by J. C. Kennedy	-	7 : 323
Duty's call, at ; by W. Murray	-	12 : 58
Dying address of Will Hara's horse ; by J. Gow	-	8 : 279
Dying child, the ; by W. Roxburgh	-	9 : 395
Dying child's words, the ; by B. Howatson	-	11 : 265
Dying father, the ; by P. M'Naughton	-	4 : 272

Dying flea, the ; by D. Williamson	15 : 55
Dying girl and the flowers, the ; by Lizzie D. Anderson	8 : 94
Dying gladiator. the ; by A. Mitchell	13 : 365
Dying Highlander to his claymore, the ; by G. W. Anderson	14 : 25
Dying mother, the ; by J. Watson	1 : 43
Dying mother, the ; by G. Clark	11 : 149
Dying mother's farewell, the ; by T. and G. Ramsay	7 : 229
Dying otter's petition to Queen Victoria, the ; by A. Maxwell	10 : 404
Dying poet, the ; by F. Buchanan	11 : 135
Dying pilgrim, the ; by W. Harvey	15 : 404
Dying sailor, the ; by K. M. Craig	14 : 95
Dying saint, a ; by S. Brown	7 : 291
Dying saint to his Bible the ; by D. Macmillan	14 : 302
Dying soldier, the ; by E. M. Sinclair	4 : 86
Dying soldier, the ; by B. Parker	10 : 48
Dying soldier, the ; by R. Mauchline	10 : 131
Dying widow's request, the ; by W. Cross	6 : 27
Dying wife, the ; by F. Barnard	10 : 293
Eagle and the rose, the ; by J. J. Blackburn	14 : 65
Eaglet and the child, the ; by W. Freeland	5 : 21
Earl Morton ; by J. Fettes	12 : 136
Early blossoms ; by J. C. Fairbairn	7 : 218
Early home ; by W. Hamilton	8 : 292
Early lost, early saved ; by G. W. Bethune	2 : 317
Early morning walk, an ; by R. Innes	5 : 100
Earth is weary, the ; by W. Graham	5 : 398
Earth's flowers may fade ; by T. Eckford	8 : 407
Eas-a-Crunnaig's bonnie fa' ; by J. Coghill	14 : 175
Easter morn ; by C. F. Osburn Blackburn	13 : 388
Ebbin' o' the tide, the ; by A. Doig	13 : 263
Echo ; by R. E. Murray	3 : 159
Edge of the river, the ; by J. C. Lundie	11 : 157
Edith ; by W. S. Ross	3 : 333
Education ; by Earl of Rosslyn	8 : 21
Edzell castle ; by J. Y. Gray	10 : 265
E'en brings a' hame, the ; by J. Skelton	11 : 283
E'ening brings a' hame, the ; by R. S. Bowie	6 : 226
E'enin' brings a' hame, the ; by W. R. Moir	1 : 66
E'enin' fa', the ; by M. P. Aird	3 : 96
Effie ; by J. Hamilton	1 : 256
Eilean-na-craoibhe ; by C. J. Cameron	12 : 256
Eirlic well, the ; by D. M. Crerar	6 : 125

Elder sister, the ; by I. F. Mayo	-	11 : 132
Elegy on a pet dove that was killed by a dog ; trans. by A. Stewart	-	5 : 81
Eli, eli, lama, sabachthani ; by J. M. Whitelaw	-	2 : 227
Elijah's car ; by G. Gilfillan	-	15 : 114
Elinar ; by A. Cook	-	12 : 270
Eliza ; by G. Colburn	-	5 : 68
Eliza ; by J. Devon	-	13 : 345
Ellen o' Angus ; by F. Sinclair	-	14 : 58
Eloquence of evening, the ; by G. Gilfillan	-	15 : 116
Eloquence of silence, the ; by J. G. Mackenzie	-	8 : 184
Elsewhere ; by J. Kelly	-	1 : 207
Elspie o' Balwearie ; by W. Wilson	-	8 : 73
Embalm'd thoughts ; by W. G. Gall	-	14 : 267
Emblems ; by F. Locke	-	9 : 291
Emigrant lassie, the ; by J. S. Blackie	-	1 : 379
Emigrants, the ; by J. Hedderwick	-	3 : 413
Emigrant's farewell, the ; by A. Goldie	-	11 : 363
Emmanuel ; by H. Smith	-	14 : 400
Empty chairs ; by M. Moir	-	4 : 389
Engagement ring, the ; by P. Anderson	-	15 : 96
Enigmas ; by J. M'Queen	-	13 : 48
Envy not the poet's lot ; by S. P. Douglas	-	3 : 286
Epigrams ; by R. White	-	8 : 32
Epigrams ; by G. R. Mercer	-	15 : 198
Epistle to Ernest Renan ; by A. G. Middleton	-	12 : 274
Epistle to spring, an ; by W. M. Philip	-	8 : 217
Epistle to the editor of Modern Scottish Poets ; by G. Greig	-	7 : 380
Epitaph ; by H. Miller	-	3 : 317
Epitaph—a life ; by Mary Pyper	-	8 : 291
Equality ; by A. Weir	-	11 : 420
Escape from Lochleven, the ; by F. Draper	-	9 : 50
Essay on ice, an ; by H. Clark	-	6 : 355
Eternal love ; by J. L. Bain	-	10 : 160
Eternitie ; by W. Allan	-	1 : 285
Eternity ; by D. Maclean	-	9 : 298
Ettrick's lovely Ellen ; by D. S. Murray	-	9 : 357
Eva ; by F. Bennoch	-	6 : 387
Even-song, the ; by E. Smith	-	3 : 99
Evening ; by M. L. Duncan	-	11 : 165
Evening ; by J. C. Fairbairn	-	7 : 220
Evening ; by W. Aitken	-	13 : 61
Evening ; by J. M'Diarmid	-	7 : 108
Evening beams, the ; by J. Jardine	-	2 : 240

Evening chimes ; by J. Roger	-	3 : 54
Evening hymn ; by J. Howat	-	15 : 297
Evening in spring, an ; by F. Barnard	-	10 : 295
Evening musings ; by C. J. Sherer	-	8 : 43
Evening quiet ; by J. W. Pitcairn	-	9 : 183
Evening reverie, an ; by J. Reid	-	4 : 207
Evening star, the ; by A. Proctor	-	3 : 367
Evening thoughts ; by J. T. Yule	-	3 : 227
Eventide ; by W. Stewart	-	10 : 140
Eventime ; by M. N. Robson	-	14 : 34
Ever more ; by W. S. Ross	-	3 : 334
Ever—never—alone ; by W. B. Melville	-	10 : 367
Every day story, an ; by A. Stewart	-	10 : 127
Evolution ; by A. S. Wilson	-	8 : 397
Exceeding bitter cry, an ; by M. Fraser	-	9 : 333
Excellent new song, an ; by J. Mactaggart	-	11 : 326
Exile ; by W. K. Moore	-	11 : 143
Exile, the ; by W. Thomson	-	5 : 252
Experience of a believer ; by J. Walker	-	9 : 202
Eye, the ; by T. L. F. Livingstone	-	9 : 167
Eyes ; by I. A. Gray	-	11 : 293
Fa' o' the year, the ; by A. Watt	-	3 : 140
Faded flower, the ; by T. and G. Ramsay	-	7 : 230
Fading away ; by J. Aitchison	-	15 : 28
Fair Dunoon ; by D. Maclean	-	9 : 360
Fair Helen ; by J. Leask	-	14 : 128
Fair Helen's weird—a Westmorland ballad ; by J. M'Intosh	-	5 : 207
Fair Habbie's Howe ; by A. Farquharson	-	13 : 282
Fair young Mary ; by A. C. Macleod	-	15 : 438
Fairest things are far awa', the ; by W. R. Moir	-	1 : 63
Fairies' circle paradise, Monymusk, the ; by A. Gordon	-	9 : 101
Fairy Jane ; by H. Johnston	-	12 : 192
Fairy-land among the hills, a ; by T. Faed	-	12 : 354
Fairy's invitation, the ; by P. Buchan	-	3 : 424
Faith ; by T. Edwards	-	9 : 66
Faith ; by J. J. Blackburn	-	14 : 63
Faith ; by D. Buchanan	-	6 : 332
Faith and patience in adversity ; by R. E. Murray	-	3 : 159
Faith and reason ; by A. Macpherson	-	8 : 257
Faith, hope, charity ; by J. Smith	-	12 : 367
Faith, hope, love ; by P. Comrie	-	9 : 359
Faither is gane ; by Q. C. Goodlet	-	15 : 175
Faitherless bairn, the ; by A. Donaldson	-	6 : 375

Faithful heart, the ; by J. M. Macculloch	15 : 441
Fall of Sebastopol, the ; by M. Crichton	6 : 84
Fall of the leaf, the ; by A. Wood	11 : 246
Fallen by the way ; by G. R. Sims	11 : 61
Fallen leaves ; by P. G. Fraser	13 : 258
Fallen leaves ; by D. M'Nicol	3 : 280
Falling blow, a ; by W. Freeland	5 : 26
Falling leaves ; by E. Williamson	2 : 307
False sea, the ; by W. C. Smith	3 : 244
Fame ; by J. Greig	9 : 62
Fame ; by J. Macanlay	9 : 344
Family gathering, the ; by Margaret Tough	5 : 289
Family photographic group, a ; by Mrs John Colquhoun	14 : 287
Fancy ; by G. Neil	11 : 196
Far-awa' lan', the ; by J. E. Rankin	4 : 160
Far away ; by W. H. Gray	10 : 203
Far, far away ; by M. P. Aird	3 : 91
Far ower the sea ; by W. Walker	8 : 221
Fare thee weel, bright land of story ; by W. W. Smith	2 : 142
Fare-ye-weel auld thackit hoosie ; by W. D. Jeffrey	8 : 104
Farewell ; by J. C. Massie	9 : 57
Farewell ; by D. Buchanan	6 : 330
Farewell, a ; by W. V. Cousin	7 : 182
Farewell, a ; by Lady C. Elliot	1 : 57
Farewell, a ; by J. Bower	4 : 362
Farewell, a ; by C. J. Sherer	8 : 42
Farewell, old home ; by G. Sproat	5 : 356
Farewell request ; by D. Hutcheson	3 : 24
Farewell to Glentanner ; by R. Dinnie	13 : 291
Farmer's a'e dochter, the ; by R. Gairns-	9 : 386
Fa's my neiper ? by G. Williams	13 : 90
Fate ; by R. C. Macfie	15 : 106
Fate o' M'Phee, the ; by Gordon Stables	14 : 376
Fate of a flower, the ; by M. Crawford	7 : 293
Father gone home, a ; by M. Duthie	8 : 203
Father, Thy will be done ; by J. Greig	9 : 61
Father to his infant daughter, a ; by I. Craig-Knox	2 : 295
Fatherland ; by J. Inglis	13 : 395
Father's hand, the ; by I. F. Mayo	11 : 128
Fause love and true, the ; by J. Christie-	6 : 264
Favourite's return, the ; by A. Steel	3 : 77
Feed my lambs ; by P. Macmorland	6 : 94
Feet that Jesus washed, the ; by P. Anton	13 : 122

Feinne, the ; by Lord A. Campbell	13 : 246
Female doctors, the ; by A. Wood	11 : 243
Ferns ; by H. B. Baildon	4 : 152
Ferny banks of Fender, the ; by W. A. B. Mackinlay	12 : 358
Fever stricken ; by J. Hyslop	4 : 283
Few more years shall roll, a ; by H. Bonar	9 : xiv
Field is the world, the ; by J. H. Simpson	9 : 382
Field mouse, the ; by W. Sharp	10 : 391
Fite, an' a' the lands aboot it ; by D. Bruce	6 : 277
Fifty years ago ; by R. Gairns	9 : 387
Finlay Macbain ; by T. L. Work	12 : 214
Fire ; by D. Taylor	1 : 26
Fire of inspiration, the ; by A. E. W. Jeffreys	14 : 222
Fire that filled my heart of old, the ; by J. Thomson	7 : 168
Fireside ; by P. P. Alexander	10 : 240
Fireside musings ; by P. Skirving	12 : 279
First love ; by M. W. Fairbairn	10 : 254
First shadow on the hearth ; by M. W. Wood	12 : 210
First sprig of furze blossom, the ; by T. Cowan	4 : 329
Fisher idyll, a ; by Jessie K. Lawson	13 : 240
Fisher lad, the ; by J. Skelton	11 : 285
Fisher lassie's sang, the ; by A. Milne	14 : 141
Fisherman, the ; by G. W. Levack	6 : 55
Fisherman of Castlefoil, the ; by W. Wilson	8 : 74
Fisherman's wife and the brown butterflies ; by R. B. Merrylees	5 : 123
Fishermen's wives, the ; by J. Kelly	10 : 89
Fisher's call, the ; by J. Christie	6 : 263
Fisher's lassie, the ; by W. Thomson	5 : 251
Fisher's tragic fate, the ; by J. Stewart	6 : 258
Fisher's wife, the ; by J. T. Levens	7 : 126
Fisher's wife, the ; by A. G. Scott	7 : 240
Fishing song ; by D. Anderson	15 : 369
Fishy fancy, a ; by J. M. Bulloch	12 : 86
Flae affair, the ; by R. B. Thomson	7 : 155
Fleecy clouds ; by J. Mooney	10 : 138
Flemish knight and the Scottish nun, the ; by A. Lowson	14 : 103
Fleeting joys ; by J. C. Fairbairn	7 : 219
Fleur de lis , the ; by J. Usher	10 : 281
Flight, a ; by I. Blyth	2 : 99
Flight of time, the ; by W. T. M'Auslane	2 : 137
Flittin' awa', the ; by L. Robertson	4 : 49
Flora ; by H. Thomson	8 : 208

Flower, the ; by W. Graham	-	5 : 397
Flower auction, a ; by W. Black	-	10 : 24
Flower girl, the ; by E. D. Dickson	-	4 : 105
Flower lessons ; by E. A. Deas	-	8 : 200
Flower memories ; by A. W. Haywood	-	15 : 120
Flower o' Donside, the ; by A. I. Watson	-	15 : 127
Flower o' the May, the ; by C. P. Craig	-	6 : 303
Flower of the Devon, the ; by J. Durie	-	8 : 163
Flower of Wanaka, the ; by J. J. S. Stewart	-	7 : 64
Flower unblown, the ; by D. Wilson	-	8 : 37
Flowers ; by W. Wallace	-	7 : 203
Flowers frae hame ; by D. M. Henderson	-	12 : 142
Flowers o' Blair Drummond, the ; by H. G. M'Laren	-	13 : 160
Flowers of the forest ; by J. Thomson	-	6 : 310
Flowers of the lea ; by D. Lindsay	-	8 : 338
Flush is on the morn, the ; by T. Burns	-	11 : 305
Fly, warrior, fly ; by A. Cowan	-	11 : 47
Follow me ; by W. Dickson	-	7 : 352
Fond memories ; by G. B. Mackenzie	-	12 : 359
Fond recollections ; by W. Black	-	12 : 104
Foolish virgins, the ; by J. Walker	-	10 : 106
For the king ; by R. Bain	-	13 : 237
For what shall I praise Thee ? by J. Taylor	-	15 : 420
Forced ; by J. L. Martin	-	2 : 336
Foreign letter ; by M. W. Smith	-	9 : 263
Forest stream, the ; by K. Robertson	-	9 : 348
Forget-me-not ; by M. Hall	-	14 : 51
Forgiveness ; by W. Mitchell	-	14 : 45
Forgotten ; by T. L. Rettie	-	7 : 343
Forsaken, the ; by W. Anderson	-	2 : 237
Forsaken bairn, the ; by R. Meek	-	6 : 211
Forward ; by E. A. Deas	-	8 : 199
Fossil Tam ; by D. Carmichael	-	9 : 93
Found dead ; by C. J. Sherer	-	8 : 41
Found drowned ; by N. Scrymgeour	-	13 : 114
Four aspects, the ; by J. C. Kennedy	-	7 : 326
Four-leaf clover, a ; by M. Taylor	-	6 : 102
Fox Maule—Earl of Dalhousie ; by J. S. Mills	-	1 : 316
Fragment ; by C. J. Sherer	-	8 : 41
Fragment, a ; by H. A. G. Yooll	-	7 : 68
Fragments ; by J. C. Massie	-	9 : 58
Fragments ; by Mrs S. Menteath	-	6 : 296
Freedom ; by J. T. Coutts	-	8 : 350
Freedom's war-song ; by A. W. Buchan	-	6 : 285
Freemason's secret, the ; by R. Hunter	-	3 : 252

Freemason's song ; by T. Miller	11 : 321
Freen's o' auld langsyne ; by I. Dalgity	8 : 68
Fret not, my soul ; by J. Brownlie	15 : 276
Friend, a ; by G. S. Arnold	14 : 340
Friend, a ; by M. Cousin	4 : 367
Friends ; by R. Napier	9 : 384
Friendship ; by J. Wright	3 : 126
Friendships, by J. Denham	6 : 59
Friendship's gift ; by J. Bell	10 : 344
Friendship's wreath ; by D. Ogilvy	13 : 221
From a night-piece ; by Sir G. Douglas	14 : 91
From "Dunbar" ; by C. Waddie	10 : 289
From "Ode to time" ; by D. R. Williamson	8 : 242
From our side ; by Elizabeth Craigmyle	13 : 178
From the depths ; by A. S. Swan	6 : 399
From the Greek ; by A. Cargill	4 : 55
From the source to the sea ; by A. M'Lean	6 : 139
Frozen burn, the ; by R. Whittet	6 : 133
Frozen hearts and drifting snows ; by W. Lyle	6 : 33
Funeral of the year ; by G. G. M Crae	12 : 225
Fy ! saucy lass ; by A. Cargill	4 : 54
Fyvie ; by W. A. G. Farquhar	7 : 275
Gae bring the stranger in ; by R. Sanderson	1 : 69
Gael in a foreign land the ; by J. Campbell	6 : 44
Gael to his country and his countrymen, the ; by J. Campbell	6 : 43
Gale, the ; by I. Blyth	2 : 100
Gallant brow John Highlandman ; by N. Dougall	14 : 113
Galloway raid, the ; by S. Wilson	13 : 68
Game 'mang the bonnie green knowes, the ; by T. Dykes	5 : 75
Gang and be slaves ; by J. Mactaggart	11 : 330
Gang in gladness ; by W. Mitchell	14 : 46
Garfield ; by S. Kerr	15 : 396
Garlands ; by J. C. Henderson	5 : 142
Gathered plaid, the ; by I. Stuart	9 : 317
Gatherers, the ; by J. A. Sidey	3 : 397
Gathering of the men of the Mearns, the ; by G. Duthie	7 : 348
Gaun awa' hame ; by J. W. Brack	12 : 170
Gaun hame ; by W. Walker	8 : 222
Genteel hospitality ; by R. de B. Trotter	11 : 181
Gentleness ; by Mrs J. E. Simpson	8 : 373
Germ of loving kindness, the ; by M. W. Wood	12 : 209
Ghost of the Cochin-Shanghai ; by Gordon Stables	14 : 379

Gift of agony, the ; by L. Grant	-	12 : 265
Gillie Dhu Dhia ; by A. C. M'Bryde	-	5 : 184
Gin I had a lad o' my ain ; by D. Bruce	-	6 : 276
Gipsy boy, the ; by J. Anderson	-	7 : 334
Gipsy song ; by A. Lowson	-	14 : 101
Give back ; by F. Sinclair	-	14 : 62
Give me the power ; by G. H. Howat	-	14 : 184
Gleams of sunshine after rain ; by M. Hall	-	14 : 50
Glen, the ; by G. Colburn	-	5 : 65
Glen where the blaeberreries grow, the ; by J. M'Queen	-	13 : 46
Glencoe ; by R. H. W. Smith	-	5 : 105
Glengaber burn ; by J. Inglis	-	5 : 164
Glengowan Nell ; by D. Gow	-	9 : 28
Glenorchy ; by T. Young	-	7 : 364
Glentulchan's sweet flower ; by G. R. Mercer	-	15 : 197
Glimpse of April sun, a ; by A. M'Lean	-	6 : 137
Gloamin', the ; by J. Jamieson	-	5 : 189
Gloamin', the ; by A. N. Simpson	-	11 : 311
Gloamin', the ; by G. Greig	-	7 : 376
Gloamin' comes to all, the ; by J. Browne	-	13 : 180
Gloamin' grey, the ; by W. B. Smith	-	11 : 95
Gloamin' hour, the ; by D. Wingate	-	2 : 285
Gloamin' time ; by W. M'Queen	-	1 : 32
Gloaming ; by R. Reid	-	1 : 318
Gloaming, the ; by M. B. White	-	14 : 314
Gloaming, the ; by H. A. Thomson	-	15 : 153
Gloom of Death ; by W. Aitken	-	13 : 60
Go forth ; by A. D. Hossack	-	12 : 184
Go forward, Christian soldier ; by L. Tuttiett	-	15 : 328
God ; by W. Honstoun	-	10 : 94
God bless my bonnie bairn ; by W. Aitken	-	2 : 165
God guard our bonnie boat ; by P. Gardiner	-	10 : 320
God is everywhere ; by W. Leighton	-	1 : 297
God seen through nature ; by D. Thomson	-	2 : 115
God's book ; by W. Houston	-	10 : 94
God's higher education ; by R. C. Macfie	-	15 : 104
God's smile revealed in flower and leaf ; by W. B. R. Wilson	-	15 : 363
God's ways ; by M. Swan	-	10 : 45
Goethe's prayer ; by Earl of Rosslyn	-	8 : 21
Going home ; by T. C. Tyrie	-	8 : 355
Going to a funeral ; by J. Taylor	-	4 : 182
Golden days ; by J. G. Paterson	-	15 : 286
Golden dreams ; by J. Stewart	-	7 : 271

Golden gorse ; by W. Blair	-	9 : 139
Golden hair v. golden heart ; by F. Locke	-	9 : 290
Golden hours ; by A. Falconer	-	13 : 307
Golden rule, the ; by D. Owler	-	15 : 357
Gone before ; by T. Forsyth	-	15 : 379
Good-bye ; by M. Robertson	-	15 : 161
Good-bye ; by J. Shepherd	-	13 : 57
Good heart and willing hand ; by C. Mackay	-	13 : 23
Good in grime ; by J. C. Grant	-	15 : 251
Good-night ; by J. W. Mason	-	7 : 98
Good-night, comrades all ; by A. Watson	-	13 : 367
Good old days, the ; by J. Airth	-	6 : 64
Good Shepherd, the ; by J. M. Mitchell	-	8 : 156
Good Shepherd, the ; by J. K. Crawford	-	7 : 295
Good time coming, the ; by C. Mackay	-	13 : 26
Gordon's hospital ; by R. Houston	-	14 : 240
Gossip ; by I. A. Gray	-	11 : 296
Gourock Bay ; by J. L. M. Watt	-	9 : 127
Gowans on the lea, the ; by John Orr	-	8 : 328
Gowden rule ; by A. J. F. Wedderburn	-	9 : 324
Gowdean a pastoral ; by J. Salmon	-	2 : 207
Gowrie ; by M. Dickie	-	4 : 310
Grace ; by John Ross	-	7 : 298
Grace Darling, or the wreck on the Farne Islands ; by R. A. Scott	-	14 : 278
Grampians, the ; by G. Greig	-	7 : 377
Grandfather's grave ; by W. Gardiner	-	9 : 252
Grandmother, the ; by J. L. Watson	-	4 : 130
Gran'father's ne'er-day lilt ; by Q. C. Goodlet	-	15 : 174
Grannie's bairn ; by C. M. Thomson	-	4 : 91
Grannie's sang about the bairn ; by J. Livingstone	-	14 : 395
Grannie's wa'gann ; by R. Ford	-	1 : 127
Granny's advice ; by J. Copeland	-	12 : 124
Granny's auld ha' ; by R. Dinnie	-	13 : 290
Granny's pinwheel ; by J. C. Logan	-	15 : 170
Grass ; by C. Miller	-	4 : 116
Grass, the ; by T. Watts	-	3 : 71
Grass is green, the ; by F. A. Mackay	-	10 : 384
Grass of Parnassus ; by E. R. Burden	-	14 : 171
Grave in the bush, the ; by O. Macpherson	-	12 : 298
Grave of Bethany, the ; by J. R. Macduff	-	10 : 312
Grave of Ella Ree, the ; by J. A. Biggs	-	8 : 111
Grave of the Bruce, the ; by T. B. Johnstone	-	8 : 148
Great snuff cure, the ; by Alison H. Dunlop	-	13 : 77
Great things and small ; by D. R. Williamson	-	8 : 238

Greatest of the three, the ; by M. Swan	10 : 44
Greatest of these is charity, the ; by M. Robertson	15 : 162
Gree, bairnies, gree ; by A. Fairbairn	4 : 318
Greek girl, the ; by J. Morison	3 : 323
Greek patriot, the ; by J. A. Anderson	8 : 78
Green Appin ; by C. Whyte	9 : 284
Green leaves ; by W. Leighton	1 : 296
Greeting—Isaac and Rebekah, a ; by Emily Leith	8 : 168
Grenadier of Tenginski, the ; by R. Mauchline	10 : 133
Grey old man ; by W. Blair	9 : 142
Griefs an' cares ; by W. Chisholm	2 : 65
Grinder, the ; by W. Burns	8 : 340
Growin' auld ; by J. M'Kimm	5 : 350
Growing grey ; by I. Stuart	9 : 320
Gruel ; by W. L. Alexander	10 : 230
Guardian angels ; by R. Campbell	15 : 414
Gude auld kirk o' Scotland, the ; by G. Murray	13 : 266
Guid auld days, the ; by T. Miller	5 : 153
Guid auld days, the ; by W. J. Bradley	8 : 65
Guid days o' the past ; by J. Adam	3 : 220
Guid save us a', John Paterson ! by A. Campbell	14 : 67
Guide of the Mohawks, the ; by Marquis of Lorne	7 : 255
Guide our souls ; by T. Burns	11 : 304
Guidwife o' Glenley, the ; by J. Watson	1 : 43
Hab o' the mill ; by W. Watt	2 : 53
Habbie Simpson ; by C. Balfour	3 : 408
Had I a galley ; by D. Blyth	2 : 98
Had I wealth as I have love ; by G. H. Mowat	14 : 183
Hail little stranger ; by H. Muir	10 : 179
Hail ! sweet season ; by J. Campbell	6 : 202
Hail to the Thistle ; by J. Harrison	7 : 201
Hailstone and the snowflake, the ; by M. Crichton	6 : 87
Hain an' Hae ; by J. Longmuir	2 : 45
Hair ; by R. de B. Trotter	11 : 184
Hairst ; by James Thomson	10 : 272
Hairst rig, the ; by J. C. Shairp	9 : 196
Hale an' weel ; by T. Knox	9 : 114
Half-mast high ; by T. Dykes	5 : 74
Half-witted Will ; by James Brown	5 : 234
Hame ; by J. Dalgity	7 : 211
Hame ; by A. Buchanan	11 : 358
Hame ; by J. M'Gregor	14 : 154
Hame comin', the ; by G. W. Anderson	14 : 24
Hame—fat an' faur is't ; by G. Williams	13 : 94
Hame in the morning gray ; by A. W. Buchan	6 : 284

Hame reform ; by T. Logan	-	2 : 32
Hameless laddie, the ; by J. Thomson	-	10 : 268
Hameless orphan, the ; by J. M'Cutcheon	-	15 : 34
Hamely advice, a ; by J. Wright	-	4 : 280
Hamely Scottish sang, a ; by D. Scott	-	4 : 58
Hamely sang, a ; by A. Wardrop	-	4 : 84
Hans Breitmann the Uhlan ; by M. R. Watt	-	1 : 371
Hanyang thistle, the ; by W. T. Mercer	-	12 : 266
Happiness ; by G. H. Mowat	-	14 : 184
Happiness ; by H. P. Bayne	-	14 : 158
Happy as doos in dookit ; by J. M'Gregor	-	14 : 150
Happy bairns ; by J. Paul	-	11 : 393
Happy hame, a ; by J. Kent	-	15 : 66
Happy hours of childhood's dreams, the ; by J. P. Whittet	-	11 : 397
Happy little Elsie ; by G. W. Anderson	-	14 : 30
Happy lovers, the ; by W. Sutherland	-	12 : 168
Happy man, the ; by W. B. R. Wilson	-	15 : 365
Happy return, the ; by J. Park	-	9 : 76
Harbour bar, the ; by A. W. Haywood	-	15 : 119
Hard rows the world ; by D. Ferguson	-	13 : 298
Hark ; by A. B. Taylor	-	4 : 314
Harp of the border ; by W. Scott	-	2 : 68
Harper, the ; by P. M'Neill	-	5 : 294
Harper's corry, the ; by C. M. Stewart	-	6 : 181
Harrier's call, the ; by R. C. Buist	-	12 : 348
Harvest ; by J. Kerr	-	10 : 335
Harvest ; by J. Niven	-	10 : 373
Harvest days ; by A. S. Swan	-	6 : 401
Harvest hymn, a ; by Mary Pyper	-	8 : 288
Harvest lassie, the ; by J. E. Rankin	-	4 : 160
Harvest moon, the ; by J. Simson	-	4 : 66
Harvest song ; by W. Hamilton	-	8 : 295
Hast thou a friend ? by F. Bennoch	-	6 : 393
Hast thou an eye would pierce the glooms that hover ; by J. Henderson	-	13 : 373
Haunted ; by W. C. Howden	-	4 : 357
He bringeth them into their desired haven ; by R. Napier	-	9 : 383
He can toddle his lane ; by A. Goldie	-	11 : 362
He has a drunken father ; by A. Dewar	-	10 : 246
He loved me, and gave Himself for me ; by F. Ferguson	-	5 : 96
He was there ; by J. Beveridge	-	8 : 232
Hear the bairnie singin' ; by J. Livingstone	-	14 : 393

Heart echoes ; by H. T. M. Bell	9 : 24
Heart cry, a ; by J. Wright	4 : 279
Heart-soothing harp, the ; by T. and G. Ramsay	7 : 229
Heart's summer, the ; by H. T. M. Bell	9 : 24
Heather ; by D. MacLagan	3 : 176
Heather, the ; by G. Menzies	11 : 55
Heather dings them a' the ; by A. Reid	9 : 154
Heather Jock ; by J. M'Lay	12 : 391
Heather lilt, a ; by W. Chisholm	2 : 64
Heathery hills o' Dee, the ; by W. D. Jeffrey	8 : 105
Heaven ; by P. Spence	13 : 142
Heaven lies about us in our infancy ; by J. Dalgity	7 : 210
Heaven's voice of prayer ; by Grace P. Chalmers	5 : 214
Hebrew melody, a ; by J. Andrew	4 : 295
Hech me, sirs, I hae often wondered ; by D. Lister	14 : 75
Hector's obsequies ; by C. H. Laubach	10 : 171
Helpless Phemie ; by James Smith	1 : 263
Heone ; by H. Clark	6 : 353
Her bright boy's cap ; by E. Allison	7 : 148
Her dark-brown eyes ; by K. F. Mackie	10 : 215
Her eighteenth birthday ; by A. M'Lean	6 : 139
Her treasures ; by Elise Rae Brown	13 : 322
Her two lovers ; by Elizabeth Craigmyle	13 : 175
Herd laddie, the ; by M. P. Aird	3 : 92
Herd lassie, the ; by James Stewart	1 : 212
Herd's wife, the ; by J. Veitch	3 : 389
Here to-day, and gone to-morrow ; by Mary Piper	8 : 289
Here we go, by jingo ring ; by J. Campbell	3 : 165
Here's a health to the friends of our heart ; by R. Duthie	14 : 233
Here's to thee, Morayland ; by W. Hay	15 : 130
Here's to ye, Scotland ; by Hamilton Corbett	8 : 305
Hermitage ; by F. Ferguson	2 : 251
Hero, the ; by D. M'Leod	12 : 293
Heroes ; by Margaret Smith	13 : 36
Herring drave, the ; by Margaret T. Bell	7 : 304
He's comin' hame to me ; by G. Neil	11 : 194
He's far upon the briny deep ; by C. F. Hunter	9 : 31
Hesperus ; by J. Christie	5 : 370
Hey for a wife wi' a hunner or twa ; by A. Steel	3 : 80
Hey, my bonnie wee lassie ; by F. Bennoch	6 : 392
Hidden not stolen ; by Earl of Southesk	1 : 119
Hielan' shinty ; by O. Macpherson	12 : 297

High, high, higher yet ; by R. Fergusson	10 : 398
Higher life, the ; by W. T. M'Anslane	2 : 138
Highland hills, there are songs of mirth, the ; by J. Henderson	13 : 374
Highland hunting song ; by P. Macpherson	14 : 384
Highland legend, a ; by N. Macdonald	14 : 270
Highland love songs ; by J. Macleod (of Govan)	15 : 432
Highland music ; by J. Taylor	1 : 79
Highland music ; by T. Forsyth	15 : 379
Highland stream, a ; by R. Campbell	15 : 414
Highland tartan, the ; by J. Renton	7 : 49
Highland tartan, the ; by J. M. Manners	2 : 291
Highlander's return, the ; by D. Thomson	2 : 113
Highlander's welcome, the ; by J. M'Taggart	13 : 333
Highlands of Scotland, the ; by A. Young	1 : 332
Hills, hills ; by A. Dewar	10 : 247
His beloved's sleep ; by D. Burns	6 : 367
His Emma and dilemma ; by J. Paterson	9 : 230
His jewels ; by C. Whyte	9 : 285
His last look ; by B. Howatson	11 : 269
His last poem ; by T. Davidson	2 : 90
His will be done ; by J. Simson	4 : 67
Hold on and do the right ; by J. T. Yule	3 : 229
Holy Isle—a reminiscence ; by Emily Leith	8 : 167
Home ; by J. M'Taggart	13 : 335
Home ; by G. E. Maclellan	14 : 369
Home ; by M. Mackay	12 : 410
Home ; by G. S. Mathieson	4 : 100
Home ; by I. Trotter	11 : 191
Home ; by M. M. Clever	12 : 175
Home ; by T. Miller	11 : 319
Home ; by A. Rankin	3 : 255
Home, happy home ; by J. Macintosh	11 : 367
Home in Strathspey, a ; by A. Wallace	3 : 340
Home-love ; by R. Whittet	6 : 131
Home of memory, the ; by G. J. Lawrie	10 : 365
Home of my boyhood, the ; by J. J. Johnston	5 : 241
Home of my childhood ; by J. Bogue	15 : 21
Home of my childhood, the ; by Lizzie D. Anderson	8 : 93
Home of my childhood, the ; by W. Lamberton	10 : 378
Home, sweet home ; by J. Whitelaw	11 : 258
Homeless orphan maid, the ; by P. M'Naughton	4 : 273
Homely heroism ; by Mrs G. S. Menteath	8 : 264
Homely things ; by A. Jeffrey	9 : 339
Homes and haunts of other days ; by W. Hogg	6 : 372

Homes of Scotland, the ; by M. Swan	-	10 : 43
Honest work ; by A. Adamson	-	14 : 87
Honeymoon song ; by F. Barnard	-	10 : 294
Hoo can I feel dowie ; by A. Logan	-	1 : 198
Hoo can ye gang, laddie ; by Hamilton Nimmo	-	8 : 249
Hoose o yer ain, a ; by F. Lennon	-	8 : 52
Hoosie on the brae, the ; by J. C. Logan	-	15 : 172
Hope ; by M. W. Howie	-	14 : 329
Hope ; by W. G. M'Gill	-	5 : 364
Hope ; by R. S. Inglis	-	10 : 299
Hope ; by W. Cadenhead	-	1 : 348
Hope ; by J. Grant	-	10 : 353
Hope and despair ; by A. Weir	-	11 : 421
Hope, its lights and shadows ; by G. Jacque	-	3 : 200
Hope of love, the ; by R. Whyte	-	8 : 28
Hope of the spring, the ; by M. Swan	-	10 : 46
Hope-song ; by H. B. Baildon	-	4 : 153
Hope's new harp ; by J. Ballantine	-	5 : 384
Hope's whisper ; by J. K. Muir	-	2 : 382
Horace in hoggers ; by J. L. Robertson	-	3 : 356
Hour I met thee, the ; by J. Campbell	-	6 : 204
Hour of prayer, the ; by M. Stanley	-	3 : 329
Hour of rest, the ; by W. Roxburgh	-	9 : 398
Hours of prime, the ; by J. J. Brown	-	1 : 341
House of prayer, the ; by P. H. Thoms	-	7 : 265
Household love ; by Mrs J. C. Simpson	-	8 : 372
How did it happen ? by W. H. Gray	-	10 : 200
How like to old age are the embers ; by C. Macpherson	-	3 : 35
How noble the theme ; by H. Muir	-	10 : 178
How we beat the favourite ; by A. L. Gordon	-	12 : 235
Hugenot, the ; by J. Leighton	-	11 : 101
Humble petition of a starving bird, the ; by R. Mennon	-	3 : 133
Humility ; by J. D. Burns	-	4 : 237
Humility ; by I. F. Darling	-	9 : 279
Hungry skylarks, the ; by J. Marshall	-	10 : 166
Hurrah, for auld Scotland, hurrah ; by R. Ford	-	1 : 128
Hurrah for our island ; by A. Wallace	-	2 : 105
Hurrah for Scotland's heroes brave ; by W. Shearer-Atkin	-	1 : 270
Hurrah for Scotland's nameless dead ; by J. Ferguson	-	1 : 149
Hush ! dreaming heart ; by J. P. Findlay	-	12 : 55
Hymn ; by W. Blair	-	9 : 140
Hymn ; by P. Mearns	-	14 : 81

Hymn, a ; by M. L. Duncan	-	11 : 164
Hymn—A little while ; by C. I. Cameron	-	12 : 257
Hymn after marriage ; by L. Tuttiett	-	15 : 326
Hymn of the mourner ; by L. Tuttiett	-	15 : 327
Hymn of the snowdrops ; by D. R. Williamson	-	8 : 238
Hymns she loved, the ; by W. Sievwright	-	1 : 188
Hymn to the moon ; by J. G. Ingram	-	3 : 83
Hymn to the wind ; by J. T. Levens	-	7 : 127
I am a doctor ; by R. C. MacLagan	-	15 : 231
I am debtor ; by R. M. M'Cheyne	-	15 : 87
I am dreaming, often dreaming ; by J. Hardie	-	15 : 354
I am the way ; by P. Comrie	-	9 : 359
I brought my darkest sin to mind ; by J. Brownlie	-	15 : 276
I built me a bower ; by R. Campbell	-	15 : 413
I canna, maunna marry yet ; by D. Burns	-	14 : 390
I dearly lo'e ; by F. Henrietta	-	5 : 167
I early in childhood ; by J. Blair	-	13 : 148
I feel I'm growing auld guidwife ; by J. Linen	-	7 : 140
I grieve ; by D. G. Braidwood	-	7 : 288
I ha'e nae lad ava ; by W. Hamilton	-	8 : 293
I have a home above ; by R. H. Lundie	-	15 : 418
I ken a bit lassie ; by J. M'Vittie	-	11 : 348
I kenna how some maids may fen' ; by D. Burns	-	14 : 389
I kissed them a' for you, mother ; by R. Fleming	-	4 : 200
I know ; by D. MacLaren	-	1 : 315
I know not ; by Mrs J. C. Simpson	-	8 : 372
I love to watch the surge ; by R. White	-	8 : 27
I mind o' ye, Jessie ; by J. M'Cutcheon	-	15 : 36
I never will get fu' again ; by A. Fisher	-	13 : 252
I noo ha'e a lad o' my ain ; by W. Hamilton	-	8 : 294
I rede ye beware ; by T. Anderson	-	14 : 164
I remember ; by J. Dewar	-	13 : 346
I saw a lark ; by A. Murison	-	8 : 312
I saw the wood change colour ; by J. M. Manners	-	2 : 290
I stood alone ; by W. A. B. Mackinlay	-	12 : 337
I stood before a craftsman's door ; by T. Knox	-	9 : 116
I think of thee ; by H. Clark	-	6 : 358
I think of thee ; by W. Macintosh	-	7 : 94
I wadna be a swallow ; by M. Inglis	-	10 : 60
I will give you rest ; by P. Macmorland	-	6 : 95
I will have mercy and not sacrifice ; by W. M'Dowall	-	3 : 259
I will not let thee go ; by T. Dunlop	-	4 : 224
I will trust in God ; by G. Bruce	-	1 : 219
I wonder if e'er I'll get married ; by R. Reid	-	12 : 101

I would not live alway ; by W. L. Alexander -	10 : 228
I'd play the fule again ; by W. Whyte -	9 : 312
I'd rather ; by G. Clark -	11 : 153
Ideal, an ; by W. Aitken -	13 : 64
If I were you ; by P. F. Sinclair -	13 : 384
If thou canst sing ; by A. Dewar -	10 : 248
Ilka blade o' grass keeps its ain drap o' dew ; by J. Ballantine -	3 : 29
Ilka dark cloud wears a silvery linin' ; by W. H. Phin -	5 : 300
I'll aye be his ma ; by J. Menzies -	12 : 375
I'll be thine the morn, Willie ; by K. M'Lauchlane	1 : 368
I'll buy my auld mither a frock ; by J. Blair -	13 : 148
Illusion ; by P. Bayne -	14 : 119
I'm an auld minstrel body ; by W. T. M'Grigor	15 : 138
I'm fifty years the day ; by D. L. Greig -	12 : 114
I'm getting auld an' cranky ; by A. Stewart -	10 : 123
I'm going home ; by R. Allan -	9 : 363
I'm no amang my ain fowk ; by J. Alexander -	7 : 225
I'm now upon my journey back ; by D. Kippen	15 : 143
I'm slidin' doon the brae ; by J. K. Scott -	4 : 45
I'm wearied sair ; by A. Murray -	9 : 217
Imaginings ; by M. L. Duncan -	11 : 165
Im-hm : by J. Nicholson -	1 : 238
Immortelle ; by J. C. Kennedy -	7 : 324
Impression, an ; by W. Graham -	3 : 195
In a village churchyard ; by C. J. Sherer -	8 : 39
In an autumn garden ; by S. Reid -	10 : 113
In an old garden ; by M. H. Browne -	14 : 106
In autumn ; by J. Kelly -	10 : 92
In cauld, bleak December ; by A. Mabon -	9 : 212
In city pent ; by G. Eyre -	8 : 54
In counthie but an' ben ; by D. Maclean -	9 : 302
In exile-- a letter ; by C. H. Laubach -	10 : 173
In exile land ; by D. Kennedy -	5 : 49
In his garden ; by Elizabeth C. Clephane	5 : 226
In Me ye shall have peace ; by H. Bonar -	9 : xiv
In memoriam ; by T. Dunlop -	4 : 220
In memoriam ; by D. Macrae -	2 : 189
In memoriam ; by C. C. Maxwell -	7 : 278
In memoriam ; by J. R. Macduff -	10 : 313
In memoriam : Mdlle. Therese Tietjens ; by D. R. Williamson -	8 : 240
In oor ain glen ; by W. J. Currie -	11 : 230
In oor hoose at e'en ; by D. M. M'Neil -	6 : 320

In other days ; by J. R. Nicolson	-	7 : 341
In praise of the hod ; by J. Coghill	-	14 : 177
In Rome ; by A. Anderson	-	1 : 163
In Strathmore ; by W. Milne	-	15 : 279
In the forest ; by S. Reid	-	10 : 113
In the garden ; by F. Miller	-	2 : 265
In the glen ; by J. Strang	-	7 : 359
In the gloamin ; by J. Campbell	-	7 : 262
In the graveyard ; by J. L. M. Watt	-	9 : 124
In the kirkyard ; by A. Brown	-	4 : 178
In the twilight ; by L. Groves	-	14 : 139
In the valleys ; by H. Johnston	-	12 : 191
In the white future ; by R. C. Macfie	-	15 : 107
In the woodland ; by G. Mackenzie	-	14 : 332
In yon kirkyard ; by P. Duncan	-	3 : 172
Inasmuch ; by W. Bruce	-	14 : 348
Inchmarnock on the Dee ; by P. Barrie	-	9 : 187
Infant dreams ; by A. M'Donald	-	15 : 157
Infant metaphysician, the ; by W. J. M. Rankine	-	5 : 34
Infant praises ; by W. Robertson	-	7 : 58
Infantine inquiries ; by J. P. Brown	-	9 : 83
Infant's grave, the ; by J. M'Gill	-	5 : 366
Influence of children ; by J. Menzies	-	12 : 377
Ingle, the ; by D. C. Smith	-	5 : 312
Insula sanctorum ; by M. Coyle	-	14 : 218
Intrusive thoughts ; by J. Allison	-	3 : 374
Invalid's farewell, the ; by A. Drummond	-	6 : 49
Invalid's Sabbath morning hymn, the ; by Sir J. Colquhoun	-	14 : 286
Inverkip ; by K. M'Neill	-	6 : 231
Invitation, an ; by J. D. Reid	-	10 : 78
Invocation, an ; by J. G. Mackenzie	-	8 : 185
Iona ; by W. J. Millar	-	7 : 256
Iona ; by J. Donaldson	-	3 : 380
Ireland's cry to Scotland ; by J. Luby	-	12 : 369
Is he my father's brother ? by R. W. Thom	-	1 : 225
Is it well ? by J. M'Vittie	-	11 : 349
Is life worth living ? by R. Walker	-	12 : 322
Is the auld guidman aye leevin' ? by R. Sanderson	-	1 : 68
Is there space for the poet to-day ? by R. Bain	-	13 : 236
I'se rede ye tak' tent ; by A. Fisher	-	13 : 251
Island haven, the ; by G. G. M'Crae	-	12 : 227
Islesman's farewell, an ; by Marquis of Lorne	-	7 : 254
Isobel ; by J. G. M. Heddle	-	10 : 197
It is time to seek the Lord ; by M. Mackay	-	12 : 409

It might have been ; by W. M. Lawrence	10 : 322
It was the time of roses ; by L. J. Nicolson	1 : 337
It's my turn noo ; by A. Sutherland	10 : 38
It's no worth the warsle for't ; by G. Paulin	3 : 362
It's not enough ; by F. Henrietta	5 : 166
I've come again ; by J. Greig	9 : 63
I've heard the rushing ; by J. C. Maxwell	8 : 124
I've lost my mither's wean ; by R. Fisher	6 : 325
Ivy, the ; by R. de B. Trotter	11 : 180
J. P. N. ; by J. Nichol	2 : 249
Jaded cup, the ; by W. Aitken	13 : 63
James Beattie ; by G. Colburn	5 : 67
James Renwick, last Scottish martyr ; by G. Maxwell	8 : 402
Jamie ; by J. Paul	11 : 386
Jamie ; by D. Londen	9 : 401
Jamie Affleck ; by W. Blair	9 : 140
Jamie M'Dougall ; by A. MacLachlan	5 : 42
Jamie the joiter ; by J. Lumsden	11 : 344
Jamie's Bible ; by B. Parker	10 : 49
Jamie's comin' hame to me ; by J. Drake	13 : 111
Jamie's farewell ; by J. M. Macculloch	15 : 444
Jardim da Serra, Madeira, the ; by J. D. Burns	4 : 239
Jaunting ear, the ; by R. S. G. Anderson	11 : 202
Jean and Geordie ; by W. Aitken	2 : 163
Jean Findlater's loun ; by W. Anderson	2 : 235
Jean Linn ; by W. Wilson	13 : 228
Jean o' Inchmill ; by W. Lindsay	1 : 328
Jeanie ; by W. S. Durie	5 : 272
Jeanie ; by R. P. Scott	9 : 44
Jeanie Gellatly ; by W. C. Sturoc	4 : 345
Jeanie Gray ; by R. Allan	9 : 362
Jeannie ; by T. Stewart	8 : 191
Jeannie Bell ; by D. Ramsay	15 : 236
Jeannie M'Nee ; by A. S. Graham	9 : 149
Jeannie the pride o' Langloan ; by T. Millar	11 : 320
Jeannie's blue e'e ; by J. Inglis	13 : 397
Jeannie's "nay" to Jock ; by F. Draper	9 : 52
Jehovah Tsidkenu ; by R. M. M'Cheyne	15 : 86
Jenny o' the Ness ; by W. Stark	9 : 236
Jessie ; by D. M'Corkindale	5 : 172
Jessie ; by W. T. Mercer	12 : 265
Jessie ; by R. M. Adamson	15 : 375
Jessie Annie ; by W. D. Jeffrey	8 : 106
Jessie Brown ; or, the slogan of Lucknow ; by J. Anderson	7 : 332

Jesus ; by M. Macphail	-	7 : 88
Jesus Christ the same yesterday, to-day, and for ever ; by A. Duncan	-	6 : 191
Jewels of Blarney, the ; by A. M'Lean	-	6 : 138
Jilted—(a sonnet in Scotch) ; by A. Cargill	-	4 : 56
Jim and I ; by G. A. G. Gibb	-	9 : 351
Jimmie Jenkins ; by A. Jeffrey	-	9 : 337
Jinsie ; by J. Teenan	-	2 : 232
Jinglin' heather, the ; by M. Moir	-	4 : 387
Joanna ; by Mrs L. Robertson	-	3 : 350
Job's complaint ; by T. Cowan	-	4 : 334
Jock M'Gee, a tale ; by D. Macdonald	-	13 : 357
Joe Wood ; by D. Macdonald	-	13 : 360
John and Tibbie's dispute ; by R. Leighton	-	1 : 304
John Brown ; by J. Wright	-	4 : 276
John Brown, or a plain man's philosophy ; by C. Mackay	-	13 : 25
John Frost ; by D. Wingate	-	2 : 285
John Howard Payne ; by H. A. Thomson	-	15 : 154
John Knox ; by P. Macmorland	-	6 : 90
John Knox and the Covenanters ; by S. Brown-	-	7 : 289
John Robieson's cairt wheel ; by G. Williams	-	13 : 93
Johnnie Cran ; by G. W. Anderson	-	14 : 28
Johnnie Frost ; by W. D. Birrell	-	14 : 180
Johnnie, man, I'm wantin' siller ; by D. Grant	-	9 : 178
Johnnie Smith, a falla fine ; by R. Grant	-	3 : 391
Johnnie Stuffie ; by R. Lawson	-	9 : 220
Johnnie's farewell ; by R. A. Macfie	-	8 : 85
Johnnie's new breeks ; by R. Houston	-	14 : 239
Johnny Joss, the cadger ; by D. Grant	-	9 : 172
Josephine, to her chardonneret ; by D. Anderson	-	15 : 371
Jouk and let the jaw by ; by R. Whittet	-	6 : 132
Joyful expectation ; by W. L. Alexander	-	10 : 231
Joyous days ; by A. P. Melville	-	12 : 79
Jubilee for jubilee : or fifty years shepherd, for fifty a king ; by W. Muir	-	2 : 49
Judas Iscariot ; by W. C. Smith	-	3 : 245
Just a butterfly ; by J. B. Crombie	-	11 : 369
Just their way ; by J. G. Mackenzie	-	8 : 187
Kadmore ; by R. P. Scott	-	9 : 43
Kate ; by J. Paterson	-	9 : 230
Kate Barlass ; by Emily Leith	-	8 : 164
Kate Da'rymple ; by W. Watt	-	2 : 54
Kate Galloway's Tam ; by J. Crawford	-	10 : 151
Kathleen's wooing ; by J. Stewart	-	7 : 269

Keen blows the win' ; by J. Orr	-	8 : 329
Keep oot o' the glaur ; by M. Coyle	-	14 : 219
Keep your he'rt abune ; by J. Robb	-	6 : 164
Keepers at hame ; by J. Russell	-	1 : 13
Keeping baby ; by D. L. Greig	-	12 : 114
Keeping of the vow ; by H. T. M. Bell	-	9 : 20
Kelvingrove ; by A. Reston	-	5 : 64
Keswick Lake, Cumberland ; by D. R. Williamson	-	8 : 243
Keystone to virtue, the ; by S. Brown	-	7 : 290
Kilspindie ; by J. Robb	-	6 : 164
Kilt and feather ; by W. V. Jackson	-	7 : 187
Kind word still is easy said, a ; by J. W. Lyall	-	5 : 388
Kindness ; by D. Buchanan	-	6 : 330
King death ; by J. L. Hercus	-	12 : 37
King death ; by W. Black	-	10 : 22
King may come the cadger's way, the ; by J. C. Hutchieson	-	1 : 86
King Solomon ; by R. C. Maclagan	-	15 : 232
King's welcome, the ; by R. Howden	-	2 : 34
Kirkyard at hame, the ; by T. Logan	-	2 : 31
Kirn, the ; by D. W. Purdie	-	11 : 298
Kiss ahint the door, the ; by T. C. Latto	-	5 : 333
Kiss an' cuddle ; by J. Christie	-	15 : 224
Kiss and make it up again ; by A. Cameron	-	15 : 241
Kiss and the cruel miss, the ; by J. Paterson	-	9 : 228
Kiss my native soil for me ; by A. Logan	-	1 : 197
Kiss ! sweet stolen kiss ! by D. M. Hampton	-	8 : 363
Kiss the sun ; by Lady Janet Colquhoun	-	14 : 283
Kiss through the telephone, a ; by J. Inrie	-	11 : 415
Kitchen angel, the ; by L. L. Thain	-	13 : 284
Kite is tugging at the string, the ; by J. Browne	-	13 : 182
Kitty ; by D. Waters	-	2 : 254
Knights of the wheel, the ; by P. J. M'Mahon	-	13 : 97
Knocking ; by J. R. Macduff	-	10 : 310
Know'st thou the land ; by J. M. Mitchell	-	8 : 157
Knox ; by A. Cunningham	-	10 : 210
La belle alliance ; by J. J. Blackburn	-	14 : 64
Labore et honore ; by W. Robertson	-	7 : 58
Labour ; by F. Buchanan	-	11 : 136
Labour ; by J. Young	-	3 : 163
Laddies noo-a-days, the ; by R. Meek	-	6 : 212
Lady Margaret ; by Ella Burton	-	8 : 173
Laird o' Gowdenleas, the ; by W. Thomson	-	5 : 249
Laird o' Macnab, the ; by A. Wanless	-	5 : 59
Laird's awa', the ; by W. Cross	-	6 : 24

Laird's courtship, the ; by J. Jamieson	5 : 187
Laird's soliloquy, the ; by R. Trotter	11 : 174
Lamb's lullaby, the ; by M. L. Duncan	11 : 166
Lame Willie ; by M. Mackillar	2 : 198
Lament, a ; by W. Walker	8 : 223
Lament for Glencoe ; by M. M. Campbell	12 : 178
Lament for Maclean of Ardgour ; by H. Boulton	11 : 37
Lament for Mary, a ; by W. Miller	3 : 143
Lament for the departure of the fairies ; by D. W. Yair	7 : 250
Lament of a mother on the death of her son ; by D. Inrie	2 : 225
Lament of Dougal Macgregor, the ; by J. Gilkison	13 : 168
Lament on the desecration of Scottish antiqui- ties ; by P. Carmichael	4 : 231
Lamentation for Zion, a ; by A. Dewar	13 : 343
Lammermoor hills, the ; by P. M'Crakett	2 : 344
Lan' that's far awa', the ; by W. B. Smith	11 : 96
Land beyond the sea, the ; by W. Stewart	12 : 90
Land I wiuna lea', the ; by J. Ballantyne	11 : 117
Land o' the bonnet and plaid ; by J. Crawford	5 : 102
Land o' the brose, the ; by A. Cairns	6 : 97
Land of cakes, the ; by G. Menzies	11 : 52
Land of my home, the ; by M. R. Dow	8 : 48
Land of song, a ; by P. G. Fraser	13 : 259
Land of the bright blooming heather, the ; by H. Macdonald	7 : 47
Land of the heather, the ; by W. Lyle	6 : 32
Land of the martyrs, the ; by J. G. Small	4 : 262
Land of the poets' song ; by H. P. Bayne	14 : 157
Land of wondrous story ; by J. K. Scott	4 : 47
Land where the eagle soars, the ; by R. S. Inglis	10 : 301
Landin' o' a saumon, the ; by W. Forsyth	13 : 207
Lanely hame, the ; by I. Robertson	11 : 170
Lanely lassie, the ; by A. M'D. Bisset	13 : 187
Lanely widow, the ; by W. Anderson	2 : 235
Lang, lang syne ; by G. J. Lawrie	10 : 361
Lang Peter ; by J. Kennedy	6 : 218
Langhill fairy, the ; by J. F. Cannon	4 : 191
Lang syne ; by L. Robertson	4 : 50
Language of life, the ; by J. Wilson	5 : 381
Lark, the ; by J. Milligan	8 : 142
Lark, the ; by W. Burns	8 : 343
Lark, the ; by T. Chapman	4 : 71
Lark, the ; by W. M'Queen	1 : 33

Lark is come again, the ; by J. S. M'Culloch	7 : 214
Lark's mission, the ; by Lady L. Fowlis	4 : 322
Lass o' Ballinshoe, the ; by R. H. W. Smith	5 : 106
Lass o' Craigie Ha', the ; by M. K. Beveridge	12 : 261
Lass o' Dysart shore, the ; by D. Young	15 : 283
Lass o' Evelaw tower, the ; by J. Browne	13 : 179
Lass o' Lomond vale, the ; by J. Heggie	7 : 320
Lass on the banks o' the Ale, the ; by R. Menmon	3 : 135
Lass that wadna lo'e me, the ; by W. Whyte	9 : 314
Lass to mak' a wife o', the ; by S. S. Campbell	15 : 269
Lass wi' the blue roguish e'en, the ; by D. M. M'Auslane	5 : 202
Lassie I ken, a ; by T. M'Ewan	12 : 334
Lassie in the mist, the ; by G. Webster	9 : 374
Lassie liltin' owre the lea ; by A. Reid	9 : 156
Lassie o' Bannerfield Ha', the ; by J. Currie	3 : 118
Lassie that's awa', the ; by R. Sanderson	1 : 67
Lassie wi' the gowden hair, the ; by J. A. Duncan	15 : 71
Last hymn, the ; by J. Walker	10 : 104
Last lay of the minstrel, the ; by J. T. Levens	7 : 125
Last longings ; by M. Inglis	10 : 57
Last look of home, the ; by R. Hogg	7 : 237
Last o' the hillmen, the ; by J. Macfarlane	1 : 35
Last o' the lave, the ; by J. Smith	1 : 265
Last man, the ; by W. Gifford	13 : 354
Last snow on Ben More, the ; by J. Borthwick	5 : 124
Last sunset, the ; by J. Borthwick	5 : 127
Last tanner, the ; by D. Carmichael	9 : 94
Last wish, the ; by W. L. Alexander	10 : 230
Latter law, the ; by W. Canton	11 : 26
Lauch in the sleeve, the ; by P. Anton	13 : 125
Laverock's sang, the ; by W. Cadenhead	1 : 349
Lay bye this staff for me ; by P. M'Arthur	1 : 330
Lay him low ; by F. Mary Colquhoun	14 : 293
Lay his ashes there ; by Margaret Tough	5 : 288
Lay of the Wakamarina, the ; by J. J. S. Stewart	7 : 62
Lea' me alane ; by A. Laing	6 : 152
Lead Thou me on ; by T. Rae	11 : 235
Leal heart lo'es lang ; by J. M. E. Saxby	4 : 124
Leal wife's sang, the ; by A. C. M'Bryde	5 : 184
Leal-hearted lassie, a ; by J. Copeland	12 : 123
Leap year. or the old maid gone a-wooing ; by J. Milne	2 : 364
Leely's e'e ; by G. Stables	14 : 377
Left alone ; by T. M'Ewan	12 : 331

Legend o' Selkirk, a ; by A. Wanless	5 : 61
Legend of King Canmore, a ; by J. Reid	7 : 103
Legend of Kyrke-Mayden, a ; by G. Fraser	2 : 159
Legend of Sir Hugh's seat, a ; by J. M. Macbeath	11 : 219
Legend of St Rosalie, the ; by T. Brown	3 : 268
Legend of the daisy, a ; by R. Whittet	6 : 132
Lennox manor ; by A. C. M'Bryde	5 : 186
L'envoi ; by W. C. Smith	3 : 247
L'envoi ; by R. F. Hardy	6 : 315
Leopard cats o' Aberdeen, the ; by W. D. Geddes	15 : 181
Let benefits be traced on sand ; by W. T. Mercer	12 : 265
Let cankered carles ; by F. A. Mackay	10 : 384
Let Italy boast ; by J. Hyslop	7 : 78
Let ither anglers ; by T. T. Stoddart	6 : 351
Let me ken hoo the bairns are at hame ; by H. Nimmo	8 : 251
Let the bairnies play ; by M. Inglis	10 : 55
Let the light enter ; by G. Webster	9 : 372
Letters ; by M. W. Smith	9 : 265
Letters on the candle ; by M. W. Smith	9 : 264
Let's lo'e ilk ither here ; by J. Johnston	3 : 335
Level crossing, the ; by R. Walker	12 : 323
Liars ; by Charlotte Jobling	8 : 301
Liberty ; by E. Davidson	4 : 97
Licht heart, the ; by J. A. Duncan	15 : 72
Licht in the winnock, the ; by W. Stark	9 : 234
Lieutenant Irving ; by A. Munro	5 : 194
Life ; by J. G. Carter	13 : 41
Life ; by J. Shepherd	13 : 58
Life ; by D. Maclean	9 : 301
Life ; by A. G. Scott	7 : 239
Life ; by A. Buchanan	11 : 376
Life ; by J. Cranstoun	3 : 303
Life—a journey ; by R. Hutcheon	3 : 224
Life, a prayer ; by J. L. M. Watt	9 : 123
Life ! a stream ; by J. Stewart	6 : 255
Life a vapour ; by J. Macdonald	7 : 356
Life and death ; by J. M. King	11 : 274
Life and death ; by A. Cowan	11 : 45
Life in earnest ; by C. Rae-Brown	8 : 381
Life only in love ; by W. Gifford	13 : 353
Life pictures ; by J. Strang	7 : 362
Life song, a ; by N. Thomson	9 : 393
Life wi' those we love, a ; by A. S. Wilson	8 : 397
Lifeboat, the ; by A. Stewart	6 : 337

Life's dreams ; by A. J. Symington	-	5 : 91
Life's pauses ; by W. Bruce	-	14 : 350
Life's teachers ; by P. Skirving	-	12 : 277
Life's voyage ; by J. Copeland	-	12 : 125
Life's web ; by W. Stark	-	5 : 233
Lift, lift the cross of Christ ; by J. R. Macduff	-	10 : 313
Lift me again to my chair ; by E. Sutherland	-	6 : 347
Lift the veil ; by J. Drake	-	13 : 110
Light after darkness ; by M. H. Deveneau	-	12 : 341
Light on the hills, the ; by D. Macgregor	-	11 : 86
Lights and shadows ; by J. F. Duncan	-	3 : 50
Lights and shadows ; by A. Lamont	-	3 : 298
Like lark in summer morning ; by W. Dickson	-	7 : 350
Like mist on the mountain ; by R. M. M'Cheyne	-	15 : 87
Lilies of spring, the ; by T. Thorpe	-	4 : 24
Lilies pretty ; by R. C. M'Fee	-	13 : 316
Lilly ; by J. D. Gillespie	-	15 : 220
Lilly Lorn ; by J. Smith	-	1 : 264
Lily, the ; by J. Shepherd	-	13 : 58
Lily o' the glen ; by M. M. Harper	-	14 : 205
Lily o' the glen ; by S. M'Farlane	-	6 : 395
Limpin' Kate ; by A. Marshall	-	15 : 202
Lines ; by A. Mitchell	-	13 : 366
Lines ; by L. L. Thain	-	13 : 285
Lines on the sparrow ; by A. Stewart	-	15 : 101
Lines suggested by a cist found near Stirling ; by C. F. Honeyman	-	14 : 343
Lines suggested by Boehm's statue of Thomas Carlyle ; by W. Allan	-	1 : 287
Lines to a poetic friend ; by A. Fairbairn	-	4 : 320
Lines to an early snowdrop ; by M. J. Potter	-	9 : 377
Lines to an old cab horse ; by J. Jamieson	-	5 : 189
Lines to Beethoven ; by R. M. Adamson	-	15 : 376
Lines to thought ; by E. M'Leod	-	15 : 134
Lines written under a drawing in an album ; by Lady F. Hastings	-	3 : 232
Linnet's lament the ; by R. Reid	-	12 : 99
Linthills well, the ; by J. Shaw	-	4 : 375
Lintwhite, the ; by J. Smith	-	1 : 263
Lisette ; by Mrs L. Robertson	-	3 : 351
Little Annie ; by J. M'Kimm	-	5 : 352
Little baby ; by A. H. Japp	-	2 : 111
Little by little ; by J. Allan	-	4 : 137
Little coffin, a ; by J. K. Christie	-	1 : 20
Little garden, a ; by W. Lamberton	-	10 : 376

Little Jock ; by J. Thomson	-	10 : 271
Little laughin' lassie ; by J. L. Blair	-	13 : 381
Little Mabel ; by T. Cowan	-	4 : 328
Little Mary, O ; by J. Anderson	-	7 : 313
Little things ; by H. Cundell	-	9 : 224
Little things ; by R. Reid	-	1 : 319
Little wanderin' Jew, the ; by J. Hogg	-	9 : 165
Little words ; by J. M. Neilson	-	1 : 38
Live ; by H. Bonar	-	1 : 360
Live and let live ; by W. Hall	-	8 : 61
Live not for self ; by P. F. Sinclair	-	13 : 385
Living water, the ; by W. L. Low	-	15 : 75
Liz ; by D. Maclaren	-	1 : 315
Lizzie ; by T. Millar	-	11 : 321
Lizzie : by D. Maclagan	-	3 : 178
Lizzie Laird ; by J. Linen-	-	7 : 143
Lizzie's black e'e ; by W. Neill	-	5 : 340
Loch Eck ; by E. R. Burden	-	14 : 172
Loch Leven ; by R. S. G. Anderson	-	11 : 200
Loch Roan ; by S. Wilson	-	13 : 70
Loch Trool ; by J. Dodds	-	4 : 245
Lochaber no more ; by D. Hutcheson	-	3 : 24
Lochiel o' Lochiel ; by J. L. Watson	-	4 : 128
Lochleven ; by W. Mackarsie	-	14 : 257
Lochlomond ; by D. M'Nicol	-	3 : 279
Lochlomond, on ; by Sir J. Colquhoun	-	14 : 284
Lone were the way ; by E. Heberton	-	7 : 55
Loneliness ; by W. D. White	-	13 : 341
Lonely grave, the ; by W. V. Cousin	-	7 : 179
Lonely Sandy ; by T. Murray	-	8 : 271
Lonely soul, the ; by H. G. M'Laren	-	13 : 164
Long ago ; by E. Allison	-	7 : 147
Long ago ; by J. Christie	-	5 : 368
Long credit ; by W. S. Durie	-	5 : 273
Long, long ago ; by M. Buchanan	-	5 : 345
Longing for the May ; by R. M. Fergusson	-	6 : 270
Longings ; by M. Buchanan	-	5 : 346
Looking back ; by R. S. Turner	-	4 : 28
Looking back ; by R. Gemmell	-	2 : 60
Looking forward ; by H. B. Mackenzie	-	9 : 272
Lord in supplication meek ; by A. D. Hossack	-	12 : 184
Lord Ruthven ; or, The waes of Dupplin Field ; by W. Pyott	-	8 : 412
Lord, what is man ? by J. Whitelaw	-	11 : 261
Lord's message to the king, the ; by A. Stewart	-	10 : 122

Lost ; by A. Steel	-	12 : 151
Lost ; by H. M. Davidson	-	3 : 320
Lost and found ; by C. C. Rae-Brown	-	8 : 387
Lost earth, the ; by J. A. Anderson	-	8 : 81
Lost on the hills ; by G. B. Mackenzie	-	12 : 361
Lost toy, a ; by M. R. Dow	-	8 : 50
Lost treasure, the ; by C. M. Stewart	-	6 : 182
Love ; by H. Nisbet	-	5 : 158
Love ; by J. Tod	-	9 : 133
Love ; by J. Fullerton	-	1 : 17
Love ; by J. Strang	-	7 : 361
Love ; by J. J. H. Burgess	-	14 : 193
Love ; by W. Roxburgh	-	9 : 398
Love ; by A. Cowan	-	11 : 42
Love and aid each other ; by D. R. Sellars	-	6 : 161
Love and friendship ; by J. N. Paton	-	2 : 299
Love in all ; by R. W. Hay	-	7 : 113
Love is best ; by J. Skelton	-	11 : 284
Love is love ; by J. G. Mackenzie	-	8 : 185
Love lasts for aye ; by J. T. Levens	-	7 : 128
Love, music, poesy, and flowers ; by W. Reid	-	1 : 202
Love revived ; by F. Locke	-	9 : 290
Love song ; by Mrs A. H. Berger	-	14 : 290
Love song ; by F. Mary Colquhoun	-	14 : 293
Love that turns away, the ; by Mrs G. S. Menteach	-	8 : 266
Love, the canopy of eve ; by G. Gilfillan	-	15 : 117
Love tirl'd at the window ; by John Brown	-	14 : 297
Love token, a ; by W. Bayne	-	14 : 135
Lovely lass o' Laverockha ; by J. Dougall	-	13 : 216
Lovers' meeting, the ; by J. Stewart	-	6 : 256
Lover's return, the ; by W. Lamberton	-	10 : 379
Love's compensation ; by C. Whyte	-	9 : 282
Love's crown ; by G. T. S. Farquhar	-	13 : 406
Love's egotism ; by C. H. Laubach	-	10 : 172
Love's extravagance ; by W. Cowie	-	7 : 72
Love's presence ; by M. T. Whitlocke	-	10 : 148
Love's strength ; by J. T. F. Farquhar	-	14 : 79
Love's summer ; by W. Thomson	-	2 : 156
Love's victory ; by A. Cairns	-	6 : 98
Love's whisper ; by D. Ramsay	-	15 : 238
Love's withered wreath ; by C. J. Sherer	-	8 : 44
Love's young dream ; by R. H. W. Smith	-	5 : 107
Loving words ; by A. Marshall	-	15 : 290
Low and sweet ; by Margaret Smith	-	13 : 33

Lowly life-psalm, a ; by J. Dickie	-	14 : 236
Lowly service ; by J. Dickie	-	14 : 235
Lowly song of a lowly bard, the ; by J. Hamilton	-	1 : 254
Lucerne ; by J. Nichol	-	2 : 245
Lullaby ; by J. Borthwick	-	5 : 128
Lullaby ; by S. Macnamara	-	14 : 310
Lullaby, a ; by J. Wilkie	-	6 : 273
Lullaby, a ; by M. Young	-	7 : 133
Lullaby, a ; by T. Rae	-	11 : 237
Luther ; by A. Cunningham	-	10 : 212
Lux in tenebris ; by J. M. Macbeath	-	11 : 216
Lyre the ; by J. Galbraith	-	2 : 150
Macleod of Dare ; by G. Stronach	-	5 : 393
Madie's schule ; by A. Smart	-	11 : 78
Madonna Natura ; by W. Sharp	-	10 : 392
Madrigal ; by W. C. Sturoc	-	4 : 345
Maggie ; by W. Houstoun	-	10 : 96
Maggie, an elegy ; by H. Nisbet	-	5 : 156
Maggie Hay ; by J. Crawford	-	10 : 156
Maggie Lyle ; by F. Buchanan	-	11 : 138
Maggie wi' the dark-blue een ; by J. S. M'Culloch	-	7 : 216
Maggie's awa' ; by R. A. Dakers	-	14 : 146
Maid Mysie ; by W. Thomson	-	5 : 247
Maid o' Kennuir, the ; by J. Dougall	-	13 : 213
Maid o' Kilruskin, the ; by H. Johnston	-	12 : 189
Maid o' Mossgreen, the ; by Alex. Hugh	-	13 : 233
Maid of Ballychro, the ; by N. Macleod	-	6 : 235
Maiden aunt, the ; by W. Delday	-	12 : 40
Maiden fair, the ; by J. Wright	-	3 : 129
Maiden martyr, the ; by M. Inglis	-	10 : 56
Maiden mine ; by G. Mackenzie	-	14 : 333
Maiden of Morven ; by H. Boulton	-	11 : 37
Maiden stood at her loom and wove, a ; by J. M'Vittie	-	11 : 350
Maidenhood ; by J. Booth	-	15 : 90
Maiden's plaint, the ; by J. Bell	-	10 : 342
Maiden's song, the ; by D. R. Sellars	-	6 : 161
Mail coach, the ; by James Milligan	-	8 : 144
Mains Castle ; by A. Watt	-	3 : 139
Maister, the ; by W. Mitchell	-	14 : 47
Maister and the bairns, the ; by W. Thomson	-	5 : 246
Maisterless duggie, the ; by P. Gardiner	-	10 : 318
Mamless ; by J. J. H. Burgess	-	14 : 194
Mamma's apostrophe to baby ; by T. Dunlop	-	4 : 223
Man i' the meen, the ; by R. Matheson	-	14 : 199

Man o' Craigstane, the ; by T. Anderson	14 : 164
Man that works, the ; by A. S. Wilson -	8 : 396
Man wasna made to mourn ; by J. G. Kidd -	7 : 337
Managing mother, the ; by T. L. Work -	12 : 216
Maniac bride, the ; by W. Fulton -	12 : 380
Maniac mother, the ; by G. Menzies -	11 : 54
Man's insignificance ; by Hugh Thomson -	8 : 207
Ma-ona ; by J. Dodds -	4 : 247
Marbhrann do mhairi nic-ealair ; by M. Macpherson	15 : 44
March of the Cameron men, the ; by M. M Campbell -	12 : 178
Mare Mediterranean ; by J. Nichol -	2 : 248
Margarita Peliga ; by T. Brown -	3 : 267
Mari ; by J. Christie -	5 : 371
Marion and Willie ; by Mrs L. Robertson -	3 : 350
Marion Neville ; by Sarah J. Hyslop -	4 : 350
Marjorie ; by John Brown -	14 : 297
Marjorie's tryst ; by J. Kyd -	11 : 123
Marjory and Johnnie ; by Mrs L. Robertson -	3 : 351
Markinch ; by D. Owler -	15 : 358
Marriage ; by K. Robertson -	9 : 347
Marriage in Heaven ; by J. T. F. Farquhar	14 : 79
Marriage of the Marquis of Lorne, the ; by J. D. Gillespie -	15 : 215
Marriage song—Miss Campbell of Lochnell ; by J. Campbell -	6 : 46
Married and settled at last ; by G. Neil -	11 : 195
Mars ; by P. Bayne -	14 : 118
Marsh light. the ; by D. Gow -	9 : 29
Martyred Margarets, the ; by J. P. Findlay	12 : 51
Martyr's crest, the ; by A. H. Bowie -	12 : 157
Martyr's grave, the ; by J. Macfarlane -	1 : 34
Martyrs' graves, the ; by M. P. Aird -	3 : 95
Martyrs of Corsegellioch, the ; by J. Murray	3 : 152
Martyrs of Wigton, the ; by Mrs S. Menteath -	6 : 292
Martyr's prayer, the ; by Thomas Thomson	8 : 97
Mary ; by P. J. M'Mahon -	13 : 96
Mary ; by W. Cowie -	7 : 70
Mary ; by W. C. Sturoc -	4 : 342
Mary ; by G. Webster -	9 : 369
Mary and I ; by Alex. Murison -	8 : 314
Mary at Jesus' feet ; by K. M'Neill -	6 : 229
Mary Cree ; by John Brown -	2 : 132
Mary, dear Mary ; by H. Muir -	10 : 177
Mary fair ; by J. Law -	5 : 315

Mary Lee ; by J. S. Scotland	12 : 414
Mary Morrison ; by W. Wilson	4 : 30
Mary to Salome ; by C. P. Craig	6 : 301
Mary's sang ; by T. Byers	4 : 288
Masonic toast, a ; by J. Blair	13 : 150
Masonry : by C. Spalding	12 : 96
Massacre of Glencoe, the ; by J. G. Small	4 : 261
Master and the flowers, the ; by A. Stewart	10 : 128
Master is come and calleth for thee, the ; by J. Howat	15 : 294
Match-boy's prayer, the ; by D. Scott	4 : 57
Match-seller, the ; or the manly bairn ; by J. Young	1 : 279
Maternal grief : by R. Campbell	15 : 415
Maternal lament ; by T. L. Work	12 : 217
Mathematician in love, the ; by W. J. M. Rankine	5 : 32
Matrimony ; by J. D. Reid	10 : 77
May ; by A. M'Lachlan	2 : 263
May ; by T. Chapman	4 : 71
May-day ; by F. Bennoch	6 : 388
May-day of the world, the ; by J. Paton	2 : 310
May dew ; by R. A. Dakers	14 : 145
May dew, the ; by M. Hall	14 : 52
May-morn song, a ; by H. A. Maclean	10 : 86
May morning ; by J. Cranstoun	3 : 302
May morning ; by A. Donaldson	6 : 378
May morning ; by M. T. Whitlocke	10 : 149
May the mouse ne'er leave yer meal poke ; by M. Coyle	14 : 216
Mearns bonnie lasses, the ; by George Duthie	7 : 347
Meditation on Dunnottar Castle ; by Donald Ogilvy	13 : 220
Meenister's gweed black coat, the ; by A. Mitchell	13 : 364
Meet me, my love ; by Walter Towers	8 : 348
Meeting of mothers in Heaven ; by G. Menzies	11 : 54
Mementoes ; by H. B. Mackenzie	9 : 270
Memories ; by N. Scrymgeour	13 : 115
Memories ; by W. R. Hawkins	4 : 144
Memories ; by M. Cross	1 : 312
Memories of music ; by C. Macleod	9 : 160
Memories of the Vale of Leven ; by D. M. M'Auslane	5 : 200
Memory ; by J. Usher	10 : 278
Memory ; by A. Drummond	6 : 50
Memory, a ; by Elizabeth C. Clephane	5 : 227

Memory, a ; by H. W. Harper	4 : 252
Memory of a friend, in ; by V. B. Mackenzie	12 : 364
Memory of spring ; by S. Kerr	15 : 392
Menagerie, the ; by M. M. Campbell	12 : 180
Mendelssohn's 25th song without words ; by G. T. S. Farquhar	13 : 407
Mendicant, the ; by W. Wilson	4 : 30
Merry Jock ; by T. Chapman	4 : 70
Message, a ; by M. Fraser	9 : 331
Message from the ocean, a ; by G. T. S. Farquhar	13 : 406
Message from the sea, a ; by M. Bean	15 : 314
Message of the snowdrop, the ; by S. Reid	10 : 112
Messenger from Flodden, the ; by T. M. Fraser	12 : 252
Middleage ; by J. Hedderwick	3 : 413
Midnight forge, the ; by A. G. Murdoch	1 : 182
Midsummer hour, a ; by W. Sharp	10 : 393
Midsummer nicht's dream, a ; by J. M. King	11 : 271
Mignonnette ; by W. A. B. Macinlay	12 : 338
Mike and the praist ; by A. Reid	5 : 283
Mile and a bittock, a ; by R. L. Stevenson	10 : 325
Milk-maid, the ; by R. Meek	6 : 212
Miner laddie's address to his readers, the ; by A. Wilson	7 : 183
Miner's address to his fiddle, the ; by A. Morris	12 : 402
Minister's cow, the ; by W. Buchanan	13 : 86
Minister's tree, the ; by J. W. Gordon	15 : 331
Mini-stry of song, the ; by Mary A. Tough	5 : 291
Minstrel, the ; by J. Rae	3 : 218
Minstrel's lament, the ; by J. M'Donald	5 : 258
Mirren's autobiography ; by M. Bernstein	1 : 52
Miser, the ; by W. M. Philip	8 : 214
Miser, the ; by R. Bennet	12 : 32
Miser, the ; by J. L. Hercus	12 : 38
Miserable man, the ; by T. Morton	12 : 109
Miseries of the village schoolmaster, the ; by J. Craig	4 : 39
Misfortune's favourite—a tale of man's inhumanity ; by L. Mackenzie	15 : 321
Mission, the ; by J. Luby	12 : 368
Mistress Mouse ; by W. D. Jeffrey	8 : 108
Mither and bairn ; by W. Gordon	14 : 245
Mither to her bairns, the ; by A. M. Kay	2 : 377
Mitherless babe, the ; by N. Thomson	9 : 392
Mitherless bairn, a ; by J. Lauder	6 : 363
Mitherless laddie's lament, the ; by D. M'Intosh	2 : 330

Mitherless lanmie, the ; by M. Morrison	-	3 : 222
Mither's bawbee, the ; by A. Hamilton	-	7 : 242
Mither's lament, a ; by H. P. Bayne	-	14 : 159
Mither's love, a ; by J. Christie	-	6 : 264
Mither's questions ; by J. Brown	-	5 : 231
Mither's sang, the ; by A. Logan	-	1 : 199
Model wife, the ; by J. M'Gregor	-	14 : 150
Modern Penelope ; by J. Thomson	-	7 : 169
Moladh air oigh gheulaich air fonh ; by E. M'Leod	-	15 : 135
Mole and the bat, the ; by M. M. Campbell	-	12 : 179
Monody ; by James Campbell	-	7 : 261
Monody on the death of William Wordsworth ; by A. B. Todd	-	1 : 134
Mont Blanc ; by J. Mather	-	15 : 246
Moon-flower, the ; an Indian legend ; by A. Horsburgh	-	11 : 249
Moonlight ; by A. Wallace	-	2 : 103
Moonlight scenery in the Highlands ; by W. Robertson	-	1 : 306
Moorland spring, a ; by J. Campbell	-	6 : 202
Moors, the ; by J. C. Shairp	-	9 : 194
Moosie drooned in milk, to a ; by G. Stables	-	14 : 379
Moral hero, the ; by D. Macmillan	-	14 : 303
Moral Rubicon, the ; by J. Chapman	-	2 : 321
Moralist in autumn, the ; by Sir G. Douglas	-	14 : 93
Morning ; by A. S. Graham	-	9 : 150
Morning ; by C. Gulland	-	6 : 246
Morning ; by G. Clark	-	11 : 150
Morning at sea in the tropics ; by G. G. M'Crae	-	12 : 226
Morning reverie, a ; by G. Murie	-	5 : 270
Morning song, a ; by Lord A. Campbell	-	13 : 246
Mortality ; by W. Knox	-	15 : 164
Moslem's grave, the ; by Margaret Tough	-	5 : 287
Motee's uncle ; by A. Horsburgh	-	11 : 255
Mother ; by M. Cousin	-	4 : 366
Mother ; by P. Anderson	-	15 : 95
Mother, the ; by J. C. Henderson	-	5 : 143
Mother and babe ; by C. F. Osburn Blackburn	-	13 : 389
Mother sat watching, a ; by J. W. Greene	-	15 : 347
Motherhood ; by M. E. Sangster	-	6 : 109
Motherhood ; by J. Booth	-	15 : 90
Mother's darling ; by J. K. Christie	-	1 : 19
Mother's death ; by K. M'Neill	-	6 : 230
Mother's entreaty, a ; by G. Webster	-	10 : 330
Mother's funeral, a ; by N. Macleod	-	1 : 391

Mother's gift, a ; by G. S. Mathieson	-	4 : 100
Mother's grief, a ; by M. H. Browne		14 : 109
Mother's grief, a ; by G. J. Gordon	-	2 : 257
Mother's lullaby, a ; by W. Garden	-	2 : 26
Mother's plea, a ; by G. M. Simpson	-	8 : 331
Mother's song, a ; by R. Benuet	-	12 : 29
Mother's song, the ; by Thomas Eckford	-	8 : 408
Mother's test, a ; by Jeannie Dodds	-	13 : 55
Mount Olympus ; by A. MacLachlan	-	5 : 42
Mountain child, the ; by T. Newbigging		3 : 404
Mountain fir, the ; by Earl of Southesk	-	1 : 118
Mountain girl, the ; by A. M. Lang	-	4 : 64
Mountain hymn ; by A. S. Patterson	-	15 : 264
Mountain nymph, a ; by A. H. Bowie	-	12 : 156
Mountain stream, the ; by D. Lindsay	-	8 : 335
Mountain tarn, the ; by T. Burns	-	11 : 306
Mourn not longer, gentle lady ; by A. H. Bowie		12 : 157
Move on ; by A. Jenkins	-	11 : 354
Mrs Claick ; by D. L. Greig	-	12 : 112
Muckle Bubbly Jock, the ; by J. Stewart		6 : 253
Muckle snaw-ba, the ; by J. Rae	-	12 : 245
Muckle spate ; by D. Grant	-	9 : 172
Muir's o' Kyle, the ; by G. M'Murdo	-	5 : 223
Murder of James the First of Scotland, the ; by S. Kerr	-	15 : 394
Murder of John Brown, the ; by H. Brown		3 : 184
Murderer's last dream, the ; by J. Milne	-	2 : 365
Murren ; by R. Richardson	-	4 : 140
Music ; by H. Shanks	-	11 : 376
Music ; by M. R. Dow	-	8 : 47
Music and I ; by G. T. S. Farquhar	-	13 : 407
Music lesson, a ; by A. H. Japp	-	2 : 108
Musings in a graveyard ; by T. Byers	-	4 : 289
My ae year auld ; by T. Logan	-	2 : 32
My ain Bell ; by J. Barnet	-	2 : 289
My ain charming Jean ; by A. Watson	-	13 : 368
My ain fire en' ; by W. D. Birrell	-	14 : 182
My ain gate en' ; by J. Norval	-	6 : 197
My ain gudeman ; by D. Taylor	-	15 : 399
My ain ingle side ; by W. M'Dougall	-	4 : 21
My ain Jean ; by D. Allan	-	6 : 168
My ain, my dearest Mary ; by Alex. Hugh		13 : 233
My ain native vale ; by J. Brown	-	2 : 133
My ain true lover, Johnnie ; by P. M'Neill		5 : 296
My ambition ; by G. T. S. Farquhar	-	13 : 405

My Annie an' me ; by A. Wardrop	-	4 : 84
My attic ; by J. Christie	-	5 : 368
My auld arm-chair ; by J. M'Taggart	-	11 : 327
My auld aucht-day clock ; by A. Burgess	-	1 : 273
My auld clay pipe ; by J. G. Kidd	-	7 : 337
My auld grannie Mary ; by G. Webster	-	9 : 371
My auld Scotch plaid ; by C. Stewart	-	11 : 288
My auld Scottish plaid ; by J. Anderson	-	7 : 319
My auld verge watch ; by A. J. F. Wedderburn	-	9 : 325
My auld wife Jean ; by J. Crawford	-	5 : 102
My bairn at sea ; by H. Macpherson	-	15 : 61
My bairnie an' thee ; by A. Donaldson	-	6 : 377
My bairnies twa ; by A. B. Taylor	-	4 : 315
My bark ; by R. White	-	8 : 24
My beautiful ; by C. Mackay	-	13 : 24
My bonnie bairnie ; by A. Rankin	-	3 : 254
My bonnie dark-eyed dearie ; by J. Pettigrew	-	5 : 38
My bonnie herd laddie ; by F. A. Mackay	-	10 : 382
My bonnie Jean ; by W. Angus	-	15 : 124
My bonnie rowan tree ; by D. M. Crerar	-	6 : 124
My bonnie wee bairn ; by J. M. Peacock	-	4 : 218
My bonnie wee wife ; by J. C. Guthrie	-	1 : 215
My bonnie wee wife ; by F. Bennoch	-	6 : 391
My books ; by J. M. Bulloch	-	12 : 88
My book shelf ; by A. Munro	-	5 : 197
My boy and I ; by J. Tatlow	-	6 : 208
My boy Tammie ; by J. M'Gill	-	5 : 365
My braw, braw, Hieland laddie, O ! by James Mauchline	-	14 : 320
My cantie wee hoose ; by J. Smith	-	13 : 204
My childhood ; by E. Catto	-	1 : 144
My childhood's home ; by T. M. Fraser	-	12 : 255
My companie ; by M. J. Potter	-	9 : 376
My conscience ; by R. L. Stevenson	-	10 : 326
My cutty ; by C. F. Hunter	-	9 : 32
My dearie : a song ; by W. Aitken	-	13 : 63
My dearie O ! by T. Cowan	-	4 : 330
My dearie O ! by A. Hugh	-	13 : 232
My dog Andrew ; by W. Whyte	-	9 : 313
My doggie ; by J. Smith	-	1 : 192
My doorstep, on ; by A. N. Simpson	-	11 : 311
My faithful somebody ; by J. M'Diarmid	-	7 : 109
My father an' my mither ; by J. Paul	-	11 : 384
My fiddle an' me ; by D. Carmichael	-	9 : 90
My first bawbee ; by A. M'Kay	-	2 : 378

My first pair o' breeks ; by J. Renton	-	7 : 51
My first salmon ; by W. Graham	-	3 : 192
My fisher laddie ; by A. Murison	-	8 : 313
My garden ; by H. Johnston	-	12 : 194
My grannie ; by G. Webster	-	10 : 328
My grannie an' me ; by W. Penman	-	1 : 41
My grannie's Bible ; by J. Paul	-	11 : 391
My grannie's hearthstane ; by D. M. M'Neil	-	6 : 320
My granny's auld plate-rack ; by J. Smith	-	13 : 200
My granny's fireside ; by A. Smart	-	11 : 77
My granny's ponch ; by A. Smart	-	11 : 81
My gran'son ; by D. MacLagan	-	3 : 179
My gude auld cotton umberell ; by T. Blyth	-	2 : 98
My heart aye warms to the tartan ; by T. Miller	-	5 : 148
My heart goes out to thee ; by A. Stewart	-	15 : 103
My heart is Scotland's yet ; by J. Imrie	-	11 : 416
My heart's no my ain ; by A. W. Buchan	-	6 : 283
My hero ; by Elizabeth C. Clephane	-	5 : 228
My Highland bride ; by D. Kippen	-	15 : 142
My Highland home ; by H. A. Maclean	-	10 : 87
My Highland lad ; by E. M'Leod	-	15 : 134
My Highland lassie ; by R. H. Calder	-	5 : 179
My Highland lassie, O ; by H. A. Maclean	-	10 : 85
My Jean ; by D. K. Coutts	-	7 : 175
My Joe, Janet ; by J. W. Wood	-	3 : 345
My John ; by A. S. Robertson	-	15 : 147
My Johnny ; by F. Bennoch	-	6 : 391
My joy is taken ; by W. M. Wood	-	6 : 113
My laddie days ; by Maggie Todd	-	13 : 155
My laddies ; by B. Parker	-	10 : 53
My laddie's come hame ; by T. Byers	-	4 : 287
My land, my native land, farewell ; by J. M'Clure	-	12 : 149
My last composition ; by J. M'Pherson	-	11 : 106
My lawyer ; by J. Miller	-	11 : 337
My Lily ; by G. B. Mackenzie	-	12 : 360
My little primrose flower ; by J. Thomson	-	3 : 382
My little son ; by R. Sanderson	-	1 : 69
My longings ; by Mary A. Tough	-	5 : 292
My Lord is my Saviour ; by P. Spence	-	13 : 142
My love ; by J. M'Kimm	-	5 : 354
My love and I ; by A. Barnard	-	13 : 133
My love and I ; by J. G. Mackenzie	-	8 : 186
My love and I ; by R. Walker	-	12 : 322
My love she's bonnie ; by T. Thomson	-	6 : 80

My lovely lassie ; by F. Harper	-	6 : 346
My luckymimmy's kist ; by W. Anderson	-	2 : 238
My Maggie ; by J. Watson	-	1 : 291
My mammy's awa' ; by J. I. Hillocks	-	1 : 275
My Marianne ; by R. Fergusson	-	10 : 399
My Mary ; by W. H. Gray	-	10 : 203
My Mary an' me ; by I. Craig-Knox	-	2 : 294
My message ; by G. Stronach	-	5 : 394
My mind hath a thousand fancies ; by A. S. Laing	-	12 : 64
My mither ; by E. Sutherland	-	6 : 318
My mither tongue ; by W. Reid	-	2 : 352
My mither tongue ; by D. Grant	-	9 : 174
My mither's counsel ; by C. Marshall	-	2 : 29
My mither's departure ; by R. Meek	-	6 : 210
My mither's fav'rite flowers ; by P. Whytock	-	1 : 29
My mither's red plaid ; by T. Ormond	-	2 : 355
My mother ; by D. L. Greig	-	12 : 111
My mother ; by J. C. Paterson	-	12 : 248
My mother's chair ; by A. T. M'Lean	-	4 : 78
My mother's song ; by J. Stewart	-	7 : 270
My muirlan' hame ; by G. M'Murdo	-	5 : 224
My native land ; by J. D. Brown	-	3 : 56
My native land ; by M. Robertson	-	15 : 161
My native land ; by E. Williamson	-	2 : 306
My native land ; by D. K. Coutts	-	7 : 174
My native Scottish hills ; by W. C. Sturoe	-	4 : 347
My nest ; by R. B. Merrylees	-	5 : 120
My old goose quill ; by R. Bird	-	10 : 191
My old home in Scotland ; by H. G. M'Laren	-	13 : 161
My other Chinees cook ; by J. B. Stephens	-	12 : 305
My own love ; by J. Grant	-	10 : 354
My own loved land ; by W. Henderson	-	7 : 282
My own true love ; by A. Mabon	-	9 : 209
My poem ; by J. Hewitt	-	1 : 242
My resting place ; by J. Ferguson	-	1 : 148
My sailor lad ; by A. E. Thomson	-	7 : 354
My sailor laddie ; by W. Crawford	-	2 : 328
My shepherd lad ; by J. Westwood	-	8 : 260
My shield ; by D. Macgregor	-	11 : 91
My siller preen ; by J. L. Blair	-	13 : 382
My star ; by J. C. Figg	-	4 : 61
My theme ; by M. A. Shaw	-	4 : 379
My treasure ; by A. Weir	-	11 : 421
My umbrella ; by C. Millar	-	15 : 402
My voice shalt thou hear ; by G. Matheson	-	9 : 140

My web of life ; by M. Fraser	9 : 335
My wee cheepie stool ; by J. Thomson	3 : 383
My wee cripple wean ; by W. H. L. Tester	1 : 327
My wee Jamie ; by W. H. L. Tester	1 : 328
My wild flower ; by Ella Burton	8 : 174
My young days ; by T. Stewart	8 : 189
Mysie Dean ; by W. C. Sturoc	4 : 346
Mysie Gordon ; by W. C. Smith	3 : 242
Mysie May ; by J. Brown	14 : 298
Mystic, the ; by W. Gifford	13 : 354
Mystical fluid, the ; by P. Macpherson	14 : 386
Nae freen's like auld freen's ; by A. Jeffrey	9 : 340
Nae place like hame ; by D. Canning	3 : 364
Nae rest till we win hame ; by A. S. Swan	6 : 398
Naebody's bairn ; by A. Wedderburn	6 : 239
Nameless treasure, a ; by A. Munro	5 : 195
Nane ken my fauts as weel's mysel' ; by A. Doig	13 : 261
Nannie's dead ; by T. Rae	11 : 237
Natiril filosify ; by A. Burgess	1 : 272
Native scenes ; by J. Bethune	1 : 95
Nativity, the ; by G. Matheson	9 : 145
Nature ; by G. H. Kinnear	9 : 86
Nature ; by Earl of Rosslyn	8 : 20
Nature and art ; by Mrs J. C. Simpson	8 : 374
Nature's anthem ; by J. Guthrie	2 : 95
Nature's beer ; by J. Paterson	9 : 229
Nature's farewell to the old year ; by H. A. G. Yooll	7 : 67
Nature's joys ; by A. K. Dorward	13 : 349
Nature's music ; by R. Fisher	6 : 326
Naughty boy, the ; by D. S. Allan	12 : 73
Near hame ; by J. Kyd	11 : 121
'Neath the snow ; by R. Sanders	4 : 382
Necessity ; by M. Gray	14 : 191
Need I tell thee that I lo'e thee ; by D. W. Purdie	11 : 301
Neglected canary, the ; by R. Leighton	1 : 303
Nell ; by T. P. Nicoll	1 : 82
Nemesis ; by P. M'Naughton	4 : 271
Nereid, the ; by J. Craunstoun	3 : 301
Nettle and thistle, the ; by W. Macarsie	14 : 256
Never again ; by Ada E. Taylor	5 : 329
Never again ; by J. Campbell	7 : 261
Never again ; by J. Lumsden	11 : 343
Never forget ; by R. Houston	14 : 239
Never show your sting ; by R. Bell	15 : 307

New plaid, the ; by J. L. Watson	4 : 129
New year, the ; by R. A. Watson	10 : 101
New year lilt, a ; by J. Crawford	10 : 155
New year's day in the bush ; by T. B. H. Christie	12 : 283
New year's eve ; by S. Kerr	15 : 394
New year's greetin', a ; by P. J. M'Mahon	13 : 101
New year's hymn ; by W. Dickson	7 : 351
Newhaven fishwife, the ; by D. Carmichael	9 : 95
News from Africa, the ; by J. G. M. Heddle	10 : 194
Newsboy, the ; by J. Urquhart	6 : 144
Next mornin' ; by W. M. Smart	11 : 213
Niagara ; by Marquis of Lorne	7 : 255
Nicht at Tam's, a ; by W. Sinclair	7 : 307
Night ; by H. Clark	6 : 359
Night ; by S. M'Farlane	6 : 396
Night ; by A. W. Haywood	15 : 119
Night ; by K. M'Neill	6 : 231
Night comes down, the ; by J. Mahon	7 : 223
Night—near the city ; by A. Cargill	4 : 56
Night-cap elegy, a ; by T. Blair	13 : 378
Nightingales, the ; by F. Sinclair	14 : 60
Ninety and nine, the ; by Elizabeth C. Clephane	5 : 226
Ninety-second Gordon Highlanders, the ; by F. H. Gordon	3 : 366
Nithsdale martyrs, the ; by W. M'Dowall	3 : 260
No, I'll not ; by W. R. Lyall	10 : 143
No land like the highlands ; by G. W. Anderson	14 : 27
No more ! by R. Walker	12 : 323
No more a child ; by M. A. Shaw	4 : 377
No more a child ; by J. C. D. Fraser	12 : 164
No more, dear child, thou list'nest to my song ; by J. M. Macbeath	11 : 225
No ! not despairingly ; by J. Dickie	14 : 237
Noble, nobler, noblest ; by P. F. Sinclair	13 : 384
Noddin' to me ; by I. Robertson	11 : 169
Noltland's fairy queen ; by J. M. Macbeath	11 : 221
Noo juist fancy that ; by J. Christie	15 : 222
Noo, or never ; by J. Kerr	10 : 336
Norman Macleod ; by P. Macmorland	6 : 91
Norman's song ; by D. Waters	2 : 255
Nose everybody knows, the ; by J. M'Pherson	11 : 106
Not nice, but needy ; by J. M'Gregor	14 : 151
Nothing but pictures ; by J. Rae	12 : 243
Nothing is lost ; by A. S. Wilson	8 : 398
Nothing that defileth ; by Jeannie Dodds	13 : 56

November ; by E. Hebenton	-	7 : 55
November in the wood ; by A. Donaldson	-	6 : 378
November's cadence ; by Earl of Southesk	-	1 : 119
Now have the mountain spirits hung ; by J. Park	-	9 : 77
Now my little darling slumbers ; by J. W. Lyall	-	5 : 387
Nurse o' men, the ; by W. W. Smith	-	2 : 143
Nursery flowers ; by J. C. Landie	-	11 : 159
Nursery song ; by W. M'Queen	-	1 : 33
O Annie, fair ; by D. Kirkland	-	15 : 193
O blissful spot ; by M. Robertson	-	15 : 163
O ! come awa', dearie ; by J. Scorgie	-	5 : 322
O come in early morning ; by J. Brownlie	-	15 : 275
O come, we'll to the holms o' Clyde ; by A. Dalglish	-	1 : 351
O could I but go ; by J. Dalgity	-	7 : 209
O ! happy was the gloamin' ; by G. W. Bethune	-	2 : 315
O, how happy ; by C. Stewart	-	11 : 290
O, I wish it were weel awa' ; by E. Williamson	-	2 : 308
O Johnnie, leave the lass alane ; by W. Black	-	10 : 21
O ken ye whaur ; by S. S. Campbell	-	15 : 270
O lass, are you weary ? by W. Angus	-	15 : 123
O light of light ; by J. Brownlie	-	15 : 274
O love as long as thou canst love ! by W. Macintosh	-	7 : 93
O love it is bonnie, when love it is true ; by A. Falconer	-	13 : 305
O love that wilt not let me go ; by G. Matheson	-	9 : 146
O, mighty sea ; by J. Greig	-	9 : 62
O sleep, my heart ; by W. Macintosh	-	7 : 91
O stay wi' me ; by F. Buchanan	-	11 : 137
O, tell me not ; by W. Sinclair	-	7 : 308
O that Mysie's tongue would tire ; by A. Smart	-	11 : 80
O the changes of life ; by W. C. Smith	-	3 : 244
O ! this is the spot ; by D. Kippen	-	15 : 144
O ! wae's me ; by A. Hamilton	-	7 : 122
O, what will we do in the morning ; by M. M. Campbell	-	12 : 181
O, when the wind ; by A. Murison	-	8 : 314
O why maun I dee ; by A. Hamilton	-	7 : 118
O, wind of the west ; by J. M. King	-	11 : 273
O winter days ; by J. Hardie	-	15 : 353
O, woman fair ; by J. M'Clure	-	12 : 149
Oak tree, the ; by A. H. Dunlop	-	13 : 82
Oatmeal ; by R. Bird	-	10 : 186
Ocean ; by W. Gifford	-	13 : 351
Ocean reverie, an ; by A. E. W. Jeffryes-	-	14 : 223
Ocean shell, the ; by L. Grant	-	12 : 203

Ocean telegraph ; by G. Jacque	-	3 : 204
Och, Danny dear ; by N. Dougall	-	14 : 114
Och, hey, hum ; by D. G. Mitchell	-	11 : 30
October ; by J. Hamilton	-	1 : 259
October ; by J. G. Mackenzie	-	8 : 183
October ; by D. Wingate	-	2 : 286
Ode for the Burns anniversary ; by W. Thomson	-	5 : 246
Ode on design ; by W. Burns	-	8 : 342
Ode—the past ; by J. C. D. Fraser	-	12 : 163
Ode to a thrush ; by T. Edwards	-	9 : 67
Ode to Crawick ; by W. Laing	-	3 : 87
Ode to drink ; by G. Neil	-	11 : 195
Ode to my countrymen ; by W. Garden	-	2 : 26
Ode to Onondaga ; by J. Nelson	-	7 : 85
Ode to summer ; by W. G. M'Gill	-	5 : 261
Ode to the Avon water ; by A. M'D. Bisset	-	13 : 189
Ode to the sea ; by J. Beveridge	-	8 : 231
O'er the heather ; by A. Adamson	-	14 : 87
O'er the moor ; by A. C. Macleod	-	15 : 438
Of love found ; by J. C. Grant	-	15 : 253
Of the song of the sea ; by J. C. Grant	-	15 : 255
Oh, a soldier's life is the life for me ; by R. White	-	8 : 25
Oh ! buy my flowers ; by L. Groves	-	14 : 140
Oh, do not sigh ; by J. J. S. Stewart	-	7 : 63
Oh, for the skylark ; by D. M. Henderson	-	6 : 120
Oh, haste awa' winter ; by A. Barnard	-	13 : 134
Oh how I've longed for thee ; by J. A. Sidey	-	3 : 398
Oh ! human love ; by J. H. C. Ford	-	8 : 138
Oh it's aye simmer yonner ; by J. Burr	-	10 : 206
Oh ken ye the dell ; by H. Macdonald	-	7 : 47
Oh, ken ye the land ; by D. G. Braidwood	-	7 : 286
Oh, kindness is a word we love ; by C. F. O. Blackburn	-	13 : 390
Oh, lady, touch that chord again ; by W. Forsyth	-	1 : 358
Oh life ! oh love ; by M. R. Watt	-	1 : 371
Oh, lippen and be leal ; by D. M. Henderson	-	12 : 145
Oh ! mither, dinna greet for me ; by W. Donaldson	-	1 : 343
Oh mither lat me rise the nicht ; by J. M'Intosh	-	5 : 209
Oh ! noble Clyde ; by C. Spalding	-	12 : 97
Oh, rest in the Lord ; by M. J. Murehie	-	9 : 267
Oh, say not life is but decay ; by R. White	-	8 : 25
Oh, Scotland ! I love thee ; by J. Westwood	-	8 : 259
Oh, shall we meet again ; by W. Murray	-	12 : 58
Oh tell na' me ; by J. Kelly	-	15 : 335
Oh thae bairns ; by I. Robertson	-	11 : 171

Oh, time delay ; by M. J. Murchie	9 : 267
Oh, weel do I mind ; by A. Cairns	6 : 100
Oh ! weel I lo'e Jamie ; by T. Knox	9 : 114
Oh ! we'll ne'er see our Prince at Balmoral again ; by W. R. Lyall	10 : 143
Oh, who is this bairnie ? by J. A. Sidey	3 : 398
Oh, who to dull roses would liken his love ; by R. White	8 : 26
Oh why dost thou disturb my dream ; by J. P. Whittet	11 : 396
Old Adam ; by A. M'Lachlan	2 : 261
Old age ; by J. F. Bremner	6 : 172
Old and new ; by W. M. Wood	6 : 112
Old and the new, the ; by J. Y. Gray	10 : 263
Old and the new year, the ; by C. C. Maxwell	7 : 277
Old beggar, the ; by J. Gow	8 : 283
Old blighted thorn, the ; by J. Wright	3 : 129
Old border life and poetry ; by J. Veitch	3 : 387
Old chest, the ; by A. Knox	14 : 365
Old church of Gainerie, the ; by W. D. Geddes	15 : 184
Old churchyard of Dalfad, the ; by J. Reid	7 : 104
Old clock, the ; by J. Taylor	5 : 326
Old cottage, the ; by F. Draper	9 : 51
Old family clock, the ; by E. Davidson	4 : 98
Old friends ; by Mrs S. Menteath	6 : 297
Old Hannah ; by A. M'Lachlan	2 : 264
Old home, the ; by A. N. Simpson	11 : 310
Old home, the ; by J. W. Brack	12 : 172
Old letters ; by Earl of Rosslyn	8 : 19
Old man, the ; by B. R. Anderson	6 : 404
Old man of Wick, the ; by G. W. Levack	6 : 54
Old man to his pipe, an ; by G. Stables	14 : 378
Old man's lament, an ; by J. C. Hutchieson	1 : 87
Old man's melodies, the ; by N. Clyne	1 : 364
Old mill wheel, the ; by J. Hardie	15 : 353
Old miller of Laggan, the ; by J. Reid	7 : 102
Old, old story, the ; by C. Will	9 : 366
Old pots to mend ; by D. M. M'Auslane	5 : 200
Old printing press, the ; by G. W. Somerville	4 : 172
Old raven eloquent, the ; by G. Brechin	3 : 415
Old remembrances ; by R. Fisher	6 : 328
Old school-book, an ; by R. Richardson	4 : 142
Old school-house, the ; by H. M'Kenzie	8 : 179
Old sermon with a new text, an ; by G. Macdonald	2 : 268
Old song, an ; by B. R. Anderson	6 : 407

Old story, the ; by R. S. G. Anderson	11 : 201
Old things ; by J. M'Kimm	5 : 354
Old violin, an ; by T. P. Johnston	5 : 375
Old violinist, the ; by C. H. Laubach	10 : 172
Old winter is gone ; by G. Murray	1 : 388
Olden time, the ; by C. Macleod	9 : 161
Oliver Cromwell ; by A. Cunningham	10 : 211
On a bassinette ; by C. Millar	15 : 403
On a braw, braw nicht ; by A. P. Melville	12 : 79
On a dead child ; by J. C. Henderson	5 : 143
On a dead lark ; by A. Laing	6 : 151
On adversity ; by D. Blyth	1 : 345
On finding a spray of thyme in an old book ; by J. R. Nicolson	7 : 340
On fire ; by D. Macrae	2 : 190
On knowledge ; by J. M'Donald	5 : 260
On leaving America ; by A. C. Barker	1 : 338
On our father's death ; by Grace P. Chalmers	5 : 213
On seeing two little girls present a flower to a dying person ; by Mary Pyper	8 : 286
On stealing ; by J. Thomson	15 : 318
On tea ; by D. Ferguson	13 : 300
On the beach ; by D. Burns	7 : 366
On the beer ; by W. Walker	3 : 103
On the death of a child ; by J. M'Diarmid	7 : 110
On the death of a favourite horse ; by J. Usher	10 : 282
On the death of an infant ; by Mary Pyper	8 : 287
On the hillside ; by J. W. Fraser	12 : 319
On the lip and in the heart ; by D. Russel	12 : 129
One are we ; by J. Cooper	15 : 382
One more river ; by J. Kyd	11 : 122
One soweth and another reapeth ; by J. Strang-	7 : 360
One true friend ; by T. L. F. Livingstone	9 : 168
One word ; by Wallace Bruce	14 : 347
Only ; by B. Howatson	11 : 268
Only ? by A. Lamont	3 : 296
Only a baby small ; by M. Barr	2 : 202
Only a crumb ; by D. G. Mitchell	11 : 32
Only a drop in a bucket ; by Sir J. Y. Simpson [?]	13 : 197
Only a heart ; by J. M. E. Saxby	4 : 125
Only a letter ; by L. Groves	14 : 138
Only a little child ; by T. Millar	5 : 149
Only a poet ; by R. Chalmers	9 : 329
Only for gold ; by P. F. Sinclair	13 : 385
Only lent ; by J. Hardie	15 : 352

Only me ; by J. Leighton	-	11 : 100
Only, only let me die ; by R. C. M'Fee	-	13 : 313
Only trust Him ; by M. Stott	-	10 : 169
Onward ; by G. H. Mowat	-	14 : 185
Onward ; by T. Rae	-	11 : 236
Onward ! upward ! heavenward ; by J. Burr	-	10 : 205
Oor ain auld mither land ; by M. Bean	-	15 : 311
Oor ain auld mither tongue ; by W. D. Birrell	-	14 : 179
Oor ain bit toon ; by R. Lawson	-	9 : 219
Oor ain fireside ; by J. Cleghorn	-	6 : 369
Oor ain fouk ; by G. Menzies	-	11 : 53
Oor ain green glens ; by H. M'Kean	-	14 : 325
Oor ain hearthstane ; by T. L. Rettie	-	7 : 343
Oor ain kirk-bell ; by R. F. Hardy	-	6 : 312
Oor ain land ; by J. M'Intosh	-	5 : 206
Oor ain mither tongue ; by T. Campbell	-	1 : 25
Oor ain mither tongue ; by D. Taylor	-	15 : 398
Oor ain wee bairn ; by W. J. Currie	-	11 : 233
Oor ain wee Jock ; by W. J. Bradley	-	8 : 63
Oor ain wee land ; by J. Ferguson	-	1 : 148
Oor auld wife ; by R. Ford	-	1 : 129
Oor back door ; by R. Swan	-	10 : 64
Oor basket an' store ; by J. Gardiner	-	4 : 41
Oor bonnie bairn ; by W. J. Currie	-	11 : 232
Oor bonnie wee bairn ; by M. Coyle	-	14 : 217
Oor burnside ; by A. Marshall	-	15 : 201
Oor countra side ; by I. Dalgity	-	8 : 66
Oor dear auld mither tongue ; by R. Hunter	-	3 : 250
Oor elder ; by A. Proctor	-	3 : 368
Oor fire en' ; by H. D. Hargrave	-	2 : 140
Oor first wee graves ; by A. Anderson	-	1 : 163
Oor guidman's spree ; by J. Barr	-	12 : 286
Oor kail-yaird ; by P. J. M'Mahon	-	13 : 98
Oor lamb's in the Shepherd's fauld ; by J. Campbell	-	6 : 203
Oor last flittin' ; by J. White	-	3 : 47
Oor little Jackie ; by J. Durie	-	8 : 159
Oor lunheid ; by T. Ormond	-	2 : 356
Oor Maggie's a steerin' wee wean ; by D. King	-	9 : 247
Oor minister's man ; by D. Loudon	-	9 : 400
Oor mither tongue ; by A. Wanless	-	5 : 57
Oor Nan's a twalmonth aulder ; by J. Christie	-	15 : 225
Oor Robin ; by R. Hunter	-	3 : 251
Oor stair fit ; by J. Singer	-	12 : 117
Oor Tammy mak's the anvil clink ; by W. Lyndon	-	15 : 32
Oor toon en' ; by T. M'Ewan	-	12 : 333

Oor toun en' ; by A. Laing	-	6 : 150
Oor wag-at the-wa' ; by E. Catto	-	1 : 145
Oor wag-at-the-wa' ; by A. Marshall	-	15 : 205
Oor wee hoose ; by J. Rae	-	14 : 213
Oor wee Jockie ; by W. Towers	-	8 : 348
Oor wee lambs ; by D. Andrew	-	4 : 303
Oor wee Marget ; by J. Kelly	-	3 : 416
Oor wee sturdy May ; by T. Edwards	-	9 : 66
Oor wee, wee wean ; by W. Allan	-	1 : 290
Oor wee Willie's deid ; by D. W. Gallacher	-	3 : 43
Oor youthfu' days ; by D. W. Purdie	-	11 : 300
Oot o' wark ; by S. S. Campbell	-	15 : 268
Ora et labora ; by W. B. R. Wilson	-	15 : 362
Orange, the ; by W. H. L. Tester	-	1 : 326
Orcadian cradle song, an ; by R. M. Fergusson	-	6 : 272
Origin of species, the ; by Lord Neaves	-	3 : 113
Origin of the snowdrop ; by G. Wilson	-	15 : 14
Orosy hills ; by R. B. Merrylees	-	5 : 121
Orphan fisher lassie, the ; by W. Gordon	-	14 : 243
Orphan girl, the ; by P. G. Fraser	-	13 : 257
Orphan's dirge, an ; by J. Davidson	-	1 : 93
Orphan's wail, the ; by F. Lennon	-	8 : 53
Orra loon's lament, the ; by R. Reid	-	12 : 100
Others ; by W. Dickson	-	7 : 352
Our ain fireside ; by T. and G. Ramsay	-	7 : 228
Our ain green shaw ; by G. Donald	-	2 : 74
Our ain hillside ; by J. A. Sidey	-	3 : 401
Our ain wife ; by T. C. Latto	-	5 : 337
Our baby ; by A. Mabon	-	9 : 209
Our candy man ; by G. Murie	-	5 : 269
Our captain ; by G. Murray	-	4 : 170
Our cosie hame ; by T. Knox	-	9 : 111
Our country ; by M. R. Dow	-	8 : 47
Our darling ; by B. Parker	-	10 : 49
Our darling ; by J. Kinlay	-	14 : 227
Our Father ; by I. Craig Knox	-	2 : 294
Our father's house ; by G. Gilfillan	-	15 : 113
Our grannies ; by J. Houston	-	4 : 36
Our hope ; by M. H. Deveneau	-	12 : 342
Our Jack ; by A. K. Durward	-	13 : 348
Our Johnnie ; by J. Imrie	-	11 : 415
Our king ; by M. Young	-	7 : 136
Our lamb is in the fauld ; by A. T. M'Lean	-	4 : 79
Our little baby sleeps ; by R. A. Scott	-	14 : 276
Our little child ; by W. Hogg	-	6 : 372

Our little Flo ; by C. C. Rae-Brown	-	8 : 385
Our little ones ; by M. A. Smith	-	1 : 383
Our Mary ; by G. Paterson	-	4 : 228
Our Mediator ; by E. R. Burden	-	14 : 172
Our meeting ; by H. Smith	-	14 : 398
Our native land ; by W. Graham	-	3 : 191
Our own ; by M. E. Sangster	-	6 : 108
Our poet ; by P. P. Alexander	-	10 : 240
Our Scottish fern ; by D. M. Henderson	-	6 : 118
Our Tam ; by W. Lyle	-	6 : 31
Our village ; by W. Bayne	-	14 : 134
Out from the narrow ; by W. Allan	-	1 : 288
Out of captivity ; by W. W. Smith	-	2 : 145
Out of the darkness ; by A. H. Bowie	-	12 : 155
Out of the silence ; by J. Bower	-	4 : 363
Outward bound ; by A. Murison	-	8 : 315
Overdue ; by Charlotte Jobling	-	8 : 297
O'er the hills and far awa' ; by J. L. Watson	-	4 : 129
Paddle your own canoe ; by J. W. Gordon	-	15 : 332
Paddy's wooing ; by J. A. Biggs	-	8 : 112
Pairtin', da ; by J. J. H. Burgess	-	14 : 195
Palace o' the King, the ; by W. Mitchell	-	14 : 45
Pang o' love, the ; by J. Murray	-	3 : 153
Parable, a ; by R. Matheson	-	14 : 197
Parable, a ; by I. F. Mayo	-	11 : 129
Parish school, the ; by G. Menzies	-	11 : 56
Parody on Gray's Elegy ; by P. Spence	-	13 : 143
Parted but not severed ; by J. M. E. Saxby	-	4 : 124
Partin' hour, the ; by R. W. Thom	-	1 : 223
Parting ; by R. B. Thomson	-	7 : 158
Parting ; by W. Officer	-	8 : 366
Pass about the jest, Jim ; by J. Leggat	-	4 : 188
Pass away earthly joy ; by J. C. Lundie	-	11 : 157
Passing away ; by M. Crichton	-	6 : 86
Passing away ; or the wind's words ; by J. K. Muir	-	2 : 383
Passing bell, the ; by M. Duthie	-	8 : 203
Passing Morven ; by John Macleod (of Govan)	-	15 : 434
Passion in art, the ; by A. B. Taylor	-	4 : 313
Path of life, the ; by G. Sutherland	-	8 : 210
Patience ; by J. Hutchison	-	13 : 185
Patience ; by J. Leck	-	4 : 134
Patience ; by M. Hall	-	14 : 52
Patience amid the ills o' life ; by P. M'Crakett	-	2 : 344
Patriarch, a ; by C. P. Gibson	-	9 : 242
Patriot, the ; by J. Donald	-	14 : 131

Pauper, a ; by Jeannie Dodds	-	13 : 53
Peace ; by R. Matheson	-	14 : 202
Peace and war ; by A. Macpherson	-	8 : 256
Peace be still ; by J. Singer	-	12 : 121
Peace of the hearth, the ; by M. Young	-	7 : 133
Peace, perfect peace, and light ; by A. Wood	-	11 : 244
Peace—war ; by J. Allison	-	3 : 375
Peden's prayer ; by W. W. Smith	-	2 : 146
Pedler's cream ; by Charlotte Jobling	-	8 : 300
Peer blin' man, the ; by G. Williams	-	13 : 92
Peggy Ramsay ; by G. Murray	-	13 : 265
Peninsular ditty, a ; by G. W. Anderson	-	14 : 29
Per rail ; by D. Rae	-	11 : 402
Perdita —the lost one ; by W. B. Melville	-	10 : 367
Perfect woman, the ; by C. J. Sherer	-	8 : 40
Perfidious sea, the ; by J. M. King	-	11 : 274
Perseverance ; by W. T. M. Hogg	-	10 : 256
Perseverance ; by W. Roxburgh	-	9 : 397
Perseverance ; by A. Wedderburn	-	6 : 240
Peter and his pig ; by W. L. Balfour	-	2 : 170
Peter the postman ; by J. Bridie	-	15 : 343
Petting at food ; by A. Smart	-	11 : 83
Phantom fancies ; by D. B. Mackie	-	7 : 194
Phil M'Keown's pig ; by J. Smith	-	15 : 210
Physician, heal thyself ; by W. H. Gray	-	10 : 202
Pibroch, the ; by J. Rae	-	3 : 217
Pibroch is sounding, the ; by H. C. Wilson	-	1 : 71
Picture on the wall, the ; by D. Tasker	-	2 : 282
Pilgrim psalm, a ; by J. W. Pitcairn	-	9 : 182
Pilgrim, the ; by J. K. Crawford	-	7 : 296
Pilgrim's prayer, the ; by C. Rogers	-	3 : 372
Pine tree, the ; by C. Whyte	-	9 : 283
Pipe of tobacco, a ; by J. Usher	-	10 : 280
Piper o' Lochlee, the ; by R. Dinnie	-	13 : 293
Pirate ship, the ; by G. A. H. Douglas	-	9 : 120
Piscator dolorosus ; by P. Anton	-	13 : 121
Pity ; by J. Taylor	-	15 : 421
Pity's shrine ; by J. J. Johnston	-	5 : 240
Plaidie, the ; by D. K. Coutts	-	7 : 176
Plaidie, the ; by D. Ferguson	-	13 : 299
Planting of the vine, the ; by Lord Neaves	-	3 : 115
Play days, the ; by R. Fergusson	-	10 : 398
Player and the listener, the ; by J. Beveridge	-	8 : 233
Playin' wi' the kittlens ; by W. Stark	-	9 : 235
Plea for hospital flower missions, a ; by G. Dobie	-	5 : 131

Plea for little poets, a ; by P. M'Naughton	4 : 272
Plea for pussy, a ; by A. Cameron	15 : 242
Pleasant sounds ; by G. Webster	10 : 328
Pleasure trip, the ; by J. Longmuir	2 : 46
Pleasures o' hame, the ; by C. Nicol	6 : 71
Pleasures of a ploughboy's life, the ; by A. F. Garden	2 : 118
Ploughman, the ; by J. Cowie	1 : 386
Ploughman student, the ; by J. L. Martin	2 : 336
Ploughman's elegy, a ; by J. W. Mason	7 : 96
Ploughmen lads, the ; by J. Thomson	6 : 309
Poem ; by D. Ramsay	15 : 237
Poem of death, a ; by D. R. Williamson	8 : 239
Poems of childhood ; by W. Canton	11 : 22
Poesy ; by P. Carmichael	4 : 232
Poet, the ; by W. Reid	1 : 201
Poet and his song, the ; by W. R. Hawkins	4 : 144
Poet on himself, the ; by R. Matheson	14 : 202
Poetess, the ; by C. H. Laubach	10 : 171
Poets ; by J. Young	3 : 160
Poets ; by J. Bell	1 : 352
Poet's bliss, the ; by A. MacLachlan	5 : 43
Poet's corner, Westminster Abbey ; by R. P. Scot	9 : 44
Poet's kingdom, the ; by E. Heberton	7 : 56
Poet's mission, the ; by J. Linen	7 : 142
Poet's mission, the ; by C. Rae-Brown	8 : 382
Poet's mite, the ; by W. C. Sturrock	4 : 344
Poet's powerlessness, the ; by H. T. M. Bell	9 : 26
Poet's wish, the ; by R. Pringle	12 : 82
Poet's wishes, the ; by H. Brown	3 : 187
Polly Hopkins ; by H. Acqueroff	11 : 278
Polly's lullaby ; by A. Fairbairn	4 : 319
Poor man dying, the ; by J. Paul	11 : 391
Poor o' the parish the ; by A. Wanless	5 : 61
Poor tutor, the ; by W. Ingram	12 : 394
Poplar tree, the ; by C. Will	9 : 367
Poppin' the question ; by J. Gerrie	1 : 356
Possible, the—a song ; by Lord A. Campbell	13 : 246
Postboy, the ; by J. Campbell	6 : 46
Povertie's counsel ; by W. S. Ridpath	2 : 243
Poverty ; by J. Lee	3 : 60
Power of love, the ; by J. Anderson	7 : 336
Power of truth, the ; by T. Knox	9 : 112
Praise univocal ; by M. E. Sangster	6 : 110
Praise waiteth ; by Margaret Tough	5 : 289
Prejudice ; by J. Kinlay	14 : 228

Presence of cheerfulness in nature ; by C. P. Gibson	9 : 240
Present and the future, the ; by J. Tod	9 : 130
Presentness of creation, the ; by A. S. Wilson	8 : 394
Press on ; by T. Knox	9 : 112
Pretty patter on the floor ; by W. Shelley	1 : 142
Pretty Polly—a ghost story ; by D. R. Sellars	6 : 158
Pretty wee Katie ; by H. C. Wilson	1 : 72
Pride o' my e'e, the ; by J. Durie	8 : 160
Pride o' the mill, the ; by H. M'Kean	14 : 325
Primroses ; by T. Davidson	2 : 90
Prince Charlie ; by J. Westwood	8 : 261
Princess Alice, the ; by J. Paton	2 : 311
Prisoner's sleep, the ; by Mrs F. M. Macrae	11 : 407
Probationer, the ; by A. S. Robertson	15 : 147
Proem, a ; by J. Thomson	7 : 167
Prometheus ; by J. Galbraith	2 : 151
Proof o' the puddin's the preein o't, the ; by D. Taylor	15 : 398
Provost, the ; by J. Teenan	2 : 230
Psalm c. ; by Marquis of Lorne	7 : 253
Psalm of life ; by J. C. Massie	9 : 56
Pooi' thegither ; by G. Watson	14 : 41
Puir wee beggar wean, the ; by J. M. Peacock	4 : 215
Put it through again ; by G. Murie	5 : 267
Pythoiness, the ; by Lady C. Elliot	1 : 58
Quack, quack, quackery ; by J. Smith	15 : 207
Quarry bridge, the ; by D. Lister	14 : 72
Queen Fairy's song ; by M. T. M. Davidson	15 : 423
Queen o' them a', the ; by W. Stewart	10 : 141
Queen of lakes, the ; by Nellie J. Agnew	13 : 107
Queen of Scots, the ; by T. C. Latto	5 : 337
Queen, our noble ; by K. M. Craig	14 : 96
Queer auld toon, a ; by Jessie K. Lawson	13 : 241
Quiet day, one ; by Mrs Walford	14 : 291
Quietude ; by H. T. M. Bell	9 : 25
Rab M'Grain's courtship ; by J. Barr	12 : 287
Rab Wabster's lament for his wife ; by J. Gow	8 : 280
Rabbit on the wa', the ; by A. Sutherland	10 : 39
Rachel ; by R. W. Barbour	14 : 99
Rambles ; by P. Barrie	9 : 185
Rain ; by Mrs Williamson	8 : 194
Rainbow, the ; by Lady F. Hastings	3 : 235
Rasps, the ; by J. Scorgie	5 : 322
Rattlin' Tam ; by R. B. Thomson	7 : 154
Raven, the ; by J. Mather	15 : 245

Raven and mavis, the ; by R. Howden	2 : 35
Ready and willing ; by F. Buchanan	11 : 139
Ready, aye ready ; by M. Fraser	9 : 334
Realisation ; by R. M. Adamson	15 : 377
Reaper, the ; by J. P. Crawford	1 : 375
Reaper and the flowers, the ; by J. B. Crombie	11 : 371
Reaping ; by W. Freeland	5 : 25
Reason why, the ; by J. Wilson	5 : 378
Reclaimed prodigal to the miser, the ; by J. Marshall	10 : 165
Recollections of dreamland ; by J. C. Maxwell	8 : 129
Recusant, a ; by J. Thomson	7 : 171
Redeem the time ; by M. Mackay	12 : 409
Redeemer's tears, the ; by J. Guthrie	2 : 94
Reduced gentleman's street soliloquy, the ; by J. Walker	9 : 203
Reformed drunkard to his wife, the ; by H. Acquroff	11 : 280
Regent Murray, the ; by A. Cunningham	10 : 210
Relics ; by V. B. Mackenzie	12 : 363
Relics of the past—the castle ; by M. Stanley	3 : 328
Remember ; by M. Fraser	9 : 332
Remember me ; by M. M. Clever	12 : 174
Remember not the sins of my youth ; by J. Macleod (of Govan)	15 : 436
Reminiscence of the '45, a ; by J. Mauchline	14 : 319
Remorse ; by R. E. Murray	3 : 158
Renounced ; by J. Christie	5 : 370
Resignation ; by A. M. Kerr	5 : 219
Resignation ; by A. Knox	14 : 364
Resigned in hope ; by W. T. M'Auslane	2 : 138
Response, a ; by Elise Rae-Brown	13 : 323
Response from home, a ; by D. Kirkland	15 : 191
Response, the ; by J. R. Macduff	10 : 310
Rest ; by P. P. Alexander	10 : 239
Rest ; by J. Brown	14 : 299
Rest, my ain bairnie ; by H. Boulton	11 : 35
Rest thee, bonnie doo ; by D. M. Henderson	12 : 141
Resting by the sea ; by F. Ferguson	2 : 250
Resurgam ; by C. Neill	4 : 205
Retrospect ; by J. W. Paxton	6 : 176
Retrospect, a ; by A. King	10 : 35
Retrospect, a ; by J. Ballantyne	11 : 118
Retrospect, a ; by J. M'Intosh	5 : 208
Retrospect, a ; by R. Mennon	3 : 134

Retrospect, the ; by J. Wright	-	3 : 125
Retrospection ; by D. Macdonald	-	13 : 361
Return ; by W. A. G. Farquhar	-	7 : 275
Rev. Thomas Guthrie, D.D., the ; by M. M. Clever	-	12 : 174
Reverie, a ; by J. Hogg	-	9 : 164
Reverie, a ; by D. Andrew	-	4 : 304
Reverie, a ; by W. Houstoun	-	10 : 95
Reverie of the bereaved, a ; by T. Dunlop	-	4 : 225
Rhyme ; by D. Macgregor	-	11 : 88
Richard Cœur de Lion ; by W. Wilson	-	13 : 231
Richt cat in the richt place, the ; by M. Crawford	-	7 : 294
Ride from the wreck, the ; by A. L. Gordon	-	12 : 238
Ridiculous, the ; by A. Marshall	-	15 : 291
Right and wrong ; by G. M. Simpson	-	8 : 330
Right spirit, a ; by C. Marshall	-	2 : 29
Ring, the ; by W. Freeland	-	5 : 24
Ripple o' the burnie, the ; by J. Brown	-	14 : 296
Rising morn, the ; by A. S. Irving	-	15 : 228
River, the ; by M. E. Sangster	-	6 : 108
River, the ; by J. Mahon	-	7 : 222
River Ken, the ; by J. G. Carter	-	13 : 43
River's life, the ; by D. Ogilvy	-	13 : 219
River's romance, a ; by A. Thomson	-	15 : 188
Rivulet, the ; by J. Aitchison	-	15 : 26
Rizpah ; by A. S. Laing	-	12 : 62
Road that's never toom, the ; by A. Snaddon	-	8 : 117
Robert Burns ; by M. Taylor	-	6 : 103
Robert Burns : a centenary ode ; by W. Buchanan	-	3 : 289
Robert Nicoll ; by R. S. Inglis	-	10 : 304
Robie's sangs ; by W. Pyott	-	8 : 415
Robin ; by W. T. McGrigor	-	15 : 137
Robin ; by N. Thomson	-	9 : 390
Robin Adair ; by R. D. Jamieson	-	13 : 30
Robin Affleck ; by J. Kelly	-	1 : 205
Robin and Meg ; by J. Leck	-	4 : 134
Robin and the poor man, the ; by E. D. Dickson	-	4 : 103
Robin Burns at hame shall bide ; by W. Scott	-	2 : 372
Robin redbreast, the ; by A. Cunningham	-	10 : 211
Robin's return ; by D. Andrew	-	4 : 302
Robin's welcome ; by J. Craig	-	2 : 122
Romance and distress ; by A. M. Lang	-	4 : 63
Romantic ruin, the ; by W. Bayne	-	14 : 134
Rondeau ; by J. B. Brown	-	7 : 37
Rondeau ; by H. Smith	-	14 : 399
Rondeau ; by J. Aitchison	-	15 : 30

Rondeau—when hearts are one ; by H. Smith -	14 : 399
Room for the bairns ; by R. Lawson -	9 : 220
Rory and Donald ; by J. Mackay -	1 : 334
Rose, the ; by J. F. Bain -	13 : 319
Rose one day, a ; by R. White -	8 : 29
Roses, roses ; by A. Adamson -	14 : 88
Roslin ; by A. Mitchell -	2 : 38
Rosy cheekit apples ; by J. Ballantine -	3 : 32
Rothersey kirkyard, in ; by J. D. Walker -	14 : 250
Round of life, the ; by A. Lamont -	3 : 296
Roundel ; by Elizabeth Craigmyle -	13 : 178
Rover's song, the ; by J. Inglis -	13 : 399
Royal Breadalbane oak, the ; by W. Sinclair -	15 : 408
Royal game of golf, the ; by W. Dougall -	11 : 410
Ruby ring, the ; by G. Stronach -	5 : 395
Ruin ; by G. Jacque -	3 : 206
Ruined castle, the ; by J. Aitchison -	15 : 27
Ruined castle, the ; by A. E. W. Jeffryes -	14 : 220
Ruined cot, the ; by H. M'Kenzie -	8 : 178
Ruined cot, the ; by M. P. Aird -	3 : 94
Ruined hamlet, the ; by G. Donald -	2 : 75
Ruined life, a ; by D. Buchanan -	6 : 331
Ruling passion, the ; by G. Wallace -	14 : 357
Run through nature, a ; by J. Durie -	8 : 162
Rural and city poets ; by J. Brown -	5 : 232
Rural retirement ; by W. Nicholson -	3 : 66
Rustic Robin ; by C. Macpherson -	3 : 36
Rutherford's letters ; by J. C. Fairbairn -	7 : 219
Sabbath bells ; by H. Thomson -	8 : 206
Sabbath bells ; by D. Burns -	7 : 367
Sabbath school song ; by H. Acquiroff -	11 : 278
Sacramental Sabbath, the ; by J. C. Shairp -	9 : 191
Sad hearts, glad hearts ; by M. W. Smith -	9 : 261
Sad parting, a ; by J. H. C. Ford -	8 : 134
Sadness--gladness ; by A. Murray -	9 : 215
Sae dear to me ; by W. V. Jackson -	7 : 186
Sailing ; by T. Dykes -	5 : 74
Sailing ; by G. Eyre -	8 : 57
Sailing home ; by W. G. Gall -	14 : 265
Sailor boy and his anxious mother, the ; by J. M'Taggart -	13 : 334
Sailor laddie, my ; by H. M'Kean -	14 : 326
Sailor's golden wedding, a ; by W. M. Philip -	8 : 215
Sailor's grave ; by D. Lamont -	9 : 308
Sailor's wife, the ; by J. Kelly -	15 : 336

Saint Ignatius ; by J. Luby	12 : 369
Salachan burn at Morven ; by J. Macleod (of Govan)	15 : 435
Sale, the ; by M. Duthie	8 : 202
Salmon and the cart wheel, the ; by J. D. Gillespie	15 : 219
Sandy and Jock ; by J. Thomson	15 : 316
Sandy's awa' ; by G. Webster	10 : 331
Sang to my mither, a ; by A. T. Matthews	13 : 272
Sang to the bairn, a ; by G. J. Lawrie	10 : 364
Sang to the wean, a ; by R. Swan	10 : 63
Sarah Rae ; by G. Murray	4 : 167
Saturday night ; by A. M'Lean	6 : 137
Saumon ; by D. MacLagan	3 : 180
Saving the wrecked ; by W. Hall	8 : 62
Savonarola's last sleep ; by M. Fraser	9 : 332
Scene in autumn, a ; by M. R. Dow	8 : 48
Scenes from "Wallace ;" by C. Waddie	10 : 288
Scenes of youth, the ; by W. G. M'Gill	5 : 363
Scenes of youth revisited, the ; by J. Ballantine	5 : 384
Schiehallion ; by J. S. Mills	1 : 317
Schiller's last words ; by T. L. Rettie	7 : 345
School days ; by I. Dalgity	8 : 67
School games ; by W. T. M. Hogg	10 : 256
Schule laddies' holiday, the ; by J. C. Eckford	14 : 260
Scot abroad, the ; by W. V. Jackson	7 : 188
Scot abroad, the ; by D. Wilson	8 : 36
Scotch bawbee, the ; by J. Blair	13 : 147
Scotch fir, the ; by M. Elliot	6 : 380
Scotch heather ; by R. Bird	10 : 187
Scotch porridge ; by R. Bird	10 : 183
Scotia ; by J. K. Scott	4 : 47
Scotia versus Lunnon ; by J. Kinlay	14 : 228
Scotland ; by D. Ogilvy	1 : 46
Scotland ; by D. Macpherson	10 : 28
Scotland ; by P. Macpherson	14 : 385
Scotland ; by R. Chambers	2 : 361
Scotland ; by W. K. Moore	11 : 142
Scotland for ever ; by J. Singer	12 : 119
Scotland, I have no home but thee ; by A. Crawford	5 : 98
Scotland mine ; by D. M. Henderson	6 : 116
Scotland, thou art dear to me ; by C. Macpherson	3 : 35
Scotland, thou holdest in thy trust ; by J. M'Clure	12 : 148
Scotland's bairns ; by D. Thomson	2 : 114
Scotland's bonnie broom ; by A. Sim	1 : 230
Scotland's flower ; by H. Macpherson	15 : 62
Scotland's heather ; by J. Johnston	3 : 336

Scotland's heather ; by W. Millar	-	3 : 146
Scotland's minstrels ; by J. Macaulay	-	9 : 343
Scotland's name ; by D. Graham	-	9 : 104
Scotland's nameless glens ; by J. A. Sidey	-	3 : 399
Scottish ballad, a ; by W. Ly'le	-	6 : 30
Scottish blackbird, the ; by R. Bird	-	10 : 190
Scottish clans, the ; by W. Harvey	-	15 : 405
Scottish dialect, the ; by W. Ingram	-	12 : 395
Scottish emigrant, the ; by K. M'Lachlane	-	1 : 366
Scottish homes again ; by J. K. Crawford	-	7 : 296
Scottish hospital, the ; by A. Cameron	-	15 : 240
Scottish lyre, the ; by G. W. Donald	-	1 : 22
Scottish Sabbath, the ; by Gavin Greig	-	7 : 377
Scottish sacramental Sabbath, the ; by J. Hyslop	-	7 : 79
Scottish scenes ; by A. C. Kennedy	-	7 : 372
Scottish scenes ; by W. Thomson	-	1 : 322
Scottish tongue, the ; by W. Dalgliesh	-	15 : 69
Scripture study ; by P. Mearns	-	14 : 81
Sculptor fallen, the ; by W. Wilson	-	8 : 71
Sea, the ; by A. Steel	-	12 : 151
Sea, the ; by J. B. Young	-	14 : 306
Sea, the ; by A. Glass	-	6 : 339
Sea, the ; by J. Kyd	-	11 : 120
Sea-daisy, the ; by P. Anton	-	13 : 126
Sea-mist ; by A. Macintosh	-	9 : 288
Sea of Galilee, the ; by A. Cunningham	-	10 : 211
Sea of Galilee, the ; by R. M. M'Cheyne	-	15 : 85
Sea shell, the ; by A. Weir	-	11 : 419
Seashore song, a ; by D. C. Smith	-	5 : 311
Seashore thoughts ; by A. S. Patterson	-	15 : 265
Sea song, a ; by D. S. Allan	-	12 : 70
Sea's lullaby, the ; by R. M. Fergusson	-	6 : 259
Seasons, the ; by J. K. Scott	-	4 : 46
Second sight ; by J. B. Brown	-	7 : 38
Secret affinities ; by W. A. Sim	-	7 : 246
Secret sighs ; by A. W. Buchan	-	6 : 288
See the proud ship ; by A. Stewart	-	15 : 100
Seed and the thought, the ; by A. Lamont	-	3 : 297
Seekin' sympathy ; by D. M. Henderson	-	12 : 143
Seeking after a sign ; by J. C. Moffat	-	7 : 191
Selections from "Ewan" ; by J. L. Bain	-	10 : 161
Selfishness ; by J. Bethune	-	1 : 97
Selkirk's, Alexander, return to Largo ; by J. P. Findlay	-	12 : 53
Sequence of Saint Nicholas ; by J. Cooper	-	15 : 383

Sermon from the brook, a ; by G. H. Kinnear	9 : 86
Sermon without a text, a ; by J. L. Hercus	12 : 35
Seven years old to-day ; by M. Grant	1 : 124
Shadow ; by G. Eyre	8 : 57
Shadowed souls, the ; by W. Sharp	10 : 394
Shadows ; by M. H. Devenean	12 : 343
Shadows ; by J. Rae	12 : 245
Shadows ; by A. Macintosh	9 : 288
Shadows on the wall ; by M. Dickie	4 : 309
Shattered hopes ; by M. H. Browne	14 : 107
She hath done what she could ; by I. F. Darling	9 : 280
She is a woman ; by W. C. Smith	3 : 242
She noddit to me ; by A. D. Willock	9 : 405
She was not old ; by J. Brown	2 : 131
She weeps ; by H. Clark	6 : 359
Shealing song, the ; by J. C. Shairp	9 : 197
Shell from the shore, a ; by N. Scrymgeour	13 : 116
Shepherd and his bairn, the ; by G. A. H. Douglas	9 : 119
Shepherd lad, the ; by J. Inglis	5 : 163
Shepherd to his collie dog, a ; by J. Christie	6 : 262
Shepherd's lament, the ; by A. Donaldson	6 : 376
Shepherd's plaidie, the ; by A. Cargill	4 : 55
Shepherd's song, the ; by A. Marshall	15 : 201
She's bonnie to me ; by A. Doig	13 : 262
She's gane ; by W. H. Phin	5 : 301
Shetland fishermen, the ; by M. Cousin	4 : 365
Shillishally ; by D. Carmichael	9 : 94
Shipwrecked mother, the ; by W. Cowie	7 : 70
Shirt sewer, the ; by J. Kelly	3 : 416
Shores of the Minch, the ; by H. A. Thomson	15 : 153
Short sermon for educators, a ; by P. Macmorland	6 : 92
Shortsyne I had a bonnie bird ; by W. Shelley	1 : 142
Shouter to shouter ; by W. Black	10 : 24
Sidon and Mount Lebanon ; by P. Bayne	14 : 120
Sigh, a ; by M. Mackay	12 : 408
Sigh for hame, a ; by R. Chalmers	9 : 327
Sights and sounds of nature ; by C. P. Gibson	9 : 241
Signalman, the ; by A. Fairbairn	4 : 319
Silence ; by W. R. Lyall	10 : 145
Silence ; by J. Leighton	11 : 103
Siller ; by W. Walker	3 : 105
Simmer is comin' again ; by W. H. Phin	5 : 302
Simmer's awa' ; by W. Laing	3 : 88
Simpson, Mrs J. C. In memoriam ; by R. Napier	9 : 383
Since Willie cam' hame ; by W. S. M ¹ Intosh	9 : 72

Sincerity ; by Elise Rae-Brown	-	13 : 324
Sing ; by Mrs A. H. Berger	-	14 : 290
Sing ; by N. Thomson	-	9 : 391
Sing me a bairnie's hymn ; by J. Nicholson	-	1 : 241
Sing not to me ; by J. S. M'Culloch	-	7 : 215
Sing on, little warbler ; by W. Hogg	-	6 : 373
Sing on, my bonnie bairn ; by J. Young	-	3 : 162
Sing to me ; by J. C. Lundie	-	11 : 159
Singer asleep, the ; by M. W. Fairbairn	-	10 : 252
Singin' to the weans ; by W. Penman	-	1 : 40
Singing as they go ; by J. K. Christie	-	1 : 20
Sir Robin Redbreast ; by R. Matheson	-	14 : 200
Sir Walter Scott ; by D. Graham	-	9 : 105
Sister Helen ; by A. H. Japp	-	2 : 169
Sister Helen ; by D. Grant	-	9 : 177
Sister Jeanie, haste, we'll go ; by H. Miller	-	3 : 316
Skein o' 'oo, the ; by P. Whytock	-	1 : 28
Sketch, a ; by H. A. G.-Yooll	-	7 : 67
Sketch of my own character, a ; by J. Hume	-	13 : 151
Skinning of the ould cow, the ; by J. Gilkison	-	13 : 170
Skirmish of Cumnock, the ; by J. T. Coutts	-	8 : 351
Sky and ocean ; by J. G. Small	-	4 : 264
Skye boat song ; by H. Boulton	-	14 : 38
Skye crofter, the ; by W. Lyndon	-	15 : 32
Skylark, the ; by W. Black	-	12 : 104
Skylark, the ; by H. Shanks	-	11 : 381
Skylark, the ; by G. Murie	-	5 : 266
Skylark, the ; by R. Allan-	-	9 : 364
Sleep ; by D. Bruce	-	6 : 278
Sleep ; by P. P. Alexander	-	10 : 237
Sleep ; by C. Macdonald	-	14 : 323
Sleep ; by J. C. Massie	-	9 : 56
Sleep ; by J. Borthwick	-	5 : 125
Sleep of the heavy brigade, the ; by A. Scott	-	5 : 136
Sleeping child, a ; by S. S. Campbell	-	15 : 269
Slide, the ; by W. Pyott	-	8 : 414
Slippery stane, the ; by H. Nimmo	-	8 : 248
Sly widow Skinner ; by T. C. Latto	-	5 : 338
Smile o' the lass we lo'e, the ; by J. Black	-	2 : 180
Smiles and tears ; by A. Mitchelson	-	1 : 323
Smiling faces ; by J. Heggie	-	7 : 319
Smith's a gallant fireman, the ; by J. Harrison	-	7 : 197
Smoking ; by G. Greig	-	7 : 379
Snawy kirkyard, the ; by J. Ballantine	-	3 : 29
Snow ; by F. Ferguson	-	5 : 96

Snow ; by T. Burns	-	-	11 : 305
Snow ; by M. Cadell	-	-	10 : 218
Snow ; by Margaret Smith	-	-	13 : 35
Snow, the ; by D. M. Henderson	-	-	12 : 144
Snow-storm, the ; by A. MacLachlan	-	-	5 : 41
Snow storm, the ; by D. M'Corkindale	-	-	5 : 171
Snow thought, a ; by J. Johnston	-	-	13 : 131
Snowdrop, the ; by J. Booth	-	-	15 : 94
Snowdrop : a similitude, the ; by P. Macmorland	-	-	6 : 92
Snowdrops, the ; by A. Hamilton	-	-	7 : 121
Snowdrops : a legend ; by Elise Rae-Brown	-	-	13 : 324
Soaring upwards to the light ; by M. Bernstein	-	-	1 : 53
Sober, souter Wattie, o ! by T. Newbigging	-	-	3 : 403
Soft lowland tongue o' the borders, the ; by W. Sanderson	-	-	15 : 302
Sol, the golden ; by J. W. Fergus	-	-	9 : 296
Solace ; by A. M. Hart	-	-	1 : 232
Soliloquy, a ; by R. A. Macfie	-	-	8 : 88
Solway shore, the ; by A. Steel	-	-	12 : 152
Somebody's funeral ; by G. Clark	-	-	11 : 152
Song ; by T. Edwards	-	-	9 : 64
Song ; by D. S. Allan	-	-	12 : 72
Song ; by W. C. Sturoc	-	-	4 : 347
Song ; by J. Thomson	-	-	7 : 169
Song ; by T. Bell	-	-	2 : 56
Song ; by W. Fulton	-	-	12 : 379
Song ; by A. Wilson	-	-	7 : 185
Song ; by J. C. Grant	-	-	15 : 252
Song ; by A. Marshall	-	-	15 : 292
Song ; by J. N. Paton	-	-	2 : 299
Song ; by G. Boyd	-	-	12 : 133
Song ; by J. T. F. Farquhar	-	-	14 : 77
Song ; by D. Lamont	-	-	9 : 304
Song ; by J. Leck	-	-	4 : 132
Song ; by R. Hetrick	-	-	4 : 371
Song ; by J. Macdonald	-	-	7 : 357
Song ; by J. Alexander	-	-	7 : 226
Song ; by J. Christie	-	-	6 : 266
Song ; by J. B. Brown	-	-	7 : 39
Song ; by J. J. Johnston	-	-	5 : 239
Song ; by J. G. M. Heddle	-	-	10 : 197
Song ; by John Kelly	-	-	1 : 211
Song, a ; by Lord A. Campbell	-	-	13 : 245
Song-birds of bonnie Scotland the ; by W. B. Smith	-	-	11 : 97

Song—bonnie lassie O ; by J. Singer	-	12 : 120
Song—Bruce's rallying call ; by A. C. Kennedy	-	7 : 370
Song—daily I dream o' yonder fiel' ; by R. B. Merrylees	-	5 : 122
Song for men, a ; by W. Allan	-	1 : 288
Song from "Hannibal" ; by J. Nichol	-	2 : 247
Song of Afton ; by D. Russel	-	12 : 127
Song of control, a ; by J. Ross	-	2 : 354
Song of death, the ; by W. Aitken	-	2 : 163
Song of fays ; by A. G. Middleton	-	12 : 276
Song of flowers, the ; by W. Sharp	-	10 : 394
Song of freedom ; by J. Trotter	-	11 : 188
Song of labour ; by A. Anderson	-	1 : 161
Song of long ago, a ; by L. Groves	-	14 : 139
Song of love, a ; by D. M. Henderson	-	6 : 119
Song of love and May, a ; by P. Bayne	-	14 : 124
Song of Mrs Jenny Geddes, the ; by J. S. Blackie	-	1 : 378
Song of night, a ; by A. S. Laing	-	12 : 61
Song of praise ; by J. Walker	-	9 : 207
Song of proverbs, a ; by Lord Neaves	-	3 : 111
Song of red and blue, a ; by Ella Burton	-	8 : 176
Song of Scotland, a ; by W. M. Smart	-	11 : 213
Song of severed love, a ; by H. Dryerre	-	5 : 276
Song of songs ; by W. R. Moir	-	1 : 65
Song of spring ; by J. W. Fergus	-	9 : 293
Song of spring ; by C. Neill	-	4 : 204
Song of spring, the ; by G. S. Arnold	-	14 : 339
Song of summer, a ; by I. Craig-Knox	-	2 : 296
Song of the anvil ; by A. King	-	10 : 34
Song of the bow, the ; by A. C. Doyle	-	15 : 260
Song of the captive ; by W. Graham	-	3 : 196
Song of the emigrant, the ; by H. Corbett	-	8 : 303
Song of the fairy king ; by J. Grant	-	10 : 351
Song of the flowers, the ; by A. I. Watson	-	15 : 128
Song of the freedman, the ; by J. C. Moffat	-	7 : 190
Song of the grouse, the ; by A. C. Kennedy	-	7 : 371
Song of the happy parents ; by J. Young	-	1 : 278
Song of the heart ; by M. J. Murchie	-	9 : 268
Song of the hearth ; by T. Edwards	-	9 : 65
Song of the Italian boy ; by T. Aird	-	3 : 214
Song of the lark ; by G. Murray	-	1 : 387
Song of the linnet, the ; by A. Mabon	-	9 : 210
Song of the mermaid ; by J. P. Reid	-	6 : 242
Song of the moon ; by W. Miller	-	3 : 144
Song of the night, a ; by R. A. Macfie	-	8 : 87

Song of the sea, a ; by D. R. Williamson	8 : 241
Song of the sea, the ; by M. W. Howie	14 : 327
Song of the Scots frae hame ; by J. M. Macculloch	15 : 443
Song of the shell, the ; by J. F. Mill	3 : 21
Song of the shuttle, the ; by R. C. Buist	12 : 347
Song of the sickle ; by D. Bremner	11 : 206
Song of the storm spirit ; by S. Macfarlane	6 : 394
Song of the strap ; by W. Roxburgh	9 : 396
Song of the sunbeam, the ; by J. Stewart	7 : 268
Song of the surf ; by A. L. Gordon	12 : 241
Song of the twilight ; by T. C. Tyrie	8 : 357
Song of the waterfall, the ; by J. Reid	4 : 208
Song of the wind spirit ; by Margaret T. Bell	7 : 300
Song of silence ; by T. L. Rettie	7 : 344
Song of winter, the ; by J. Law	5 : 320
Song—the lass o' Erchless glen ; by D. M'Cordindale	5 : 172
Song—the wa' gaun o' the flowers ; by J. K. Muir	2 : 382
Song to his mother, a ; by J. Ballantine	3 : 30
Songs of other days, the ; by A. Cook	12 : 269
Sonnet ; by J. B. Young	14 : 308
Sonnet ; by D. Gow	9 : 28
Sonnet ; by J. C. Henderson	5 : 144
Sonnet ; by J. C. Henderson	5 : 145
Sonnet ; by A. P. Melville	12 : 80
Sonnet ; by J. M. Mitchell	8 : 158
Sonnet ; by R. W. Thom	1 : 222
Sonnet—evening ; by W. C. Cameron	3 : 278
Sonnet written in 1862 ; by J. Thomson	7 : 171
Sonnets ; by H. W. Harper	4 : 255
Sons of Clann Choinnich ; by G. Mackenzie	14 : 334
Sons of St Andrew ; by G. Pirie	4 : 197
Sons of the covenant, the ; by M. Young	7 : 136
Sons of the manse, the ; by Lord Neaves	3 : 109
Sorrow ; by L. J. Nicolson	1 : 337
Sorrow—pleasure ; by J. C. Massie	9 : 57
Sorrowing, yet rejoicing ; by J. M. Mitchell	8 : 156
Soul communion ; by M. Cadell	10 : 217
Soun' sleepin' noo ; by G. Paulin	3 : 362
Sound the pibroch ; by Mrs Norman Macleod, sen.	15 : 437
Sound the slogan ; by W. Henderson	7 : 282
Source of song, the ; by R. W. Barbour	14 : 99
Southern cross, the ; by J. B. Stephens	12 : 311
Sower went forth to sow, the ; by W. Buchanan	13 : 88
Sower's song, the ; by T. Carlyle	3 : 425
Sparrow, the ; by R. Bird	10 : 189

Sparrows that bide i' the lum, the ; by A. Barnard	13 : 134
Speak gently ; by J. Anderson	7 : 312
Speak gently of the dead ; by S. P. Douglas	3 : 285
Speak kind to the bairns ; by W. Allan	1 : 289
Speak kindly o' my lassie dear ; by J. L. Blair	13 : 382
Speak o' a man as ye find him ; by R. H. Calder	5 : 177
Speak softly ; by G. Clark	11 : 150
Spectres, the ; by D. Macgregor	11 : 89
Speed to the plough ; by W. Muir	2 : 50
Speiring the guidwull ; by S. S. Jerdan	2 : 22
Spero ; by J. P. Wood	15 : 384
Spirit and star ; by J. B. Stephens	12 : 309
Spirit of beauty, the ; by M. Cadell	10 : 219
Spirit of nationality the ; by J. J. Blackburn	14 : 65
Spirit stirrings ; by T. Russell	1 : 310
Spirit's farewell to its body, the ; by M. Macphail	13 : 51
Spoot in the glen, the ; by R. Lawson	9 : 222
Sprig o' heather, a ; by J. Howat	15 : 297
Sprig o' heather, a ; by R. Reid	1 : 320
Sprig o' heather, the ; by M. K. Beveridge	12 : 260
Sprig of heather, a ; by W. V. Cousin	7 : 178
Sprig of heather, a ; by J. Leighton	11 : 102
Sprig of heather, a ; by W. Hall	8 : 60
Spriglet of the mine, a ; by A. Wilson	7 : 183
Spring ; by J. Anderson	7 : 332
Spring ; by W. Macintosh	7 : 92
Spring ; by A. Maxwell	10 : 405
Spring ; by W. Chisholm	2 : 64
Spring ; by A. W. Gardiner	9 : 257
Spring ; by W. Laidlaw	2 : 332
Spring banquet, the ; by J. M. Manners	2 : 290
Spring blossoms ; by J. Morison	3 : 325
Spring in Glenorchy ; by R. Bell	15 : 308
Spring is nearing ; by S. S. Campbell	15 : 270
Spring is so sweet ; by H. A. G. Yooll	7 : 66
Spring musings ; by J. P. Wood	15 : 385
Spring on the Tweed, Melrose ; by H. Nisbet	5 : 157
Spring song, a ; by M. Cadell	10 : 217
Spring, song and solitude ; by Sir G. Douglas	14 : 91
Spring song for children ; by R. S. Mutch	13 : 326
Spring-tide memories ; by A. W. Gardiner	9 : 260
Spring time ; by H. Dryerre	5 : 277
Spring time ; by M. Gray	14 : 191
Springtime garland, a ; by J. Y. Gray	10 : 264
St Andrew's day ; by D. Keith	4 : 195

St Boswell's braehead ; by R. Somerville	4 : 164
Stainless ; by H. B. Mackenzie -	9 : 271
Standard of the man, the ; by E. Hebenton	7 : 54
Standard song of Bannockburn, the ; by G. Duthie	7 : 346
Stanzas on my blindness ; by G. Turner -	5 : 263
Stanzas on painting ; by W. G. Gall -	14 : 268
Star, the ; by J. C. D. Fraser -	12 : 165
Star of the evening ; by T. Young -	7 : 363
Star of the summer night ; by H. P. Bayne	14 : 159
Stars ; by D. Gow -	9 : 28
Starved to death ; by C. Rae-Brown -	8 : 379
Steek in time saves nine, a ; by R. D. Jamieson	13 : 31
Stepmither's breath, the ; by J. Morison -	9 : 46
Still be happy while you may ; by J. W. Lyall -	5 : 388
Still lake, a ; by R. Bird -	10 : 192
Still on it creeps ; by D. R. Sellars -	6 : 157
Still proudly thrills thy witching voice ; by R. Trotter, jun. -	11 : 175
Stocking lore ; by J. A. Duthie -	1 : 309
Stop and think of another life ; by Sir J. Y. Simpson -	13 : 197
Storm, the ; by G. A. H. Douglas -	9 : 118
Storm and calm ; by J. B. Young -	14 : 308
Storm king, the ; by A. Gordon -	9 : 99
Storming party, the ; by A. C. Doyle -	15 : 260
Story of a country wight, a ; by G. Wilson	15 : 18
Story of Bazeilles, the ; by G. G. Macrae -	12 : 223
Stout heart will conquer them a', a ; by W. Sanderson -	15 : 302
Stranger, the ; by W. Bruce -	14 : 353
Stranger's grave, the ; by D. Graham	9 : 105
Strathord ; by J. E. H. Thomson -	4 : 112
Strayed ; by T. P. Johnston -	5 : 374
Stream, the ; by D. Burns -	7 : 366
Stream of life, the ; by S. P. Douglas -	3 : 284
Streamlet, the ; by Nellie J. Agnew -	13 : 106
Street singer, the ; by R. M. Fergusson -	6 : 259
Street—the mind, the ; by C. Dawson -	15 : 51
Strike the border harp again ; by T. Eckford -	8 : 405
Strolling player, a ; by J. Teenan -	2 : 233
Strong hunter, the ; by Marquis of Lorne -	7 : 254
Struggle in the dark, a ; by J. Leggat -	4 : 189
Student, the ; by A. M. Lang -	4 : 63
Student of nature and science, the ; by Lord A. Campbell -	13 : 246

Student's evening hymn, a ; by J. C. Maxwell	8 : 124
Stumpystoosie ; by R. Matheson	14 : 198
Sturdy whin, the ; by H. Shanks	11 : 380
Sublime, the ; by A. Marshall	15 : 291
Submission ; by M. Macphail	7 : 87
Sudden memories ; by W. V. Cousin	7 : 178
Sufferers ! do not grieve ; by W. H. Gray	10 : 201
Sufficeth ; by J. C. Grant	15 : 256
Summer ; by N. Macdonald	14 : 272
Summer ; by H. M. Davidson	3 : 319
Summer ; by W. Black	12 : 103
Summer ; by D. Arnot	8 : 320
Summer ; by W. Macintosh	7 : 91
Summer ; by J. Urquhart	6 : 145
Summer a' the year ; by J. Pettigrew	5 : 39
Summer breeze, the ; by M. A. Shaw	4 : 378
Summer brook, the ; by R. S. Inglis	10 : 298
Summer clouds ; by J. C. Fairbairn	7 : 220
Summer day, a ; by J. Mather	15 : 247
Summer-day idyl, a ; by H. Johnston	12 : 194
Summer-day reverie, a ; by E. Williamson	2 : 305
Summer evening in the country ; by C. Gulland	6 : 247
Summer evening soliloquy ; by A. M. Soutar	1 : 101
Summer flowers ; by T. C. Tyrie	8 : 358
Summer friends ; by W. W. Smith	2 : 144
Summer holidays ; by D. A. Beattie	12 : 400
Summer in Skye ; by H. A. Thomson	15 : 155
Summer in the city ; by A. F. Garden	2 : 119
Summer longings ; by W. C. Howden	4 : 359
Summer morning in the country ; by A. T. M'Lean	4 : 75
Summer of the heart, the ; by J. S. Scotland	12 : 413
Summer queen, the ; by Maggie Todd	13 : 156
Summer rain ; by W. Sharp	10 : 392
Summer reverie, a ; by R. S. Turner	4 : 28
Summer Sabbath evening, a ; by A. Young	1 : 333
Summer shower, a ; by A. C. Miller	15 : 299
Summer shower ; by A. Duncan	6 : 190
Summer song ; by A. Macintosh	9 : 287
Summer song, a ; by J. Johnston	13 : 130
Summer song, a ; by D. C. Smith	5 : 310
Summer that will last, the ; by R. White	8 : 28
Summer voices ; by J. Hamilton	1 : 258
Summer's sun, the ; by M. Grant	1 : 122
Sun i' the lift was shinin' fu' bonnie, the ; by J. W. M'Laren	2 : 348

Sun is ever shining, the ; by T. Barnard -	10 : 294
Sun will shine again, the ; by W. Angus -	15 : 125
Sunbeam, the ; by Lady L. Fowlis -	4 : 324
Sunbeams ; by M. R. Dow -	8 : 49
Sunderland catastrophe, the ; by G. M. Simpson	8 : 933
Sunless ; by C. C. Rae-Brown -	8 : 387
Sunny days ; by E. M. Sinclair -	4 : 86
Sunrise ; by J. W. Pitcairn -	9 : 184
Sunrise ; by M. Young -	7 : 136
Sunrise in spring ; by H. Clark -	6 : 360
Sunrise on a Sabbath morn ; by M. R. Dow	8 : 49
Sun's gane to rest, the ; by A. Glass -	6 : 342
Sunset—a study in gems and gold ; by H. Nisbet	5 : 159
Sunset hour, the ; by W. J. Millar -	7 : 259
Sunset on Loch Awe ; by C. M. Thomson	4 : 92
Sunset on the Cheviots ; by T. Byers -	4 : 286
Sunset on the sea ; by J. H. C. Ford -	8 : 135
Sunset picture, a ; by C. J. Sherer -	8 : 42
Sunshine ; by H. Thomson -	8 : 208
Sunshine, the ; by J. Heggie -	7 : 320
Sunshine and shadow ; by M. B. White -	14 : 315
Sutherlandshire, in ; by W. A. Sim -	7 : 246
Swallow, the ; by J. Booth -	15 : 93
Swallow, the ; by T. Aird -	3 : 215
Swallows, the ; by G. Paterson -	4 : 230
Swallows, the ; by W. Bayne -	14 : 137
Sweet Biggar burn, sweet Biggar braes ; by W. Henderson -	7 : 280
Sweet bird, fly low ; by R. B. Merrylees -	5 : 118
Sweet bird that comes to fly away ; by H. P. Bayne	14 : 157
Sweet hawthorn time ; by W. Henderson	7 : 281
Sweet hope abide ; by A. W. Gardiner -	9 : 258
Sweet Jessie Glen ; by A. J. Armstrong -	5 : 254
Sweet Leithen vale ; by W. Sanderson -	15 : 304
Sweet maid of Alvie, the ; by D. Macpherson	10 : 30
Sweet May has donn'd her virgin dress ; by D. Rae	11 : 403
Sweet month of flowers ; by G. Sutherland	8 : 211
Sweet muse ; by E. Heberton -	7 : 56
Sweet on the barren mountains ; by W. S. M'Intosh	9 : 72
Sweet summer comes forth ; by J. Pettigrew -	5 : 39
Sweet to the watcher, watching for the day ; by James Milligan -	8 : 146
Sweet was the time ; by J. Taylor -	4 : 184
Sweetheart Abbey ; by E. A. Deas -	8 : 197
Swiss girl, the ; by H. Acquoroff -	11 : 279

Sword and the cross, the ; by J. Chapman	2 : 319
Sympathy ; by J. Anderson	7 : 335
Sympathy ; by H. W. Harper	4 : 251
Sympathy ; by A. Buchan	11 : 357
Syro-Phenician woman, the ; by A. Stewart	10 : 125
Ta Glendale crofters ; by J. D. Gillespie	15 : 217
Ta kran Highlan' pagpipe ; by A. Fisher	13 : 250
Ta offish in ta mornin' ; by A. Fisher	13 : 248
Ta praise o' ouskie ; by A. Fisher	13 : 253
Table o' fees, the ; by R. Bird	10 : 185
Ta'en awa' ; by A. J. F. Wedderburn	9 : 323
Tailor Davie ; by J. Ballantine	3 : 32
Tailor Tweedle ; by A. T. Matthews	13 : 275
Take me home ; by J. Brown	14 : 293
Take no thought ; by W. B. Melville	10 : 369
Take the world as you find it, lad ; by D. M. Smith	2 : 212
Taken away ; by D. Rae	11 : 400
Taken to the infirmary ; by J. M. E. Saxby	3 : 122
Tale for the marines, a ; by W. Graham	5 : 398
Tale of life, the ; by J. Walker	10 : 108
Talitha Cumi ; by W. B. Robertson	12 : 24
Tam and his mither ; by J. M'Cutcheon	15 : 35
Tam and Jessie, or she loved anither ; by L. M'Kenzie	15 : 323
Tam Teuchit's reflections amang the stooks ; by W. Carnie	7 : 205
Tam Frew's hat ; by J. M'Lay	12 : 390
Tam Giffen ; by J. D. Brown	3 : 58
Tam Macnab and Jeanie Pringle ; by N. Dougall	14 : 111
Tam o' Swanston ; by J. W. Mason	7 : 99
Tam, Tammy ; by D. M. Henderson	12 : 144
Tammy's old spring well ; by R. Wood	1 : 381
Tangle bells ; by J. J. H. Burgess	14 : 194
Tangled skein, the ; by H. Nisbet	5 : 160
Tannahill's well ; by Joanna Bogue	5 : 341
Tartan, the ; by J. Rae	3 : 218
Teacher, the ; by J. W. Mason	7 : 98
Teacher's song, the ; by M. T. M. Davidson	15 : 424
Tear drop, the ; by J. M'Vittie	11 : 351
Teenie ; by M. M. Harper	14 : 204
Tel-el-Kebir ; by W. J. Millar	7 : 257
Tel-el-Kebir ; by W. Dougall	11 : 411
Tell me—of what shall I sing ? by J. Imrie	11 : 414
Tell me, tell me ; by G. Webster	10 : 330
Tell it not you are poor ; by C. Stewart	8 : 310

Telling fairy's song, the ; by M. T. M. Davidson	15 : 425
Temperance slogan, a ; by A. M. Bisset	13 : 188
Temperance song ; by A. Scott	5 : 138
Templar John's wife ; by N. Ferguson	12 : 356
Temple of faith, the ; by T. Burns	11 : 304
Temple of nature, the ; by J. Cleghorn	6 : 367
Temple, our ; by Sir James Colquhoun	14 : 285
Term time, the ; by J. Thomson	1 : 390
Teuch ! by G. Wallace	14 : 356
Teviotdale bride, the ; by A. Horsburgh	11 : 251
That mornin' the angels ta'en Lizzie awa' ; by J. M'Gregor	14 : 153
Then and after ; by D. G. Braidwood	7 : 287
There are no wild flowers ; by A. S. Wilson	8 : 395
There is a lad, I kenna wha ; by J. E. Rankin	4 : 159
There is a land ; by W. Robertson	7 : 60
There is a spot where memory loves to rest ; by M. L. Duncan	11 : 163
There is a world of meaning ; by J. Drake	13 : 112
There is room for mother ; by J. Taylor	5 : 327
There is joy ; by F. A. Mackay	10 : 383
There shall be no night there ; by J. C. Henderson	5 : 144
There was a little maid ; by G. J. Lawrie	10 : 363
There's a bonnie bairnie ; by H. D. Hargrave	2 : 140
There's a bonnie bourtrie bower ; by N. Thomson	9 : 393
There's aye a something that tak's us awa' ; by H. A. Dewar	10 : 70
There's aye some bit neuk that has comfort to gie ; by W. Burns	8 : 344
There's aye some water whaur the stirkie droons ; by W. Carnie	7 : 207
There's aye some water whaur the stirkie droons ; by J. Bridie	15 : 341
There's blessing in the shower ; by P. Macmorland	6 : 91
There's lassies three in yon toon ; by W. Stark	9 : 237
There's mair things caw'd down than the brig o'er the Tay ; by Lizzie D. Anderson	8 : 90
There's nae freens like auld freens ; by J. Usher	10 : 278
There's nae wee wife ; by A. Watson	13 : 367
There's no' a cheek in Gourdon dry ; by G. Reid	15 : 40
There's room aye for us a' ; by J. Smith	13 : 204
There's still a bush aboon Traquair ; by T. Eckford	8 : 406
There's things sae sma' ; by D. Williamson	15 : 59
There's time enough to slumber in the grave ; by J. Macaulay	9 : 342

These germs ; by R. C. Buist	-	12 : 348
These three ; by J. F. Mill	-	3 : 21
They change ; by R. W. Barbour	-	14 : 98
They left the bay at midnight ; by M. J. Potter	-	9 : 378
They that wait upon the Lord ; by G. Matheson	-	9 : 148
They told him she was dead ; by J. C. Figg	-	4 : 60
Thine ear is ever open ; by A. Jenkins	-	11 : 355
Think of me ; by W. J. Bradley	-	8 : 64
Think—think--think ; by D. Rae	-	11 : 399
This is not our home ; by D. Ironside	-	10 : 401
This life and beyond ; by R. A. Watson	-	10 : 98
This side an' that ; by G. Macdonald	-	2 : 267
This summer day ; by I. Blyth	-	2 : 99
This, too, shall pass away ; by A. Keith	-	7 : 272
This weary world ; by J. Mahon	-	7 : 223
Thistle, the ; by R. M. Calder	-	12 : 45
Thistle, the ; by J. Anderson	-	7 : 311
Thistle, the broom, and the heather, the ; by W. H. Phin	-	5 : 299
Thistle-down, the ; by D. A. Beattie	-	12 : 399
Tho' lang is the night ; by D. Owler	-	15 : 360
Thomas Carlyle ; by D. Allan	-	6 : 166
Thomas Guthrie ; by W. M. Wood	-	6 : 114
Thorns amongst the flowers ; by A. Robertson	-	2 : 155
Those days have passed ; by A. Sutherland	-	10 : 41
Thou art dear unto me ; by R. A. Scott	-	14 : 274
Thou wert fair of hue, Annie ; by C. Waddie	-	10 : 286
Though far from thee ; by T. Watts	-	3 : 73
Though married, we are lovers yet ; by G. Maxwell	-	8 : 401
Thought ; by T. P. Nicoll	-	1 : 83
Thought ; by J. Urquhart	-	6 : 146
Thoughts ; by M. Bernstein	-	1 : 54
Thoughts in Lincluden Abbey ; by G. Gilfillan	-	15 : 115
Thoughts in verse ; by J. Hutchison	-	13 : 183
Thoughts of thee ; by A. M. Bisset	-	13 : 189
Thoughts on Lorne beach ; by J. Rae	-	12 : 244
Thou'rt awa ; by L. F. Fraser	-	3 : 311
Three auld wives o' Keerican Lee, the ; by J. Grant	-	10 : 354
Three-foot rule, the ; by W. J. M. Rankine	-	5 : 30
Three in heaven ; by W. C. Cameron	-	3 : 277
Three pictures ; by C. Macdonald	-	14 : 321
Three score and ten ; by E. Campbell	-	1 : 138
Three score and ten ; by J. Westwood	-	8 : 262
Three score and ten ; by W. Buchanan	-	13 : 85
Three sonnets ; by A. Weir	-	11 : 423

Three suns, the ; by J. Bell	-	10 : 341
Threnodeia ; by D. W. Yair	-	7 : 249
Threnody ; by A. Macintosh	-	9 : 287
Thriftless wife, the ; by C. Dawson	-	15 : 49
Through the long sleepless night ; by P. P. Alexander	-	10 : 238
Throw open the window ; by J. C. Lundie	-	11 : 160
Thrummy mitten, the ; by A. Gordon	-	9 : 98
Thule--a reverie ; by A. Sutherland	-	10 : 40
Thunderstorm, the ; by Nellie J. Agnew-		13 : 105
Thunderstorm, the ; by J. M'Clure	-	12 : 147
Thus far ; by H. A. G.-Yooll	-	7 : 65
Tibbie and her soo ; by A. Reid	-	5 : 281
Tibbie Shiel ; by C. M. Thomson	-	4 : 90
Tibbie Tamson ; by J. E. Watt	-	1 : 76
Tig ; by W. Sanderson	-	15 : 303
Till the sun went down ; by G. Eyre	-	8 : 56
Tim, the news boy ; by J. Renton	-	7 : 52
Time ; by D. C. Smith	-	5 : 309
Time ; by G. Murie	-	5 : 266
Time ; by J. P. Findlay	-	12 : 55
Time ; by J. Macdonald	-	1 : 98
Time ; by J. Jardine	-	2 : 240
Time for me, the ; by C. Miller	-	4 : 114
Time gun, the ; by D. Kennedy	-	5 : 50
Time is drawing near, the ; by A. Wood-		11 : 245
Time is wearing on, the ; by D. Ferguson	-	13 : 301
Time hastens speedily ; by J. Henderson-		13 : 372
Times are changed, the ; by R. Trotter, jun.,	-	11 : 176
Timotheus, the violin player ; by L. L. Thain		13 : 283
Tintinnabulation ; by C. F. Osburn Blackburn		13 : 3-7
Tired ; by D. Lamont	-	9 : 305
Tired ; by G. E. Maclellan	-	14 : 369
'Tis darkest afore the dawn ; by J. Burr	-	10 : 207
'Tis spring again ; by M. Cross	-	1 : 313
'Tis spring-time, you tell me ; by A. Murison	-	8 : 316
'Tis then I'd choose to die ; by R. W. Hay		7 : 117
To a beautiful child ; by J. Kelly	-	10 : 91
To a blackbird ; by A. Falconer	-	13 : 306
To a brither bard ; by D. Keith	-	4 : 193
To a caged song-bird ; by A. W. Buchan	-	6 : 285
To a desert flower ; by W. L. Thomson	-	6 : 322
To a fickle plane ; by W. Sutherland	-	12 : 169
To a foundling ; by J. Currie	-	3 : 119
To a fossil shell ; by J. Y. Gray	-	10 : 261

To a friend ; by J. Roger	-	3 : 54
To a kid of the goats ; by T. Murray	-	8 : 271
To a lamb ; by J. Andrew	-	4 : 293
To a lintie frightened from her nest ; by J. Lawson	11	: 70
To a mouse ; by J. Cock	-	2 : 182
To a noble gentleman ; by R. Trotter	-	11 : 173
To a pet bird killed by a hawk ; by J. F. Bremner	6	: 173
To a playmate of auld langsyne ; by J. Menzies	12	: 376
To a raindrop ; by C. Millar	-	4 : 115
To a ruin ; by W. Officer	-	8 : 367
To a sheep's head and trotters ; by D. Anderson	15	: 370
To a skylark ; by W. Miller	-	3 : 144
To a skylark ; by J. Lauder	-	6 : 365
To a sleeping infant ; by P. Skirving	-	12 : 278
To a snowdrop ; by R. Fisher	-	6 : 326
To a snowdrop ; by T. Cowan	-	4 : 333
To a snowdrop ; by A. M. Soutar	-	1 : 103
To a snowdrop ; by L. Tuttiett	-	15 : 328
To a snowdrop in a sick chamber ; by E. D. Dickson	4	: 102
To a sovereign ; by W. R. Lyall	-	10 : 144
To a sprig of heather : by M. Mackellar	-	2 : 197
To a thrush ; by D. Macmillan	-	14 : 304
To a thrush ; by T. Cowan	-	4 : 331
To a thrush—in winter ; by W. Chisholm	-	2 : 64
To a tree by Walkerburn ; by Mrs Williamson	8	: 193
To a violet ; by J. A. Briggs	-	8 : 114
To a withered flower ; by D. Carnegie	-	1 : 190
To a wren found dead in the snow ; by D. K. Coutts	7	: 176
To a young sparrow ; by D. R. Sellars	-	6 : 156
To an aged friend ; by J. Tatlow	-	6 : 207
To an autumn flower ; by A. Stewart	-	6 : 335
To an early snowdrop ; by J. Bogue	-	5 : 344
To an editor ; by W. Wilson	-	8 : 71
To an iceberg ; by F. Ferguson	-	5 : 95
To an infant ; by D. Arnot	-	8 : 321
To an old clock ; by D. M'Nicol	-	3 : 281
To an old well at a deserted Highland clachlan ; by J. L. Bain	-	10 : 160
To auld kirk Alloway ; by M. Taylor	-	6 : 105
To Bacchus ; by E. Smith	-	3 : 101
To bonnie wee Myrtle ; by M. Morrison	-	3 : 222
To Evan Maccoll ; by D. M. Crerar	-	6 : 126
To Glen Fernate ; by J. L. Bain	-	10 : 159
To heaven wi' me ; by M. Grant	-	1 : 124
To his terrier ; by W. Black	-	10 : 22

To J. M. Yair, Esq., M.D., Kilcreggan ; by D. W. Yair	7 : 248
To Jean ; by J. M. Whitelaw	2 : 228
To Kyle ; by A. Laing	6 : 149
To Leonore ; by A. Drummond	6 : 49
To liberty ; by I. Blyth	2 : 101
To Lydia ; by H. Millar	3 : 315
To Mary ; by R. S. Inglis	10 : 307
To Mary ; by J. Pettigrew	5 : 38
To Mary ; by J. F. Bain	13 : 320
To Mary ; by W. M. Philip	8 : 217
To music ; by J. M'Queen	13 : 48
To my ain guidwife ; by R. S. Inglis	10 : 306
To my auld bauchels ; by W. M'Dougall	4 : 18
To my books ; by R. Gemmell	2 : 61
To my bride ; by D. Macpherson	10 : 32
To my daughter when at school ; by R. Innes	5 : 99
To my father's spirit ; by Lady F. Hastings	3 : 233
To my garden ; by A. C. Miller	15 : 299
To my lyre ; by G. Sutherland	8 : 210
To my old boots ; by T. Cowan	4 : 332
To my sweetheart ; by A. C. Miller	15 : 299
To my wife ; by W. Bruce	14 : 348
To sleep ; by J. Mahon	7 : 221
To spring ; by A. Wallace	2 : 104
To the auld wife ; by A. Robertson	2 : 326
To the Aztecs ; by W. Archer	4 : 108
To the bairns ; by L. Robertson	4 : 52
To the blackbird ; by J. Grant	10 : 355
To the Carmel ; by D. W. Gallacher	3 : 44
To the comet of 1858 ; by G. Maxwell	8 : 402
To the cushie doo ; by J. Ramsay	3 : 272
To the daisy ; by J. Heggie	7 : 319
To the departed winter ; by E. Allison	7 : 146
To the Devon ; by J. Christie	6 : 267
To the evening star ; by W. Miller	3 : 146
To the humming bird ; by J. Kennedy	6 : 216
To the Irish nation ; by J. Campbell	3 : 165
To the lark ; by R. Adamson	1 : 228
To the lark ; by J. A. Biggs	8 : 111
To the lute of lyric poetry ; by J. T. Levens	7 : 130
To the memory of Lord Byron ; by H. Brown	3 : 186
To the moon ; by Mary Pyper	8 : 291
To the ocean ; by J. Bell	10 : 340
To the river Clyde ; by J. Hogg	9 : 165

To the robin ; by J. Teenan	2 : 232
To the snowdrop ; by A. M. Kerr	5 : 217
To the street remarkers ; by J. Wright	3 : 128
To the venerable ash at Branhholm ; by M. Elliot	6 : 380
To the wintry winds ; by E. Allison	7 : 149
To the woods ; by A. Woolnoth	10 : 118
Tobacco box, the ; by J. Morison	9 : 47
Tocherless dame sits lang at hame, a ; by D. M. Hampton	8 : 360
To-day ; by T. Carlyle	3 : 426
To-day, if ye will hear His voice ; by G. Matheson	9 : 147
Toddlebonny ; by J. Taylor	4 : 182
Told to the missionary ; by R. W. Hay	7 : 115
Tom Marshall ; by J. F. Mill	3 : 19
Tomb of Priesthill, the ; by T. Thomson	8 : 96
To-morrow ; by D. M. Crerar	6 : 124
To-night ; by C. C. Rae Brown	8 : 384
Tongue discipline ; by D. King	9 : 246
Tootin' horn, the ; by R. H. Calder	5 : 178
Towards the dawn ; by J. Paterson	9 : 227
Town lover's song, a ; by J. F. Mill	3 : 18
Tragedy of Cabul, the ; by A. Wallace	3 : 340
Tragic ; by M. A. Shaw	4 : 380
Transplanted ; by E. A. Deas	8 : 198
Trappit mouse, the ; by M. Moir	4 : 388
Treasured ; by I. Craig-Knox	2 : 295
Treasured toy, a ; by C. Macdonald	14 : 323
Treasures of the snow, the ; by A. Reid	5 : 284
Trial ; by J. Macintosh	11 : 366
Tribute to poetical genius ; by M. M. Clever	12 : 173
Triumphs of literature, the ; by Earl of Rosslyn	8 : 20
Trooper's song, the ; by Ella Burton	8 : 175
Trottie Triddles ; by J. Durie	8 : 161
True friendship ; by J. Ross	7 : 299
True hearts ; by V. B. Mackenzie	12 : 363
True message, the ; by Mrs John Colquhoun	14 : 288
True rest ; by Earl of Rosslyn	8 : 21
True riches, the ; by J. Walker	9 : 203
True story for children, a ; by P. P. Alexander	10 : 241
True tale with a moral, a ; by A. Campbell	14 : 68
Trumpet, the ; by Sir G. Douglas	14 : 93
Trust ; by F. Locke	9 : 291
Trust in God, and do the right ; by N. Macleod	1 : 391
Truth-seeker, the ; by R. Bennett	12 : 30
Tryste wi' me ; by T. Thomson	6 : 80

Trysted hour, the ; by H. Macdonald	7 : 48
Trysting sang, a ; by J. T. Levens	7 : 129
Trysting tree, the ; by E. A. Deas	8 : 199
Trysting tree, the ; by R. Gemmell	2 : 61
Twa days, the ; by W. S. M'Intosh	6 : 70
Twa elders, the ; by J. Johnstone	2 : 176
Twa-handit crack, a ; by J. Barr	12 : 288
Twa herds, the ; by W. Mackarsie	14 : 254
Twa sisters, the ; by R. S. Mutch	13 : 329
Twa words to the Scotch folk in Lon'on ; by J. Mactaggart	11 : 328
Tweed at Boldside, the ; by W. Hall	8 : 61
'Tween the cradle and the grave ; by W. Hogg	6 : 371
'Tween the gloamin' and the mirk ; by C. M. Thomson	4 : 89
Twelve o'clock—midnight ; by A. Steel	3 : 79
Twilight ; by A. M'Donald	15 : 156
Twilight ; by J. Roger	3 : 53
Twilight ; by B. R. Anderson	6 : 405
Twilight ; by G. Paterson	4 : 230
Twilight ; by H. A. G. Yooll	7 : 68
Twilight hour, the ; by A. W. Haywood	15 : 121
Twilight musings ; by W. Cross	6 : 21
Twilight thought ; by Mrs Balfour	14 : 360
Twins, the—life's stages ; by Mrs G. S. Menteath	8 : 267
Two bonnie birds ; by D. Kippen	15 : 142
Two hundred years ago—1688-9 ; by W. Bennet	12 : 387
Two little wooden shoes ; by G. Stronach	5 : 393
Two Mabels, the ; by J. C. Kennedy	7 : 322
Two sleeps, the ; by C. Mackay	13 : 22
Two spirits, the ; by G. Bruce	1 : 219
Two tiny burnies ; by G. Clark	11 : 151
Twofold movement of God, the ; by J. Andrew	4 : 300
Unco lang about it ; by A. Wardrop	4 : 82
Under the cypress ; by J. Paul	11 : 394
Under the surface ; by A. Woolnoth	10 : 117
Undertones ; by J. C. Grant	15 : 254
Undiscovered country, the ; by J. A. Duncan	15 : 72
Unfulfilled renown ; by D. R. Williamson	8 : 242
Unforeseen, the ; by E. A. Deas	8 : 196
Unforgot ; by W. C. Howden	4 : 355
Unforgotten ; by J. Fullerton	1 : 17
Union song, the ; by N. Clyne	1 : 363
Unknown ; by A. Brown	1 : 155
Unneeded service ; by R. Sanders	4 : 384

Unorthodox ballad, an ; by J. W. Greene	-	15 : 348
Unrecorded grave, the ; by J. Knox	-	12 : 301
Until the day break ; by A. Reid	-	5 : 285
Until the day dawn ; by A. Jenkins	-	11 : 354
Unto the perfect day ; by J. Booth	-	15 : 92
Up and be in time ; by H. A. Dewar	-	10 : 71
Up in the north ; by W. C. Smith	-	3 : 243
Up ! young hearts ; by W. Officer	-	8 : 367
Uses of adversity, the ; by J. B. Young	-	14 : 307
Vacant chair, the ; by J. L. Blair	-	13 : 380
Vacation-time ; by A. C. Alexander	-	5 : 306
Vale, Glenalmond ; by J. T. F. Farquhar	-	14 : 78
Vale of Bowmont, the ; by A. Mabon	-	9 : 211
Vale of Leven, the ; by A. Duncan	-	6 : 189
Valley, the ; by J. Aitchison	-	15 : 29
Valley of the Earn, the ; by J. Nelson	-	7 : 83
Vampyre, the ; by J. C. Maxwell	-	8 : 128
Vernal rhapsody, a ; by J. Whitelaw	-	11 : 258
Vers de Societe ; by R. White ;	-	8 : 30
Veteran's tale, the ; by A. Shand	-	1 : 340
Via Vita ; by W. Knight	-	1 : 195
Victor chief to his slaughtered steed, the ; by W. Sinclair	-	15 : 408
Victoria ; by A. S. Wilson	-	8 : 398
Victory to Jesus ; by J. M. Mitchell	-	8 : 154
Viking ship, the ; by W. J. Millar	-	7 : 258
Viking's bride, the ; by R. M. Fergusson	-	6 : 270
Viking's grave, the ; by J. Reid	-	4 : 208
Village, the ; by J. H. Stoddart	-	2 : 302
Village churchyard, the ; by J. Milligan	-	8 : 144
Village green, the ; by J. Knox	-	12 : 302
Village smithy, the ; by J. Milligan	-	8 : 141
Violet ; by A. Woolnoth	-	10 : 117
Violet, the ; by M. Gray	-	14 : 190
Virtue ; by D. B. Mackie	-	7 : 194
Virtue well, the ; by R. Pringle	-	12 : 84
Vision in a soul garden, a ; by C. M. Stewart	-	6 : 185
Vision of victory, a ; by J. Booth	-	15 : 91
Visitor, the ; by W. W. Smith	-	2 : 146
Voice from Shetland, a ; by Lady L. Fowlis	-	4 : 324
Voice of love, the ; by J. Craig	-	4 : 38
Voice of nature, the ; by A. Ross	-	1 : 292
Voice of prayer, the ; by A. M. Kerr	-	5 : 218
Voice of spring, the ; by J. Reid	-	4 : 207
Voice of the night wind, the ; by J. Wilkie	-	6 : 274

Voice of the oak, the ; by A. M. Lang	-	4 : 62
Voice of the rose ; by J. M'Pherson	-	11 : 109
Voice of the sea, the ; by A. J. Symington	-	5 : 90
Voices ; by K. M. Craig	-	14 : 95
Voices from the orphan home ; by M. Young	-	7 : 134
Voices of nature ; by J. G. Small	-	4 : 264
Voices of nature, the ; by A. P. Melville	-	12 : 76
Voices of our home, the ; by J. P. Brown	-	9 : 82
Voices of spring ; by J. W. Pitcairn	-	9 : 184
Voices of the past ; by C. P. Craig	-	6 : 306
Voices of the town ; by R. A. Watson	-	10 : 100
Volunteer review, the—Edinburgh 1861 ; by J. A. Briggs	-	8 : 113
Volunteers, the ; by J. Shaw	-	4 : 375
Vox clamantis ; by W. A. Sim	-	7 : 247
Wa' gaun o' wee Nell, the ; by A. G. Murdoch	-	1 : 183
Wae fa's the drinking o't ; by W. J. Currie	-	11 : 229
Wae, wae is me ; by J. Lumsden	-	11 : 342
Wae, wae is my heart ; by Q. C. Goodlet	-	15 : 174
Wae fu' heart is ill byde, a ; by J. H. C. Ford	-	8 : 136
Waes o' Eild ; by J. Crawford	-	5 : 103
Waesome carl, the ; by G. Macdonald	-	2 : 271
Waft him o'er the foam ; by K. F. Mackie	-	10 : 213
Waggity wa' ; by R. Swan	-	10 : 65
Wail of a London Scot, the ; by J. D. Reid	-	15 : 169
Wail of the disconsolate, the ; by J. Ramsay	-	3 : 273
Wail of the weary ; by D. Bremner	-	11 : 204
Wait ; by H. W. Harper	-	4 : 254
Wait a wee, an' dinna weary ; by R. M. Calder	-	12 : 48
Waitin' the Maister ; by M. Stott	-	10 : 168
Waiting ; by A. Stewart	-	6 : 336
Waiting ; by J. W. Fergus	-	9 : 294
Waiting ; by R. Hogg	-	7 : 237
Waiting for me ; by J. Singer	-	12 : 119
Waiting for the dentist ; by H. T. M. Bell	-	9 : 23
Wake, oh, awake ; by M. Crichton	-	6 : 84
Wake up your lively notes ; by J. Hume	-	13 : 153
Wakened memories ; by T. and G. Ramsay	-	7 : 231
Waking of the lark, the ; by G. E. M. Lancaster	-	2 : 185
Wallace ; by J. Taylor	-	4 : 175
Wallie, the ; by R. H. Calder	-	5 : 175
Wanderer, the ; by J. W. Wood	-	3 : 347
Wanderer of Clova, the ; by Earl of Southesk	-	1 : 111
Wanderer's reminiscence, a ; by R. C. M'Fee	-	13 : 312
Wanderer's return, the ; by D. King	-	9 : 245

Wanderer's return, the ; by A. P. Melville	-	12 : 77
Wanderer's return, the ; by D. Maclaren	-	1 : 315
Wanderin' John ; by J. Adam	-	3 : 220
Wanderin' gipsy, the ; by A. D. Hossack	-	12 : 183
Waning life and weary ; by W. Wilson	-	13 : 229
Wanted ; by D. Macgregor	-	11 : 87
Wanted a wife ; by W. L. Balfour	-	2 : 168
War ; by W. Towers	-	8 : 346
War ; by D. G. Braidwood	-	7 : 287
Warbler's praise, a ; by A. Munro	-	5 : 197
Warden of the bay, the ; by D. Young	-	1 : 100
Warl'-maker, the ; by R. C. Buist	-	12 : 349
Warsle up the brae ; by A. Murray	-	9 : 214
Warstle through ; by A. Sutherland	-	10 : 39
Was ever a lass ? by J. D. Reid	-	10 : 79
Wastlan' win', the ; by J. Craig	-	2 : 123
Watcher, the ; by J. M. Bulloch	-	12 : 86
Watching unto prayer ; by P. Mearns	-	14 : 81
Watchman, what of the night ; by W. K. Moore	-	11 : 143
Water Johnny ; by J. Gow	-	8 : 281
Water-lilies, the ; by S. Reid	-	10 : 114
Water rotten ; by W. Whyte	-	9 : 312
Watt ; by J. Walker	-	9 : 206
Waukrife e'e, the ; by J. E. Watt	-	1 : 74
Wannert wean, the ; by J. Hyslop	-	4 : 283
Wavelet, a ; by A. B. Taylor	-	4 : 312
Wayside blind, the ; by J. F. Bain	-	13 : 320
Wayside vignettes ; by W. Canton	-	11 : 24
Wayside wanderer, the ; by H. Shanks	-	11 : 378
Wayside weeds ; by J. Gow	-	8 : 278
We are Christians a' ; by P. Anton	-	13 : 127
We buried our first a year ago ; by J. S. Scotland	-	12 : 415
We feel not till we suffer ; by R. S. Inglis	-	10 : 300
We hae parted ; by A. Cowan	-	11 : 45
We set our sails ; by W. Delday	-	12 : 41
We sorrow not as those who have no hope ; by Elizabeth C. Clephane	-	5 : 229
We surely can forgie ; by R. S. Bowie	-	6 : 226
We wail ; by R. C. Macfie	-	15 : 106
Wearied and worn ; by J. Campbell	-	3 : 166
Wearin' doon the brae ; by J. C. Logan	-	15 : 171
Wearin' hame ; by P. Duncan	-	3 : 170
Weary ; by M. Dickie	-	4 : 308
Weary spule, the ; by T. Watson	-	2 : 223
Weaver's bairn, the ; by A. Pringle	-	7 : 234

Weaver's song, the old ; by R. Bennett	-	12 : 31
Wedding bells ; by A. H. Bowie	-	12 : 156
Wee Archie ; by T. Millar	-	11 : 318
Wee auntie Jeanie ; by T. Faed	-	12 : 353
Wee birdie's whistle, the ; by W. Burns	-	8 : 341
Wee broon squirrel, the ; by J. Lumsden-		11 : 343
Wee bruckit lassie, the ; by J. Trotter	-	11 : 187
Wee burn, the ; by T. Duulop	-	4 : 221
Wee Charlie ; by J. Kennedy	-	6 : 220
Wee chick-chickie, the ; by J. Macintosh		11 : 366
Wee claspin' Bible, the ; by H. Kerr	-	15 : 419
Wee creepie stule, the ; by A. J. Armstrong		5 : 256
Wee croodlin' doo, the ; by J. Thomson	-	10 : 270
Wee daisy ; by J. Currie	-	3 : 119
Wee Davie ; by R. Adamson	-	1 : 227
Wee Davy Daylight ; by R. Tennant	-	1 : 170
Wee Dod ; by J. Crawford	-	10 : 154
Wee doggie scrapin' at the door, the ; by J. Marshall	-	10 : 164
Wee drap o' tea, a ; by J. G. Paterson	-	15 : 286
Wee Elsie ; by M. H. Browne	-	14 : 107
Wee folks, the ; by J. H. Gall	-	1 : 11
Wee herd loon, the ; by R. Leighton	-	1 : 302
Wee Jamie ; by D. King	-	9 : 245
Wee Jean ; by J. Brown	-	5 : 236
Wee Jeanie ; by P. J. M'Mahon	-	13 : 96
Wee Jeanie ; by J. Nicholson	-	1 : 237
Wee Jeanie ; by W. W. Smith	-	2 : 145
Wee Jean's promise ; by G. Watson	-	14 : 40
Wee Jenny Wren ; by J. Dougall-		13 : 215
Wee Joukydaidles ; by J. Smith	-	1 : 266
Wee Kate ; by J. Nicholson	-	1 : 236
Wee Lily Logie ; by C. Neill	-	4 : 206
Wee lock o' hair, the ; by J. W. M'Laren	-	2 : 347
Wee lost laddie ; by I. F. Darling	-	9 : 277
Wee Mary ; by R. de B. Trotter	-	11 : 183
Wee Mary Ann ; by J. Norval	-	6 : 199
Wee orphan wean, the ; by J. T. Boyle	-	14 : 167
Wee orphan wean, the ; by D. Thomson	-	2 : 113
Wee pair o' shoon, the ; by J. Smith	-	1 : 262
Wee Peggie ; by W. Cross	-	6 : 16
Wee pickle meal, the ; by J. Norval	-	6 : 195
Wee Polly ; by J. W. Fergus	-	9 : 295
Wee primrose, the ; by H. Macdonald	-	7 : 46
Wee raggit lassie, the ; by G. Dobie	-	5 : 132

Wee rift o' blue in the sky, a ; by G. Dobie	-	5 : 129
Wee Robie Rolic ; by J. T. Yule	-	3 : 226
Wee Robie's grave ; by J. Hyslop	-	4 : 285
Wee Roddie's grave ; by W. C. Cameron-		3 : 276
Wee shifter's lament, the ; by G. Turner	-	5 : 262
Wee sprig o' heather, the ; by J. Macfarlane		1 : 35
Wee spunk laddie, the ; by J. Morton	-	1 : 355
Wee thack cot, the ; by A. Goldie	-	11 : 361
Wee thackit cot ; by R. Chalmers	-	9 : 328
Wee toom chair, the ; by A. Snaddon	-	8 : 116
Wee, wee flower, the ; by P. Still, jun.	-	1 : 176
Wee, wee man, the ; by H. Macdonald	-	7 : 45
Wee well o' the wood, the ; by A. Laing	-	6 : 150
Wee Willie ; by P. McNeill	-	5 : 296
Wee Willie Wallacky ; by C. Nicol	-	6 : 72
Wee winkin' candle, the ; by J. Kerr	-	10 : 333
Weep, highland mothers ; by J. Simson	-	4 : 68
Welcome, the ; by M. W. Howie	-	14 : 328
Welcome all truth ; by G. Maxwell	-	8 : 400
Welcome back, Robin ; by J. T. Boyle	-	14 : 168
Welcome, bonnie snawdraps ; by I. Robertson	-	11 : 171
Welcome, little bairnie ; by A. Donaldson		6 : 376
Welcome to Christopher North a ; by W. Wilson		13 : 230
Welcome to Kossuth ; by A. Maxwell	-	10 : 405
We'll meet again ; by J. Anderson	-	7 : 335
We're a' ae nither's bairns ; by J. M. Peacock		4 : 217
We're a' weel at hame ; by J. J. S. Watson	-	3 : 262
We're Scotland's bairns yet ; by Maggie Todd		13 : 157
Wert thou the perfume of the rose ; by W. Smith		13 : 269
We've aye held oor ain ; by W. Allan	-	6 : 343
Wha?—a contrast ; by A. Wardrop	-	4 : 83
Wha sat 'mang the heather wi' me ; by J. G. M. Heddle	-	10 : 196
Wha to like best ; by G. Dobie	-	5 : 131
Wha wad harm the bairnies ; by G. M. Simpson		8 : 332
Whan far awa' frae hame ; by J. M. Peacock	-	4 : 217
When I was a youngster ; by R. Dinnie	-	13 : 292
What ails me noo ? by J. K. Scott	-	4 : 48
What are they doing at home to-night ? by Ada E Taylor	-	5 : 330
What changes sair hae taken place ; by J. Inglis		13 : 400
What is hope ? by D. Brenner	-	11 : 209
What is kindness ; by R. Whittet	-	6 : 134
What is war ? by G. Mackenzie	-	14 : 334
What mak's the ingle blink sae bricht ? by J. H. Gall		1 : 10

What might have been ; by J. Walker -	10 : 105
What treasures of our hearts have we ? by H. Dryerre -	5 : 279
What will I do gin my doggie die ? by G. Outram -	2 : 219
What would you do ? by A. T. Matthews -	13 : 274
Whaur do ye come frae ? by T. B. H. Christie -	12 : 282
Whaur in youth we roved ; by D. G. Mitchell -	11 : 31
Whaur my harp lo'es to dwell ; by M. Bean -	15 : 311
Whaur shall I gae ? by T. Anderson -	14 : 163
When a' that toil ; W. Stewart -	12 : 93
When at thy side ; by W. D. White -	13 : 340
When beams of morn the hills adorn ; by J. M'Queen -	13 : 46
When birdies sang ; by D. Owler -	15 : 359
When cauld the norlan' breezes blaw ; by K. Robertson -	9 : 347
When dark the night ; by A. Cowan -	11 : 43
When freedom an exile from foreign lands came ; by J. Linen -	7 : 142
When gloamin' covers a' ; by A. Snaddon -	8 : 119
When gloamin' fades ; by K. F. Mackie -	10 : 214
When life was young ; by J. Christie -	6 : 265
When life's lamp is waning ; by J. P. Brown -	9 : 85
When little May's asleep ; by R. Bird -	10 : 192
When mither's ta'en awa ; by G. Watson -	14 : 38
When once you're down ; by J. Marshall -	10 : 166
When oor wee Pate's a man ; by D. Canning -	3 : 364
When oor youth is awa' ; by J. W. Paxton -	6 : 178
When shades o' nicht ; by J. Robb -	6 : 165
When skies were blue ; by R. S. Macpherson -	2 : 204
When spring arrayed in flowers ; by J. Lawson -	11 : 70
When summer comes again ; by J. T. Boyle -	14 : 169
When sunset looms bonnie ; by J. Westwood -	8 : 261
When the bee has left the blossom ; by A. Smart -	11 : 79
When the blasts of the north ; by F. A. Mackay -	10 : 382
When the light of day was dying ; by J. Henderson -	13 : 375
When the ship comes home ; by J. Gilkison -	13 : 172
When the spring comes in ; by R. H. Calder -	5 : 179
When the sun's gane ower the hill ; by J. Law -	5 : 319
When the weary, seeking rest ; by H. Bonar -	9 : xiv
When wandering by the stately Tweed ; by W. Forsyth -	13 : 208
When we are far awa' ; by J. Paul -	11 : 385
When we sing ; by J. R. Nicolson -	7 : 339
When we were at the schule ; by T. C. Latto -	5 : 334

When we were bairns thegither ; by H. Acquiroff	11 : 279
When we were bits o' bairnies ; by M. Barr	2 : 201
When we were boys ; by J. Taylor	5 : 326
When wild winds are sweeping ; by W. Wilson	13 : 228
When will she awaken ? by M. R. Watt	1 : 369
When winds blow loud ; by R. Richardson	4 : 143
When would I go ; by Mary A. Tough	5 : 290
When you were seventeen ; by J. W. Fraser	12 : 317
When your pants are letting in ; by J. W. Greene	15 : 350
When youth made all bright ; by J. Park	9 : 76
Where brackens grow ; by J. L. M. Watt	9 : 128
Where can the weary find rest ; by D. Lister	14 : 75
Where first we met ; by A. S. Graham	9 : 150
Where Gadie rins ; by J. Park	9 : 78
Where has Scotland found her fame ? by P. Macpherson	14 : 384
Where I was yestreen ; by N. Macleod	6 : 236
Where the ferns grow ; by W. Thomson	5 : 250
Where the Highland tartans wave ; by J. Pettigrew	5 : 37
Where the wild flowers grow ; by P. Duncan	3 : 168
Which is best ? by Mrs A. H. Berger	14 : 289
Whinny dell, the ; by R. S. Inglis	10 : 298
Whisky ; by T. Thomson	6 : 81
Whispers from afar ; by J. Mooney	10 : 138
Whistlin' Tam ; by J. Watson	1 : 44
White horse, the ; by W. Hay	15 : 132
Whither ; by J. Skelton	11 : 286
Who are those with thee ; by Mrs J. C. Simpson	8 : 370
Who dares to scorn ; by F. Bennoch	6 : 386
Who saved Nineveh ? by M. Buchanan	5 : 347
Why so unkind ? by J. Gardiner	4 : 43
Why this unrest ? by W. Houstoun	10 : 95
Wi' caution cross the line ; by J. Stewart	6 : 257
Widow O'Mailly's lament ; by J. W. Lyall	5 : 390
Widow's lament, the ; by A. S. Robertson	15 : 148
Widow's lament, the ; by T. Smibert	2 : 380
Widow's mite, the ; by J. Houston	4 : 35
Widow's mite, the ; by W. J. Currie	11 : 232
Widow's mite, the ; by J. Kelly	15 : 337
Widow's mite, the ; by J. B. Crombie	11 : 370
Widow's only son, the ; by R. Swan	10 : 64
Widow's wail, the ; by R. A. Scott	14 : 277
Wife o' Gowrie, the ; by A. Dewar	10 : 245
Wife's lament, the ; by J. Wilson	5 : 379
Wild bee ; by W. Gardiner	9 : 251

Wild bracken glen, the ; by R. Allan	-	9 : 362
Wild curlew, the ; by J. P. Wood	-	15 : 385
Wild flower, the ; by N. Thomson	-	9 : 394
Wild flowers ; by G. A. G. Gibb	-	9 : 350
Will ; by J. G. M. Heddle	-	10 : 197
Will and Jean ; by G. W. Somerville	-	4 : 173
Will o' Ellangowan ; by W. Whyte	-	9 : 313
Will ye buckle wi' me ? by J. S. M'Culloch	-	7 : 213
Will ye tryst wi' me, Annie ? by F. H. Gordon	-	3 : 365
Will you come along with me ; by J. C. Maxwell	-	8 : 126
Will you remember ; by Mrs Balfour	-	14 : 359
Willie ; by R. F. Hardy	-	6 : 313
Willie ; by F. Draper	-	9 : 54
Willie and Frances ; by R. C. Milne	-	15 : 81
Willie and I ; by J. Urquhart	-	6 : 144
Willie Mill's burn ; by E. Campbell	-	1 : 137
Willie, the wee cabin boy ; by M. M. Harper	-	14 : 208
Willie Waddie ; by W. Stewart	-	12 : 92
Willie Ward ; by D. Bremner	-	11 : 208
Wilt thou come ? by J. Davidson	-	1 : 93
Wilt thou remember me ? by T. Rae	-	11 : 238
Wimplin' burn, a ; by W. Murray	-	12 : 57
Wimplin' burnie ; by J. E. Rankin	-	4 : 162
Winds, the ; by R. S. Mutch	-	13 : 327
Winds, the ; by T. Whitehead	-	11 : 316
Winds o' March, the ; by A. S. Robertson	-	15 : 150
Wine-cup, the ; by A. Dewar	-	10 : 245
Wings of the morning, the ; by G. Matheson	-	9 : 147
Winifred Lee ; by Charlotte Jobling	-	8 : 300
Winsome Mary ; by R. H. W. Smith	-	5 : 108
Winter ; by R. Tennant	-	1 : 171
Winter ; by J. M'Pherson	-	11 : 111
Winter ; by W. D. White	-	13 : 341
Winter ; by J. Niven	-	10 : 374
Winter ; by J. A. Duthie	-	1 : 308
Winter daisy, the ; by W. Freeland	-	5 : 26
Winter day monody, a ; by A. Reid	-	9 : 156
Winter evening, the ; by A. Laing	-	2 : 280
Winter is retreating ; by A. Fairbairn	-	4 : 318
Winter of life, the ; by D. M'Leod	-	12 : 294
Winter plaint, a ; by J. Johnstone	-	13 : 129
Winter sang, a ; by H. Macpherson	-	15 : 62
Winter song of the shepherd, the ; by J. Linen	-	7 : 141
Winter's snow ; by J. Bell	-	10 : 343
Wish, a ; by F. Henrietta	-	5 : 168

Wish, the ; by A. Dewar	-	13 : 344
Wish of my life, the ; by G. S. Arnold	-	14 : 338
Wishing and waiting ; by W. H. Phin	-	5 : 299
Witch o' Torrylinn, the ; by H. Johnston	-	12 : 192
Witches of Cairn Catta, the ; by W. Scott	-	2 : 370
Witch's stane, the ; by R. Mauchline	-	10 : 132
Witch's stane, the ; by J. Houston	-	4 : 33
With her I love ; by W. D. White	-	13 : 342
With the dead ; by J. Kelly	-	1 : 209
With thee ; by W. K. Moore	-	11 : 141
Withered flower, the ; by D. Wilson	-	8 : 37
Withered spray, the ; by A. M'Donald	-	15 : 157
Within and without ; by A. T. M'Lean	-	4 : 76
Without and within ; by R. W. Barbour	-	14 : 97
Woman's mission ; by J. Cleghorn	-	6 : 369
Woodland well, the ; by T. Thorpe	-	4 : 26
Woods o' Hopetoun, the ; by G. Dobie	-	5 : 130
Woods o' Stobha', the ; by J. D. Reid	-	15 : 167
Wooer's tryst, the ; by A. C. M'Bryde	-	5 : 185
Word and a deed, a ; by C. Mackay	-	13 : 23
Word for the children, a ; by J. Leck	-	4 : 136
Word to the bachelors, a ; by G. A. G. Gibb	-	9 : 353
Word to the bairnies, a ; by R. S. Macpherson	-	2 : 204
Words ; by M. Fraser	-	9 : 330
Words for music ; by G. W. Bethune	-	2 : 316
Words in season ; by C. Dawson	-	15 : 48
Words to the wise ; by J. Hutchison	-	13 : 184
Wordsworth ; by A. Mitchell	-	2 : 37
Work ; by W. M. Smart	-	11 : 214
Work and rest ; by Earl of Rosslyn	-	8 : 22
Work song ; by W. Freeland	-	5 : 23
World gaed very weel then, the ; by J. Rae	-	14 : 211
World is but a bleaching green, the ; by A. Mitchell	-	13 : 365
World is fair, the ; by M. Gray	-	14 : 190
World is full of music, the ; by D. S. Allan	-	12 : 71
World is full of song, the ; by G. E. Maclellan	-	14 : 368
World is good, the ; by E. Allison	-	7 : 147
World is ours, the ; by H. C. Wilson	-	1 : 71
World is very beautiful, the ; by M. Crichton	-	6 : 83
World we live in, the ; by D. B. Mackie	-	7 : 193
Worm work ; by J. Kerr	-	10 : 335
Wounded soldier, the ; by J. J. S. Stewart	-	7 : 62
Wreckage ; by D. Lamont	-	9 : 306
Wrecked ; by D. M. Smith	-	2 : 211
Write injuries in sand, kindness in marble ; by M. Crichton	-	6 : 85

Yang-tsi-kiang, the ; by T. Davidson	-	2 : 89
Yarrow ; by D. S. Murray	-	9 : 356
Yarrow's bonny rose ; by J. M'Vittie	-	11 : 352
Ye humble beggar ; by R. B. Thomson	-	7 : 158
Ye may be happy yet ; by T. B. H. Christie	-	12 : 282
Ye needna' be courtin' at me, auld man ; by P. Still	-	3 : 307
Ye pearly shells ; by G. Wilson	-	15 : 13
Ye tender, pantin', deein' thing ; by W. Aitken	-	13 : 62
Ye wise old owl ; by R. Fleming	-	4 : 201
Year that's awa', the ; by J. Ross	-	2 : 353
Years and years ago ; by W. C. Howden	-	4 : 358
Years are passing over, the ; by R. H. Lundie	-	15 : 417
Yer ain fireside ; by J. W. Fergus	-	9 : 293
Yer nearer God, my bairnie ; by J. Morton	-	1 : 354
Ye're blythe, my bonnie bairnies ; by G. W. Donald	-	1 : 24
Yet there's room ; by W. J. Currie	-	11 : 228
Yon auld airm chair ; by J. M'Gregor	-	14 : 153
Yon birdie ; by T. Knox	-	9 : 111
Yon burnside ; by M. Inglis	-	10 : 60
Yon time ; by A. S. Laing	-	12 : 63
Young artist, the ; by R. Matheson	-	14 : 201
Young aspirant, the ; by J. Renton	-	7 : 50
Young hopes and old ; by J. C. Henderson	-	5 : 145
Young lighthouse-keeper, the ; by Mrs F. M. Macrae	-	11 : 406
Young minister, the ; by R. S. G. Anderson	-	11 : 199
Young Ramsay of Balmain ; by C. Gulland	-	6 : 249
Young Randal ; by R. Chalmers	-	2 : 360
Young Wallace ; by C. Gulland	-	6 : 248
Young wife to her drunken husband, the ; by E. M'Leod	-	15 : 135
Your ain fireside ; by J. W. Paxton	-	6 : 174
Your ain wee lassie ; by R. C. M'Fee	-	13 : 315
Youth and age ; by A. W. Gardiner	-	9 : 259
Youth and age ; by G. Murray	-	4 : 169
Youthful aspirations ; by W. D. Latto	-	3 : 40
Youth's dreams ; by D. Carnegie	-	1 : 190
Yule tryst, the ; by R. A. Dakers	-	14 : 147
Zendavesta ; by D. M. Hampton	-	8 : 361
Zig-zag, zig-zag ; by J. Miller	-	11 : 334
Zosemite valley, California ; by W. M. Lawrence	-	10 : 322

INGENIOUS LIST OF POPULAR SCOTCH SONGS, ARRANGED AS A TALE.

THE following may interest a number of our readers. It was suggested by and based on a most ingenious letter that was published in the Scots Magazine for 1806. No name was appended to the clever compilation, in which no less than 105 titles of Scottish songs were introduced, so as to make a continuous epistle to "Sandy O'er the Lee" :—

In the morning very early, in gloomy December, when the Scotch revellie and the hollow drum and fife from 'Roslin Castle' were heard, I was making ready to follow 'Jocky to the Fair,' and stopped and had some 'Caul' Kail in Aberdeen' with 'Auld Sir Simon the Laird,' 'Sir James the Rose,' 'Logie o' Buchan' and their companions, 'Sir Duncan Brodie,' 'The Yellow-haired Laddie,' 'Tam Glen,' 'The Miller o' Drone,' 'Muirland Willie,' 'The Whistling Ploughman,' and 'James Gray,' a 'Caledonian Laddie.' The refreshment, according to custom, was but their morning's piece, and I was hospitably prevailed upon to accompany them 'O'er the Water to Charlie,' to breakfast on 'Caller Herring,' at the 'House Below the Mill,' with the sign of the 'Blue Bells of Scotland,' where a few of the 'Merry Lads of Ayr' had met to make a 'Merry Meeting,' for they had been 'Up in the Morning Early,' following the 'Brave Kenmure' 'A' the way frae Lochaber,' that's 'O'er the Hills an' far awa';' but we'll now come to the bottom of the punch bowl; the landlord was 'Johnny M'Gill,' half-brother to 'John Roy Stewart'; ye ken, Johnny was a piper's son, and married 'Bonnie Christie.'

'The Sutor's Tochter.' She gaed us a hearty welcome ; for 'Blythe was she But and Ben ;' and 'When she came ben she bobbit,' and introduced us to 'My Joe Janet,' 'Fair Helen,' 'Bonny Barbara Allen,' 'The lovely Lass o' Inverness,' 'Tibby Fowler,' 'The Maid o' the Mill,' 'Lovely young Jessy,' 'Mary Gray,' 'The Flowers o' the Forest,' 'Annie Laurie,' a lass I wad dee for, and my 'Highland Mary,' 'My bonnie wee Thing,' wi' 'The Maid of Isla.' They were all waiting the arrival of 'Lucy Campbell' from 'Within a mile o' Edinburgh Toon,' for it's weel kent she's to be married to 'Young Lochinvar,' the 'Rattling roaring Hieland Man.' The 'Auld Gudeman wi' his wee bit Wifiekie,' made us sit down to 'Cakes and Ale,' and 'Daft Robin' and 'Berwick Johnny' did 'Push about the Jorum ;' while 'Link-him Doddie' and 'Gilderoy' were crying 'Gie the lassies mair o't,' up flew the door and in sprang a 'Soger Laddie' 'In the garb o' auld Gaul.' 'I thoct it was Johnny Coming ;' but 'Na faith 'tis na that,' says 'Peggy Baun,' for that's 'John Anderson my Joe' frae 'Bonny Dundee,' 'For he would be a Soger.' Most of us knowing the 'Bonny Lad wi' the White Cockade,' we invited him to take a seat by his old comrade, 'Donald o' Dundee,' which he no sooner did than 'Jingling Johnny' took out his pipes and began to play 'We're a' gane to the barn, lassie'—wilt thou gae ? but was stopped by 'Duncan,' who begged he would favour the company with 'God save the King.' Hang the king ! cried 'Brave Lochiel,' 'Should auld Acquaintance be forgot ?' 'Let's rise and follow Charlie,' for 'Charlie is my darling.' That's right, quo' 'Charlie Stewart,' 'Up and war them a' ;' 'Let's hae the Stewarts back again.' However, notwithstanding its being 'Bonnie Chairlie's' ain call, he was instantly knocked down by 'Jock the brisk young Drummer,' who sang wi' much glee, 'Merry may the Maid be' that's 'Woo'd an' Married an' a'.'

We were now getting afraid lest 'Lewie Gordon' should interfere, for 'The Gordons had the Guiding o't.' He, 'Since the Peep o' Day,' came frae the "Haughs o' Cromdale," and in a rear, with 'Johnnie Cope,' was whistling in a wicked e'e, 'The Sow's Tail to Geordie ;' but 'Twas when the seas were roaring,' a sailor chanced to come in, singing 'Hearts of Oak,' with 'Black-eyed Susan' in one hand and an oak stick in the other. So poor Lewis, not liking 'A' that an' a' that,' said to his auld cronie, 'Johnnie Cope,' 'Cock up your Beaver,' and reminded them of 'Scots wha hae wi' Wallace bled ;' but sure 'The Cat had Kittled in Geordie's Wig ;' and last night he dreamt 'The De'il cam' Fiddlin' through the Toon,' and danced awa' wi' 'The wee, wee German Lairdie.' Then in came 'The brisk young Drummer' and 'Jacky Tar,' who were singing 'The East Neuk o' Fife.' We had then such a scuffle as you never saw, for 'We ran, an' they ran, we till't and they till't ;' at last 'Duncan Davidson' made his appearance as master of the ceremonies, and began to 'Kick the rogues out,' when 'Roy's Wife of Aldivalloch' gave notice that the young couple had arrived from the 'Walking of the Fauld,' which changed the bustle to 'Busk ye, busk ye,' 'Fy, let's a' to the Bridal ;' for by this time, you must understand, that 'Johnny made a Weddin' o't.'

On coming to the 'Banks of the Dee,' a little past 'Loudon's bonny woods and braes,' down by 'Killiecrankie,' 'Through the lang Muir,' a little above the 'Birks of Aberfeldie,' 'Mill, Mill, O,' where the 'Blythesome Bridal' was held, we met the 'Lads of Dunse,' gallanting the 'Lasses o' Melrose' frae 'Cowden Fair,' with a 'Gaberlunzie Man' wi' a tartan plaid wi' the 'Auld Wife of Auchterinuchtie,' who told me that the 'Auld Man's Mare was Dead' 'A mile abune Dundee,' and with them was 'Meg o' the Mill,' who sang 'Hush thee, my Babe,' and aye the end of the song was 'The Ranting Dog, the Daddy o't.' The best man was 'Ratling, roaring Willie,' and I assure you 'Willie was a Wanton Wag.' The best maid was 'Catherine Ogie,' the bonniest lass in the world except 'My ain kind-hearted Nancy.' The conviviality of the company was for a while interrupted by 'Mary Scott of Tweedale,' who entered crying 'Oh, Dear Mother, what shall I do? Lost is my Quiet for Ever.' 'A'bodys like to be Married but me,' for alas! they tell me my 'Willie's Drowned in Yarrow,' and he, dear youth, was heard to say, as he struggled in the waves, 'Mary Weep no More for Me.' Out spake the bonny bride and said, 'A Weary Lot is Thine, Fair Maid,' 'And wae's my heart for You and Your Sweet Willie ;' but 'How can I be sad on my wedding day,' for 'Sweet's the Love that meets Return.' However, from the consolatory attention of 'Jim of Aberdeen,' and a bird that whispered 'My Life's Devoted to Thee, Dear Mary,' she soon changed her 'Tear to a Smile,' and said, 'I Lost my Love but Care na,' for 'Kind Robin Lo'es Me,' and 'Robin is my only Joe.' The musicians, 'Rob the Ranter' and 'Neil Gow,' struck up a medley composed of the reel of 'Tullochgorum,' 'Macpherson's Rant,' 'O'er the Muir Among the Heather,' 'The Smith's a Gallant Fireman,' 'Locherroch Side,' 'The Marquis of Huntly,' 'The Braes of Tullimet,' 'Lord M'Donald's Reel,' and 'Lord Morris's Welcome to Scotland,' which was ended by 'Lady Mary Ramsay,' 'Mrs Gordon of Troup,' and 'Mrs M'Leod of Rothesay.'

Dinner was now announced by a pibroch, and we all joined in a chorus of be 'Contented wi' little and canty wi' mair,' for 'We've aye been provided for and sae will we yet.' The dinner consisted of the 'Haggis of Dunbar,' 'Scotch Kail,' 'Brose and Butter,' 'Lumps of Pudding,' tarts of the 'Sour Plums of Gallashiels,' and 'Bannocks of Barley Meal.' After dinner we had a 'Sup of Good Whisky,' 'Dribbles of Brandy,' and the whole cry was 'Fill the Pint Stoup,' and by no means drink 'Hooly and Fairly.' 'The Bonnie Lass o' Gowrie' sat smiling in a corner at 'Andrew wi' his Cutty Gun,' singing 'We're nae very Fou but we're Gaily.' Then 'Come gie's a Sang, the Lady cried;' and the 'Maid that Tends the Goats' gave us 'The Sun has Gane Down o'er the Lofty Ben Lomond'; and 'Pattie Coming frae the Glen,' singing 'The Ewie wi' the Crooked Horn,' was followed by 'John of Badenyon, the Highland Rover,' who sang 'Oh, Tibby, I hae Seen the Day' and 'Whistled o'er the Lave o't.' 'Willie Wastle,' who is not known from the description his wife bears, began and told the 'Sutor of Selkirk' and the 'Lasses of Stewarton,' of the 'Wife and the Wee Pickle Tow,' how she said 'If ye had been where I hae been' ye would hae seen 'The De'il among the Tailors' fall through the bed, 'Thimbles an' a'. But the best fun was 'Auld Rob Morris' and 'Rob Roy' laughing as if to crack their sides at the 'Auld Wife ayont the Fire,' 'Clouting Johnnie's Grey Breeks,' and singing 'What can a Young Lassie do wi' an Auld Man?' for it's 'Oh how I was Kissed Yestreen.' The ane was singing 'Sae merry as we hae been,' for 'Some were beginning to Trip upon Trunchers,' when our renowned bride began dancing to the tune of 'Braw Lads of Gala Water' and 'Haud awa frae me, Donald.' 'Her Marriage Knot,' 'Her Silken Snood,' 'The Gowd in her Garter,' it giart my heart gae 'Pitty Patty.' I danced my favourite strathspey wi' my 'Bonnie Mary,' 'The Fairest of the Fair,' to the favourite air of 'Lass gin ye Lo'e me tell me now,' 'For wae's my heart that we should Sunder.' 'Dainty Davie' was all this time sweetly kissing 'Maggie Lauder,' who all the while cried 'Kiss me Fast, my Mither's Coming,' for 'My Mither's aye Glouring ow'r me.' Then up started 'Jenny Dang the Weaver,' and she scoffed and she scorned at him. 'I'll sing my Kin a Rattling Sang.' 'Oh, gin ye were dead, Gudeman.' At last the fiddlers played 'Gude Night, and Joy be wi' Ye a'.' We were all going when Jenny hinted to us it was a Penny Wedding, and the fiddlers must be paid, on which we gart the 'Gudewife count the Lawin', as each o' us had 'Saxpence under our thumb,' and wi' 'Jenny's Bawbee' made up the reckoning.

I was just on foot when 'Hill o' Fife's' 'Bonnie Annie' says to me, 'Come under my plaidie,' 'Tak' your auld cloak about ye,' for 'Keen blaws the wind o'er the Braes o' Gleniffer;' and, 'For the sake o' somebody,' dinna risk by 'Logan's Streams,' but cross where 'The Boatie rows.' Na, na, says I, 'Dinna think, bonnie lassie, I'm gaun to leave ye;' for 'There's my hand, I'll ne'er beguile ye.' However, I came toddling hame. The best was, I wasna drunk nor yet sober, but brither to baith, and expected to find the gudewife 'In a bonnie wee hoose,' near a 'Canty wee fire,' singing 'There's nae luck about the house when our gudeman's awa:' but na! a' was fast and quiet. Open the door. I cried: 'Oh, lassie, are ye sleepin' yet?' but ne'er a word spake 'Sleepy Maggie;' at last 'She rose to let me in,' for oh, I was a sleepy body, and after telling 'The lass that made the bed to me' to 'Get up and bar the door,' I gaed to bed 'By the light of the bonny gray-eyed morn.' So gude e'en to your honour for 'My galloping's a' at an end.'

PR
8657
E4
ser.16

Edwards, David Herschell
Modern Scottish poets

PLEASE DO NOT REMOVE CARDS OR SLIPS FROM THIS POCKET

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO LIBRARY
